NATION MUST BE SOVEREIGN, SAYS BRICKER

Vows Fight Against U.S. in Super-State.

BY MAXWELL MURPHY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 13.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, today told a series of Milwaukee audiences that if he is nominated and elected the sovreignty of the United States will not be subverted to that of other nations.

"America will emerge from this war with a navy twice the size of that of any two other combined powers, with the largest army in the world, and with an air force almost incalculable in size," he said. "It will be the strongest nation in the world.

"It will then be up to the rest of the world to coöperate with us for world peace. As long as I have anything to say about it, there will be no super-world and no world police force imposing its will upon the United States. Also, American military forces never will be under the command of foreigners or subordinated to them in any way."

Addresses Luncheon.

The Ohio governor addressed a luncheon of 400 persons under the auspices of the Milwaukee county Republican committee in the Hotel Pfister, 600 persons at the annual dinner of the Milwaukee Sunday Breakfast club in the same hotel, and hundreds of Shriners, gathered for their annual conclave, in the Hotel Schroeder. He also spoke at the Milwaukee Press club.

Questioned at the Press club about the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward in Chicago, Bricker described it as a "challenge to the American people and an outrageous misuse of power."

Bricker in his speeches called for an end of regimentation and burocracy in the United States.

"Labor has already learned that you cannot regiment business unless you also regiment labor and agriculture, which means fascism here," he said.

Urges Balanced Budget.

"If we are to preserve the economy of this country and the American way of life we have to recapture the spirit of free enterprise. Balancing the budget after this war, which we must and will fight to a victorious conclusion, will do more to restore the economy of this country than all the made work that ever was conceived. The government must get out of private business.

"We are well on our way to losing our freedom to a system of burocracy. So flagrant have been the abuses that people are beginning to wonder whether there is anything they can do about it. We must reassert the rights of the individual.

"Nothing would so enhance the war effort or strengthen the morale of the armies at the front than the election of a Republican President in November. In that connection I want to say that I am more interested in the defeat of the New Deal than I am in my own nomination and election. Democrats, many of whom are joining our cause, are in the same boat as Republicans. Neither has anything to say about what goes on in Washington."

Bricker called for a Republican platform based upon American principles. He said that from observations in his travels about the country he has concluded that "America has determined to be free" and the Republican party again is in the confidence of the people.

Capture Border States.

"We cannot elect the Republican party on this trend alone," he said. "Despite contrary arguments, I do not believe the solid south is with us. But, if we face all of the issues of the campaign squarely in the American spirit, we can capture some of the border states."

"We must stand for constitutional rights, for the end of fanciful social schemes, for the abolition of burocracy with its millions of paid minions and smear propagandists, for a balanced budget, for free enterprise, and for that collection of hard earned blessing known as the American way of life if we are to win the fight."

Bricker asserted the war is not an issue. "Fighting this conflict thru to a finish and accepting nothing less than absolute victory is the universal and immutable purpose of the nation," he said.

A David of Sea Saves Goliath in 24 Day Epic

Washington, D. C., May 13 [Special].—The navy today told a "David and Goliath" story of how the USS Choctaw, a 1,600 ton tug, raced out from Bermuda last February to tow into port a stricken 10,200 ton tanker, the Murfreesboro. The tanker was carrying 4½ million gallons of gasoline.

The rescue operation, which took 24 days, was described by the navy "as the longest towing job of the war." It kept the sturdy little tug at sea three times longer than ever before. The high seas and the weight of the wallowing, crippled tanker kept her average towing speed down to 1.67 knots. During one 24 hour period the Choctaw lost three miles.

Convoy in Atlantic.

An allied convoy was rolling thru heavy North Atlantic seas, bound for the European war theater, when the accident occurred during the blackness of a winter morning. The El Coston, a 7,000 ton Panamanian cargo ship, got out of control and tore into the Murfreesboro, an American tanker, then loaded with 5½ million gallons of high test gas.

A mighty explosion lit the sky, followed by a gigantic fire from the Murfreesboro. It spread to the Coston before it could back out of the vast hole torn in the tanker's side.

The Panamanian ship tried to make Bermuda, 950 miles away, but sank.

"Amazingly" enough, however, as the navy said, the Murfreesboro stayed afloat. A boarding party from the U. S. S. Ricketts, an escort, put out its fires. Eighteen of the tanker's crew were lost.

Tug Sent to Rescue.

Meanwhile, from Bermuda, Rear Adm. Ingram C. Sowell, commandant, dispatched the Choctow under Lt. John Dexter Garland, 49, a New Englander who fought in the last war as an artilleryman before transferring to the navy.

The Choctow customarily is a target towing ship. Lt. Garland, who received his second legion of merit for the Murfreesboro salvage job, figured it would take about 10 days. It took three days' top speed sailing to find the tanker.

"She presented a grim sight," the navy related. "Her mainmast lay broken amidship, the topmost part in the water. The high seas were crashing into her opened side, creating geysers 100 feet high. She listed more than five degrees to port, and the twisted and charred pipes on her deck offered mute testimony to the fire."

Vessel Is Boarded.

A boarding party went aboard. Except for blinkers, the men had no means of communication with the tug 600 yards away. A line was attached, the navy said, and the "towing ordeal" began. It was no go. The lines continually snapped, and the water rushing into the gaping forward hole caused such a drag that the tug made no headway.

So Lt. Garland decided he would tow the Murfreesboro by the stern. Another boarding party went aboard to make repairs. After 24 days of battling the sea, the Choctaw brought the Murfreesboro in, with more than 80 per cent of the precious cargo still intact.

The salvage of the Murfreesboro had been reported last month by the war shipping administration, but this was the first release of the details. Many of the Choctaw's crew had their first long sea voyage on this arduous trip.

FAMILY DEPRIVED OF CITIZENSHIP ON OWN REQUEST

New York, May 13 (AP).—A Bronx couple who said they "detest American democracy" and still are loyal to Hitler had their American citizenship canceled at their own request today in what is believed to be the first case of its kind since the outbreak of the war.

Restored to their former status as German nationals in United States District court, William and Meta Siebert and their daughter, Enna, 20, former member of the Hitler youth organization, now are liable to arrest as enemy aliens and subject to internment for the duration of the war and possible deportation when hostilities cease.

No steps have been taken to intern the family as yet, it was announced tonight. Siebert, 56, and his daughter both were born in Germany. Mrs. Siebert, 46, was born of German parents in Indiana and taken to Germany when she was a year old.

The couple, with their child, came to the United States in 1926 and were naturalized in 1933 and 1936.

PRIEST DEFIES REMOVAL FOR VISIT TO STALIN

Plans Mass Today Despite Ban.

Springfield, Mass., May 13. [Special]—Stripped of his priestly privileges by a "total suspension" order from his bishop, which accused him of "treating with Communists," the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski was in seclusion in his rectory tonight after announcing he will celebrate mass tomorrow despite the order.

The Polish Catholic priest, who returned to his home parish here today from a flight to Moscow during which he discussed Polish religious and political questions with Dictator Stalin, said he was "being crucified for my church," and expressed a fear that Stalin will be so "irritated" by the order that "we will lose what he have gained."

One of Severest Penalties

"Total suspension," one of the most severe disciplinary measures which the Roman Catholic church imposes upon a priest, was decreed for Father Orlemanski by the Most Rev. Thomas J. O'Leary, bishop of Springfield. Under its terms the priest is prohibited from celebrating mass either in public or in private or from administering any of the sacraments of the church.

At a press conference after the order was served on him, Father Orlemanski said he has lodged an appeal with the apostolic delegate in Washington, D. C., and declared this action automatically removed him from the jurisdiction of Bishop O'Leary and restored his priestly status pending a decision on the appeal.

Sends Notice to Bishop.

Acting in apparent reliance on this theory, Father Orlemanski sent a letter to Bishop O'Leary tersely notifying the bishop that he was no longer under the jurisdiction of the Springfield diocese.

In Washington, D. C., the apostolic delegate, Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, flatly denied Father Orlemanski was no longer under Bishop O'Leary's jurisdiction. "He, like every other diocesan priest, is directly subject to his bishop," the apostolic delegate said. He added that up to the present Father Orlemanski has never contacted the apostolic delegation.

Added Penalty Threatened.

The Rev. George A. Shea, chancellor of the Springfield diocese and spokesman for Bishop O'Leary, asserted emphatically, when notified of the position taken by Father Orlemanski, that the suspension stood. His celebration of mass tomorrow or his appearance at a church festival in the evening, as scheduled, would constitute a violation of the suspension and would bring further measures, Father Shea said.

"Perhaps he will be divested of his pastorate," Father Shea said.

Report Monastery Is Suggested.

Bishop O'Leary's suspension order was reported to have contained a suggestion that Father Orlemanski leave the parish and go to a monastery for the duration of the suspension. Chancery officials declined to speculate on whether this suggestion might be made mandatory in the event the priest attempts to perform sacred functions.

The affairs of the church were said by Father Shea to have been placed in the hands of the Rev. Xavier Baronowski, assistant pastor, who was named administrator.

Suspension of Father Orlemanski was announced in a three line typewritten note made public in the chancery of the diocese, as follows:

"The most reverend bishop said today that canonical penalties required by the case have been imposed. Further information can be obtained from Father Orlemanski."

Held Absent Without Leave.

Father Shea said Bishop O'Leary's order was a two page document. He would not detail the specific violations of which the bishop held the priest guilty, but said they included

THE CHANGING WORLD

GROVER CLEVELAND.

1870—Elected sheriff of Erie county, Pa.
1881—Elected mayor of Buffalo.
1882—Elected governor of New York.
1884—While still in his forties, elected President, the first Democratic President in 24 years.

The people wanted a change. Cleveland was known for his courage and a record for honesty. In the Democratic platform on which he ran were these planks: The government should not always be controled by one party. Frequent changes of administration are necessary to prevent public servants from becoming arbitrary rulers. Honest money. Opposition to G. O. P. pro-British policy, and formulation of a truly American policy.

Cleveland made a good President. He fought for civil service reform, and saved the gold standard. His administration was characterized by stubborn courage and honesty. In his second term which began in 1893, he took a strong stand in the boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain, representing British Guiana. He told Great Britain to arbitrate. Britain insisted that the Monroe Doctrine did not apply. Cleveland answered that the Monroe Doctrine did apply and the United States would go to war to maintain it. The English government consented to arbitration. This has been called "the most signal victory in American diplomacy in modern times."

THOMAS E. DEWEY.

1933—Special assistant attorney general.
1937—Elected district attorney of New York county.
1938—Defeated for the governorship of New York state.
1942—Elected governor of New York state, the first Republican governor in 20 years.

His name and "racket buster" became synonymous and he was credited with breaking the stronghold of organized crime on America's biggest city. In 1943 he made the undisputed claim that he had fulfilled, within a year, all of his campaign promises. In his inaugural address, he had said: "To win the conflict of ideas is the greater end of the contest and the ultimate victory. To win that victory we shall need to recognize and constantly amend the shortcomings of our own society."

While attending a Republican post-war advisory council meeting at Mackinac Island [1943], he proposed a military alliance with Great Britain. Shortly thereafter Prime Minister Churchill advocated such an alliance in a speech at Harvard university. Some congressmen were quick to point out that neither gentleman touched upon the geographical fact that the United States would furnish the assets in such an alliance and Britain would furnish the liabilities.

CORRIGAN AND 2 ARE OVERCOME IN FIGHTING FIRE

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan, 68, and two firemen were hospitalized last night after they had been overcome by smoke and gas while fighting a fire in the basement of a two floor store and office building at 4803 Milwaukee av.

Commissioner Corrigan, a fireman since 1893, was affected in two trips he made into the basement to direct his fire fighters and search for a cause. He collapsed when he emerged after his second visit. He was revived by an inhalator squad, then taken to Alexian Brothers hospital. Dr. Harold P. Sullivan, chief surgeon of the fire department, said the commissioner would be able to return to his home today.

Fireman John Minich, 6506 N. Hoyne av., and Edward Doherty, 3149 Orchard st., a candidate fireman, both assigned to Engine company No. 124, were taken to Swedish Covenant hospital. Doherty later was sent home. Damage to Clarence Lipman's clothing store on the first floor and offices upstairs was estimated by Corrigan at $2,000.

Gandhi Grows Weaker; Mind Seems in Haze

BY RELMAN MORIN.

AT GANDHI'S REST HOME IN JUHU, India, May 12 [Delayed] (AP).—Intimates of Mohandas K. Gandhi said today his physical condition has deteriorated and his mental powers appafently have been affected. When I saw him at the seaside villa he looked like anything but a sick man.

Members of his entourage, however, expressed alarm about his failure to rally from the illness that last week caused the government to order his release. They said he is noticeably worse and he said this morning, "I never felt so far gone."

They said he was unable to grasp the meaning of news reports read aloud to him by his disciple, Madeline Slade. He ceased trying to read the papers himself several days ago.

Repeats Questions.

Gandhi frequently repeats questions several times as if he didn't hear or comprehend the answers. He appears dazed over long periods of time, and twice today while talking to people he dropped off into heavy slumber. He is suffering from uremia, but to date has refused all medication and is relying on massage and diet.

Gandhi is staying at the seaside home of a friend. Indians refer to it as a shack, but there is nothing "shacky" about it. It is a lattice work beach house, cool, comfortably appointed and buried in a grove of coconut and palm trees.

Crowd Attends Prayer.

Despite his loss of strength Gandhi took his customary walk this morning and appeared at public prayer at sundown. A couch was covered with white cloth and cushions were placed near-by. Two hours before Gandhi appeared a dozen Indian women wearing white saris knelt on rugs in an attitude of adoration. They bent their heads towards the empty couch as if it were an altar.

Outside the barred wire surrounding the grove hundreds had massed and hundreds more were streaming along the beach in a slow-moving procession.

Gandhi appeared at 7:30 p. m. leaning on the shoulders of two women. His pace was slow but firm. He was clad in his familiar robe draped over his left shoulder and white breechclout. He looked thin but not emaciated.

Gandhi saluted the crowd with a prayerful gesture of his hands, with palms placed together and raised before his face. The people clapped.

HIT BY YANK BOMB, FORTRESS FLIES HOME WITH MISSILE ON TAIL

A U. S. BOMBER BASE, England, May 13 (AP).—Hit by a bomb from another American plane over a target at Laon, France, a Flying Fortress returned for a safe landing with the bomb—still unexploded—protruding from its mangled tail.

Altho the plane was almost unmanageable and the tail gunner was killed the crew stayed with the ship.

"It was one of those things that might happen just once in a life time," said Lt. Burdette Williams of Tampa, Fla., the pilot, who set the plane down safely despite the perilous load.

CHICAGO YANK HAS 1,450 YEN TO SPEND IN TOKYO

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomons, May 13 (AP).—Pvt. Barney Mosena of 1742 E. 44th st., Chicago, had 1,500 Japanese yen but no place to spend it, inasmuch as this part of the greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere has been liquidated.

Pvt. John Lannantuono of Baltimore wanted some yen for souvenirs. So the two got together.

Lannantuono cut Mosena's hair for 50 yen. Mosena, freshly shorn, went back to his front line post, tucking the remaining 1,450 yen in his sock to save for a spending spree in Tokyo. Lannantuono sent his 50 yen home.

Yank Flame Throwers Win Hills

WITH THE 8TH U. S. EVACUATION HOSPITAL ON THE MAIN 5TH ARMY FRONT, Italy, May 13 (AP).—During the second night of the allied attack, American flame throwers were used to dislodge German machine gun nests and pockets of resistance that were seriously impeding the progress of our infantry.

Casualties arriving in the dawn told of seeing whole squads of Germans incinerated by the flame throwers. Those who survived leaped from cover and were cut down by Americans armed with tommy guns before they could take three steps.

Tells of Attack.

One private from Newark, N. J., who handled a flame thrower, gave a graphic description of fighting along the moonlit slopes and the destruction by the chemical flame.

His company had been stopped by a hidden machine gun. Second Lt. Howard D. Sharman of Memphis, Tenn., called for flame throwers and directed the fire on the machine gun post.

"Our flame throwers weigh 68 pounds and have a terrific recoil unless you lean into it," the private said. "Men were dropping all around us, but they stopped dropping after I got in the first burst.

Dead Germans Cover Hill.

"I 'blasted' the target first with liquid, then when it was well wetted down, I ignited it. This creates a vacuum and sucks the flame thru all the crevices and kills everything it touches."

He said flame "sort of rolled along the ground" as he fired short bursts and then the pillbox seemed to be enveloped in flame. Three Germans managed to leap out, but were shot instantly. After that the company moved forward and occupied the hill, which was covered with dead Germans.

"I counted 33 lying there, but there must have been a lot more than that," he said.

WIDEN GAINS; CAPTURE 5 TOWNS, 7 STRATEGIC HILLS

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS OF DRIVE ON CASTELFORTE

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CASTELFORTE STATION, Italy, May 13.—Castelforte Station, southeast of Castelforte proper, is now in our hands. At the entrance to this demolished hamlet is a sign which reads: "Ghost town—Population 0."

It had been Castelforte Station—a railroad point—but now every house is smashed and the Italian population has fled to the hills. There were only two American soldiers there when I went in. One was Pvt. Thomas Tell, 7133 Bennett av., Chicago, a tank gunner. He was perched in front of what was once No. 17 [the street name was not distinguishable], and by its aroma had been a wineshop.

"It's all ours, but who wants it?" Tell remarked.

Hills Given Terrific Pounding.

The hill on which Castelforte is perched and the rugged peaks on the north were taking a terrific battering from American artillery and Sherman tanks. The whine and crack of shells coming from all directions as the artillery of the Germans and the allies joined in the issue was continuous.

German long range guns also were seeking out the Appian Way—Highway 7—to the southeast, and as I drove to the battle zone those shells thudded within 50 yards.

The high ground flanking Castelforte, which our tanks helped take, were the Damiano hill and Ventosa and Ceracoli, west and southwest of the vital town. In each location the Yanks were subjected to German counter-thrusts, but they threw them back and held the terrain securely despite harassing fire from enemy mortars and 88s.

Epic of Armored Warfare.

The taking of Damiano, which was accomplished late yesterday, was a minor epic of armored warfare. One of the tank leaders was Lt. William Propes, Henderson, Tex.

Nearing the top of the approach to Damiano, Propes' tanks came under the fire of enemy 88s.

Then one of our tanks struck a mine. The crew was not injured, but the tank treads were badly damaged. Propes got out and went about the meticulous task of repairing the treads. A German machine gun opened up.

He shouted directions to one of his men and a burst of tommy gun fire silenced the Nazi gun. For three hours, Propes toiled with the treads. Finally they were fixed. That tank joined the others and rolled into Damiano. In the swift foray, our armor destroyed seven enemy machine gun nests.

Tank Blow House Apart.

A German Mark IV. tank fired from within a house. A series of blasts from the Shermans blew the house apart and knocked out that enemy obstacle.

A few hours later, when daylight came, Sgt. Joseph Roberge of New Hampshire crept to the shattered house. He was armed with a German luger pistol he had acquired during the night. He found five Germans—the Mark IV. crew—crouching near their smashed tank. They surrendered quickly.

U.S. Bombers Blast 14 Rail Centers in Italy.

KILLED IN ACTION.

The names of 1,017 United States soldiers killed in action, one of the longest lists released by the war department in World War II, were made public today. Chicagoland casualties are listed on page 4.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 13 (AP).—Allied troops smashed deeper tonight into the Germans' heavily fortified Gustav line, increasing the gains of two miles or more that they had recorded during the day, but encountering fierce resistance in strong mountain positions.

Exact locations of the gains could not be disclosed pending tomorrow's daily war bulletin, but already the allies hold at least five villages and seven strategic hills and were pressing ahead after the close of the second day of their big push.

The villages were Ceracoli, Ventosa, Santi Cosmo e Damiano, San Sebastiano, and Sant' Angelo.

[It was indicated, but not definitely stated that Castelforte had fallen. German broadcasts announced its evacuation, making a total of six towns taken by the allies.]

Bomb 14 Rail Centers.

Grim fighting developed at every point where the allies made penetrations into the Nazi defenses along the 25 mile front from Cassino to the sea. The Germans lashed out in a series of determined counter-attacks.

United States heavy bombers concentrated on blasting 14 rail centers. Flying Fortresses attacked bridges and yards on the Brenner pass route from Germany to Verona and the Po valley network, including rail centers at Bolzano, Bronzolo, and Trento, while Liberators hammered yards between the Apenines and the Po river.

Fortress crewmen expressed belief that the Brenner Pass rail route—main funnel for German supplies to Nazi troops in Italy— had been cut by the bombing. Mediterranean air force headquarters made no official claim that the line had been cut, however, presumably awaiting reconnaissance reports.

Sector by sector, here are the high spots in the official accounts of the offensive:

1. North and west of Minturno, on the sector nearest the Tyrrhenian sea, American troops captured seven strategic hills. Two counter-attacks were repulsed.

Tanks Support Drive.

2. American infantrymen supported by tanks advanced a mile northward and captured the village of Ceracoli while another force wrested the village of Ventosa, Damiano hill and another 1,000 foot peak from the Germans, gaining footholds only a mile west of Castelforte, 13 miles south of Cassino. San Sebastiano, a third village near Castleforte, also was taken, as was Santi Cosmo e Damiano, a mile southwest of Castleforte. Sant' Angelo is on the west bank of the Rapido river 2½ miles south of Cassino.

3. French troops on the 5th army's right wing swarmed up the 2,550 foot heights of Monte Faito, which anchors the Gustav line's outer fortifications in the upper Garigliano valley, captured surrounding heights, smashed a counter-attack and pushed on.

4. Under incessant fire of German guns installed for miles back along the Liri valley, 8th army troops crossed the Rapido river and built bridges to bring over guns and supplies for the next step in the sector south of Cassino.

Smash at Rear of Cassino.

5. Swinging south and west from the sector to the north of Cassino, troops of the 8th army fought German parachute troops for Monte Albanetto and the adjoining mountains two miles west of Cassino. They had at least another mile to go before they could hope to drive down into the Liri valley from the north and menace the enemy holding Cassino from the rear. There was little activity inside Cassino.

[A German broadcast, asserting that the allies were holding five fully equipped divisions in reserve in Italy, said the present drive probably would prove "only a diversionary operation" and predicted that new landings "in all probability" would be made on the Italian west coast. Suggesting Nazi fears that such a blow might come from Corsica, Berlin said that German bombers heavily raided air fields on that island last night.]

A dispatch from the 8th army front said fighting was particularly intense today around Sant' Angelo, just across the Rapido river three miles south of Cassino.

Houses Turned Into Forts.

Capture of Monte Faito by the French was considered one of the major accomplishments of the first day of the drive, since it was the strong point upon which the enemy hinged his first line bastions in that area.

An authoritative military spokesman cautioned against undue optimism over the initial gains both north and south of Cassino, however, declaring that much grim fighting lay ahead before the German defenses in those areas could be pierced. He said the Germans had constructed many pillboxes and converted houses into miniature forts.

First prisoners coming into the 8th army's cages behind the Rapido river were described as a tired, begrimed motley group wearing ill-fitting, baggy uniforms. They threw themselves on the ground behind barbed wire and dozed in the hot midday sun. Many of the Germans were veterans of the battle for Sicily.

Guns Duel at Anzio.

In the Anzio beachhead sector and on the Adriatic coastal line, only patroling and artillery duels were reported.

After a complete absence from the battle area yesterday the Nazi air force reappeared today. North of Gaeta Spitfires met 22 Focke-Wulf 190s and shot down three. Near Valmontone Warhawks met 18 to 20 FW-190s and eight to 10 ME-109s. They shot down two Messerschmitts at a loss of three Warhawks.

It also was announced that enemy bombers attacked two allied air fields on Corsica the night of May 12-13.

Despite poor visibility, allied air forces unleashed nearly 3,000 sorties yesterday in support of the ground offensive. Scarcely a German plane rose to challenge the raiders during the dawn-to-dusk attacks, which included heavy bomber raids as far north as Genoa and Ferrara. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy and 18 allied planes failed to return.

NAZIS SHOT LIKE RABBITS

BY SID FEDER.

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN SANTI COSMO E DAMIANO, Italy, May 13 (AP).—In furious fighting, 5th army troops smashed into this Ausente valley town so fast and viciously that the Germans even left food on the table in their rush to get away, and then the allies chased them to a near-by cemetery where they "shot them down like jackrabbits."

From a battered building atop a peak at the northeast edge of the village—a building used only a few hours before as a Nazi command post—we saw our troops and tanks invading adjacent Castelforte, on a hill that had been such a German strongpoint that it was sometimes called "Little Cassino" by the soldiers after the allies failed to capture it in two previous assaults.

Trap 200 Nazis.

An American infantry captain who led the group into the cemetery between San Damiano and Castelforte said nearly 200 Germans were trapped there.

He grinned as he said, "we shot them down like rabbits. They tried running but we either caught or shot most of the garrison of this town."

The captain wasn't kidding. As we stopped a few moments on a sunny, dusty street some of his men came marching along with a large group of German prisoners. Nearby, the bodies of several Germans who didn't get away fast enough lay alongside the road.

A few hours earlier, three Yanks captured a half-dozen Nazis in a dugout under a house on the main street.

Developments reported yesterday from allied drive.

Nazi Command Sees Air Blow as Invasion Prelude

Gale Whips Straits

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 13.—A boisterous northerly wind, approaching gale force, whipped up the Straits of Dover tonight and the temperature dropped to 50 degrees within an hour. The sky was overcast. During the day the sea was smooth, with a bright sun setting up a heat haze and sending the temperature up to 76 degrees.

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—The German high command bulletin, normally the most conservative of the daily fixtures broadcast by the Berlin radio, declared today that the allied air offensive against the Nazi continent "may be regarded as the preparation for invasion."

It was the first time that the German command, now confronted by an allied land, sea, and air siege, had used the word "invasion" in its daily bulletins. The Nazi press speculated that the blow would fall simultaneously with a new Russian offensive.

Inside France, the Nazis were reported rushing final preparations, requisitioning all remaining automobiles and speeding a "Rommel plan" under which virtually the entire male population between the ages of 16 and 60 would be put in concentration camps on D day to safeguard the German rear.

Looks for Fighting to Spread.

The German command described the new Italian offensive as being "on the largest scale" and as "an obvious attempt to tie down German forces," thus linking the assault with the expected western invasion.

"The German high command expects the flareup of fighting in Italy to spread to other sections of the European battlefront," said the Nazi Transocean news agency.

The German news agency DNB quoted a Stockholm report describing the newest allied moves to squeeze the axis satellites out of the war—the Washington-London-Moscow ultimatum of yesterday—as bringing the diplomatic campaign to a climax "before undertaking any decisive military step."

Predict New Offensives.

"This foreshadows soviet and British-American offensives," the dispatch said.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen said that the axis satellite Bulgarian government had decided to call up again seven divisions of troops which were demobilized two months ago, bringing the total strength to 16 divisions. The correspondent, writing from Bern, suggested the move was made because of an increase of German troops in Bulgaria and the Bulgars' desire to be "masters in their own land."

4 FLYING FORTS, FIGHTER FORCED DOWN IN SWEDEN

New York, May 13 (AP). — Five American planes—four Flying Fortresses and a fighter—made forced landings in Sweden today and the 45 crewmen were interned, the Swedish radio said. The broadcast said none of the airmen were injured. It declared that "Swedish ground defenses and fighter aircraft have been in action." The Fortresses, which the radio said had suffered "some damage," landed at Malmoe, and the fighter at Rinkaby.

'CARMEN' BACK IN NAPLES—ALL 200 LBS. OF HER

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NAPLES, Italy—[By air mail].—The line was long. It stretched across the Plebiscito square and toward the great semi-circular cathedral. In it were American officers and men, Britishers, Frenchmen, and Italian soldiers and civilians.

It was the kind of crowd that might have been waiting at the entrance to a sports stadium. But the head of this line wasn't at a bleachers, it was at the box office of the Teatro di San Carlo where a Neapolitan troupe was giving Bizet's "Carmen" in one of the first opera performances since the city returned to some appearance of normalcy.

Admission 40c and $1.50.

Prices for enlisted men and civilians were 40 lire [40 cents] and for officers 150 lire. I reached the head of the line at last, paid my money, and was directed to a box in the first of the five tiers which reach to the top of the opera house.

The structure suffered no serious damage during the bombing of Naples and except for a somewhat shabby appearance seemed sturdy enough.

My seating place was one removed from the royal box. King Victor Emmanuel and Crown Prince Humbert weren't present, and their chairs beneath the emblazoned arms of the house of Savoy were occupied by some British junior officers who had skipped tea.

The orchestra, under the frantic direction of a wild-haired and melancholy Neapolitan, led off with allied national anthems.

Carmen Barges In.

Came the overture and soon the heavy red curtains rose on the first act of "Carmen." The Don Jose, who apparently had been eating well under both German and allied occupation, sounded off and a little later Carmen came barging in, her teeth clenched on a rose as if the tender bloom was her ration for the day.

The word "barging" is used advisedly to mark the contrast with the lissome movements of a Gladys Swarthout or Lily Pons. The San Carlo's Carmen was identified on the program as Maria Dupuj. She was a buxom creature, past the first mad flush of youth, and would hit the scale at about 200 pounds in any ordnance dump.

She went into the wooing of Don Jose with the famous Habanera, peeling off the capers with the agility of a Mark VI. tank which has lost its treads. Don Jose wasn't impressed; he never is anyway, but this time it was for cause.

Swatted on Haircut.

Carmen finally swatted him on his long haircut with the chewed rose and tottered off in the direction of the cigaret factory. At this point the opera calls for some loud laughter and spirited movement by the street crowd. This time it was the audience that laughed and provided some of the spirited movement—toward the exits.

Micaela, the good fiancee, now came in to work on the harassed Don Jose. She was sort of an orange haired creature who, like her associates, must subsist on the added rations which AMG allows for workers in heavy industries. She seemingly sought to balance on one toe while she gargled out to Don Jose that only his presence and the sulfa drugs could save his ailing mother.

Carmen returned from the cigaret factory now, a one woman army in full retreat, and it was explained that she'd stabbed a fellow worker. This time, in a few thousand well chosen do-re-mis, Don Jose succumbed to her wooing, shortly before the curtain fell.

A Song and a Bow.

When the curtain went up again Escamillo, the victorious toreador, was in the picture. He, too, was a husky, but it would be a very poor specimen of bull which couldn't take him by frontal or flanker attack. He and Carmen teed off on what was written as good music. Later on, Don Jose stumbled back to claim his big armful. He sang the famous aria which, at its climax, brings him to Carmen's feet.

He got applause for that, stood up and bowed to those in the audience to whom he'd given free tickets, and then relaxed again in the neighborhood of his inamorata's ample underpinnings. He rose in time to scuffle with the officer of the guard, who was trying to reclaim Don Jose for the military.

The action here was a bit marred by the officer getting entangled in his sword.

Carmen Trumps Ace.

Act III., in the mountains, gave Carmen her chance to do tricks with cards, but this time the discovery of the death card had as much force as if she'd checked her bet in a poker game. Micaela made another one footed attempt at delivering the Message to Garcia, and for some reason Don Jose ambled off with her.

The last act was on the square in front of the entrance to the arena on bull fight day. The "Toreador" song took a beating. Carmen, bedecked and animated as a Christmas tree, gave Don Jose the communique that Escamillo, just then spearing bulls, was her true love. Don Jose finally put the dagger into her and in a few minutes it was all over.

New York, May 13 (AP).—Albanian Partisans have captured Elbasani, Berati, and Corizza in German occupied Albania, the Free Yugoslav wireless of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz said tonight. Elbansani is 18 miles southeast of the Albanian capital, Tirana.

TITO UNLEASHES DRIVE ON NAZIS' BALKAN FRONTS

NAPLES, Italy, May 11 [Delayed] —(AP).—The Yugoslavs today announced the beginning of an allied onslaught against Hitler's southern European strongholds with all-out attacks by the forces of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz on the Vardar and Ibar valleys—the two main German communication routes from Serbia into Greece.

Greek Partisans, meanwhile, were reported harassing four German divisions in their country.

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—German troops in fierce fighting along the entire Croatian front have penetrated liberated territory, but in Slavonia Yugoslav troops have taken the initiative, Marshal Tito's war report said today.

Several thousand Germans were reported exerting powerful pressure on Partisan positions in western Bosnia. The enemy penetrated liberated territory at Lika, Tito's bulletin said, where fighting raged. The report also said that in the Pokuplje and Karlovac areas "the enemy offensive is continuing."

Partisans were reported on the offensive in Hercegovina, Slavonia, and Slovenia.

TRIBUNE TO PAY FAMILIES OF ITS MEN IN SERVICE

Plan Will Assist Many Married Employes.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has asked the government to approve a plan under which THE TRIBUNE, supplementing government allotments, will see to it that families of married employes who are in the army and navy services will receive at least two-thirds as much as they were getting in private life from THE TRIBUNE. Several hundred married employes are expected to benefit under the plan. Unmarried employes in the service will receive semi-annual bonuses.

To be eligible under the plan employes must have been with THE TRIBUNE at least a year. All payments are to be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1944.

The decision to assure the families of married service men at least two-thirds of the income that they had when they left their Tribune jobs to go to war is in line with many other benefits enjoyed by Tribune workers, including sickness insurance, life insurance, benefit savings, home ownership savings, medical care, dental care, Christmas bonuses, and pensions.

"Make-up-Pay" Plan Devised.

The need for the "make-up-pay" pay plan became urgent when the army and navy began taking married men, many in their 30s, with children.

The mainstay of the plan is a provision for payment to each wife of 50 per cent of the difference between her husband's Tribune pay and his government pay and family allotment, and 10 per cent of that difference for each child. The total is not to exceed $300 monthly. Here is a sample case:

A Tribune employe with a wife and two children earned $3,000 from THE TRIBUNE during the last year before his induction. As a buck private or an apprentice seaman, his pay plus government allotments to his family will total $1,536 a year, or $1,464 less than his income in civilian life.

This is where The Tribune make-up-pay plan enters. The $1,464 difference is employed as a measuring rod. THE TRIBUNE pays 50 per cent of this $1,464 difference in behalf of the wife and 10 per cent more for each of the two children. This is 70 per cent of $1,464, or $1,024.80. It all goes to the family back home.

85.3 Per Cent of Former Income.

With the $1,536 from the government in service pay and allotment, the family's new income is now $2,560.80. It is 85.3 per cent of the pre-service income of $3,000. A man with a family of five children would get 100 per cent of his Tribune pay. Overtime pay and bonuses are excluded in computing the amount earned by Tribune employes in the year preceding induction.

A family of a man whose Tribune pay exceeds $3,000 a year, of course, will receive greater benefit payments than the family dealt with in the foregoing paragraphs.

If the 50 per cent allowance for the wife and the 10 per cent allowance for each child does not lift the total income to two-thirds of the employe's former salary from THE TRIBUNE, THE TRIBUNE will make up the additional difference.

In the event of the death of a Tribune married man in service, THE TRIBUNE will continue the monthly payments to his family for at least six months.

No Cuts on Overseas Duty.

That is not all. Benefits will be paid on the basis of military or naval pay in the United States, and THE TRIBUNE will not reduce its contributions for men who are getting added sums for overseas service.

Payments will be made on the basis of rank and pay as of April 15, 1944, with the employe to have full benefit of any service increases after that date.

Tribune employes who are getting more from the army than they did from THE TRIBUNE will also participate. Their wives will receive $20 a month.

Never Less than $20.

In no case will the home payment be less than $20 a month, even tho on a percentage basis a smaller sum would be called for.

When government approval of the plan is obtained, payments will be started immediately and be retroactive to Jan. 1. Thus the first check will be a sizable one, the accumulation of the monthly sums since then.

Presently there are 744 employes of The Tribune company, the Chicago Tribune Building corporation, W-G-N, Inc., and the Newspaper Readers Agency, Inc., in military or naval service.

5,000 PLANES RIP NAZIS THRU 29TH DAY OF AIR BLITZ

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—The allied air offensive, which the German high command now terms a prelude to land invasion, reached a thundering climax today as some 5,000 American and British planes hurled approximately 8,000 tons of explosives on Europe.

Their double barreled blows, from Britain and Italy, were spearheaded by a thrust into Germany by an armada of nearly 1,750 American Flying Fortresses, Liberators, and fighters, which hammered an aircraft plant at Tutow, rail yards at Osnabrueck and synthetic oil refinery at Politz, near Stettin.

The raiders shot down 63 Nazi planes at a cost of 12 American bombers and 10 fighters.

Blast 14 Targets in Italy.

Fighter pilots who bagged enemy planes included Lt. Carl Luksic, Joliet, Ill.; Lt. Glenn Mora, Granite City, Ill.; Capt. John Coleman, Milwaukee; Lt. Col. Gerald Dix, Sullivan, Ind.; Lt. Marion Nutter, Marshalltown, Ia., and Lt. Blaynea Swift, West Des Moines, Ia. Among Fortress crews on the Osnabrueck raid was Lt. John Delap, Watertown, Wis., a bombardier.

At the same time, Italy based heavy United States bombers continued their far reaching attacks in support of the new allied land drive, ripping rail facilities at 14 points in northern Italy. Their targets included Brenner Pass, thru which Hitler sends supplies to his legions in Italy.

These were the major blows in the daylong attacks which began around midnight when British night bombers lashed targets in France, Belgium, Germany, and north Italy.

As the onslaught roared thru its 29th consecutive day, it closed a week in which there was hardly a single hour when allied bombs were not exploding on Nazi held soil.

The Nazi air force, which lost 150 planes Friday, sent up swarms of fighters to challenge the bombers today, but many refused battle.

Osnabrueck is an important rail center in the Ruhr, a junction of four main lines.

Big R. A. F. Night Raid.

Tutow, 105 miles north of Berlin and 35 miles east of the Baltic sea port of Rostock, was the second of several targets attacked in northern Germany. Its factories include assembly plants for Focke-Wulf fighters.

A synthetic oil refinery at Politz, a suburb of Stettin 60 miles southeast of Tutow, also was blasted.

Hundreds of light allied bombers shuttled over northern France and Belgium, ripping air fields and rail yards feeding the Nazi Atlantic wall.

American Marauder medium and Havoc light bombers dumped over 500 tons of bombs on air fields at Abbeville-Drucat, Beaumont-sur-Oise and Beauvais-Tille in northern France, and Chievres, 25 miles southwest of Brussels, the Belgian capital. All returned.

Later in the day Thunderbolt fighter-bombers attacked railway yards at Namur and Tournai in Belgium, and rail bridges leading into Herenthals, east of Antwerp.

The R. A. F. also sent out swarms of daylight raiders. They struck rail yards at Tourcoing, France, and other communication objectives inland from the invasion coast.

NAZI INVASION THREAT STIRS BRITISH PRESS

Speculate on Blows by Germans.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—German propaganda about a counter-invasion to be launched on the day the allies land on continental Europe has aroused considerable speculation in the British press.

Military commentators hazard a guess that the Nazis might try airborne attacks on key communications centers or raids by sea on invasion ports, but they do not look forward to any serious attempts to turn the tables.

Reports that Lt. Gen. Kurt Student, head of Nazi paratroops, has three divisions on the Cherbourg peninsula gave rise to speculation about raids on Britain. The military correspondent of the Evening Standard said: "If, by a sudden swoop on our bases here, the timetable could be delayed for only a few days, it might mean a delay of perhaps a month or more until meteorlogical conditions were again suitable. And that might affect the entire course of the war."

Sees Risk as Too Great.

The Evening News writer said, however, that the Nazis do not have sufficient elite troops to risk great numbers on minor operations and that they would not be willing to risk the many planes necessary to cover an operation of this character.

Gen. R. Gordon-Finlayson, writing in the Evening Star, said that small scale raids may be attempted, but expressed the view that the Germans do not have the surface craft to transport any great numbers of troops to England.

He also said that there are so many soldiers in Britain now that all the ships in the world would hardly suffice to transport them in one or even several waves to the continent.

Italian Papers Tell Plans.

"It therefore follows that whatever our plans for D-day and afterward are, there must be great numbers of troops, trained and in training, left behind when the hour strikes. To those we can add hundreds of thousands in the coast defense and air defense and a million or more well equipped home guards."

Two reports of Nazi invasion plans came from Italian papers. The Germans will attack the moment the allies invade Europe, the Fascist paper, La Stampa of Turin, said.

"The war will be carried into the heart of England," according to La Nazione, of Florence. "German paratroops already are preparing. The German high command still believes that victory can only be won thru an offensive."

British Now Eat Badger; Say It Tastes Like Pork

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Badger chops, said to taste like pork, are on the menus of hotels in southern England where the animals are prolific and hunting them is becoming popular.

RUSSIAN RAIDERS BOMB 2 GERMAN BASES IN BALTIC

LONDON, May 13 (AP).—The soviet high command announced tonight that Russian bombers attacking German military trains and stores at Daugavpils [Dvinsk], Latvia, and Tartu, Estonia, touched off violent explosions and fires Friday night in a possible prelude to a new northern offensive.

For some time German broadcasts have suggested the Russians were mounting another big-scale the Red army holds positions near Narva, and opposite Latvia, where the Russians were reported within five miles of Pskov on March 3.

The German high command also indicated Russian troops in force had smashed across the Moldava river, 60 miles inside Romania, when it told of fighting between Romanian soldiers and a soviet division on the west bank of that river.

The Moldava is a western tributary of the Siret, joining the larger river 35 miles southwest of Iasi. Moscow never has claimed a crossing of the Moldava but last month announced the capture of Falticeni, near its east bank.

Neither the Germans nor the Russians mentioned the lower Dnestr river sector near Tiraspol, where Berlin had said a Russian bridgehead had been erased and where Moscow said German counter-attacks had failed.

The Germans still reported fighting on Cape Khersones west of Sevastopol in the Crimea, but the Russians said the last enemy remnants had been wiped out there Friday.

FOREIGN POLICY GOSSIP ANGERS JESSIE SUMNER

Protests Discussions on Eve of Invasion.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.] said today that foreign policy discussions on the eve of the invasion give her a pain —and not in the neck.

Miss Sumner is author of a bill to postpone the invasion "until qualified American military authorities are agreed that American forces are adequately prepared and that the invasion is necessary to the military security of the United States." Another of her bills would postpone the invasion until Britain and Russia guarantee self-government to liberated areas.

"Disease" Is Catching.

"I have caught the disease that people seem to get when they find out about our foreign policy or the way the war is being conducted," Rep. Sumner said. "Everybody who sat in at the Teheran conference got sick—Churchill, President Roosevelt, and Harry Hopkins—everybody but Stalin," she continued:

"My first attack was at a dinner party a couple of weeks ago. The guests were allied diplomats and newspaper people. As soon as they started discussing foreign policy and the conduct of the war, my digestion started into reverse gear. In a few minutes I had to be excused. I didn't retain my dinner.

"My next attack was last week when a representative of the New York Herald-Tribune, an internationalist sheet, called up to get my home address. She said she had orders to telephone every 'lady congressman' as soon as the invasion started and get a nice quote.

Wants Quotes Ready.

"She might have to telephone at three in the morning, she said, and she thought we would like to know in advance so we could have our quotes ready.

"Before I could get rid of her, I was having trouble with my stomach again.

"I already have said all I mean to say about the invasion—while there is still time for the President to call it off.

"I still hope it will be as it was in the Bible, when Abraham was tempted to sacrifice his son and at the last moment happened to see a ram snagged on a cliff and decided to use the goat instead.

"It does seem to me that when the invasion begins, instead of emitting star spangled oratory, all of us, including our statesmen, should stop talking and begin praying."

INVASION TROOPS TO TAKE ALLIED CURRENCY ALONG

Will Exchange It for Local Money.

Washington, D. C., May 13 [Special].—Allied invasion forces will take to Europe millions of dollars worth of occupation money—francs, guilders, and other western European currencies. Preparations for the issues were recently completed in agreement with the countries concerned.

The tentative dollar and pound rates of exchange between the currency of the countries involved, including the occupation money, will not be published until the day of invasion.

Italy Not a Precedent.

The occupation money will be interchangeable at par with the local currency, whatever it is, but steps probably will have to be taken, a treasury spokesman explained, to counteract the counterfeiting carried on in some of the countries in which the invasion forces may find themselves, or of other devices to which the Germans may resort before they retreat. It might be necessary in such cases to withdraw existing currencies and substitute occupation money.

Allied occupation money has already been issued in Italy, but this did not set an exact precedent for what is now contemplated, since Italy was an enemy country and the nations of western Europe are friendly.

Advanced to Cites.

Treasury officials explained that the procedure to be followed will be the same as in Italy's case, but that the principles on which the currency will be accounted for or redeemed will be different.

Two uses are made of occupation money. It is expended by the army for what it needs. It is advanced to municipalities or other local governments to enable them to pay their expenses. All such money expended is deducted by the treasury from the army's appropriation and put into a special account so that congressional control may be maintained.

Yank Got 21 Planes

New York, May 13 (AP).—Mrs. Barbara Johnson, 21, wife of Capt. Robert S. Johnson, America's leading ace in the European war theater, arrived here today from Lawton, Okla., for a reunion with her fighter pilot husband.

Taken aback by the attention she received as she stepped off the train, red haired Barbara seemed shy. She wore a purple orchid on her black spring coat.

Army officials have said Capt. Johnson, who downed 27 Nazi planes, was "on his way" home, but have not indicated the exact time of his arrival.

Mrs. Johnson has been working as bookkeeper at two drugstores in Lawton, since her husband went away. She is here as the guest of Republic Aviation corporation, manufacturers of the Thunderbolt fighter Johnson flies.

KILLED IN QUARREL.

Jack Cooper, 29, Negro, of 425 E. 44th st., died in Bridewell hospital yesterday of a bullet wound received earlier when he intervened in a quarrel between his wife, Bertha, and their landlord, Ben Brooks, also Negro.

BELIEVES IRISH MAY CUT VOTES FOR DE VALERA

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 13.—The mounting opinion against the general election called for May 30 may adversely affect the vote for Prime Minister Eamon de Valera and his Fianna Fail party.

The prime minister ordered the election after he was defeated by one vote in the Dail [lower house of parliament] on his bill calling for amalgamation of Eire's two major transport companies. The average person seems to feel, however, that the transport bill was not sufficiently urgent to warrant government pressure for its passage and many say the legislation would best be left until the return of normal conditions.

Most constituencies will select candidates for the Dail tomorrow. Nominations must be completed by next Friday.

De Valera will start a 1,500 mile campaign tour tomorrow in the Clare county constituency he has represented for 25 years. It is a secret where Gen. Richard Mulcahy, Cosgrave party head, proposes to do his fighting. Defeated in the last election and now a senate member, he seeks to return to the dail.

U. S. Film Gives Gestapo Man Food for Thought

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 12 [Delayed].—"Hangmen Also Die," the movie account of the career and assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, was shown here privately recently. After the picture ended a German political refugee approached an OWI official and said excitedly: "You know who just went out? Rudolf Weisshauptel and his wife. He's an active Gestapo man here." The Americans hope the picture gave the visitors food for thought.

JAPS TWO MILES FROM LOYANG IN CHINA OFFENSIVE

Ready to Close Trap on Defending Army.

CHUNGKING, China, May 13 (AP).—Japanese troops using 200 tanks have driver to within two miles of Loyang, the Chinese command acknowledged tonight, and Chinese hopes of holding the ancient Honan province citadel faded rapidly.

Enemy troops made their deepest penetration to the west, and also had reached a point only three miles northwest of the city, the high command said.

The Japanese appeared ready to spring a vast trap threatening several hundred thousand Chinese troops, now hemmed in by enemy columns advancing from the Mienchih sector, 42 miles of the west, and from points east and south of the Loyang battle area.

[Importance of the Honan province campaign to Japanese plans was suggested in a Japanese headquarters report broadcast from Berlin which said Gen. Shunroku Hata, commander in chief of Japanese forces in China, arrived on the Honan front May 8 to direct personally the operations in that sector.]

Admits Loss of Mienchih.

Loss of Mienchih on the east-west Lunghia railway, 42 miles west of Loyang, to a Japanese column which struck across the Yellow river from Shansi province in the north, was acknowledged by the Chinese.

Yinghao station, six miles farther west, previously had fallen. Loss of Mienchih may lessen appreciably the chances of Chinese troops in northwestern Honan to fight their way out along the railway, their main escape route.

Apparently intent upon preventing escape of the Chinese troops, the Japanese have reached the railway immediately west of the city, and need only to push about 16 miles northward to the Yellow river to complete the encirclement.

Peril Railway Town.

Another Japanese column from the north was reported striking in the direction of the railway town of Kuanyintang, loss of which would place the invaders 75 miles from Tungkwan, gateway to China's great northwest. The developing battle was viewed with alarm in Chungking, where it was realized that a drive by the Japanese on Tungkwan would be fraught with grave implications.

The Japanese have increased the tempo of their activities in China with widespread raids, including attacks by 73 planes on points in Kiangsi province, Chinese reports said.

RADAR DEFEATS AN UNSEEN FOE IN PACIFIC WAR

Engineers and chemists working in Chicago have licked a microscopic, air borne fungus in the South Pacific which attacked delicate radar equipment and made it inoperative within a few hours of its arrival in the battle areas.

That was disclosed yesterday by Gen. Edgar L. Clewell, commander of the western signal depot.

Fungus-proofing of radar equipment by means of chemicals gives American forces in the southwest Pacific a definite edge over the Japs, and will result in saving tens of thousands of American lives, according to authorities in the industry.

Assures Superior Weapon.

"The radar-radio industry of America," said Gen. Clewell, "particularly the huge segment of it in Chicago, by its unrelenting research in fungus control, has given American forces in the tropics a superior weapon which will insure a speedier victory at a lower cost of lives."

Leslie F. Muter, president of the Muter company, explained that when radar equipment arrived in the south Pacific early in the war, it was attacked by fungus spores which got into the innermost parts of the vital equipment and rendered it useless, sometimes in 48 hours.

"The fungus lives on almost any organic material," he said. "It eats away insulation and forms a living bridge of moist growth which quickly short circuits the set. In many instances the solid leather harness used to carry portable sets fell apart in three days. The fungus also corrodes metal parts."

Complex Mixture Evolved.

Dr. William Lerdy Dunn, director of engineering and research of the Belmont Radio corporation, said the fungus was overcome by months of experiment which finally produced a complex mixture which is applied to either metal or organic material and prevents the fungus from taking hold on the surace and penetrating more porous materials.

Dr. Dunn praised the work of other scientists with other concerns, and the army signal corps, which coördinated the efforts of all the major radar concerns in Chicago.

All results of experiments were pooled, and made available to all radar manufacturers. All electronic equipment manufactured here now for overseas use is fungus proofed.

number to ex-navy, marine, and coast guard personnel at its recruiting office at 321 Plymouth ct.

Men and women, either officers or entlisted personnel, who served honorably in the army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard since Sept. 8, 1939, and who have been honorably discharged, retired, or transferred to inactive status, are entitled to wear the button. They may obtain it by presenting their separation papers at the two addresses.

The button is made of gold covered plastic material. It bears an eagle within a circle, with the wings extending beyond the circle.

YANKS KILL 101 JAPS, CAPTURE 30 AT HOLLANDIA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQS., New Guinea, May 14 [Sunday]—(AP).—Ground troops, mopping up in the Hollandia-Aitape areas, which were invaded April 22, have killed 101 additional Japanese and increased their unprecedented bag of prisoners by 30, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

This brings the total of enemy dead in the area to 1,716 and the number of captured to 354. These enemy troops fled inland at the time of the invasion.

Allied bombers have heavily bombed Japanese bases and troop concentrations in northern New Guinea.

Mokmer airdrome on Biak Island, 260 miles north of captured Hollandia, was hit twice by Liberators Friday. Biak is in the Schouten group. One of the attacking Liberators was downed by enemy anti-aircraft fire.

Australian troops, working their way to the New Guinea coast from Alexishafen toward the Hollandia area, pressed five miles past Cape Croisilles. They reached Meigar plantation, 30 miles from Madang.

If Back Aches or Ankles Swell, Flush Your Kidneys
If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.
Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.
Help Kidneys Remove Acids
Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.
Seventeen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.
3 Day Trial Offer
To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need make this fair-play trial offer: Get a three-day supply of Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. Take it exactly as directed and see the results in your own particular case—if not delighted and really surprised, or if not satisfied for any reason at all, simply return the empty package, and your money will be refunded in full. This is guaranteed. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, so start your Cystex 3-day trial today.
AUTHOR'S NOTE: Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knox Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. STILWELL OPENS TANK DRIVE UPON JAPS IN BURMA

Chinese Attack Three Enemy Bases.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ.) Kandy, Ceylon, May 13 (AP).—A new allied offensive has been launched against the north Burma Japanese bases at Kamaing, Mogaung, and Myitkyina by Chinese forces, which stormed a two mile front with tank, dive bomber, and artillery support, Lt. Gen. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

In the early stages of the assault, thrown against Japanese forces a mile south of Malakawng on the south bank of the Kwelon river and west of the Mogaung river, several Japanese anti-tank guns were knocked out, and an official announcement said Stilwell's advance columns were holding Manpin, east of the Mogaung and 10 miles above the Japanese base at Kamaing.

In the Kamaing drive, Stilwell's announcement said, advance columns have repulsed an enemy attack on their position after inflicting casualties, among them two enemy commanders.

Penetrate Defenses.

Driving on Myitkyina from the north, another Stilwell force was reported to have penetrated the perimeter of the Japanese defenses around Tiangzup, outpost about 40 miles above Myitkyina. Northwest of Myitkyina Stilwell's Chinese troops forded a stream and advanced a mile south of Auche in the hills.

On the Imphal front fierce fighting continued against Japanese resistance which held up the British south of Bishenpur. Strategic and tactical air forces smashed the Ningthoukhong fortified area and struck at similar strong points slightly southward in the villages of Potsangbam and Moirang. The Japanese were putting aircraft into the Potsangbam defenses. Fighters and bombers strafed British gun positions, but lost two.

Both Potsangbam and Moirang are on the road to Tiddim in Burma, the route the Japanese were attempting to use after being stalled in an approach to the Imphal plain from the direction of Pale. The Japanese persisted in unsuccessful efforts to force the Palel mountain pass to the south, into the Imphal plain, and suffered casualties in heavy fighting, a southeast asia command bulletin said.

Destroy Eight Jap Planes.

On the Kohima front, where a push to clear the Japanese from ridges overlooking the city, 60 miles north of Imphal, was "mainly successful," the bulletin said, a steady air offensive progressed. Mustangs encountered more than 25 enemy planes, destroying eight and probably two more and damaging six, without loss to themselves.

One of the first ground engagements under monsoon conditions occurred in the Palel area, where British Gurkhas under cover of a thunderstorm made a swift overnight raid, accounting for nearly 200 Japanese. Reaching the positions before daylight, they pounced on the enemy, whom they found digging trenches and plucking chickens. The latter went into British pots.

7 BATTLE WEARY DOGS BACK FROM PACIFIC FRONT

San Francisco, Cal., May 14 (AP).—Seven battle weary veterans of the battle of Bougainville, each suffering from a nervous condition caused by shell fire, have arrived here en route to Camp Lejeune, N. C., to recuperate.

The veterans—big Doberman Pinschers—are the first marine dogs to return from Bougainville, where they served with marine raider units.

The dogs were held in tow by Sergeants Ray J. Considine, Cleveland, O., and J. K. Robertson, Burnsville, N. C., who helped train them to stalk Japs. Each of the dogs—Otto, Ruff, Freida Von Brickley, Topper, Pal, Duke, and Judy, have the rank of corporal.

MOTHERS ADOPT OTHERS' SONS IN CENTERS TODAY

Serve as Hostesses in City and Suburbs.

It's a long way from Chicago to Anzio beach, but many Chicago mothers of men there and in other far off spots will forget for a while today just how long these miles are as they work as volunteers helping other mothers' sons in service centers.

At the four United Service organization clubs in Chicago, at 203 N. Wabash av., 1313 and 1122 S. Wabash av., and 975 E. 60th st., the third war time Mother's day will begin with breakfasts, where mothers will be welcome guests. It will be guest day for mothers, too, at the eight U. S. O.'s in Highland Park, Highwood, North Chicago, and Waukegan.

Volunteers War Mothers.

Most of the volunteer aides for the visitors will be mothers of service men. Mothers of service men also will be volunteers at the Chicago Service Men's centers, where the principal observance of Mother's day was held Friday.

WACs who may be in Chicago, whether for a day or an hour, will be welcomed today at the WAC Mothers' association tea, from 3 to 6 o'clock, in the Players' center, 1219 N. La Salle st. Many of the mothers in the Chicago area group have daughters overseas.

Home Cooked Dinners.

Forty members of the Stewart-Warner corporation WOW post have announced they will be foster mothers for the day, and will hold open house for service men at Belmont-Cragin Service's Men's canteen, 3111 N. Central av. Taking over at 10 a. m., the WOWs promise a home-cooked dinner "just like mother used to make" will be ready about 1 p. m., according to the chapter president, Miss Helen Wett.

Mother's day services will mark the observances and sermons in many Chicago churches.

GUNS TAKEN BY BURGLARS.

Burglars who broke into the home of Sanford Miller, 11161 Central Park av., took two shotguns, a revolver, a telescopic sight for a rifle, and jewelry, he reported to police yesterday.

BELIEVES NAZIS' DEFENSES BEGIN AT SHORE'S EDGE

Lanza Says Germans Still Hope to Win.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

There are two diametrically opposed opinions as to the effectiveness of the German defenses along the western coast of Europe.

One holds that Germany with nearly four years to prepare has succeeded in constructing an extensive and formidable series of fortifications and that these cannot be broken except thru very hard fighting, which necessarily will involve risks and casualties.

To reduce the risks to the lowest possible limit, preliminary operations are being undertaken to destroy, thru bombing, as many defense works as possible. Complete destruction is not hoped for. At the proper time the invasion will be launched, prepared for intensive operations to overcome admittedly large German forces.

Believe Defenses Overestimated.

The second opinion is that the German defenses have been exaggerated. They are not as strong as claimed. It would be a physical impossibility to prepare a solid line of works to protect nearly 3,000 miles of shore from the North Cape to the Pyrenees, to say nothing of the hundreds of additional miles of border in southern France and in Italy. Recall that Sicily, at the time reputed as a strongly defended island, failed completely to stem invasion. The same thing may happen again.

Proponents of this latter school believe it not only possible, but probable, that the Germans will strongly defend only a few selected sectors of the coast.

Some think the Germans will retreat rapidly into Germany, allowing the allies to follow. The object would be to secure an allied occupation of Germany, rather than a Russian one. Others think the Germans will fight hard to protect their homeland and will make their main defense at or near the boundary of Germany.

Nazi Intentions Indicated.

Disregarding opinions, which are mostly guesses, there are certain facts which give some indication as to German intentions.

Of the long western European coast, about 1,000 miles in Norway rises nearly vertically out of the sea, and needs no special artificial protection. It would be almost impossible to stage a large invasion in this sector.

The coast from Denmark, including northwest Germany and Holland, either is protected by sand bars or by islands, or is low and can be flooded. Here are four hundred more miles where little fortification is called for. There are other stretches where landings are unlikely.

1,000 Miles to Defend.

There remains perhaps a thousand miles of coast on which allied invasion forces might land. Here the Germans have constructed fortifications. Their own accounts, substantiated by some photographs taken by themselves, show they have done a remarkable job.

There is no certainty that the Germans have exaggerated. The defenses are not likely to be equally strong everywhere, but they are not necessarily weak anywhere.

A year ago the German strength in North France and the Low Countries was reported as around 30 divisions. It is now stated to be nearly double that number. Every report noted within the last two months shows an increase of German divisions in this area. This is inconsistent with an idea that the Germans don't intend to fight.

The object of the fortification system is in part to conserve man power by enabling a few men to handle weapons which in the open would require much larger numbers. The second objective is to present obstacles to an invader, which will force him to halt at places where he will come under intense fire.

Taking all reports together, the evidence indicates that the Germans will fight to defend the shore line of western Europe.

Two Nazi Peace Moves Reported

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14 [Sunday].—The diplomatic correspondent of the Sunday Pictorial today said Nazi agents in Lisbon, Portugal, were seeking contact with British diplomats to have the second front "called off." The correspondent, who quoted an unnamed "reliable" neutral country, said the Nazis' "peace" offer included:

1. Evacuation by the Germans of all occupied European countries.

2. Indemnity for all damage done by Germany.

3. Coöperation by Germany on a new scheme of European security.

However, he said "the Germans are trying to make conditions which, if we are foolish enough to accept, would mean Germany would win the war after all." These are said to be:

1. Germany must be allowed to participate freely in world trade.

2. Their country must not be occupied by allied forces and, after a limited number of responsible Nazis have been handed over to the allies, recrimination must cease.

3. The German people must be given a chance to build up their own country on democratic lines.

News of these Nazi peace feelers leaked out, the Pictorial said, because the Nazis "snubbed" Spanish Foreign Minister Gen. Francisco Gomez-Jordana by not inviting him to preside over any peace parley that might be arranged.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 12 [Delayed].—German Ambassador Franz von Papen's intention to contact the allies in an effort to make a peace deal was confirmed today by an axis source, which said Turkey and the allies will be astonished at the mildness of the note on the Turkish chrome stoppage which Papen brought back from Germany.

The axis press has said the German reply would "burst like a time bomb," but Papen is concentrating in trying to save Turkish supplies of cotton, wool, hides, and other German needs instead of complaining about what already is lost.

My well informed source assured me that Papen is seeking a direct contact with the Americans in the hope he can sell them the idea America should fight only the Japanese, which would force the British to make a compromise peace and join the Germans against Russia.

It was only on such a slim hope that Papen was allowed to return here, this informant said, because the Nazi leaders knew no other prominent German could talk with the allies. Papen believes he still can pose as a good German who serves Germany loyally but abhors his Nazi masters.

Papen is expected to make a thoro housecleaning of his staff here in view of repeated desertions to the allies. He had a bad time over that in Germany, it was reported, but Papen's difficulty is to know whom he can trust.

SHELL THAT HIT DINING CAR IS ARMY MYSTERY

Fort Douglas, Utah, May 13 (AP).—Preliminary investigation has failed to disclose the source of a shell which yesterday sent steel fragments hurtling thru the side of a dining car of the Southern Pacific's Daylight Limited, army officials said today.

The 9th service command headquarters here said investigation indicated there was no artillery practice underway at Camp Cooke, Cal., army post nearest the speeding train when the steel fragments ripped into the car.

BRITISH LINE UP FOR A BLOCK TO BUY HORSEMEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—A horseflesh butcher in Earls Court rd. attracts daily what is described in the press as London's longest shopping queue. Two, sometimes three, policemen are needed to control the shoppers, who begin lining up at 7 a. m. and gradually stretch a whole block and around a corner.

Women of all classes are said to wait up to five hours to purchase the horseflesh. The store owner estimated he served 1,000 customers daily with an average of six pounds of horseflesh each. Some buy as much as 40 pounds at a time, he said.

Women in the queue told a reporter that horseflesh is "quite delicious" in meat pie or puddings. The best cuts are controled at 20 cents a pound, others at 14 cents a pound. Horseflesh is not rationed.

Effingham, Ill., May 13 (AP).—Virgil Shad died today of injuries suffered Thursday when an automobile he was repairing fell and crushed him.

U. S. LIBERTY SHIP GOES ON SCOTCH ROCKS; 50 DEAD

12 Survivors Nearly Die in Blizzard.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—The American Liberty ship William H. Welch was driven aground off the coast of Scotland during a blizzard recently and five crew men and seven navy gunners were the only survivors of the ship's complement of more than 60, the war shipping administration announced today. It was the worst storm disaster recently suffered by the merchant marine, WSA said.

George L. Smokovitch of Escanaba, Mich., second assistant engineer, was one of the survivors. He was cast onto a cliff by the waves. He swam from the cliff, hoping to be picked up, but again was washed back to the barren rocks where he was found by two old women, who helped him to their farmhouse, four miles distant.

Seek Shelter in Caves.

The fact that the 12 men survived the wreck and the cold was attributed to the work of Scottish "crofters," Highlanders who eke out a meager existence on tiny, bleak farms. Men and women walked miles to reach the coast where the men had washed ashore, provided them with hot tea, wrapped them in blankets and built driftwood fires to warm them. Then they led them miles back over the frozen moor to their huts.

Some of the survivors, their clothing washed from them, sought shelter in caverns, Ensign Don Hewitt of New Rochelle, N. Y., a member of the United States maritime service, reported. One crofter was lowered into a crevice to bring out a seaman given up for dead. The man was revived and lived. Hewitt, who was not aboard the ship, said at least two of the survivors are alive because the crofters refused to give up restorative efforts after all hope for the men's lives seemed gone.

Skipper Loses Life.

The William M. Welch was commanded by Capt. Lee Marshall of Philadelphia, who went down with his ship. It had delivered a war cargo and was en route to join a home bound convoy when the storm drove it aground. Waves washed over the decks and the personnel sought refuge on the flying bridge. While British rescue vessels tried in vain to reach the ship the pilot house was smashed and all hands were washed overboard.

Some drowned, some were battered to death against the rocks and others who were washed ashore died of exposure and injuries. A mass military funeral was held in Scotland for all whose bodies were recovered.

Seamen in addition to Smokovitch who survived the wreck and have returned to the United States are: Edward C. Post, Norfolk, Va.; Elmer F. Geppert, San Francisco; John Schoen, Cleveland, and Anthony F. Kirkowsky, Jersey City.

ELECTRIC IRONS ON WAY BACK TO STORE SHELVES

Manufacturers Call for Higher Prices.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

If the new government move to stimulate production of civilian goods carries thru the sequence of past events, electric irons and household washers should be the first items produced in substantial volume, Chicago manufacturers said yesterday.

The program will not be completely successful, however, unless the office of price administration permits higher price ceilings to offset increased labor and material costs since the price limits were established, company officials declared.

Manufacturers' praise of Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board for his decision last Tuesday to permit larger civilian goods output was tempered by their expressed desire for coöperation from other government agencies to achieve Nelson's goal.

Need of Adjustment Told.

Edward N. Hurley Jr., chairman of the Electric Household Utilities corporation, said that higher price ceilings were needed particularly by companies turning out a limited line of products, unable to balance the losses of one item against the profits derived from war production or from the manufacture of a civilian item on which the ceiling had been adjusted.

"Nelson's move is a step in the right direction, since it indicates the massive volume of war goods already turned out will permit the manufacture of civilian items without interfering with continued war output," Hurley said.

"However, wage rates are up about 25 per cent over the 1940 level and material costs have advanced in about the same proportion. Since suppliers' costs have advanced all along the line, it is obvious that the manufacturer cannot stay in business long if he has to sell his product under 1940 price ceilings."

Ceilings Delay Production.

Months ago, irons and washers were determined to be the items most urgently needed by consumers, and Nelson announced that men and materials were available for the production of 2 million irons. He said washers were next on the list. Production has been delayed principally because of manufacturers' inability to obtain ceiling adjustments, altho the schedule for irons was cut to 200,000. On May 1 the WPB authorized the manufacture of 193,000.

The stoves and other manufactured items now appearing on the market largely comprise surplus army materials, which are being released in increasing volume and attracting store buyers from all parts of the country to the depots where they are sold, according to merchants.

CANNING SUGAR TO BE RATIONED IN TWO PERIODS

The office of price administration yesterday moved to provide even distribution of home canning sugar thruout the season by directing its district offices to set up two rationing periods and limiting the amount housewives may obtain in in each period. The total allotment of 25 pounds a person for home canning remains the same, with five pounds available thru use of sugar stamp 40 from war ration book 4, and 20 pounds thru application to local rationing boards.

Under the new arrangement, housewives who have not obtained the 20 pound allotment will get only 10 pounds now and 10 in the second period. Stamp 40 may be used any time. Each district OPA office will divide the season in accordance with crop harvest dates in its area. Families not claiming their 10 pound rations in the first period may receive 20 pound allotments in the second "if the application justifies that total," the OPA said.

The OPA announced seasonal reductions of retail ceiling prices on North Atlantic and Pacific fresh fish and seafood. Prices to the consumer are lowered 2 to 5 cents a pound. Effective May 25, the action follows reductions of wholesale ceiling prices on these items from May thru September.

Edible food wasted in the United States from farm to garbage pail amounts to 225 pounds per person annually, the war food administration reported. The WFA said waste is caused by failure or inability to harvest crops, poor handling in transportation, loss in storage and wholesale markets, retail handling, restaurant patrons, and by overbuying, lack of meal planning and poor preparation in homes. An average family of six by avoiding all waste could save enough to feed one person now starving in occupied Europe, the WFA said.

Appointment of Garritt E. Roelofs as acting regional agricultural advisor of the OPA was announced by Rae E. Walters, regional administrator. In his newly created office, Roelofs will serve as staff aide to Walters on farm problems arising under price control and rationing. Roelofs has been district information executive at Sioux City, Ia., since November and was formerly a field representative of the United States department of agriculture.

SOUTH DAKOTA HELPS FLEET IN NORWAY FEINT

Crew Is Disgusted When Tirpitz Stays Hidden.

Across the North Atlantic, around Iceland, and along the coast of Norway went the U. S. S. South Dakota, daring the Germans to bring out their battleship Tirpitz. The story is told by the chaplain of the South Dakota, who, in previous articles, has described his ministry to the crew of the ship in the Southwest Pacific.

BY CAPT. JAMES V. CLAYPOOL.
[Chaplain Corps, United States Naval Reserve.]
AS TOLD TO CARL WIEGMAN.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

When the battleship South Dakota docked at the Brooklyn navy yard at Christmas, 1942, after five months in the Pacific, the crew spent the first hours of a long awaited leave buying campaign ribbons. They wanted the world to know they had been in two major engagements.

Unfortunately, New York was not prepared for them. One tailor closed his shop in despair. Others, when their stock was gone, did the best they could. The result was that when the men returned to the ship, many of them proudly displayed ribbons showing service not only in the Pacific theater, but also in the campaigns of World War I., which took place before most of them were born. The unsympathetic sentries at the gangway gathered up a hatful of such ribbons.

Keen Rivalries in Fleet.

The navy encourages strong loyalties, and keen rivalries frequently develop among the ships of a fleet. Each man feels his ship is the finest and is ready to use his fists to prove it. The brotherly love exhibited by the members of my congregation at church services was not always in evidence when they went ashore and met the sailors from—say our sister ship, the Washington.

In the same way, we felt when we arrived at Brooklyn that the Pacific fleet was much superior to the Atlantic. The men on the Pacific fleet bragged that there are no neckties west of Pearl Harbor. They passed around a rumor that in the Atlantic fleet you even had to keep your shoes shined.

Therefore, the news on March 1, 1943, that the South Dakota had been detached from the Pacific fleet and ordered to duty in the Atlantic was not received with enthusiasm by the crew. We learned later we were being sent to bolster the British home fleet while the British navy was supporting our invasion of Sicily, but at the time we couldn't understand why we weren't going back to the Pacific.

Morale Becomes Problem.

We knew we were needed in the Pacific; we knew action was certain there, while in the Atlantic it was possible, but not probable. Our morale problem immediately became difficult.

When we moved up to Portland, Me., early in March and found there was an epidemic of spinal meningitis in the city, thus prohibiting shore liberty, our problem of keeping the crew happy became formidable. We had one case of spinal meningitis aboard, and as a result, the medical officers thought it unwise to rig church in any closed compartment.

It was still winter on the Maine coast. A cold wind howled across the superstructure. We could see snow all along the shore. But on the South Dakota we held divine service, come rain, snow, cold, heat, or high water. Barred from the closed compartments, we rigged for church on the after side of No. 3 turret, which we hoped would give some protection from the wind.

200 Turn Out at Church.

About 200 men, bundled in overcoats, turned out. They sat with their collars turned up and their caps pulled down, except when they prayed. The band played heroically, if not well, and we sang. The singing was especially good that day, perhaps because of the competition we had from the wind. I kept the sermon mercifully brief and we finished in about 30 minutes.

As we stood on that open deck, with the icy wind whipping the pages of our hymnals, I wondered what the good people of Maine would have thought if they could have known what we were doing out there in that northeaster. If the Japanese had seen us, I'm sure they would have sued for peace immediately.

While we were at Portland, a former senator who was running the Maine Red Cross campaign solicited the admiral of the fleet for contributions. The admiral passed around the word that we could give or not, as we chose.

Red Cross Given $1,064.

Some of the ships took money out of their ship's service funds, profits from canteens and shops on board, but I conferred with the executive officer and we decided to let the men have a chance to give out of their own pockets.

This proved to be a good hunch. The men were proud and pleased to give. Without any pressure or campaigning, we collected $1,064. One seaman 2d class, gave $10, explaining that he thought the Red Cross was doing a lot of good at home and he wanted to help.

When Holy week came, we were anchored in a harbor at Newfoundland. For Good Friday I planned a "three hours" service, compressed into one hour, giving meditations on the last words of the Savior on the cross. It was announced that men might enter and leave at any time.

Men Sit Thru Service.

We held the service in the ship's largest messing compartment, which had room for about 300. When we began the big room was jammed and men were standing on every inch of space. To my surprise, nobody left, and men who tried to come for the last half hour simply couldn't get in.

Sailors are generally supposed to be interested in nothing but pin-up girls and comic books. There was nothing exciting or amusing about the meditations I delivered that day. They were almost straight theology. Yet those men sat thru the service with the utmost attention and reverence.

On Easter, we had the service in the wardroom. There were seats for 450, but at least 150 were standing. Also, we had 60 at an early communion service and a good crowd in the afternoon.

Over on another battleship, which was part of our task force, Chaplain Harris W. Howe had a sunrise service. He erected a large cross on the ship's fantail and several hundred men turned out. The executive officer was up at sunrise to read the Scripture lesson and the commanding officer to read the Easter message.

Officers Take Part in Service.

From Newfoundland our task force—the South Daktoa; another battleship, and destroyers—sailed to the British Isles, where we joined units of the British fleet, including the battleship Duke of York.

Our men got along well with the British sailors and the British people tried valiantly to entertain us at every port. They sent professional entertainers aboard, and gave parties ashore. Our men, always starved for the sight of a woman, accepted the hospitality gratefully.

Chapels on British Ships.

Sometimes the American chaplains exchanged pulpits with the British padres, which, I think, was good for all of us. We envied the British for their possession of little chapels on each large ship. The chapels are comfortably furnished and kept open at all hours.

On the South Dakota we had very little wood or other inflammable material aboard, but the British apparently prefer to be comfortable and risk burning to death.

It humbled us to see and hear of the suffering which the British have endured in this war. I talked to one padre who formerly had a parish in the east end of London. He told me how he had worked for 58 consecutive nights, digging people out of debris left by German bombers.

Offering Omitted in Navy.

In the navy we never take up a collection at church services. This custom caused embarrassment occasionally to sailors who went ashore to church and forgot to prepare themselves with an offering. One old salt told me with indignation how he had put a dollar in the alms basin and the next time he saw the same priest the fellow had a new pair of shoes.

"I'll be damned if I put in any more money," said the sailor.

This reminded me of occasions in my civilian ministry when I heard of people who reduced their church gifts because the pastor's wife had a new hat.

The British fleet recreation officer found some pastures where our men could play softball. They played a few games, but quit after a tragedy that depressed us all. In the last game a seaman from Kentucky collided with another sailor near third base and suffered a skull injury that caused his death the next day. The British sent their best brain specialist, but the boy could not be saved.

Military Funeral Given.

We took his body ashore for a military funeral. Led by our full band and an honor guard of marines, we paraded for a mile and a half to the cemetery. In the procession there were 100 men from the dead boy's division, and many visitors from other ships. The marines fired a volley over the grave and a bugler sounded taps. I mention this funeral so that American parents who lose their sons in far-off corners of the world may gain some comfort to know that the navy takes great pains to see that, wherever possible, every man who loses his life in the service of his country receives a burial with dignity and honor.

The day after the funeral was the Fourth of July. Out of courtesy to the British, we had no celebration.

While we worked with the British fleet, we sailed around Iceland and had the experience of being in a part of the world where the sun never set. Our men played catch on the deck at midnight.

Crash Victims Honored.

While our task force was anchored in an Iceland fjord, I went with a party of officers to lay a wreath on the graves of Bishop Adna W. Leonard of the Methodist church, Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, and Col. Morrow Krum, former Chicago advertising man, who were killed with 11 others in the crash of an army airplane in Iceland in May, 1943.

The 14 victims of the crash are buried in a row in a plot set aside for Americans in a cemetery at Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland. When he was killed, Bishop Leonard was making a tour of the battlefronts as the representative of 31 Protestant denominations.

The fleet was trying to make the Germans believe that Norway, not Sicily, was the object of our next attack. We sailed along the coast of Norway, trying to lure the battleship Tirpitz out of her fjord. She declined to accept the challenge, much to the disgust of our cocky crew.

Feints Fail to Get Action.

Then we made feints with a fake convoy and two widely separated cruiser forces, but still the Germans refused to bite. One day our ships broke radio silence and "made smoke" for miles. The Germans didn't want to fight. Along the coast of Norway they sent out from one to four planes daily to observe us. We were told that all these were shot down by fighters from the British carrier which accompanied us.

In August the South Dakota returned to the United States, and left almost immediately for the Southwest Pacific. The crew was happy to be returning to the war. The morale problem disappeared.

At Salvation Rally

Norma Kruse (left) puts arm sling on Eileen Lenartz (center) as Marilyn Dragsback adjusts a head bandage in first aid contest.

Bugles incessantly sounded taps and reveille yesterday at the Armory Skating rink, 16th st. and Michigan av., as Boy Scouts and Girl Guards from 20 Salvation Army sponsored troops sought to bring the honor of "best bugler" to their own units.

Girl Guards, trim in their gray and red uniforms, squeeled in excitement as nearly 300 boys and girls, participating in the 14th annual Scout and Guard rally, competed in standing jump and relay races. Blanket stretcher races, a compass relay contest, a pacing competition, knot tying, signaling, bandage relays, the O'Grady drill, and Bible quizzes were other events. Col. A. E. Chesham of territorial headquarters presented cups to the winning troops.

EVEN NEW DEAL TURNS ITS BACK ON GHOST TOWN

Shuns Project in Latest Housing Venture.

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

La Porte, Ind., May 13.—A visit to the "ghost" town of Kingsford Heights, 10 miles south of here, revealed today that it is being shunned even by the New Deal agency which built it at a cost of more than 13 million dollars to taxpayers.

A total of 2,974 prefabricated homes was erected there by the federal public housing authority to house workers at the Kingsbury ordnance plant, which is located across the road.

One thousand of the homes have been moved to other areas for use as war housing, and 1,400 more will be moved in the next few months. Only 320 of the dwelling units are occupied by families.

Project to Be Ignored.

The dream project will be ignored, however, in the newest federal move to provide housing for workers at the Kingsbury plant. William K. Divers, regional representative of the national housing agency in Chicago, which operates the FPHA, has announced that 16 dormitories in Walkerton, 11 miles from the ordnance plant, will be reconditioned and possibly moved to the grounds of the ordnance plant to house unmarried women who will be recruited for work loading shells in the plant.

Accommodations will be made to house 60 women in each dormitory. The dormitories originally were built to house unmarried workers of the ordnance plant but proved unsuccessful, partly because tenants found difficulty in arranging transportation to the plant.

Denounced as Waste of Money.

The dormitory project, which will add to the cost of war housing ventures in the Kingsbury area, has been denounced by Rep. Grant [R., Ind.] as a flagrant waste of taxpayers' money. Rep. Grant, who lives in South Bend, said the women workers are being recruited in Kentucky and southern states, probably with a view to having them eligible to vote Democratic in the Presidential election in Indiana.

A. J. Parkins, manager of Kingsford Heights, said unmarried women could occupy dwellings in the housing project. This step would make unnecessary the work on the dormitories.

"Several homes were leased to unmarried women," he said, "but it did not work out satisfactorily, either because of job terminations or because of quarrels."

Town's Streets Crumbling.

The "ghost" town itself presents a picture of unkemptness and deterioriation. Nearly all the 18 miles of streets, built about a year ago at a cost of approximately a million dollars, are crumbling and no effort is being made to repair them. Many holes and cracks were noted in the sidewalks—of which there are 72 miles.

More than $133,000 was spent for landscaping the project, but the grass is long and unless residents get out with sickles and lawn mowers [if they can find them] grass soon will be knee deep around lawns and parkways.

In the center of the town are two large buildings erected to house more than a score of stores. Two shops—a beauty parlor and a drug store—are in the buildings.

Store in Home Unit.

A grocery has remained in one residential unit where it was placed temporarily, and the postoffice remains in its temporary quarters in another home unit. Two churches still hold services in dwelling units.

A permanent water distribution system, costing $559,530, and a permanent sewage disposal plant, which cost $133,350, still are being operated. The town's maintenance employes have been reduced from more than 70 to 23.

The safety department, whose members put out fires and form the police force, is without a chief. Harvey Phillips, the last chief, went into the navy two months ago and his job has not been filled.

Farm Homes Overlook Scene.

Several hundred yards from the town, standing spectre-like on a hill, are half a dozen abandoned farm homes which were moved from the 775 acres of fertile farm land to make way for Kingsford Heights.

A man who said he is one of the few tenants who have lived there since the dwellings were opened for occupancy asserted that dissatisfaction with the project and job terminations at the ordnance plant had caused a large turnover in tenants.

Parkins, the manager, admitted there was a constant coming and going of tenants. He said the largest number of dwellings occupied at one time was 354.

REDUCE SUMMER USE OF WATER, 38 SUBURBS TOLD

Thirty-eight suburbs and 13 large corporations outside Chicago who are supplied water from the city system were asked by Public Works Commissioner Hewitt yesterday to arrange to reduce their consumption 10½ per cent during June, July, August and September. Seasonal demands for more water will require that reduction and elimination of all waste, he said.

RWLB to Hold Hearing on Office Workers' Pay

Stabilized wage rates for several hundred thousand Chicago office workers, set by the regional war labor board, will be discussed at a public hearing at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the La Salle hotel. The meeting was called by the wage rate committee of the board at the request of employers and labor unions, who have protested that the established rates are too low.

UNFINISHED JOBS PERIL RECESS FOR CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—Campaign minded congressmen who want an extended summer recess are going to have to pay for it in advance by working long days and full weeks to clear a jam of appropriation bills.

House leaders are pointing for a recess beginning in June for the Republican national convention. But if the money bills are not out of the way by that time, congress could halt its work only temporarily, instead of knocking off for both conventions and possibly staying away from Washington all of August, too.

All current appropriations expire June 30. Only two of the 15 regular supply bills have been enacted—the treasury-postoffice fund and a deficiency appropriation for miscellaneous agencies. Among bills not acted on are funds for the war department, OPA, WPB, labor department, federal security agency, lend-lease, and UNRRA.

REPORTS TROOPS LACK CLEAR IDEA OF WAR'S GOALS

Jewish Welfare Official Finds Morale High.

American soldiers, even in combat areas, do not have it altogether clear in their own minds why they have gone to war, Dr. Barnett R. Brickner of Cleveland, O., told members of the Standard club last night in a talk on the recent tour of war theaters he made at the request of the President. He was asked to make the trip in his capacity as chairman of army and navy religious activities of the Jewish Welfare board.

"I think the government has failed to indoctrinate our men with the ideals for which they are fighting," he said. "In that respect, both the British and Russian soldiers have been better prepared. The Nazis know why they are fighting. With them it is a passion."

Many Long for Action.

Dr. Brickner said he had visited and talked with American troops in every overseas area except the Pacific. Morale, he said, is excellent, especially among men in combat areas and those about to enter combat. He found discontent among men in central South America and Central Africa because they had been there as long as 18 months and wished to be transferred to fighting zones.

Dr. Brickner said he observed also a "chasm" between men in uniform and civilians at home. The soldiers, he said, "can't understand the apparent apathy and complacency on the part of many in this country.

"Generally the soldiers are interested in three things. They want to get the war over, they want to get home and stay home, and they want jobs when they get back."

Finds Men Tolerent.

Among the men he found tolerance among religious faiths and a noticeable "break down of narrow differences between the chaplains."

"The men are responding to religion more than they did in civil life," he said. "I don't mean to say there is a religious revival under way, but when men live together under the hazards of military life it is only natural that they turn to God.

"They said to me: 'We now understand something about God's business and the power of prayer that we never knew before.'"

Capt. Cone Named Police Officer at Fort Sheridan

Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, yesterday announced appointment of Capt. Anthony D. Cone as police and prison officer at Fort Sheridan. Capt. Ace Visits Home

Maj. Richard I. Bong, who has shot down 27 enemy planes in the Southwest Pacific, had today to spend with his mother in the family home on a farm near Polar, Wis.

"I sincerely hope all American boys will be able to spend Mother's day at home next year," said Mrs. Bong, who came to Chicago yesterday to meet him.

When his visit at home is ended, Maj. Bong will go to Texas for advanced instruction in aerial gunnery and in methods of teaching gunnery.

Maj. Bong, who wears 17 oak leaf clusters for extraordinary achievement, in addition to the distinguished service cross, silver star, distinguished flying cross, and air medal, arrived in Chicago by plane from Washington, D. C. Awaiting him were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bong, and his blonde sweetheart, Miss Marge Vattendahl, a sophomore in the State Teachers college at Superior, Wis.

WFA BUYS SEEDS TO BE SENT TO WAR PRISONERS

The war food administration announced yesterday that it has purchased about 15,000 pounds of vegetable and flower seeds for distribution by the American Red Cross to enable American prisoners of war to enjoy fresh vegetables and flowers. The seeds will be sent abroad in approximately 4,000 collections to be distributed among American soldiers and sailors in German prison camps. Each collection contains 3 to 4 pounds of seed and 18 to 20 varieties of vegetables and flowers. The WFA said that this is the first purchase of seeds made directly for prisoners of war.

STRITCH OPENS NEW INSTITUTE FOR LOYOLA U.

The Loyola university institute of inter-American affairs was formally inaugurated yesterday noon by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch in the Sovereign hotel. The luncheon was attended by educators and persons representing Latin-American interests. Dr. Paul S. Lietz, director of the new institute, presided.

During the institute's conferences yesterday, special discussions for elementary and high school teachers stressed inter-American studies and relationships. Sister M. Patrice, O. S. F., Milwaukee, Wis., recently returned from a 25,000 mile Latin-American trip, told the discussion groups of techniques in elementary schools of those countries.

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution. —Daniel Webster.

$8,000 A FAMILY.

The ways and means committee of the house of representatives voted last week to increase the statutory debt limit from the present maximum of 200 billion dollars to 240 billions. The treasury department wanted a 60 billion increase, and Undersecretary Daniel Bell said that the 20 billion cut in the amount requested would only shorten the time when a new authorization would have to be sought. In making it 240 instead of 260 billion, the committee yielded to its Republican members, who pointed out that 240 would be enough until a new administration, or at least a new congress, was elected, which should be permitted to fix its own ceiling.

Mr. Bell said the debt would reach 197 billion by June 12, when the new bond drive to sell 16 billion dollars' worth of new securities got under way. The 200 billion dollar limit will be passed a few days later.

The government debt is a mortgage upon the property and income of every citizen. That it is very largely the product of the war does not make its burden any lighter. If it is possible to carry the debt for as low a rate as 3 per cent, which is a little above the average return on E bonds, the annual interest charge will be 7.2 billion dollars. Thus the dead weight of the debt alone will require more money each year than was ever raised by taxes in any year before the present war.

Aid for widows and orphans of the war dead, pensions, and medical attention will require annual expenditures running into billions. Other billions beyond anything we have known before will have to go for the army and navy, for certainly we are never again going to be caught so completely unprepared to defend ourselves as we were when this war began. To provide the money needed to bring relief to those who suffered from the last war while arming ourselves so that another war cannot be made on us will also take more money than was ever collected in taxes previous to 1941. When there is added to this the 7 billions a year in interest, the difficulties of our financial condition are apparent.

Some amelioration might be possible if the indebtedness could be reduced. Within eight years after the last war, one-third of the war debt was paid off, but that was reduction from 24 billions down to 16 billions, about a billion a year. Cutting the debt a billion a year from 240 billions, down to even 100 billions, would take nearly a century and a half.

That part of the cost of the war which was not paid for currently out of taxes will be a burden upon life in America as long as the nation lasts. A considerable portion of every person's income for generations to come will be needed to pay interest alone. And yet the New Deal planners are busily engaged on plans which, if carried out, will mean a further rise in the debt after peace returns.

We are to provide money for rehabilitating the war torn countries. We are to contribute our gold to an international banking organization for keeping up the currencies of countries which do not live within their means. We are to write off the loans made under lend-lease and convert them into gifts. We are to raise standards of living all over the world, giving a bottle of milk a day to every one, even to those who don't like milk. We are to spend money for bigger and better boondoggling, providing a job out of public funds always to every one who can't find one doing productive work.

When the debt reaches 240 billion dollars, the government has a mortgage of $8,000 on the property and earnings of every American family. That debt has to be met in taxes and will be passed on from this generation to the next. It ought to be clear that with such an incumbrance we cannot engage in dispensing charities over the world as we could when the debt was $500 a family as it was in 1929. It is not difficult to see that the country in the future cannot endure another Roosevelt administration, which spent borrowed money on reckless experiments, all of which were failures.

WHAT THEY'RE BUYING.

Business is booming at the department stores. The index of their sales on a nation-wide basis stood at 150 for the week of April 29. Unaided by the Easter, Mother's day, Father's day, Decoration day, or by such powerful sales stimulants as the imminence of new excise taxes, or the threat of an extension of rationing, the stores did half again as much business as in the average week in the base period, 1923-1925. This is close to a record for any ordinary six day period.

The Federal Reserve bank has made available the report on sales and stocks for the month of March. They show that Chicago stores did 9.5 per cent more business than in the same month last year, and that they wound up the month with a fraction of a per cent more stock than they had at the end of the first quarter in 1943. In Detroit and Milwaukee the increase in inventories was 10.6 per cent and 15.6 per cent, respectively. In the Chicago area outside the city an even bigger expansion in the supply of consumers' goods has taken place in the year.

Style merchandise, women's, of course, showed the biggest sales advance, the result in large part of the fact that by March 31 the forehanded must have bought nearly all of what they expected to wear in the Easter parade. Last year the big fashion event came on April 25, and the smart dresser at the end of March still had weeks available in which to make purchases. Sales of the stores, the month before last, also reflected the boost in excise taxes on April 1. The jewelry sections did 76 per cent more business than in the preceding March, and the toilet accessory bars 67 per cent more.

Probably the most interesting development shown by the report is the improvement in household furnishings volume in the face of a sharp drop in the marriage rate. In Chicago furniture sales in March were 33.5 per cent greater than in the same month a year ago, altho the stores have only a four month supply of goods, whereas they had a six month supply at the same time last year. This figure includes both the furniture stores and the furniture departments in general stores.

The increase in the dollar volume of house furnishing sales is remarkable because the category includes electric household appliances, which showed a drop of 72.9 per cent for the month, and radios and musical instruments in which there was a decline of 67.7 per cent. Oriental rugs with a gain of 81.5 per cent helped materially to offset these losses. Many householders are no doubt buying imported floor coverings because for once in their lives they have the money with which to do so. Others are putting money into good rugs as an investment and a hedge against inflation.

SECURITY FOR AUSTRALIA.

The moment Japan attacked Hawaii the United States went to war as one man. Our allies across the Pacific will do well to bear that circumstance in mind. The reports of the meeting of dominion premiers in London indicate that they have given it insufficient weight.

Before the Japanese attack all efforts to bring us to a declaration of war had failed. Mr. Churchill subsequently said that he had worked and planned endlessly to get us into the European war but he had been able to do no more than draw us nearer to the brink. Our administration for its part had done all that it could to embroil us. One belligerent step followed another: repeal of the neutrality act, lend-lease, the destroyer deal, active participation in the shooting war against the submarines, the exposure of our warships to German attack, etc., etc. Even so, despite the Reuben James incident and everything else, war had not been declared against Germany on Dec. 7, 1941. Neither an interventionist President nor a host of interventionist propagandists in this country, pleading for English speaking solidarity, had been able to win a declaration of war from congress.

Then came the attack on Pearl Harbor and the whole atmosphere changed in an instant. We had not gone to war against Japan on account of her violations of the nine power treaty. We had contented ourselves with deploring aggression, refusing to recognize the seizure of Manchuria, and imposing occasional economic sanctions. What sent us from our corner fighting was the violation of our territory: that and nothing else.

If Australia and New Zealand want to feel sure of the support of the United States against some future aggressor in the Pacific the record suggests that they can place no great reliance on the nine power treaty or any similar document. Their best bet is to get into the American Union and under the American flag. Then if Australian or New Zealand territory is attacked the response of the people of this country will be as prompt and as impressive as was the reaction to Pearl Harbor.

It isn't likely that America will invite the dominions across the Pacific to join us, but if the idea attracts these nations there's nothing to hinder them from applying for admission. If they do the chances of their being accepted are good. There would be no social obstacles such as make union of the United States with Britain difficult. Australia, like America, is populated by people of humble origin. Many thousands of American soldiers have made friends in Australia. Union is possible and if the Australians and New Zealanders want security there is no better way to get it.

Editorial of the Day

OFFICIAL OBITUARY.

[The Progressive, Madison, Wis.]

Wisconsin election officers have just completed the formal canvass required by law. The official tally tells an even more amazing story than did the original newspaper tabulations. Wendell Willkie's defeat was so crushingly complete as to be almost incredible, especially in view of the vigor with which he worked the state, the pile of cash he spent, and the fact that he had the support of many papers which were thought to have considerable influence in populous centers.

The state-wide tabulation shows that the front-running candidate pledged to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York piled up 143,000 votes altho he had been publicly and specifically commanded by Dewey to desist from using his name. The top delegate candidate for Gen. Douglas MacArthur received 76,000 votes, while the number one candidate for Lt. Comdr. Harold Stassen collected 67,000 votes. Far in the rear came the top Willkie candidate who managed to scrape together 49,000 votes.

A study of the vote by districts explodes the carefully cultivated myth that Willkie was whipped because the conservative machine gang was against him. Willkie appears to have run just as badly, and in some cases worse, in districts known to have large labor and Progressive strength than he did in the more Tory dominated areas, and he seems to have had no more appeal to Wisconsin residents of Norwegian, Danish, Swiss, Polish, or Scotch-Irish origin than those of German extraction. It was as near unanimous as anything Wisconsin has had in many, many years.

FORWARD, 1ST DIVISION!

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

I have just stepped out of the 21st annual dinner of the officers of the 1st division of the United States army [in New York].

The 1st division was so named because it was the first division organized in the last war.

As I have been looking up at the speakers' table, it occurs to me that soldiers must be killed or they will never die, because our generals are all still with us. There is Gen. Bullard, our first commanding general, whom I remember at his first conference when we went to the front, saying in his high, piping voice:

"There are two things I don't want to hear about. I don't want to hear anything about enemy atrocities. It only encourages them, by making them think we are afraid of them. If they commit atrocities, we will have to do likewise; and I don't want to hear anything about No Man's land. All land is American land up to the enemy wire, and that will be ours when Gen. Pershing gives the order."

Next to him is Gen. Summerall—Gen. Summerall who discovered the secret of handling artillery in warfare in the southwest, in the jungles, by cutting his shrapnel at zero so that his cannon became shotguns, standing up for the infantry. He was also at Peking. You may remember that Russians, and French, and English, and Japanese, and Americans marched to the siege of Peking. The Americans broke in first, and the Japanese second. The Japanese broke in by attaching a torpedo to a gate of the wall, and when the man who attached the torpedo retreated and the Chinese put it out, the Japanese returned, attached the torpedo, and stood over it with a bayonet, being blown up with the gate.

Lt. Summerall tried a more practical and equally gallant method. He brought his guns close up to the walls, and when they failed to open the gates because the shells passed thru the doors, he walked up to it, marked on the gate with chalk where the beams were, and his guns blew them down. At the end of that day, he was the only living officer in his division.

We have with us a few returned, wounded officers of the active division, and they look perfectly natural to me. They look as the young men looked 25 and 26 and 27 years ago—the young men who led the infantry in those assaults which never were stopped, who defended those lines which never were yielded. They remind me of those artillery officers who fought their guns until every gun was destroyed. How strange to me look these bald headed, gray haired, staid business men who once were the armed soldiers of liberty.

Our division was never broken up. It remained all thru the peace and was the first to go to Africa. It fought thru Africa. It fought thru Sicily. It is soon going to start the great attack, and I hope we will have the place of honor.

It is commanded by one of our old members who joined the division as a private, who came out of the last battle commanding a battalion, because every officer senior to him—and he was then a lieutenant—had been killed or wounded.

We look forward with pride to the conduct we expect from the 1st division when it goes to France, and we know it will do all that our division did, and more, too, and so I say to it:

"March on, 1st division, march over the hills of sunny France. March thru the flaming towns of Picardy, up the gas filled woods of the Argonne, on into everlasting glory."

CHIANG'S PLAN FOR CHINA

New York, May 13 (AP).—China's leaders not only envisage her as on the verge of economic revolution but also as a country which can progress into constitutional government only thru a military government, and for whose security an expanded territory based on "natural frontiers" is necessary.

Dr. Ching-Chao Wu, senior secretary of the Chinese ministry of economics, has outlined a vast program of economic construction after the war. Chiang Kai-shek has done likewise in the political, geographical, and military fields.

Chiang's views were incorporated in a book, "China's Destiny," published in March of 1943, but which, aside from a few brief excerpts in an official announcement, has not circulated outside China.

Both men profess to see China as the east's great stabilizing force, building herself into equality with the worlds' great nations.

But Dr. Wu mentions only economic power, by producing an industrial system which, like that of the United States, can be recognized as an overpowering argument against aggression.

Chiang, the generalissimo, sees the need for strategic boundaries embracing lands beyond present Chinese control, such as Outer Mongolia, now a separate entity with a Communist government and close Russian ties; Manchuria, and Formosa, as already promised by the allies.

Chiang foresees a country, according to a translation by the Western China Missionary News, in which:

"Every young man ought to make up his mind to be a soldier or airman. In this way we should be able to change the attitude of fear, weakness, and the atmosphere of decadence and extravagance of the last 300 years, revive the grand old spirit of our race handed down for 50 centuries, and thus lay the foundation of a new and modern ethic on a basis of 'the state above everything; the nation comes first.'"

If these words seem like a strange echo from a balcony in Rome, it must be remembered that only excerpts from Chiang's book are available; that its outward concern is for internal China, strong enough to make and keep, not break, the peace of the orient.

Actually, so far as democracy is concerned, it is no secret that Chiang feels much spade work must be done by a strongly centralized government before China can adopt in any broad fashion some of the forms which westerners call democracy.

The West China Missionary News said the generalissimo "says that the natural frontiers of China are the Pamir plateau, the Tien Shan and Altai mountains in the northwest, Manchuria in the northeast; in the west the Kunlun range, and in the south the Himalayas and Middle-south peninsula [that is, French Indo-China, Burma, Siam, and Malaya].

"This, he maintains, forms one geographical unit or system, and no part can be separated from the rest and 'no area can become an independent unit.' There are no defensible frontiers in the river basins of the Yellow river, Huai river, the Yangtze and Han rivers, 'and therefore Formosa, the Pescadores, the four northeastern provinces, Inner and Outer Mongolia, Sinkiang and Tibet are every one of them forts essential for the defense and security of the nation.'"

At another point Chiang is quoted as saying: "The territory of China up to 100 years ago, comprising more than 10 million square kilometers, including no area that was not essential to China's existence as a nation, no area that was not deeply influenced by Chinese civilization. . . . Until the whole country has been recovered, we cannot relax our efforts to wipe out this humiliation and save ourselves from destruction."

Perhaps purposely, the exact extent of some territorial claims is not too clear, for instance, regarding Burma, Indo-China, Siam, and the Malay peninsula.

A map in the book, not available in this country, is reported to show the new China as including parts of Indo-China and Burma, but it is vague as to the exact lines.

MOTHER LOVE AND FEAR.

It is perfectly proper for mothers to be extremely concerned about the welfare of their little ones. If they are normal, they will not become calloused to the point where the tots can be left with strangers unless such persons are known to be reliable. They must understand the meaning of the word—responsibility. The best substitutes for mama's personal presence are the husband, a sister, or some one equally close. Just any one who may come along will scarcely be suitable.

Why are we anxious? The term implies insecurity. It is not momentary alarm. There is no immediate danger. Nevertheless, we are reminded—almost daily—of mistakes that have been made by parents in not watching or supervising their progeny.

But the situation can become disease producing—an obsession. It is not so much that mater loves her offspring to distraction as it is the fact that she cannot endure the thought that anything can happen to them which will be her fault. In consequence, the whole problem may take on the garment of illness.

I have in mind just such a youthful mother, who developed sleeplessness, dull headaches, and inability to concentrate. She could not conquer the dread of impending calamity. It did not make any difference about her safety. She was thinking of Bobbie and Sue.

The upshot of the matter was that it required the assistance of all the family to persuade her to take the children visiting from one relative's household to another until they could become accustomed to new surroundings. As we would expect, the youngsters loved it. There were so many new things to play with in each domicile. Gradually she was persuaded to leave them with cousins, aunts, and uncles for days at a time.

But more than a year was required for complete recovery. As confidence returned all suspicion that she might be losing her mind disappeared. She is now a perfectly natural protecting mother but quite unlike the hen with one chick. Her cure was good for her brood. For the first time they were allowed to do things on their own and, fortunately, they were not spoiled thru too much indulgence.

Worry is first cousin to fear. There is no trait more upsetting to judgment than constant fussing. Thoughts race in circles and no sensible conclusions are drawn. Those who carry their troubles to bed with them and parade them in review are ready subjects for insomnia. Furthermore, the sense of exhaustion which follows a restless night leaves the individual quite unprepared for the tasks of the new day.

There is a type of philosophy that every one must attempt to cultivate. Rebuffs and failures will come to all. Some disappointments are more severe than others but we must learn to equalize success and discouragement, one offsetting the other. It is easier to have faith than it is to doubt but one must not be a believer in anything to the point where the eyes are blinded and the powers of reason are locked within steel compartments.

Yes, it is normal to be solicitous but not to the extreme where every waking moment is dominated by misgivings. In such circumstances, it will communicate itself to every member of the household and cloud the lives of our children.

There are millions of apprehensive parents in our land. Fortify ourselves as we will, we are never ready for news of disaster. But we can't help our fighting sons unless our own hearts are stout. They, at least, must never sense despair.

REFLEX HEADACHE.

F. T. writes: Why do I develop a headache whenever I have indigestion?

REPLY.

A common symptom. There is a nerve communication between the two areas. A simple example is a pain in the forehead following a few swallows of ice cold water.

ORANGE CURE.

D. A. N. writes: I have been told that eating oranges daily—five the first week, four the second, etc., would kill a craving for alcohol. Is this true?

REPLY.

I wish it were. Oranges supply alkalis and vitamin C. The only sure cure is abstinence—mixed with will power.

BMT.

Mrs. S. F. writes: Recently I had a basal metabolism test which showed eight plus. I am 36 years old. Is this satisfactory?

REPLY.

A reading of minus to plus 10 is within the range of normal. You are O K so far as your use of oxygen is concerned.

STARVED BRAIN.

K. H. writes: How does brain anemia act on a person?

REPLY.

You fade out of the picture—faint—if the symptom is severe. As a rule, collapse is followed by prompt recovery as circulatory balance is restored.

THYMUS.

A. C. writes: Will an X-ray show positively if the thymus gland of an infant is enlarged?

REPLY.

Yes, if the film is interpreted by an expert.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, The Tribune.

BUTCHER'S TALE.

Chicago, May 7.—Two letters printed in Sunday's Voice of the People with regard to butchers and grocery stores urge me to forward these facts. I manage a meat department for a nationally known chain. My counters are lighted for business from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., with an hour out for lunch. Selective service has reduced my help to such an extent that all the work of cutting, boning, and rolling of roasts, displaying, ordering, accounting, inventory, sterilizing, and cleaning have to be done before and after hours. Forty-five minutes of my lunch hour, for which I am not paid, are spent in refilling platters for afternoon traffic. The only assistance I have is an inexperienced man, part time, who has little knowledge of the business but is of nice personality and does his best to satisfy every one. I am on the job at 7 in the morning and leave sometimes at 7 in the evening. My overtime pay is time and one-half over 51 hours per week with a base pay of $54.

God made all creatures and why He didn't make all pork chops lean and the same size as well as small bones in steaks and tender stew beef, I don't know. With fixed price ceilings on all meat items, the industry is not permitted to charge proportionately for selected cuts. For example, a 12 pound pork loin is divided in 3 equal parts. The rib end or first cut chops comprise one-third, center cuts one-third, and loin ends one-third. Before ceilings we could select and charge extra to take care of the loss on leavings. Today this is out, and as a result, to make the necessary gross profit allowed by the government each cut must produce its value. Rationing has packed warehouses to the doors making it necessary for farmers to hold live stock and continue to fatten them, particularly hogs. The meat man's profit is cut because too fat an item will not sell and he is forced to trim. From observation, chains merchandise grades AA and A, choice and good respectively. This quality is going to have more fat because it has been finish-fed by reliable feeders. To the ladies I say, do you prefer a 45 gauge or 51 gauge hose? By the same token, the fat meat is the quality.

It takes time and experience to make attractive meat displays only to have them made unpalatable appearing by an indiscriminate consumer who thinks because she or he is employed in a so-called critical war production industry, she or he should be entitled to pick the cream at the owner's or manager's expense. Why waste valuable time by selecting fancier appearing chops from a display that has to be rebuilt on valuable time? To you, Voice of One Person, I hope you come to my market soon because my draft board insists that I leave my wife and two daughters to cut meat for the boys in the navy whose business is war and who take what is served to them. A MEAT HEAD.

WHY HOUSEWIVES SHOP LATE.

Chicago, May 7.—We housewives could shop early in the morning and take the leftovers from the day before, but we like our vegetables, bakery goods, etc., fresh, too. Many times I've tried to shop at 10 or 11 a. m. and found the fresh supplies had not been delivered and all that was available was yesterday's stock. We also have work schedules in the home, and can't drop everything at a moment's notice to go out and shop. And if we do go shopping as we are, working gals and guys give us a pitying look because we aren't dressed for a fashion parade.

We are doing house cleaning, gardening, painting, and papering where we used to hire it done, helping others clean house, mind children, run errands for other workers, etc. Life isn't just a bowl of cherries for us housewives either. We're doing the best we can, with the time and materials at hand.

NEWS FROM THE OUTSIDE WORLD.

Camp Murphy, Fla., May 4.—I am certain that everybody has heard how eagerly boys over in the jungles of the South Pacific read the newspapers in search of news from home. When it comes to news, I believe few realize the conditions that we, who are marooned here in the jungles and everglades of Florida, have to bear.

I am certainly thankful I have my subscription to THE TRIBUNE as it is my only connection with the outside world. I am a popular person here with my TRIBUNE. You see the rest of the fellows here also depend on it to give them an idea of what is going on back in the United States.

PVT. 1ST CLASS DONALD M. DUFT.

SAYS BRAINS AND MONEY ARE NEEDED.

Chicago, May 8.—I wonder if it has ever occurred to Frank Senese and others that if it were not for men with brains and money like Mr. Avery the working people he mentions would be unable to make a living?

AN EMPLOYE.

JUDGES AND COUNTY EXPENSES.

Chicago, May 7.—The Cook county board decided last February that it must have $24,405,918 to cover its bills for 1944. This is $5,814,107 greater than the county's 1943 budget. Despite this increase, sufficient revenue will be forthcoming to meet appropriations for the first time in several years, we are assured, because Assessor John S. Clark had the foresight to boost the assessment basis of all real estate and personal property from 37 per cent to 100 per cent of its valuation. Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, blames the judges' committee for the board's inability to cut expenses to a figure within what the county can really afford. It may be necessary for the legislature to be called into special session to deal with the problem.

Our senators and representatives might give first consideration to taking away from our Circuit court judges the "duty" they now have of determining the number of employes each county office needs. If this task were to be turned over to a reputable management engineering firm, it is quite likely that Cook county's affairs could be efficiently administered at a figure considerably less than $24,405,918. Moreover, our Circuit court judges would then be free to concentrate on their primary obligation of dispensing right and justice under the law, "promptly and without delay," by bringing their delinquent calendars up to date. This, in turn, might inspire the members of the Superior court to do likewise. The quality of Cook county justice would thus be greatly improved, as there would be no further temptation to any of our judges to attempt to make up for lost time by disposing of cases in accordance with expediency, rather than by carefully trying them under the law.

Too idealistic and impractical, you say? Well, maybe so, especially for an election year. But there are a good many Illinois boys tonight, across the Pacific, lying in foxholes and peering into the darkness ahead; or across the Atlantic, waiting tensely for the long expected command to storm the European mainland in order to perpetuate ideals contained in our Constitution. The least we at home can do is to keep that document free of termites or decay.

FRANK J. HART.

"MacARTHUR WITHDRAWS."

Lincoln, Ill., May 4.—Your editorial of May 3 entitled "MacArthur Withdraws" is timely enough but it misses the mark in placing the responsibility where it belongs. The betrayal of Gen. MacArthur's confidence by Congressman Miller of Nebraska when he published their correspondence is what sold the general down the river. Those of us who had built up our hopes in Gen. MacArthur and had labored for his overwhelming indorsement at the recent preferential primary in Illinois are righteously indignant at the stupid act which led to his withdrawal from the race. It was the only way out for him as an army officer following the publicity of his affirmative reply to a politically biased letter from Miller in which he heaped coals upon the administration at Washington.

STILL FOR MACARTHUR.

HE'S FOR CHARLIE GRIMM.

Kankakee, Ill., May 7.—While I have a very tender spot in my heart for dear old Milwaukee and the Brewers, still I cannot help but feel that placing Mr. Charles Grimm in charge of the Cubs as manager is about as happy a move as any one could wish for. I have felt that the removal of Mr. Grimm as manager several years ago was a sad mistake and I hope the owners of the Cubs will not repeat this error, regardless of whether or not the Cubs win another pennant in the near future. It takes time, sometimes several years, to build up a strong, pennant winning team. Mr. Grimm I am sure has what it takes to do the trick. HENRY T. KOBER.

THEY LIKE MR. BAGGIORE.

Chicago, May 9.—Take my advice and hang on to Attilio Baggiore, radio station W-G-N. You can't pick up a tenor of his caliber every day. The boys here at the A. A. F. Tech school really enjoyed that program.

BUCK, THE PRIVATE.

IN DEFENSE OF THE GUN CLUB.

Chicago, May 8.—I see by your paper that Mr. Dunham is again "one up" on the special privilege groups, his latest being the Lincoln Park Gun club. I don't think that Mr. Dunham is at all concerned about special privilege groups, but I do think that he has seen an opportunity to place patronage a dozen or more places where some of his ward heelers could pick up a cubble-bucks.

The Lincoln Park Gun club is now operated by one man and a girl and four target boys. Mr. Dunham could increase that personnel by tenfold and think what that would do for the party. Well, if Mr. Dunham gets his way, that gun club might be a good place to stay away from unless his new attendants know more about shooting and guns than his golf attendants know about golf.

Mr. Dunham says that the public has been denied the use of the gun club. Mr. Dunham can't prove that! Nonmembers, perfect strangers to any one in the club, have been supplied with guns, shells, and targets, together with free instruction if requested, and all it costs them is an additional dime over the cost to the members.

OHIO'S TAX CARDS.

Hazel Crest, Ill., May 5.—In regard to the letter of Edward J. Martin in this morning's TRIBUNE; may I, as a former resident of Ohio, point out a mistake which many people make? Ohio has a sales tax of 3 cents on the dollar applying to all purchases except food, which is tax free. A tax is collected on all purchases over 9 cents but all stores which cater to small purchases have tax cards, with their name on them, good for amounts up to a dollar and which they sell for 3 cents. Upon making a purchase you present your card and the amount is punched off. Of course you have to have a card for each of the different stores but as most people do a good share of their buying at a limited number of stores, this is not usually a handicap.

Another feature of Ohio's tax plan is that a paper stamp for the amount of the tax is given whenever a purchase is made. These stamps, together with the canceled tax cards, are collected by churches and schools which return them to the state and get a certain rebate in money for use in their work. It is the custom in Ohio to save the stamps until a bundle is acquired and then place them in the collection plate along with your offering at the church service. I have been informed that they bring quite a little revenue to the organizations that return them to the state. HELEN D. BRYANT.

DEFENDS RATIONING.

Chicago, May 6. — Maybe rationing hasn't been so good for the rich who can afford to hoard hundreds of dollars worth of canned goods and tons of sugar, but for us who can only buy so much at a time I think it is a blessing.

All we need are the points and the cans are there, whereas before rationing maybe you could get what you wanted, but most likely you couldn't. The same goes for meat.

And then there are rent ceilings. We happen to own property in Chicago, but a year ago we were renting in another city. The landlord would gladly have doubled the rent except for rent control.

Of course, there are mistakes and failures and people who don't agree with other people, but in the welter of bad I don't think we should overlook the good—election or no election.

Personally I can't see the difference between a created shortage and a real shortage. In either case you can't get what you want when you want it.

RECOMMENDS IT TO HIS STUDENTS.

Chicago, May 9.—Last night I happened to hear your program featuring Attilio Baggiore at 11:30. While I have come to expect that your programs be something special, this really was a pleasant surprise.

I am recommending to all my music students that they, too, listen to this fine program in order to familiarize themselves with the truly good music of America. F. N.

PRIEST DEFIES SUSPENSION FOR VISIT TO STALIN

Plans for Mass Today Despite Bishop's Ban.

first his absence over Sunday without permission of the bishop, and second, "treating with Communists," in this case Dictator Stalin and Foreign Commissar Molotoff of the soviet union.

Father Orlemanski's trip to Russia involved activities contrary to the general doctrine of the Catholic church as enunciated by Popes Leo XIII., Pius XI., and Pius XII., Father Shea said. Asked if the type of discipline imposed against Father Orlemanski had been decided by church authorities outside the diocese, Father Shea said Bishop O'Leary had handled the matter without outside assistance.

Shrugs Off Question.

Father Orlemanski, who is pastor of the church of Our Lady of the Rosary, had been home only about four hours when he was served with the suspension order. He had been in high spirits and after being greeted by about 100 members of his congregation he granted an interview in which he shrugged off a question as to the attitude of his superiors toward his activities by saying, "That's my business."

He said he felt the results he had obtained were of such magnitude that he should report all details of his trip to the heads of the United States government. He said he was hesitant to undertake a trip to Washington on his own because of the criticism voiced against him, giving the impression he would prefer an invitation to discuss personally with President Roosevelt or Secretary of State Hull the nature of messages he carried back from Stalin.

"Willing to Be Crucified."

After he had received the suspension order, Father Orlemanski granted a second interview. The calmness he had displayed earlier was gone and he talked excitedly.

"What this is all about, I don't know," he said. "If it is about my trip to Moscow, I am willing to be crucified for my church because I went to Moscow for my church.

"I have done nothing immoral, nothing transgressing God's law," he exclaimed. "I feel I am defending my church. Why should I receive a letter?"

Shows Stalin's 'Promise'

Discussing what he called the achievements of his trip, the priest displayed a document he released yesterday in Chicago purporting to bear Stalin's signature to a promise to coöperate with the church so there will be no persecutions.

He said further he had brought back a definite plan for the form of government to be established in Poland after the war, but he declined to hint at what the plan embodied. When it comes out, "at the proper time and place, it will prove to be of international importance," he asserted.

He referred to Stalin as "a democrat who talked to me man to man just as I am talking to you." He said he had told both Stalin and the Polish army that he is not a Communist and that he did not want a "Communist system instaled in Poland but an American system."

Doubts Stalin Will Like It.

Father Orlemanski was asked if he felt the disciplinary action against him might antagonize Stalin toward the Catholic church, and he replied, "I shouldn't thing he would feel good about it."

Regarding his plans for tomorrow, Father Orlemanski said he would celebrate one of the four scheduled masses during the morning in his church, and that he would appear in the evening at the annual Mother's day festival in commemoration of the feast of St. Stanislaus. On this occasion he plans to give his congregation a review of his trip, he said.

Reached by telephone in the rectory tonight, Father Orlemanski said he had not decided which of the four masses he would celebrate.

Mass Protest Suggested.

Stanley Siak, a member of the congregation and a leader of one of the church's societies, said he has received numerous calls from members of the congregation suggesting a mass-meeting be held to protest to the bishop against the suspension.

"It is probable this meeting will be held tomorrow night in the church auditorium after the festival," Siak said. "I believe personally that Father Orlemanski made an error in opposing the bishop's suspension, but nevertheless we will stick by him."

Experts on canonical law said here that the procedure in case of an appeal by Father Orlemanski would involve the formal filing of an appeal to the Holy See thru the apostolic delegate, who would forward it to Rome.

In Rome the appeal would be presented to the congregation of the council headed by Cardinal Francesco Marmaggi, it was said.

CHEW TOBACCO RYAN SEIZED IN GAMBLING RAID

Frank J. [Chew Tobacco] Ryan, once a big time gambler in Chicago, was arrested by detectives from the Central police station yesterday in a room on the second floor at 34 S. Clark st. and charged with operating a gambling house and possessing gambling paraphernalia.

Ryan was alone in the room when the detectives seized him. There was a telephone on the desk and beside it was a sheet of racing forms.

Ryan denied he was operating a gambling establishment, and insisted he was a broker.

"What do you mean, a broker?" Detective Neil Begley demanded.

"I have no comment to make," Ryan replied.

In a second raid, on a cigar store at 210 N. Wells st. detectives chased 12 persons into the street and arrested Abe Diamond, 40, as keeper of a gambling establishment.

HERO RIDING BUS OVERSHOOTS HIS MARK BY PLANE

The warrior's glamor that had attached itself to Victor Richard Fernitz, 34, of the Commodore hotel, 5547 Kenmore av., in a northbound Sheridan rd. bus Friday night was lacking yesterday when he appeared before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of impersonating an army officer, but he still wore the uniform.

It consisted of officer's "pink" trousers, an officer's jacket, with air force insignia, a natty shirt open at the collar, and an enlisted man's cap.

Two federal bureau of investigation agents testified that they had noticed nothing amiss about the uniform as they rode a few seats behind Fernitz.

"This guy had a seat by himself at first," one of the agents said, "but pretty soon the bus filled up and this girl sat down beside him. He began telling her what a tough job a fighting pilot had, and she acted properly sympathetic."

The two agents continued their eavesdropping, the witness said, and were enjoying the lurid tale of aerial battles over China as much as the hero's fellow passengers. At last Fernitz admitted shooting down 28 Jap planes.

"Then we arrested him," the agent said. "We knew the army record was 27 planes."

Commissioner Walker held Fernitz, a bartender, to the federal grand jury under $1,000 bond.

2 DISMISSED, 13 MOVED IN COUNTY POLICE SHAKEUP

McGinnis Says: Seize Gamblers on Sight.

Chief John J. McGinnis of the county highway police announced yesterday he had discharged two patrolmen and ordered the transfer of three lieutenants, four sergeants, and six patrolmen in a move to improve efficiency.

The men discharged were Anthony Rose and George Piliaski, both of the Morton Grove station. The only reason given was "good of the service."

Became Chief Nov. 5.

The transfers were the first ordered by McGinnis since he became chief last Nov. 5 and the first of such extent in several years. McGinnis, a retired Chicago police captain with a record of 37 years' service, was appointed chief when Capt. Hugh McCarthy, former chief, with 36 others, was under charges of permitting gambling in the county. McGinnis said then he would fire any of his force who failed to suppress gambling.

The purpose of his order, he said, is to start developing a force that will "hit the ball." It will be effective at 8 a. m. tomorrow, and he will have the three lieutenants in and start them off with a talk on what he wants done.

Gamblers to Be Seized.

"I shall tell them to pick up known gamblers and hoodlums on sight; not to wait until something has happened," he said. "The way to suppress gambling and crime is to keep these fellows on the run. Pick them up and take them to the detective bureau showup."

Chief McGinnis said he is shifting the lieutenants and sergeants to give them an opportunity to learn the whole county area.

The transfers of lieutenants ordered yesterday were: Peter Madura, Morton Grove to Willow Springs; Anton Paulus, Willow Springs to Homewood; John Burns, Homewood to Morton Grove.

Sergeants are Shifted.

Sergeants shifted were: Roy Friello, Morton Grove to Willow Springs; Max Ramelow, Willow Springs to Homewood; John Cappelletti, Willow Springs to Morton Grove; Joseph Briatta, Homewood to Willow Springs.

The men transferred were: John O'Shea and John Place, Morton Grove to Willow Springs; Anthony Iosco, Leo Cadieux, and Joseph Cisek, Willow Springs to Homewood; Anthony Capone, Willow Springs to Morton Grove.

Sheriff Mulcahy said he and Chief McGinnis had conferred on the transfers and were "in full accord."

LOUISIANA CANAL PIRATES SEIZE GASOLINE DRUMS

New Orleans, La., May 13 (AP).—Trapper "pirates," operating from floating camps in sparsely settled St. Mary parish, have plundered "thousands of gallons of gasoline and lubricating oil" and marine supplies in the golf intracoastal canal, the office of price administration disclosed today.

Charging looting of oil and gasoline bearing barges "on a wholesale scale," the OPA asked state police aid.

Three trappers were arrested last March on charges of stealing gasoline from a tugboat drawing kerosene barges. Two men boarded the tug at night from a light boat and rolled several drums of gasoline into swift running waters of the canal.

St. Mary parish lies 90 miles southwest of New Orleans, bordering on Vermilion bay, Cote Blanche bay, Bay St. Bernard, and Atchafalaya bay.

Reported Slain

MRS. MARIAN BERGER.
[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., May 13 (AP).—Police concentrated today on a search for the body of missing Mrs. Marian Berger, 40, wife of a war plant personnel director.

John F. Serensky.

They had laid aside temporarily the conflicting stories told by John F. Serensky, 38 year old worker in the same plant that employed David Berger, husband of the missing woman. Capt. Thad Brown of the homicide detail said Serensky, who was booked on suspicion of murder, would be questioned further Monday.

Capt. Brown announced last night that Serensky had admitted orally he had slain Mrs. Berger. When confronted by the husband today, Serensky changed his story, Brown asserted, and named a man identified only as "Harry" as Mrs. Berger's assailant.

Serensky was arrested early Thursday on the beach near Point Mugu after attacking a coast guardsman. In his car parked nearby were found bloodstained articles of woman's clothing and tufts of hair, officers reported.

Mexican Rail Workers End 'Wildcat' Strike

Mexico City, May 13 (AP).—A "wildcat" strike of railroad workers in the Northeastern part of the country ended at midnight last night, the management of the government operated railroads said today. The strike, by all employes except the trainmen and boilermakers who recently withdrew from the General Rail union, began yesterday morning.

SEIZE MICHIGAN LEGISLATOR ON PERJURY CHARGE

Lansing, Mich., May 13 [Special].—Rep. William C. Stenson [R., Greenland], whose story of bribery last August was the first disclosure by a Michigan legislator of a graft condition that since has resulted in a grand jury investigation and many indictments, was himself charged with perjury today in a grand jury warrant.

Stenson was arrested in Lansing by state police and immediately arraigned before Judge Leland W. Carr, the grand juror. Stenson demanded examination, which was set for May 23. He was freed under $2,500 bond.

Judge Carr, who has conducted the inquiry and returned two conspiracy indictments in which 40 respondents were named, issued the warrant for Stenson. The warrant charges him with giving false testimony to the grand jury regarding acceptance of bribes.

Often a Witness.

Stenson was called frequently as a witness during the early stages of the investigation. He had talked freely outside the grand jury rooms regarding an alleged attempt during the 1941 session to buy off his opposition to a pending bill seeking to limit branch banking operations.

Stenson's story was that a lobbyist whose identity was unknown to him and whom he referred to only as "the man in the gray suit," had first left $350 and later $1,000 in bills in Stenson's overcoat as it hung in the house cloakroom. Stenson claimed the money was accompanied by a note instructing him to vote against the branch bank bill and that he returned it without ascertaining the donor's name.

Excerpts from the record of grand jury testimony contained in the warrant indicated that the charge against Stenson is based on his denial that he received bribes on any other occasion.

Repeated Negative Answers.

Stenson was quoted as giving repeated negative answers to questions regarding any other possible bribe payments, the broadest of these queries reading:

"Did any one, either a member of the house, a member of the legislature of the state of Michigan, or any other person, give you any money, pay you any money, give you any gift or gratuity, to influence your vote for or against senate bill No. 1 [the branch bank bill]?"

Stenson is serving his second term in the legislature. He is the third person to be charged with perjury since the investigation began.

Stanley Dombrowski, former Democratic house member from Detroit, is serving a three and one-half to 15 year prison term after pleading guilty to the charge when he repudiated grand jury testimony. Joseph Viviano, former clerk in a Detroit state liquor store, was arrested recently on a charge he gave false testimony on questions relating to alleged liquor withdrawals from the store and division of proceeds with the store manager.

2 CHICAGO AREA SAILORS LOST IN SHIP SINKING

Boston, Mass., May 13 [Special].—The 1st naval district disclosed today that two midwestern men are among the 16 missing after fire and explosions sank a navy lighter off Boston harbor Thursday afternoon.

The two are James S. Griffin, seaman 2d class, whose mother was reported living at 738 S. State st., Chicago, Ill., and Adell Braxton, yeoman 3d class, whose wife, Arlene, was reported living at 262 N. Kendall st., Battle Creek, Mich.

WOMEN READY FOR SERVICE IN 5TH BOND DRIVE

A uniformed group known as the Treasury Volunteer Special corps will be available for special and emergency work during the fifth war loan drive which opens June 12, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the women's division of the Chicago and Cook county war finance committee, said yesterday.

Mrs. Wolf was appointed by Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the fifth war loan committee, to direct the activities of 30,000 women in the drive. She said the special corps has been trained for office to office and house to house canvassing, staffing bond booths and delivering messages over the radio.

Since the attack on Pearl Harbor the women's division has sold $585,162,891 worth of bonds.

GLOBAL SYSTEM TERMED MIRAGE BY EX-SEN. REED

League Foe Bares Flaws in World Plan.

Kansas City, Mo., May 13 (AP).—The sun streamed thru the window that reached from floor to ceiling. The veteran of political war talked as he sat there looking at the new grass, the tulips thrusting up their buds, and the two inquisitive robins on the lawn around his hilltop home.

James A. Reed is 82, his hair is white, but his voice still holds the vibrancy that once thrilled the United States senate. His thoughts are as decisive as in the days when he played a major role in keeping the United States out of the League of Nations.

Jim Reed was a charter member, with the late Sen. William E. Borah, of that small, determined group which President Wilson called the "battalion of death." He has no apologies to make for his part in that fight. He says events have vindicated completely his contention that the league was a wonderful institution with just one major fault—"it just wouldn't work."

Need Facts for Foundation.

To the planners for the post-war world of tomorrow, Reed puts this question: "What kind of permanent organization can any one build if he has no facts for his foundation?"

He asks further: What about Russia? What will be her post-war demands? What will be her attitude toward Finland, Poland, Germany? What should be done to help France to her feet? What are England's plans?

Until these questions are answered, he says, those who talk about winning the peace are playing a "silly game in which no one knows who holds the stakes or knows what they are."

Looking back over his own 18 years in the senate, Reed says even apparent "facts" sometimes are painfully inaccurate. Remember, he asks, those small countries that would form a "little band of steel" around Germany and prevent all future wars? And the impregnable Maginot line? Russia, the bogey man ready to gobble us all up?

"Don't Forget Sovereignty."

Reed thinks that a nation holding the big cards, economically, politically and morally, would be a fool to take in on a full partnership basis countries with no cards at all, or cards whose figures have been doctored. "Any one who forfeits one bit of sovereignty of this great nation is, in my opinion, a criminal."

Human nature, Reed feels, will defeat in the end any world plan, but he isn't too pessimistic. He thinks "pacifists caused this war with their talk of the league and disarmament," which lulled the United States into thinking all was well even tho Germany and Japan were busy rearming.

If America can stay strong after this war, and if the nations whose civilizations most resemble ours also can remain strong, he says the chances for peace are good, better than they would be under any sort of world plan which, he fears, might tie our hands.

Gov. Warren 'Not Candidate'; Leads Vice Presidency Poll

No Intention to Run

Sacramento, Cal., May 13 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren of California, often termed the No. 1 possibility of the moment for the Republican Vice Presidential nomination, today asserted he isn't after it—or, for that matter, the Presidency.

The big Californian, who has been selected to deliver the keynote speech at the Republican national convention in June, said in an interview:

"I never would have agreed to be the keynoter had I been a candidate for the nomination either as Vice President or President. I am engaging in no such activity of any kind."

This statement was his first flat disavowal of immediate national political affiliations.

Delegates Pledged to Him.

Altho California's 50 member delegation to the convention will go to Chicago pledged to Warren for President, it's as a Vice Presidential possibility that his name usually is heard.

Warren's first term as governor expires in 1946. He campaigned on pledges of war as well as post-war undertaking for California, and his associates say he intends to keep the pledges.

Warren does not profess to believe his name on the ticket necessarily would place California in the Republican column in November—a point stressed often by those who speak of Warren as a possible second place choice.

War Factor in Election.

"The way the war is going—abroad as well as on the home front—will weigh more in the November elections than candidates or platforms," Warren said.

The possibility Warren might be "drafted" at Chicago isn't being overlooked.

Senators Favor Him

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Gov. Earl Warren of California, the Republican convention keynoter, is better than a two-to-one favorite for Vice President among Republican senators willing to express a choice in an Associated Press poll.

Thirty-three of the 37 Republican senators were asked to state their personal preference for the Vice Presidential nomination with the assurance that their names would not be linked publicly with the selection they made. Four G. O. P. members were not reached.

Of the 33 polled, 14 said their first choice was Gov. Warren, six favored Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who is seeking the Presidential nomination, and nine were undecided.

One Vote for Stassen.

One vote each was received by Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.], Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, and Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.].

None of the senators contacted suggested Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for second place. Several who said they were for Warren, as well as some who favored Bricker, said their choice was made with the possibility in mind that Dewey would get first place on the ballot.

Opposes East-West Ticket.

One midwestern senator said that if Dewey is the Presidential nominee the senator would not be for Warren because he did not believe the Republicans should present an east coast-west coast ticket. Another legislator said he thought that if the New Yorker is nominated for President, a "seasoned" member of congress should have second place.

One senator said he did not agree with the generally accepted theory that a Presidential nominee should be allowed to choose his running mate.

DEWEY AND BRICKER POLICIES COMPARED BY BRITISH WRITER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Discussing the forthcoming presidential elections in America, Frank MacDermot, New York correspondent of the Sunday Times, cables his paper: "It is significant that those anti-Roosevelt Democrats who announced they were prepared to support a Republican should have called for Bricker [Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio], then Dewey [Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York].

"The latter is suspected by parliamentarians of the same authoritarian tendencies they find in Roosevelt, and he is also now regarded by some as too much of an internationalist.

"It is confidently believed that Bricker, despite his recent New York speech, would follow congress rather than lead it in questions of foreign policy, while in domestic affairs his zeal is more untiring than Dewey's in denouncing the works of the New Deal."

PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR MacARTHUR DESPITE HIS 'NO'

New York, May 13 (AP).—Ormsby McHarg, chairman of the MacArthur National Associates, said today the organization would continue to support the general for the Republican Presidential nomination unless he returns to the United States and demands, after "he is made familiar with the facts," that efforts be halted.

The chairman declared in a statement his group was convinced Gen. MacArthur did not have full knowledge of "the tremendous sentiment in his favor" when he announced he did not seek the nomination and would not accept it.

Republican Nationalists Ask Cullen Be Delegate

James J. Cullen, chairman of organization work for the Republican Nationalist Revival commitee and a veteran party worker on Chicago's west side, was proposed for delegate at large to the Republican national convention yesterday by William J. Grace, secretary of the nationalist group. Grace sent letters to Gov. Green, Chairman Rowe of the Republican state committee, and County Chairman Fisher in support of Cullen's candidacy.

THEATER OF AIR BEGINS SERIES OF SYMPHONIES

With the operetta series discontinued until fall, W-G-N, WGNB, and Mutual last night inaugurated a spring and summer series of Saturday evening Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hours. The program was presented in W-G-N's main studio before a good sized audience.

Henry Weber conducted the W-G-N orchestra in a melodious program which included the prelude to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg"; the Johann Strauss waltz, "Roses from the South," and Tschaikowsky's Italian caprice. The soloist was Richard Tucker, tenor. He was heard in excerpts from three operas, Bizet's "Carmen," Mozart's "Don Giovanni," and Ponchielli's "La Gioconda."

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, spoke from New York, where he was attending the annual dinner of the officers of the 1st division. The text of his speech is on the editorial page.

The program was dedicated to the Girl Scouts.

PATRICE MUNSEL COULD BECOME A REAL ARTIST

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Patrice Munsel in Orchestra hall recital was much the same as Patrice Munsel in opera, except that she is even prettier as her dark haired self than in the most flattering wig. And what you think of her future depends entirely on where you expect her to go.

Eighteen years old, undeniably a beauty, with a voice of unlimited potentialities, she has a true flair for the lyric stage. But she is being pushed with a managerial alacrity that that amounts to a shove. If you expect her to go to Hollywood, and she already has a contract, there is nothing to worry about. She will be a success, with concert tours on the side, and no doubt will make her sponsors a lot of money.

But if you would like her to become a great singer, and she has every requirement but technique, the result is not quite so certain.

Two Performances Compared.

Most of Miss Munsel's recital last night was on a par with her charming first act in "Mignon," which launched her recent Metropolitan Opera debut at the Civic Opera house, and none of it that I was able to hear came within reaching distance of the catastrophe that struck her singing of the Polonaise later in the opera.

She was said to have been ill that night, and her lack of technical equipment let her down badly when she needed it most. Altho her voice was tiring, when I left the concert, nothing even approaching the disastrous had occured. At its worst, her singing was immature; at its best, it was genuinely exciting.

Has Coloratura Luster.

Exciting because she has a rarely beautiful voice, rich and full and warm, with extraordinary range, and the true luster of coloratura brilliance. Add this to a slender girl with great, dark eyes and hands that move instinctively in story telling rhythm, and you can see why the impressarios went up in a blaze of contracts.

When she sang an aria from "The Magic Flute," she had true Mozartean delicacy, and when she turned to Bachelet's "Chere Nuit," it had, for all its faults, an exuberant warmth that reached straight to the audience. The "Dancing Doll" was piquantly deft, and she managed the double dialogue of "Bon jour, ma belle" like an expert.

But it was unwise to attempt the classical purity of Mozart's "Alleluia" and she had not even an approximation of the grand style demanded by a glittering aria from Donizetti's "Linda di Chamounix."

Miss Munsel is an exceptionally gifted girl with an instinct for singing, but great singing is an art. She could be an artist.

Credits School Patrols with Saving 4,000 Lives

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, yesterday praised the accident prevention record of the school safety patrols, which, he said, had resulted in the saving of more than 4,000 lives. Hayes' tribute was made in connection with School Safety Patrol day.

MICHIGAN READY FOR RIOTS WITH TRAINED TROOPS

No 'Bloody Monday' This Year, State Vows.

Detroit, Mich., May 13 [Special].—As the first anniversary of the worst race riots in Michigan history approaches, frequent street maneuvers of Michigan's crack state troops convince Detroit residents that the city need not fear another "bloody Monday" like that of June 21, 1943.

Touched off by reports that a Negro woman and a child had been killed by a white person on Belle Isle, street battles last year between whites and Negroes took the lives of 34 persons, injured more than 700, and caused the destruction of much property.

Today Brig. Gen. Thomas Colladay, state commander, has on 24 hour a day duty in Detroit three groups of armed and uniformed troops, trained in the technique of quelling riots. They are mounted on trucks, armored cars, and motorcycles, and are led by experienced officers.

Three Way Training.

Officially this force of 325 men, consisting of three separate units, is assigned to guard bridges and tunnels on the Detroit-Windsor border. But actually each unit spends one week out of three on guard duty, one week in training to meet military police emergencies, and one week on service assignments.

Back of this force on instant call for emergencies are 1,900 trained reserves in Detroit and 4,000 in the rest of the state.

The troops are modeled after army military police. They are taught to save lives rather than to kill; to establish and keep order; to handle unarmed mobs, and to meet men following a blind impulse rather than a deliberate plan of action.

This militia is trained to set up a street blockade speedily, to use a "flying wedge" in clearing a street of rioters, and to drive "snipers" out of hiding places.

Ready to Redeem Selves.

The troops are ready, if the need arises, to "redeem" themselves for their ineffective efforts to put an end to the reign of terror that burst suddenly on downtown Detroit last June.

Inexperienced in the handling of mobs then, the 2,700 state troops, as well as state and city police, were unable to cope with the rioters who wrecked street cars, tipped over and set fire to automobiles, smashed windows, pillaged stores, and stabbed and stoned pedestrians.

Order was restored only after 3,800 federal troops under Brig. Gen. William E. Gunther of the 6th service command arrived with machine guns and rifles.

Training Program Started.

When the situation was under control, Gov. Harry F. Kelly and Brig. Gen. Colladay set up the training program which, after a million dollar expenditure, has led the governor to remark that the troops are "prepared to cope with any civil disturbance that might arise."

Mayor Edward Jeffries Jr. of Detroit termed the troops "reassuring in the arsenal of democracy."

"Here is a good answer to the questions of how many and how fast state troops can mobilize in Detroit for emergency duty," asserted Col. Owen J. Cleary, commander of the troops in Detroit, after a recent review.

CONTINUE WORK OF DIES GROUP, HOUSE IS URGED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—A movement was begun on Capitol hill today to make the Dies committee on un-American activities a standing committee of the house, rather than permit the committee's work to end because of the retirement of Chairman Dies [D., Tex.] from public life. Rep. Dies announced yesterday that he would be forced to retire by illness.

The campaign to elevate the committee from its present rank of special committee to a standing house group was led by Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.], ranking minority member of the Dies committee.

Warning that the nation is threatened by the "underground strategy" of subversive and un-American groups, Thomas said that congress and the people must never let down their guard against the enemies of freedom. He urged that the Dies group be given a permanent and highly trained staff to continue its work. The committee's present authorization extends to next Jan. 3. Other congressmen joined in asking that the committee be maintained.

Maxie, 10 year old cheetah, who will share mistress' estate with aging dachshund.

Monsey, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—Maxie, a 10 year old Cheetah, and Wally, a 9 year old Dachshund, are destined to share the same roof and a joint fortune of $194,000 for the rest of their lives. Their late mistress, Miss Elizabeth M. Miller of Monsey, left all but $6,000 of her $200,000 estate for their upkeep.

With the exception of a few chairs and Wally's dog bed, all the furniture in their seven room frame house has been removed. A heavy wire door covers the entrance to Maxie's living room and a window opens into a 50 foot outside run where the 165 pound Cheetah takes his exercise.

COURT DECLINES TO CITE BUDD FOR FIGHTING UNION

Upholds His Right to Free Speech.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13 (AP).—The 3d United States Circuit Court of Appeals held in effect today that an employer may discuss labor unions with his employes without violating the Wagner labor relations act.

The decision, delivered by Judge Charles Alvin Jones, rejected a national labor relations board petition to declare the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company and its president, Edward G. Budd, guilty of contempt of court because of critical letters regarding labor unions which the company sent out to 15,000 employes.

The court's decision today affirmed an informal opinion given by Judge Jones May 1 during arguments in the case.

The court said there is nothing in the Wagner act that deprives an employer of the right of free speech. If there were, the unanimous decision added, that section of the act would be invalid.

Viewpoint of NLRB.

A. Norman Somers, an attorney representing the NLRB, had described the suit as a "test case," saying the practice of sending out letters to employes was becoming prevalent. Unless the practice was stopped by the courts, he said, the board was "about ready to throw up the sponge" because the letters interfered with enforcement of court decrees against employers.

Somers asserted Budd's letters had expressed his opinions on the unions in such an adroit way as to "belittle the court's decision, undermine its effect and whittle away the assurance given the employes" that their rights would be fully protected.

Decree Not Violated.

The board charged contempt in Budd letters sent out last Feb. 29 after the Supreme court refused to consider a Circuit court decision ordering the company to "stop interfering" with attempts of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America [CIO] to organize. The decision also directed Budd to disband the Budd Employes Representation association, which had represented Budd workers for 10 years.

Nothing in the letters violated the court's decree, the court said, altho it "could be characterized as an undisguised and unmistakable effort" by Budd to argue to the employes "the advantage of a union of their own."

1,200 QUIT JOBS IN ROLLING MILL AT FORD PLANT

Detroit, Mich., May 13 (AP).—Approximately 1,200 rolling mill workers at the Ford Rouge plant quit work tonight without an explanation, a company spokesman said.

Two hundred men, however, were reported to have remained on the job to keep metal hot and prevent an extended shutdown of the mills.

The strikers were said unofficially to have protested the disciplining of a shop committeeman for tearing up the transfer slip of an employe.

Representatives of Ford local 600 of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] could not be reached for a statement.

Foremen Delay Return.

Telegraphic assurances that they would not be discriminated against if they returned to work failed tonight to end a strike of more than 3,300 foremen in war plants of six Detroit manufacturing companies.

Robert H. Keys, national president of the Foremen's Association of America [independent], said a telegram from Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board would not be answered until the union's officials hold an executive session at 10 a. m. Monday.

No Discrimination.

Davis said assurances against discrimination had been received from five of the six companies involved. Those replying to a WLB inquiry, he said, were Briggs Manufacturing company, Hudson Motor Car company, Gar Wood Industries, Inc., Packard Motor Car company, and Murray Corporation of America. The sixth is Aeronautical Products, Inc.

Because of the strike of foremen, Packard has closed its plants, making more than 30,000 workers idle.

The union, which is not recognized as a bargaining agency under the Wagner act, failed to obtain company consent to formal negotiation of grievances, so it started a series of strikes April 28.

REVERE STRIKE ENDED BY VOTE OF UNIONISTS

A so-called "meeting strike" of 2,200 employes of the two plants of Revere Copper and Brass company at 2200 Natchez av. and at 6630 Fullerton av. ended yesterday after the workers voted to end the union session.

The "meeting" was called Friday in protest against war labor board delay in decision on disputed phases of a new contract with the AFL United Automobile Workers union, local 477. The case has been pending since October.

Company officials said they expected normal operations would be resumed by tomorrow. During the work stoppage, they said, production of vital war material was "seriously interrupted."

Anthony Doria, secretary treasurer of the international union, urged the men to return to work to avoid jeopardizing their case with the WLB. Consideration of the case was suspended by the WLB when the strike was called, but will be resumed, the WLB regional office said.

WARD PREPARES FOR 2D BATTLE OVER CONTRACT

Negotiations for a bargaining contract between Montgomery Ward & Co. and employes of CIO local 20 of the United Retail Wholesale and Department Store Employes will be opened early this week, spokesmen for the company and for the union said yesterday.

The union won the right to bargain for two separate units of employes at an election held last Tuesday. Unit 1 includes employes in the Schwinn warehouse, mail order and fashion houses, and the retail store. Unit 2 includes the photographic and central printing departments and the display factory.

A meeting of the union stewards' council has been called for 7 p. m. tomorrow at the union's headquarters, 518 Chicago av., to consider the time for holding the conference with company officials.

A resolution was adopted here yesterday by the board of directors of the Illinois Manufacturers association condemning as an "unprecedented and high handed procedure" the seizure by the government of Ward properties.

Underground Shipyards to Be Built in Britain

LONDON, May 13.—The government's intention to build underground shipyards for future defense of Britain was disclosed today by Leslie Hore Belisha, M.P., and former war minister, in an address at Saltash. Alluding to the admiralty's desire to buy 220 acres in Devonport for dockyards and naval factories, Belisha said the scheme meant that the government would maintain her navy on a greater scale than ever.

PENSIVE TAKES $80,075 PREAKNESS; PLATTER SECOND

STIR UP THIRD AS WINNER OF DERBY REPEATS

Strong Finish Nets ¾ Length Victory.

Baltimore, Md., May 13 (AP).—Striking from behind in the stretch as he did a week ago in the Kentucky Derby, Pensive today won the 54th and richest Preakness to take a strangle hold on the 3 year old turf championship.

Far back in the early running, the chestnut son of the English Derby winner, Hyperion, from Warren Wright's Calumet farm, hit the wire at the end of the mile and three-sixteenths three-quarters of a length ahead of George D. Widener's Platter. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up, third in the Derby, once again finished in the same spot, beaten two and one-half lengths after setting a burning pace through the first mile.

Earns $60,075 for Wright.

In traveling the distance in 1:59 1-5, 2 1-5 seconds off Alsab's stake record, Pensive earned $60,075 of the gross purse of $80,075 and ran his owner's earnings for the year to $250,840. Of this Pensive has accounted for $139,475.

The sweltering crowd of 33,011 made Pensive the choice in a wagering spree that broke all records for the race. They poured $332,108 through the machines, compared to the previous high of $254,000 when Man O' War won in 1920.

With the shirt-sleeved fans beating out a steady tune on the machines, Pensive returned $5.30, $3.10 and $2.20 across the board. Platter, making his second start of the year, paid off at $4.10 to place and $2.70 to show while a $2 show ticket on Stir Up was worth $2.50.

"My horse never left me in doubt," said Conn McCreary after dismounting from Pensive and watching his boss and Trainer Ben Jones receive the coveted Woodlawn vase.

Pensive Moves Up.

There wasn't that much confidence among the fans, however, as Eddie Arcaro shot Stir Up to the front and led the seven horses past the judges' stand the first time with Pensive trailing by some six lengths.

Swinging into the back stretch, Arcaro aboard Stir Up was winging along in front with two lengths to spare over Platter at the half-mile post, which the Greentree gelding reached in 48 3-5 seconds. Meanwhile, Pensive had moved into fourth place, still some four and one-half lengths back, but he had started to run.

As Stir Up reached the first six furlongs in 1:13 2-5, two lengths in front of Platter, McCreary swung Pensive to the inside, took over third place and started moving in.

Alorter Pulls Up Lame.

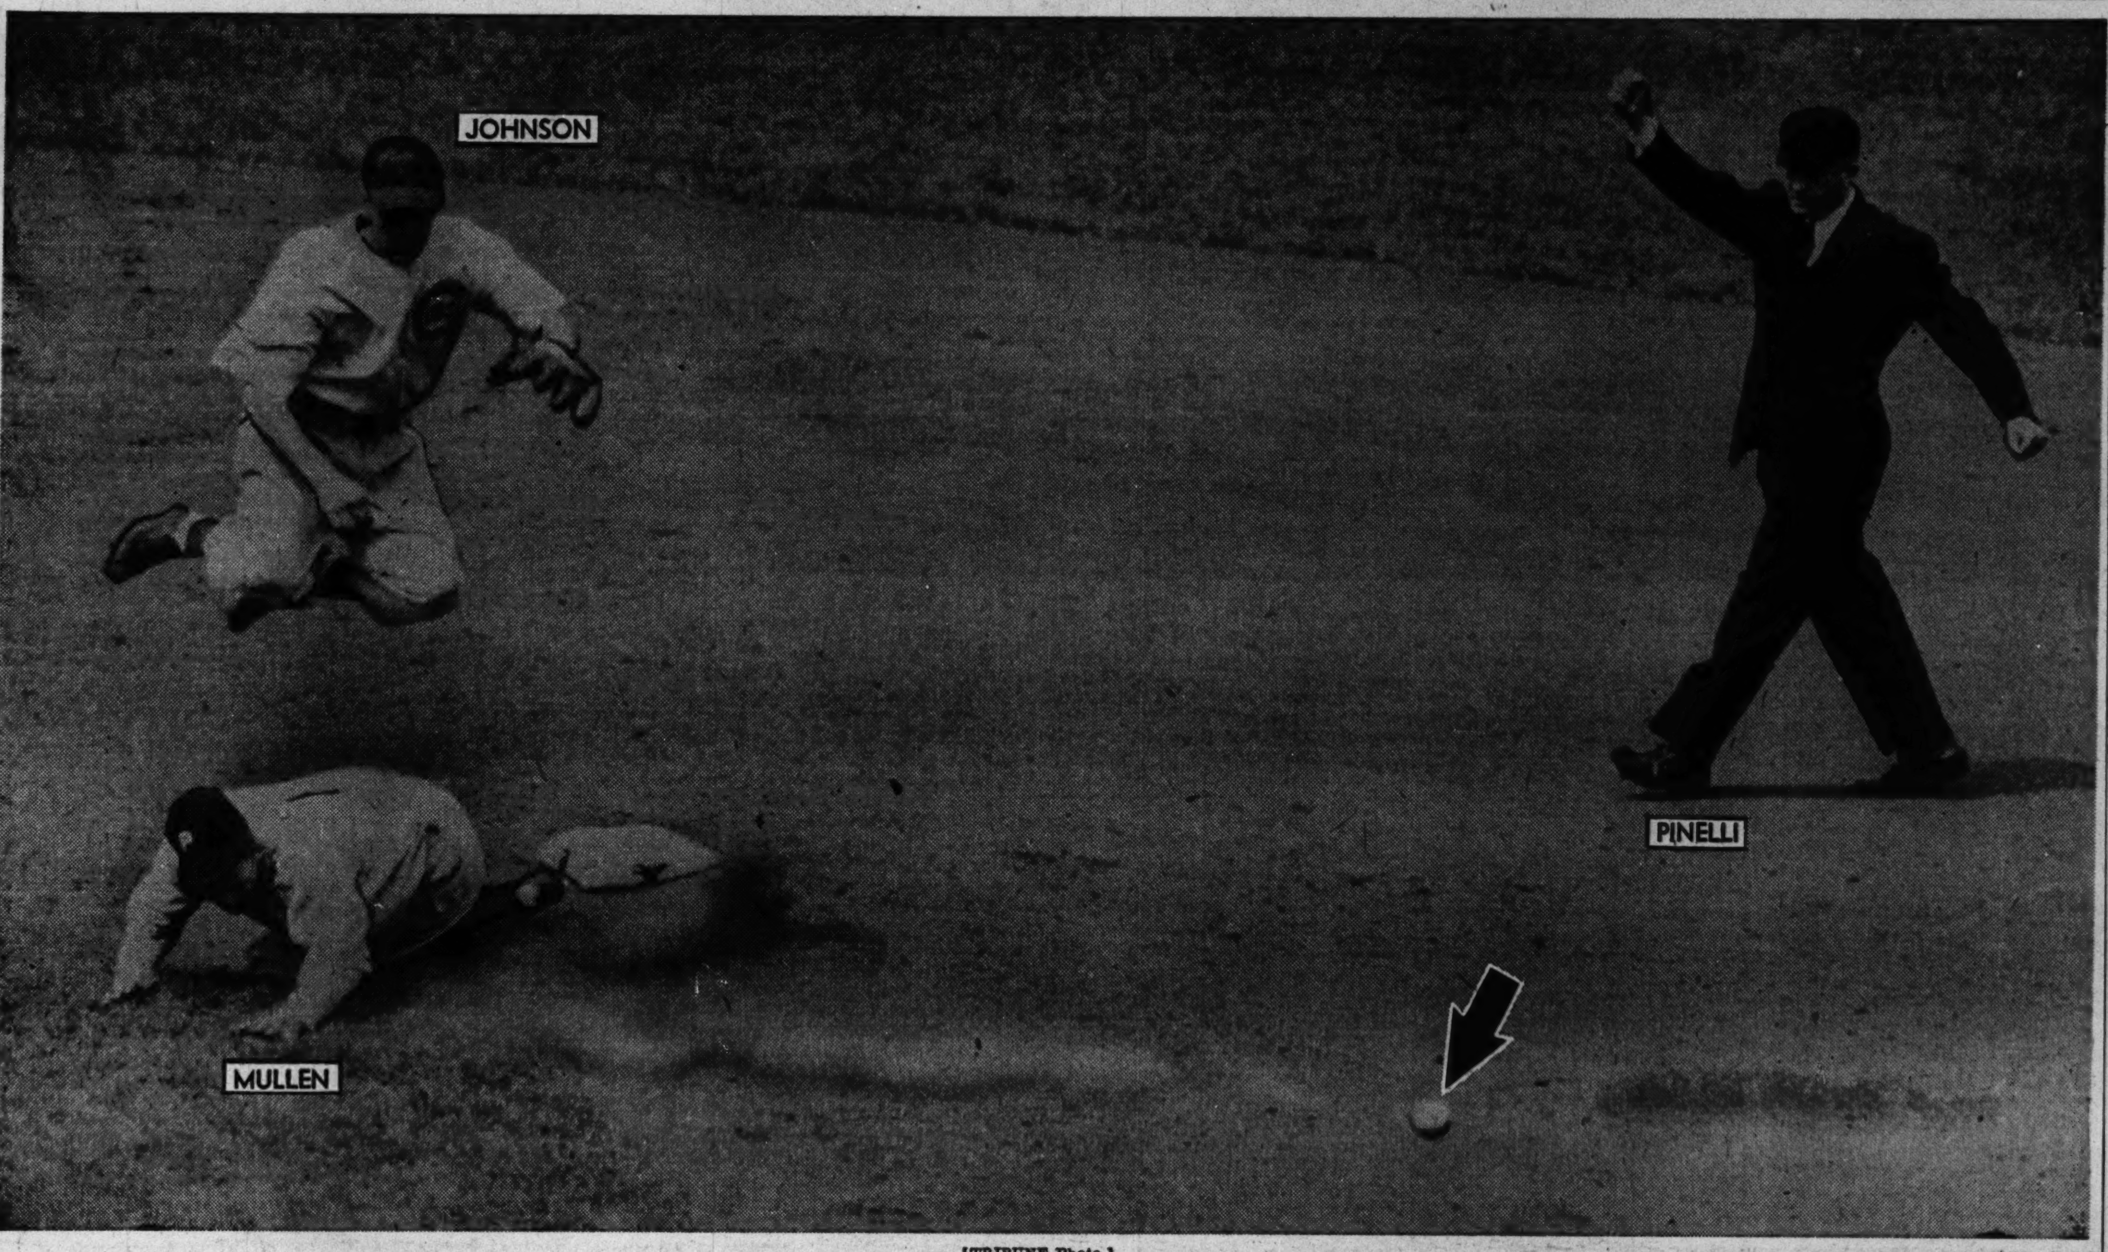
Coming into the mile post in 1:39 3-5 at the top of the three-sixteenth of a mile home stretch, Platter caught the tiring Stir Up but by that time Pensive was in a position to give the Widener colt a battle. There was little to choose between the pair for the next eighth as Stir Up faded, but with the finish line only one-sixteenth of a mile away, Pensive stuck his head in front and there he stayed.

The three leaders were easily best of the field. Stir Up had four lengths to spare over Mrs. A. J. Abel's Gramps Image. Gay Bit from Robert Bruce Livie's Bobanet stable was fifth, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie sixth, and A. C. Ernst's Alorter last. Alorter pulled up lame.

Longdon had no excuse for Platter. "He was too rank for me," said the veteran rider. "I couldn't rate him."

From Arcaro came: "They just ran by me."

ONE LUCID CUB MOMENT, AT LEAST—A DOUBLE PLAY



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

At this point of yesterday's game the Cubs were going strong and had no idea of an impending sixth inning storm that gave the Phils a 6 to 2 victory and Chicago's 15th defeat in 17 games. This is a Cub double play. Don Johnson has thrown the ball (arrow) to first for a double play after taking a toss from Len Merullo which retired Ford Mullen at second base. Umpire Babe Pinelli is waving out Mullen.

Sportsman's Bets Total $7,829,773

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

A bang-up crowd of 14,133, the second largest of the record breaking Sportsman's Park spring meeting, turned out for the semi-final day's card and sent the betting total for the 13 days up to $7,829,773 as they distributed $749,335 over the eight race program yesterday.

The best previous day, both for attendance and wagering, was opening day two weeks ago, when a crowd estimated at 22,000 wagered $824,054, the total being held down considerably by the bulging throng.

Take Wing Is Second.

Yesterday's patrons saw C. F. Martin's Believe, ridden by Willie Gillespie, walk in with the first running of the $2,500 Great Lakes handicap, a mile and sixteenth race for 3 year olds and up. Believe won by four and a half lengths in a field of five, which included Mrs. Clyde Troutt's Take Wing, winner of the Arlington Park Stars and Stripes handicap two years ago.

Take Wing took second money, two lengths in front of A. S. Higgins' Quizzle, winner of one division of the Western avenue handicap last Saturday.

Believe went out in front at the start and never was in danger, while Take Wing was bumped on the first turn when Martian bore out, but recovered and had no trouble beating Quizzle, which finished third, two lengths in front of Martian. Believe paid $12 to win.

$32,540 Bet on Double.

A bit of mystery was injected into the proceedings earlier in the day when three of Mrs. G. H. Emick's horses were scratched, Black Mark in the second race, Cirio in the fifth, and Amy's Third in the Great Lakes feature.

The reason was forthcoming, how-

YOUNG STARS AS MICHIGAN WINS ON TRACK FROM ILLINI, PURDUE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 13.—Buddy Young, Illinois' freshman track star, proved again this afternoon he is the ranking collegiate sprinter, but the chunky Negro also suffered his first defeat in the broad jump while Michigan was demonstrating how it expects to defend successfully its Western conference championship two weeks from today.

In a triangular meet on Ferry field the Wolverines scored 71 points to 54 for Illinois. Purdue trailed with 27 points and took only one of the 13 individual events.

Illini Win Relay.

Michigan and Illinois tied with six individual championships each and the Illini took honors in this compilation by winning the mile relay, but the Wolverines' team strength is adequately expressed by seven second places as compared to two such scores for Illinois.

Young struck the high note of the afternoon when he ran 100 yards in 9.5 seconds, the best time in his career, and a mark only one-tenth of a second off the world record. This tied the meet record but was disallowed because of a favoring west wind.

Ben Harvey of Purdue trailed Young by four yards in the 100 yard dash and this was the order of finish later in the 220, where Buddy visibly eased up in the last few strides and still was timed in :21.2. The conservation of energy was without profit, however, for Buddy was unable to beat Elroy Hirsch of Michigan in the broad jump.

Hirsch Evens Score.

On his first trial Hirsch, who had a later date to pitch for the Michigan baseball team against Ohio State, cleared 24 feet 2¼ inches. Young's best in his series of trips from the track to the jumping pit was 23 feet 2½ inches. Hirsch might have touched 25 feet on his winning effort save that he sat down after landing. Hirsch was second to Young in the Big Ten indoor championships in March.

Young's disappointment, however, was assuaged by an astounding 440 yard contribution in the mile relay. This was his first quarter mile in competition.

Buddy ran the third lap and was preceded by Marce Gonzalez and Dick Young. Bob Ufer, running second for the Wolverines, finished two yards in front of Dick Young. Buddy overtook Dick Forrestel, Michigan's third man, and gave Capt. Bob Kelley a three yard lead for the anchor leg. Kelley soundly trounced Michigan's Willis Glas. The winning time was 3:21.7.

Humes High Scorers.

The Hume twins, Bob and Ross, bulwarked Michigan's scoring with 16 points as they ran dead heats in the mile and two miles. In the former event, which opened the competition, they breasted the string in 4:19.1, less than a second off the meet record. Kelley of Illinois, running the mile for the second time in his life, was 30 yards back.

The Humes also had no difficulty in the two mile in which third and fourth places went to Purdue.

Michigan Wins Over Ohio, 5-0, on One Hitter

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 13 [Special].—Behind the one hit pitching of Elroy Hirsch, the University of Michigan baseball team won the second game of a two game series with Ohio State here today, 5 to 0, to remain unbeaten in Big Ten competition. The Wolverines have now won four straight in the conference.

Hirsch, who a few minutes before had upset Claude [Buddy] Young of Illinois in the broad jump of a triangular track meet, allowed Don Grate the only Buckeye hit, a single in the first inning. Hirsch struck out three men and walked four.

The second game resulted in a pitching duel between Bill Zeman of Northwestern and Eugene Siefert of Indiana. Neither team threatened until the last of the seventh when, after two were out, Bob Greuter beat out an infield hit and scored on Bob Lindberg's double to deep center. Scores:

CUBS OBLIGE PHILS AND BILL LEE WITH 6TH INNING FLOP; LOSE, 6-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's dazed Cubs lurched to their 15th trimming of the season yesterday, the treatment again being administered by the temporarily gay Phillies, who, by taking the final, also won the series by a 3 and 1 margin. The score of this latest setback was 6 to 2, the eighth placers failing to contribute much more than a marked deficiency of hitting, fielding, and pitching.

To make it more aggravating, the job was done on the cellar tenants by one of the numerous Cubs now employed elsewhere. In this case it was Bill Lee, who was traded to the Phillies last season. Yesterday big Bill gave no indication he was disturbed by the transfer. He turned out a seven hitter, having little trouble on his hands except in the fourth inning when he suddenly found himself on the light end of a 2 to 0 count. His mates weren't long getting him out of his uncomfortable position.

Cubs Felled in Sixth.

Hank Wyse, producer of one of the Cubs' two victories this year, accumulated his fourth defeat, altho he did handsomely by himself for quite a stretch. He was good enough to confound the Phils with a one hit performance for four innings, but this apparently exhausted his supply of tricks. He was slapped for the two tying runs in the fifth. After a combination of hits, errors, and a pass in the sixth he was excused. By the time Bill Fleming quieted the flurry, four runs were over, two of them being forced in by the rescuer's wildness.

In another attempt to discover a winning combination, Boss Grimm permitted Lou Novikoff to make his 1944 debut in left field, but the jovial, rotund Russian enjoyed only the exercise. He was up four times and failed to hit safely, altho he did escape the added embarrassment of grounding into a double play. Lee saved him from this with a bad throw.

Nicholson's Bat Silent.

At that, the Russian wasn't much worse than Bill [Cleanup] Nicholson, whose bat wielding netted only a pass, making the third successive inning in which the first batter survived. But this inning, the fourth, proved different, altho the pleasure was shortlived. Nicholson went to second on a wild pitch, to third on Dom Dallessandro's fly, and home on Tony York's single to left. Len Merullo also hit a single on which York took third. But he didn't stay there, thanks to a mistake by Merullo. Len overran first base and was run down, but only after York had crossed the plate.

Wyse gave up his first pass to Tony Lupien with one out in the fifth and this proved all the encouragement the Phillies needed. Bob Finley sent Novikoff waddling after a two base hit into the left field corner, Lupien scoring. Ted Cieslak drove a double that gave Dallessandro some leg work, Finley sprinting home. Wyse revived in time to set down the next two batters, but the revival was only momentary.

It's Good-by, Wyse.

More trouble for Wyse started when Ford Mullen pushed a bunt past him at the start of the sixth, Elvin Adams following with the customary sacrifice. Novikoff then went on another tour, this time in search of a double by Jim Wasdell, Mullen scoring. Ron Northey's fly to Dallessandro was long enough to give Wasdell time to go to third. He scored on Lupien's scratch hit to Don Johnson, whose poor throw enabled Lupien to reach second.

Grief piled up when Bill Holm's error on Finley's third strike permitted the batter to reach base. A pass to Cieslak filled the bases and Wyse went away, Fleming coming in and being such a generous rescuer that he walked Ray Hamrick and Lee, forcing in two runs.

The Dodgers will open with a double header today and the Cubs will greet them with Claude Passeau and Hy Vandenberg. Bob Chipman and Fritz Ostermueller will start for Brooklyn.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—The White Sox tonight scored two runs with two out in the ninth without the aid of their main weapon, the squeeze play, but, nevertheless, lost to the sparkling Washington Senators, 12 to 2, before a ladies' night crowd estimated at 15,000.

Bill Dietrich, who pitched the Sox into the first division on a four hitter in Detroit last Sunday, had a mathematical chance to put the Sox back in the top half tonight—but proved the main reason they plunked into sixth place instead.

Kuhel Leads Senators Attack.

The Senators made 10 hits and six runs in the first two innings off Dietrich, then proceeded to plaster Johnny Humphries for six runs on nine hits in the next five innings. Don Hanski finished without giving the Senators a much desired 20th safe one.

Joe Kuhel, former White Sox, led the Senator attack with a triple, two doubles and a single in his first four times at bat.

Roger Wolff, who as an Athletic last season whipped the Sox three of the four defeats the Sox suffered at the hands of the Philadelphians last season, was in command all the way, and the runs in the ninth were made thru obvious ennui over his pushover assignment.

The Sox made seven hits in all, two singles by Le Roy Schalk, a double by Curtright in the ninth, a double by Thurman Tucker in the second, a single and a triple by Wally Moses and a double by Tony Cuccinello. Skeeter Webb and Hal Trosky, helpless under the lights in Philadelphia last night, were similarly hamstrung tonight, as was Mike Tresh.

Humphries Takes Over.

The Senators gave Dietrich a rather harsh going over in the first inning, tho the session could have been a bit worse. Jake Powell opened with a hit to short left, but was out at second when he mistook his effort for a double. Glenn Myatt bounced to Dietrich. Then Roberto Ortiz lined a single to center and scored on Stan Spence's double against the right field sign board. Joe Kuhel punched a double into a widely uncovered area in left field, Spence scoring. Hillies Layne flied to Moses.

In the second inning the Senators eased up on the extra base hits, being content to pepper Dietrich with six line singles, not one of them a fluke, before Manager Dykes decided Dietrich didn't have his stuff and sent in Humphries. These singles had four runs home and runners on third and first when Humphries took over. Layne, ninth batsman in the inning, flied to Tucker.

Humphries in the third readily revealed he was little better than Dietrich. Mik Guerra opened with his second single and went to third when Johnny Sullivan also bashed his No. 2 single. Wolff popped to Webb, but Powell walked, loading the bases. Gilberto Torres, who had replaced Myatt at second, doubled to left, scoring Guerra and Sullivan. Powell, however, again was a victim of a throw by Curtright, this time being sunk at third. Ortiz was hit by a pitched ball but Spence generously ended the side by flying to Curtright.

Kuhel Doubles Again.

The Sox continued to look ridiculous in the fourth. Kuhel opened up with his third hit, a double to center and ran on toward third, apparently just to kid his old mates. He got to third when Schalk's throw hit him. The Sox argued that Joe had confused Webb by throwing his arms high into the air. When the debate ended Kuhel still was on third, whence he scored on Layne's double to center. The fourth ball to Guerra was a wild pitch, Layne reaching third. Layne scored on Sullivan's fly, then Wolff mercifully tapped into a double play.

Sox Finally Stop Kuhel.

Humphries retired the side in the fifth but with one out in the sixth Kuhel tripled to center, his fourth straight hit and his third extra baser. Layne was hit by a pitched ball and was forced by Guerra, Kuhel scoring the 11th Washington run. Sullivan forced Guerra.

The Sox finally stopped Kuhel in the seventh, but not until the Senators had produced a run on three singles. In the ninth Curtright doubled and got home on flies by Trosky and Tucker. Moses tripled and got home on Johnny Sullivan's error.

Pep to Begin Workouts for Coliseum Bout

Both are scheduled to open light workouts in the South Annex gymnasium in the Coliseum this afternoon.

Pep will be making his Chicago debut in the impending match. It will be the Hartford boxer's fourth start since being given a medical discharge from the navy three months ago. YACHTSMEN GET BOATS READY FOR 1944 CAMPAIGN

With three of every 10 Chicagoland yachtsmen in the services, at least nine out of every 10 local yachts still will be in commission this summer judging from activities at the leading boat yards on the north and south branches of the Chicago river. The annual spring paint and repair season has reached its peak and from now until mid-June the eight yacht harbors from Jackson park to Wilmette will be filled with sail and power craft.

The same number of races will be held this season as in pre-war years, altho fewer entries are expected. No power boat races will be held, the last being in 1941.

Under Same Restrictions.

The same restrictions on gasoline for power boats are being applied by the OPA as last year, and no new marine hardware of large size is yet on the market. Construction of 60,000 landing craft is taking all the output of the boat builders and marine engine makers.

Many local power yachts are being returned to their owners by the coast guard, after being in service in gray paint since the time of Pearl Harbor. Most of the craft were volunteered by their owners, for which the government paid them at the rate of $1 a year. Chicago cruisers have patroled harbors on the Atlantic, Gulf, and Great Lakes ever since 1942, but the majority of local craft were employed in and around their home port.

First to Be Accepted.

Edward W. Shepherd's 50 foot cruiser, Caroline, is one of the largest yachts to be returned to its owner here. The twin-motored craft was one of the first to be taken over by the coast guard, because it was powered by Diesel engines. It was equipped with elaborate navigating instruments, installed and used by Shepherd before the war.

WINS FIRST YACHT RACE

Newell [Jim] Knight Jr., 16 year old junior commodore of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, yesterday defeated six other skippers, most of them older, to win the club's first race of the 1944 season. All other local yacht clubs begin to tune up racing next Saturday or the following Saturday.

Skipper Knight sailed the 18 foot Arrow class sloop Scoter to first place with an elapsed time of 2 hours, 49 minutes, and 30 seconds for the three mile triangular course.

GOLF SCHOOL IN FINAL STAGE AS 3D CLASS NEARS

Lessons Tomorrow and Friday Will End It.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 12th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, in conjunction with the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, tomorrow night will enter the second and final week of its 1944 career with the happy knowledge that its aggregate attendance since the plan's beginning in 1933 has now reached 432,500.

In the first 11 years of this largest and oldest system of free group instruction in the history of the ancient sport, a total of 414,500 lessons in the fundamentals of golf were given to men, women, and children of Chicagoland by the members of the Illinois section. Last Monday, the elements put on a typical performance obviously aimed at thwarting students who wished to come out to the four courses of the Chicago park district. In spite of a day long siege of rain, however, 4,000 pupils turned out, as did a substantial number of professionals, who were yielding their regular day off in order to conduct the classes.

Keep Instructors Overtime.

The weather man then relented for Friday's second lesson, presenting the school with one of the finest nights it ever has enjoyed. Not only did 14,000 golf minded citizens report for class, but kept plying their instructors with questions for an extra hour. The Diversey lesson, where the faculty included Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the section; Jerry Cooke of Edgewater; Lew Waldron of Keller's Fairways, and Storekeeper 1st Class Howard Atten of the navy, were unable to leave their students until 9:10 p. m.

The final two lessons will be devoted to teachings on the swing, with special emphasis on curing that old tee malady—the slice. The third of the series will be held tomorrow night on the four park district courses, with the fourth and last scheduled for the same hour—7:15 o'clock—on Friday evening. The P. G. A. members have promised, for the benefit of those latecomers who may have missed the first two classes, to include tips on the grip, the stance, and the address, points which were discussed in the first two lessons last week.

Wanted to Know How.

Pvt. Chick Harbert of the Air WAC recruiting office; Eddie Bush of Oak Park, secretary treasurer of the Illinois section, and Machinists' Mate Herb Johnson, formerly of Butterfield, were the shot making demonstrators on Friday's class.

All of the four park district courses are easily reached by rapid transit, surface lines and motor coaches. Their locations are: Columbus, Jackson blvd. and Central av.; Diversey, in Lincoln park at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd.; Jackson, just east of 63d st. and Stony Island av., and Marquette, Kedzie av. and Marquette rd.

FREE LESSONS ON HOW TO CURE SLICE

Pupils at The Tribune's 12th annual free golf school, which enters its second and final week tomorrow, look on as at Jackson park Pvt. Chick Harbert, long hitting Michigan pro, shows Dorothy Jackson how to grip a driver and cure a slice.

Negro Giants, Memphis Sox to Meet Today

A double header in the Negro American league race brings together the Chicago American Giants and Memphis Red Sox in Comiskey park this afternoon at 1:30. Other league bills today pair the Indianapolis-Cincinnati Clowns and Cleveland Buckeyes in Cleveland and Kansas City Monarchs and Birmingham Black Barons in Birmingham.

Memphis has an array of stars that includes Neil Robinson, home run champion of the circuit in 1939 and 1940, in center field; Catcher Larry Brown, Infielders Fred Bankhead and Red Longley, Outfielders Fred McDaniels and Holland Hyde, and two of the best pitchers in Negro baseball in Verdel Mathis, left hander, and Porter Moss, veteran right hander.

The American Giants, runners-up to Birmingham for the league crown last season, have been strengthened by obtaining the services of Lefty McKinnis, crack southpaw pitcher, and Catcher Harry Jeffries this week in trades with Birmingham and the Clowns. McKinnis and Gentry Jessup are slated for today's starting pitching chores, opposed by Mathis and Moss.

All service men or women in uniform will be admitted free.

Johnny Ryan to Bid for Victory Over Simmons

Johnny Ryan, Detroit welterweight, will be in quest of revenge when he faces Robert Simmons of Indianapolis in an eight round return bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

Simmons conquered John in a previous meeting in the Marigold arena last Aug. 2. Ryan defeated Jack Gaines of Cleveland last month. Prior to that achievement he fought to a draw with Jack Eaton in the Coliseum on April 21, and beat Al Jackson in Chicago Stadium March 31.

Robert Earl, 1941 city Golden Gloves lightweight champion, will seek his fourth straight knockout at the expense of Pvt. Dave Bruce of Baer field, Ind., in a six round semi-windup on the card.

Fight to Save Olympia for Golf Is Told

The story of how members of Olympia Fields Country club, one of the best known golf plants in the world, are making a thus far successful fight to maintain their property as a golf club is presented today for the first time.

The club filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy on Dec. 31, 1943. Immediately a number of bids were made for the property, to be used for purposes other than golf. Members formed a reorganization committee, headed by W. E. Crocombe, which submitted a plan for maintenance of the club on a new basis. Federal Judge John P. Barnes approved the plan at a special hearing on May 5, and set June 20 for the date of a hearing for confirmation of the court's decision.

340 Acres Would Be Sold.

Under the new plan, approximately 340 of the club's present 667 acres would be offered for sale. The No. 4 championship course, regarded as one of the finest in the game, would remain as is. Another 18 holes would be formed by readjustment of those holes on the Nos. 1, 2, and 3 courses which are not involved in the property sale. This would give the club a total playing complement of 36 holes. The accompanying map shows how this new course would be formed, with the canceled numbers indicating the original holes as they stood on the old three courses.

In addition to Judge Barnes' approval, the reorganization plan also is progressing favorably on other counts. Two hundred and forty members already have paid $44,800 in assessments and have subscribed for $200,000 in bonds. They have until next Friday to make up the total sum—$300,000. Membership under the new setup would be restricted to 500 members.

Amended Plan Summarized.

A summary of the amended plan of reorganization for Olympia Fields follows:

1. The present mortgage on the property securing the 4 per cent first mortgage bonds is to be canceled.

2. The club is to receive unencumbered title to approximately 327 acres of land comprising [a] all of the present No. 4 golf course, [b] parts of the present Nos. 1, 2, and 3 courses, which will enable a new 18 hole course to be laid out using holes already built, [c] the land occupied by the terrace colony and [d] the land occupied by the clubhouse, parking lot, swimming pool, tennis courts, etc. The buildings, swimming pool, and other improvements are also to be cleared of incumbrances. The club is to have perpetual access to its property thru the present roadway from Western av.

3. The first mortgage bondholders are to be paid half of the face amount of their bonds in cash. For the other half of the face amount, and for the unpaid accrued interest [4 per cent for 1937, 4 per cent for 1938, and 2 per cent for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1943], they are to receive certificates of beneficial interest in a trust to be created. The cash payment and receipt of the certificates of beneficial interest will constitute full satisfaction of the claims of the first mortgage bondholders. This trust is to receive title to all of the land not turned over to the club and which approximates 340 acres.

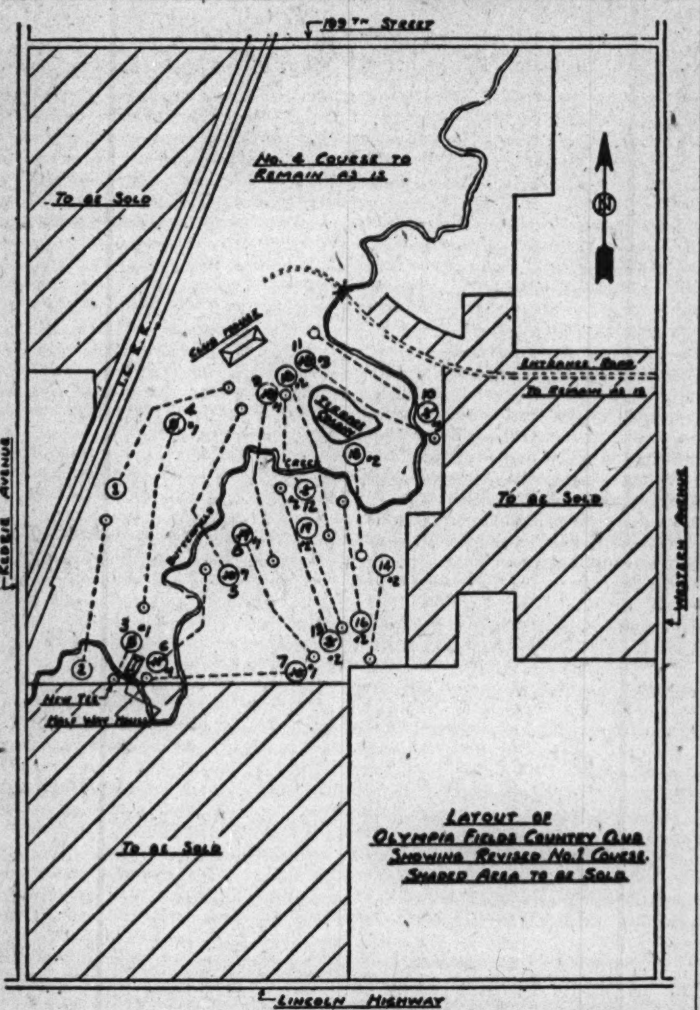
4. The property in the trust is to be sold within five years [subject to an extension of two years, unless the majority of the holders of the beneficial interest certificates vote against such an extension]. Whenever, and as often as, enough of the trust property has been sold to make available sufficient funds for a 5 per cent payment on the certificates of beneficial interest, such a distribution is to be made. All sales are to be approved by the Hon. John P. Barnes, judge of the United States District court. The club is to have no interest in or obligation to the trust.

5. The debenture noteholders are to be paid, as final satisfaction of their claims, 25 per cent [25%] of the face amount of their debentures.

6. To provide for the cash payments to the first mortgage bondholders and the debenture noteholders, and for working capital, it will be necessary for the club to raise approximately $300,000. The club may raise this in any manner it sees fit, including assessments, sales of notes to its members, loans secured by mortgage on the unencumbered property turned over to it, sale of surplus property, reduction of inventory, sales of new memberships, etc. In the event a mortgage is placed on the property of the club, it must provide for substantial amortization.

7. The club is to have the use of the present No. 1 golf course for the years 1944 and 1945. As consideration for such use the club is to pay all of the real estate taxes for the years 1943, 1944, and 1945 on the property turned over to the trust. In the event the trust has made no sales of property at the time the 1946 real estate taxes are payable, the club is to advance the money necessary to pay them, and will be reimbursed for such advance out of future sales of property by the trust. No interest is to be allowed on such advance.

3 IN 1 AT OLYMPIA



The above diagram indicates the manner in which the reorganization committee of Olympia Fields Country club members proposes to convert courses Nos. 1, 2, and 3 into a single 18 hole layout in maintaining the property as a golf club.

The No. 4 championship course would remain unchanged. The proposed sale of 340 of the club's 667 acres would necessitate readjustment of those holes on the Nos. 1, 2, and 3 courses not involved in the property sale.

The shaded area indicates the property to be sold. The circled numbers not canceled indicate the numbers of the greens on the proposed new layout not effected by the change. The circled numbers which are canceled indicate the numbers of greens under the old setup, and the numbers outside of the circle which have no dot at the left indicate the number of the green which they will become on the new 18 hole layout. The numbers with a dot at the upper left indicate the number of the course of which the green previously was a part.

LOSE CATCHING STAFF.

NOW'S TIME FOR ANGLERS TO FILL THEIR SKILLETS

BY BOB BECKER.

That old slogan about fishing for relaxation [when you can] but don't forget the skillet after you catch a mess of fish, again will hold good this summer, for fish in the markets are neither cheap nor plentiful. Already it's noticeable how anglers are taking their fish home for table use. And if they have a surplus of white bass, bluegills, pike or other fish that taste good after a sizzling contact with the frying pan, they are seeing that this valuable food is utilized by friends.

Tomorrow several species of fish in the middle west are going to find that their long days of being unmolested by fellows with rods and reels and lures are at an end, because it marks the opening of fishing for walleyed pike, northern pike, crappies and several other species in the state of Wisconsin.

Muskie Season Opens.

Minnesota also turns on the green light for fishermen who want those species. And it also becomes legal to catch muskies in Minnesota starting tomorrow. Wisconsin does not open its muskie season until May 25. Trout fishermen who usually go to Wisconsin also may begin their splashing around in the streams tomorrow because the 1944 season starts.

The pike fishermen will be scattered all over the middle west starting this week-end. Some of them will hunt the walleyes in lakes not far from Madison, Wis. Both northerns and walleyes will be busy dodging lures [if they can] in Lake Koshkonong. The white bass are in that neck of the woods, too, for they stage a run in Rock river. Farther north in Wisconsin the pike fishermen will be scattered thru many counties, for Wisconsin has scores of good walleye lakes.

Like Their Pike.

One of the largest turnouts of pike fishermen to be found anywhere in the middle west occurs at this time of the year in Minnesota. In a normal year just about every fisherman up there who can get away for a day or two goes after this popular fish which may not be long on fight but is very definitely on the long side when it reaches the table cooked a crisp brown. We doubt if there is any common fresh water game fish held in such high esteem for table use as the common walleye or pike perch.

In Canada the first fishermen of the year will be tossing spoons and plugs for walleyes. Early in the season when the walleye stays close to the surface you can have a lot of fun with them by casting artificial lures. We have taken them on pork chunks with a spinner in the Nipigon river, and on spoons and with plugs from many different lakes and streams in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ontario. We recall one evening in Wisconsin when we picked up several with a fly and tiny spinner.

Can Use Lures.

To get the maximum amount of sport with this widely distributed fish the ideal setup would be to play around with good sized fish so they would put a little strain on the tackle, or else catch them on a fly rod in a pretty swift river. We use a tubular steel fly rod whenever we can get a mess of walleyes so we may enjoy a little more of scrap with this quiet well behaved species.

Major League Contests Top Soccer Card

BY OFFSIDE.

Two games headline today's 20 game schedule as all circuits attempt to make up some of the games postponed by weather in the last two weeks. Today's top contests find the Sweres clashing with the Vikings in Yates stadium, 82d st. and Yates av., and the Guisti-Italians facing the Hakoah-Centers at 2600 W. Grand av.

The Vikings, who have dropped three straight games without scoring a goal, hope to end the streak altho pitted against a club that has played spectacular ball all spring. The Swedes will make one change in the starting lineup, replacing Einer Pearson, star half back, who is on the sick list.

Vikings Lose Hritz.

The remainder of the lineup includes Einer Johnson, Stid Larson, Billy Fraser, and Tommy Reilly. The Vikings will be without Sailor Andy Hritz, who has been transferred from Northwestern university, and will have Manager Jocke Johanasen back in his old position as goalie.

The battle between the Italians and Hakoahs looms as one of the best of the spring schedule and will have considerable bearing on the chances of the Hakoahs in the title race. The Italians gave the league leading Necaxas a stiff fight a week ago.

LINCOLN FIELDS SPRING MEET TO BEGIN TUESDAY

Open 29 Days of Racing at Hawthorne.

The Chicago racing scene shifts Tuesday from the bright little half mile establishment at Sportsman's Park, where for the last two weeks the patrons of thorobred competition displayed such a carefree attitude that all records for wagering at the Cicero plant were shattered, to the regulation mile track at Hawthorne, just across the way.

There the Lincoln Fields Jockey club will open a 29 day meeting, the second away from its home grounds in Crete, and Matt J. Winn, executive director of the organization, has arranged a meeting which promises to be one of the best in the history of the club. Winn has kept intact all the stake features of recent seasons, six $5,000 added events being listed, ranging from the Joliet stakes for 2 year olds to the Lincoln handicap for 3 year olds and up, a race which is expected to drew some of the fastest horses in the country.

Crete Has 34 Nominees.

Thirty-four thorobreds have been nominated for the first stakes fixtures, the Crete handicap, which will be run next Saturday. Among the candidates are John Marsch's two brilliant racing brothers, Occupation, and the 2 year old champion money winner of 1943, Occupy.

The second of the stake races is the Joliet, scheduled for the second Saturday, but the biggest day of the meeting, Decoration day, will see the running of the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap for 3 year olds and up at a mile and a sixteenth. The other stakes on the calendar are the Steger handicap, Saturday, June 3; the La Salle handicap Saturday, June 10, and then the Lincoln at a mile and a quarter on Saturday, June 17, the final day of the meeting.

Challenge Me to Run.

No purse will be less than $1,200 this season, and some of the best racing stables in the middle west have been attracted, including the Brolite farm which races Challenge Me, the winner of the Arkansas Derby and one of the pre-race favorites to win the Kentucky Derby.

Waukegan's double defeat dropped it to third place behind Evanston. The new second place holders have won four of seven games, with three more to be played, while Waukegan has split even in six games, with four remaining on the schedule.

New Trier and Proviso, holders of fifth and sixth places respectively in the six team league, held their positions by splitting a double header in Winnetka. New Trier won the first game, 6 to 5, but lost the second, 9 to 8.

ever, when the stewards later announced the suspension for the balance of the meeting of Trainer L. J. Wilson and Groom C. G. Allison on a report to the Illinois racing board from the state chemist that a saliva test of Mrs. Emick's Five A. M., winner of a race last Thursday, had been found positive.

The day's wagering started auspiciously when $153,270 was handled on the first two races, $32,540 of which went into the daily double pool. Lookout Rascal, owned by the Silver Star stock farm, took the first half and Mrs. J. A. Nix's Hy-Trite won the second for a return of $31.40 to the double bettors.

The third race was won by Mrs. A. M. Creech's Hollyman and the fourth by Mrs. E. E. Major's Ballinderry.

Pena Wins Only One.

In the fifth, the afternoon's secondary feature for a purse of $1,500, J. H. Miles' Rush Act scored a two length victory over Mrs. T. M. Pruett's King Epithet. Ballyarnett took the show money.

Marcos Pena, the track's leading jockey, scored his first and only victory of the day aboard Stop Harping in the seventh race.

Air Raider won the final event and returned $22.20, the longest price of the afternoon.

The meeting closes tomorrow with an eight race program headed by the $2,500 National Jockey club handicap, a mile and five furlongs event for older horses.

YANKEE PLAYER DEFERRED; RULE HE'S ESSENTIAL

New York, May 13 [Special].—For the first time since conscription started, a baseball player has been rated in an essential occupation. Oscar Ray Grimes Jr., New York Yankees' utility infielder, today received a card from his draft board in Lakewood, O., reclassifying him from 3-A [deferred because of dependents] to 2-A [deferred because of essential civilian activity]. He was 27 one month ago.

In the recent meeting of state selective service directors, a national order was issued deferring essential men over 26—with local boards being given full discretion for interpretation of essential activities beyond the 35 occupations promulgated originally.

NED DAY ADDS TO LEAD OVER ADOLPH CARLSON

West Allis, Wis., May 13 [Special].—Ned Day continued his rout of Chicago's Adolph Carlson in their 54-game $2,000 bowling match tonight as Ned, performing on his home alleys, shot a nine-game total of 1,966 to Carlson's 1,746. The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS

SEVEN Chicago major softball teams already have secured franchises in the North Town league, Mel Thillens, president of the organization, reports. Teams in the fold include Douglas Aircraft, North Town Currency Exchange, Stanton Park Indians, Johnny's Blue Room, North Town Vaults, Irv Oakes, and Rookery club.

The league will operate on a six night schedule, playing its games under the lights in the North Town stadium, Devon and Kedzie avs., which Thillens [and other softball enthusiasts as well] boasts is one of the finest softball layouts in Chicago. Teams interested in joining the league may get additional information by phoning the head man at Sheldrake 5140.

Four New Teams Listed in Division St. Softball League.

With four new industries to replace a quartet which dropped out because of a shortage of young players, the Division Street Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league of eight teams is all set for its opening Wednesday night, May 24, in Weber park. The eight teams are Eichor Incorporated, Hammond Instrument, Thordarson Electric, Edward Katzinger Co., Milled Screw Products, Bendix Aviation, Poster Products, and Simpson Optical Co. The last four are the new members.

The league will play a split season, double round robin schedule, with the leader for the first half of the summer meeting the second half winner in a post-season championship game. The top three teams in the city league will qualify for the city-wide Y. M. C. A. tournament. Last season Eicor and Thordarson finished one-two in the Division league and the latter also gained the runner-up spot in the city play-offs.

Barak to Run League; Earns Promotion at Katzingers.

Steve Barak, former physical director of the Division Street Y. and now a superintendent at Katzingers, again will be in charge of the league. There will be team trophies for the industries whose representatives finish first, second, third, and fourth and individual awards for members of the champion and runner-up teams. In addition, a team sportsmanship award is being offered by Jim McDonald, manager of Weber park and the league batting champion will get a special trophy. Last year this was won by Bill Kutnick of Thordarsons, with a lusty .610 average.

Organizers

Roy F. Healy (left) has been named executive director of the Industrial Amateur Golf association. Melvin Thillens (right) is president of the North Town Softball league.

Mention of Barak reminds us that the big fellow, long a leader in Chicago industrial athletics thru his Y. M. C. A. connections, recently earned a promotion at Katzingers. He went there last October as director of recreation but now is listed as safety director and first floor superintendent, a job which puts him in charge of several departments.

Old Timers Win Practice Game, 12 to 0; Not Ready Yet!

Ray Quaglia has taken over as the director of recreation and is carrying on the extensive program which Steve started. This includes, in addition to a six team softball league, such activities as tennis, pinochle and checkers tournaments now in progress, a fishing club which will organize share-the-ride trips for members and provide prizes for the largest catch of the season, and a mixed splash party in Blackhawk park May 27.

The teams in the softball league include 20 Millimeter Brass, 40 Millimeter Brass [both named after shells which the Katzinger plant produces], Office, Millwrights, A. & J. Press, and Broken Downs. The last named is made uf of old timers, with Barak as captain and in a recent practice game beat the youngsters from 20 Millimeter Brass, 12 to 0. The Broken Downs hope to be going strong by the time the regular season opens late this month.

THE INDUSTRIAL AMATEUR GOLF association, started last year by Claud S. Gordon as a hobby, has made such an expansion that the organizer had to choose between his brain child and the Claud S. Gordon Metallurgical Engineering company. He is president of both concerns but he and George Kane, a member of his organization and secretary of the I. A. G. A., found the sports organization was taking more and more of their time, with indications that it still was far from the peak.

Therefore it was decided there was need of a full time director of the golf association and Gordon yesterday announced that Roy F. Healy had been engaged as executive director of the I. A. G. A. Healy has a background as an engineer and safety director, with a wide acquaintance among Chicago civic organizations, business men's associations and service clubs. For the time being he will make his headquarters in the Gordon offices, 3000 S. Wallace st., Chicago, 16, phone Victory 6525.

Believes Goal of 300 Teams Will Be Reached This Year.

It is Healy's belief that the size of the I. A. G. A. will be restricted only by the time element, which will permit him to contact only a limited number of teams. He thinks the goal of 100 industries from each of the three districts into which the city has been divided should be attained without a great deal of trouble.

As an example of the expansion of the association, there's the matter of representation from plants in Waukegan and the far north shore area. Last year, three of the 20 teams which competed in the tournament were from this section. Last week, after a preliminary organization meeting in Waukegan, Frank Ogrin Jr., captain of the American Steel & Wire company's Waukegan works team, which won the Gordon trophy in 1943, said he expects to have 30 teams lined up from that vicinity this spring, including six from his own organization.

Of course, the industrial golfers will have a much more attractive program this year than last, when the September tournament was the only competition on the schedule.

Wrisley Team Takes All Honors in Clearing Bowling League.

The Clearing Industrial Bowling league completed its schedule last week, the team championship going to the Wrisley Olivilo five, which finished with a wide margin over American Gear and American Generators, with H. P. Smith, Johnson Suture, Johnson Gas Masks, Chateau Du Parc-Wrisley and American Airlines completing the field.

NEW TRIER WINS DISTRICT TRACK WITH 74 POINTS

Table of Points

New Trier	74	Highland Park	9
Evanston	44	Lake Forest	8
Maine	43	Libertyville	1
Waukegan	12	Barrington	1

New Trier High school of Winnetka, one of the top ranking high school track teams in the state, won the Evanston district meet yesterday in Evanston to qualify for the state finals next Friday and Saturday in Champaign.

Tommy Boswell of Evanston, who had turned in the best times in preliminary meets up to yesterday for the 100 and 220 yard dashes, won both and clipped one-tenth of a second from his previous 220 yard best time of :22.1. His time for the 100 yard dash was :10 seconds, one-tenth of a second slower than his best competitive time. Boswell was the only two event winner.

The first two finishers in each event automatically qualified for the state meet, while others who showed better than the qualifying time, height or distance standards as set up by the championship meet officials, also qualified. Thus the first three in the pole vault, five in the 440 yard dash, and all six relay teams bettered the state standards to enter next week-end's meet.

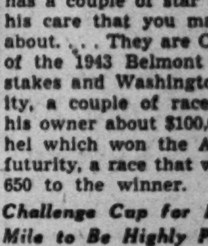
BREEZING ALONG

JAMAICA handled more money during its recent 25 day meeting than it did in two meets last year. . . . The total mutuel play was $50,933,391, a daily average of $2,037,335, a world record. . . . 665,502 people saw the ponies race for an average of 26,620 per day. . . . The state of New York's share of revenue was $3,302,604. . . . This compares with $2,166,461 collected in 1943. . . . Jockey Eddie Arcaro who rode Stir Up in the Kentucky Derby, says he has no excuses for not winning the big race. . . . "We just ran out of wind," explained Eddie. . . . Red Pollard, the jockey who used to ride Seabiscuit when the horse was the world's leading money winner, rode his first winner since 1942 the other day at Narragansett Park. . . . Pollard resumed riding after being inactive almost two years ago because of injuries. Joe Notter, the former star rider who rode Regret to victory in the 1915 Kentucky Derby, is vacationing at Belmont Park. . . . Notter is now employed in a war plant in New York. . . . Regret was the only filly ever to win the big race.



John Marsch.

John Marsch Stable One of Best at Hawthorne Track.

One of the strongest stables to compete at the Lincoln Fields meeting which wil lstart on Tuesday at Hawthorne is that owned by John Marsch, local contractor. . . . The string is led by Occupation, leading 2 year old money winner in 1942. . . . The 4 year old colt, one of the fastest sprinters in the business, is eligible for most of the Lincoln Fields stake and handicap events, and has also been nominated for the Arlington Park Classic, and American Derby. . . . Burley Parke, trainer of the Marsch string, also has a couple of star 3 year olds in his care that you may have heard about. . . . They are Occupy, winner of the 1943 Belmont Park futurity stakes and Washington Park futurity, a couple of races that earned his owner about $100,000, and Jezrahel which won the Arlington Park futurity, a race that was worth $48,650 to the winner.

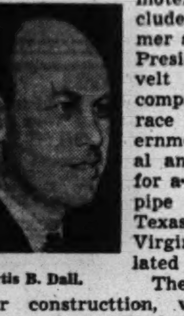
Challenge Cup for Equipoise Mile to Be Highly Prized.

Arlington Park's newest trophy, one destined to be among the most highly prized in American racing, is the challenge cup which Col. C. V. Whitney is presenting for the Equipoise Mile, the race named in honor of his great horse, Equipoise, holder of the world's record for one mile. . . . The record, 1:34 2-5, was established at Arlington Park in 1932. Whitney is having an artist prepare the design which may include a gold replica of Equipoise's shoes, showing the unusual location of the nail holes, necessary because of the horse's bad foot. . . . The challenge cup must be won three times by the same owner to be permanently retired, but each winning owner will receive a replica from the Arlington Park Jockey club.

HOW HOPE GAS LOST PIPE LINE RACE REVEALED

Dall Group Granted Priorities First.

French Lick, Ind., May 13 [Special].—How a small group of promoters that included the former son-in-law of President Roosevelt beat other companies in the race to get government approval and priorities for a natural gas pipe line from Texas to West Virginia was related here today.



Curtis B. Dall.

The line, now under construction, will extend from the Corpus Christi, Tex., area to Cornwell, W. Va., a distance of 1,263 miles, and will cost 50 to 55 million dollars. Forty-four millions of the cost is being put up by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Beat Hope Natural Gas.

The story of the pipe line's promotion by a group of small operators of limited financial resources who nosed out the powerful Hope Natural Gas company, affiliated with Standard Oil of New Jersey interests, and other competitors was told by those attending the natural gas conference held here under the auspices of the American Gas association.

Front man and president of the half million dollar company that got government approval for the project was Curtis B. Dall, first husband of Anna Roosevelt Boettiger. Dall is now a lieutenant colonel in the army air forces, stationed in Washington, D. C.

After getting a certificate of necessity for the project from the federal power commission and a commitment for priorities from the war production board, Dall and his associates sold control of their company last September. In payment they received half a million dollars in cash and a 10 per cent interest in a reorganized company that is to build the pipe line. In this deal the Chicago corporation, an investing company with headquarters in Chicago, took over the project. One of the stipulations made by Chicago corporation was that Dall and all his associates resign from the company.

Dall Paid $12,000 a Year.

The organization thru which Dall and his associates promoted the pipe line is Tennessee Gas and Transmission company, now 90 per cent owned by Chicago corporation. Dall was president of the company from April, 1940, until Sept. 20, 1943, when the deal was completed with Chicago corporation. He received a salary of $12,000 a year as president until he entered the army air forces in July, 1942. Thereafter he received $100 a month.

The half million in cash paid Tennessee Gas by Chicago corporation was used to pay debts incurred in promoting the pipe line. Among these was $1,940.27 owed to the Willard hotel in Washington, where company officials stayed while pressing their case before government agencies. Another item was $5,100 paid Dall for "personal service" rendered the company in connection with the promotion. This was in addition to his salary as president. Other expenses included legal and engineering fees.

Also paid off out of the half million was the preferred stock in Tennessee, held by Dall and others. At one time Dall owned 110 shares of the stock, valued at $100 a share, altho he was the owner of record of only 30 shares when the new owners took over.

Dall's Associates Listed.

Dall's associates in the company were the late Victor S. Johnson, president of the Mantle Lamp company of Chicago; Wade Thompson, Tennessee real estate operator; John E. Buckingham, former Tennessee state treasurer, and Harry E. Tower, executive vice president of the company.

Johnson, who died last year, was the owner of a large tract of gas property in Tennessee. Thompson also owned property in the state which he wanted to develop. Their original plan was to build a pipe line from their properties to various cities in the state. Later, they became more ambitious and planned to build a line from Louisiana to the northeastern states. In April, 1940, they incorporated Tennessee Gas and Transmission, and brought Dall in as president. Johnson put up most of the cash for the promotion.

Other interests were also planning to pipe gas from the southwest into the Appalachian area. Early in 1940 Hope Natural Gas appropriated 1 million dollars to start acquisition of a right of way from Louisiana to West Virginia. Late in 1942 Hope filed application with the war production board for priorities on necessary steel pipe. The application was turned down. Similar applications from other groups were also rejected A few months later WPB reversed itself and

Expect Peak Attendance at Clothing Show

Record attendance at the apparel show which opens in Chicago today is expected because of supply shortages. The market showing of fall and winter lines of men's and boys' apparel will run four days. It is sponsored by the Chicago Men's and Boys' Wear group and the Illinois Men's Apparel club.

Exhibits of more than 50 lines have been placed in the Merchandise Mart, the La Salle hotel, and exhibitors' own showrooms. Most lines will be sold on an allotment basis.

Hope for Increased Output.

Manufacturers reported stringencies continue in underwear, shirts, pajamas, children's wear, and work clothes, especially in the lower priced groups. They hoped that conferences under way between government agencies and manufacturers would result in increased output of scarce civilian apparel lines.

Next on the schedule of exhibits this year will be the advance fall showing of women's and children's apparel, including back-to-school wear, from May 21 to 26. More than 800 displays have been planned, to be shown in the Merchandise Mart and the Morrison and La Salle hotels.

Furniture Show in July.

The annual Chicago summer furniture and home furnishings market will be held from July 6 to 15. Approximately 3,000 lines will be shown in the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

The long established Chicago fall market opening, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, will begin July 31. General merchandise, dry goods, holiday wares, 5 cents to $1 items, gifts, artware, novelties, china, glass, pottery, and women's, children's, and infants' apparel will be shown.

Included on the program for the men's and boys' wear showing are a dinner in the Merchants and Manufacturers club of the Merchandise Mart tomorrow and a luncheon Tuesday in the La Salle hotel. Edward Fairchild, midwestern director for the Fairchild publications, will speak on post-war retailing at the luncheon.

WEEK-END SALES FORCE PRICES OF GRAINS LOWER

Selling to lighten commitments over the week-end pushed grain prices lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Rye declined 7/8 to 1 3/8 cents a bushel and wheat 1/8 to 3/4 cent. Oats ended steady to 1/4 cents down, and barley unchanged to 1/4 cent down.

Record business was transacted in rye futures Friday. Sales totaled 22,869,000 bushels, or approximately 5 million bushels above the previous high. Sales of all grain futures were slightly above 33 million bushels, the largest in more than six months. Uncompleted contracts in rye were reduced 908,000 bushels as a result of Friday's operations.

Receipts of wheat at Chicago last week totalled 2,746,000 bushels, of which 2,205,000 bushels were received via lake. The grain, however, is being moved out rapidly, shipments totaling 2,243,000 bushels, including 325,000 bushels via the Illinois waterway. Most of the grain received and shipped is understood to have been government owned and will be distributed for feed purposes.

60 Chicago Area Firms Get 61 New War Orders

Sixty Chicago area companies last week received 61 war contracts valued at $419,000, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, reported yesterday.

AUTO MAKERS' PROFIT MARGIN IS HALVED IN 4 YEARS, SAYS COUNCIL

Detroit, Mich., May 13 (AP).—The automotive council for war production said today in its production review that the profit margin of automotive companies on total sales has been cut in half in the last four years.

"Net income after taxes last year amounted to 4.1 cents per dollar of sales, compared with a profit showing of 8.3 cents in the peace time year of 1940, a survey of 36 automotive vehicle and parts manufacturers discloses," the council said.

"In 1943, total taxes paid by automotive concerns were more than twice as large as net earnings after federal taxes. Out of every $1 of sales, 8.5 cents were paid in taxes. In 1940, for every $1 of net income the tax collector took $1.11, while in 1943, the tax ratio amounted to $2.07 for each dollar of net income."

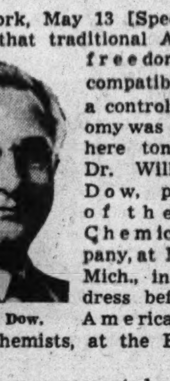
WAR CONTROLS HELD PATH TO FORCED LABOR

Curbs Breed Curbs, Dr. Dow Warns.

New York, May 13 [Special].—A warning that traditional American freedom is incompatible with a controled economy was sounded here tonight by Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical company, at Midland, Mich., in an address before the American Institute of Chemists, at the Biltmore hotel.



Dr. W. H. Dow.

Dr. Dow was presented with the institute's 1944 gold medal for his industrial development of magnesium and styrene.

"We are in an era of controled economy," Dr. Dow asserted. "It is said, and for the purposes of this evening I will grant, that these controls are needed for the war."

Eating on a Schedule.

"One control breeds another," he said. "We have already seen how quickly price control leads to subsidy. And also we are witnessing how price control brings artificial gluts and shortages. Every housewife is becoming a ration coupon speculator and in a measurable time we shall have to eat on a fixed quantity schedule.

"The next step must be forced labor, for in a controled society it is out of the question for the individual to determine either the kind or the amount of labor he will contribute. Then we shall have exactly the same sort of freedom from want and freedom from fear that the lifer enjoys in his cell."

He said that economic control, by its very nature, must be harsh because it involves burocratic discretion and in the end results in depriving the individual of his responsibility and his dignity.

What Is Freedom?

"Freedom is not a condition of life," he said. "It is the absence of a condition of life. The moment we think of it as a condition we recognize, no matter what we may say to the contrary, a superpower which can tell us not only what is and what is not freedom, but also just how and why we must like it.

"We seem to be forgetting that a government cannot grant freedom of religion or speech or enterprise. When we speak of granting or receiving freedom, we exactly reverse the processes of thought that moved those great men—the founding fathers—to evolve for themselves and their posterity—that is for us—the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

A Living Declaration.

"We of America never wrung a Magna Carta from a king," he asserted. "Our forefathers fought and gained the right to think and act for themselves. The Declaration of Independence was a living, fighting thing, and not just a nice resolution casually adopted at a convention.

"We did not derive our freedom from any government. On the contrary, we set up a government and lodged with it only such small parts of our freedom as we thought necessary for the preservation of a reasonable order.

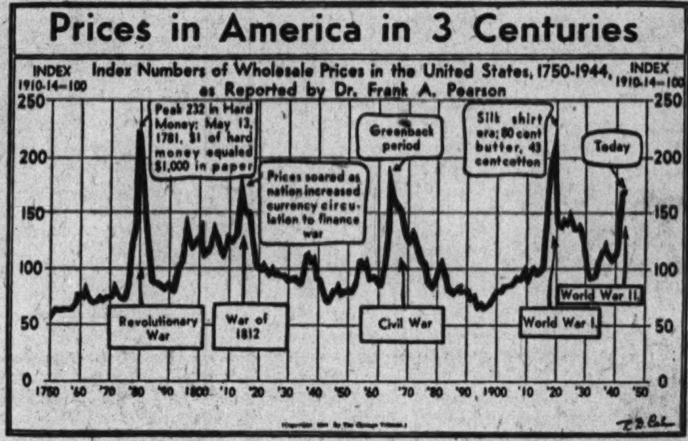
"Our wise fathers were so fearful that even these little trusteeships of freedom might be abused that they delegated supreme power to no man and to no group of men in the fervent hope that no government could ever be established as a thing of itself and apart from the people."

Fawning of Courtiers.

Dr. Dow deplored the fact that many persons today speak of the "government" or of "Washington" as a ruling power.

"There are many who would propitiate that power in much the same way that the courtiers of old are said to have fawned on their monarchs," he said. "Our forefathers simply would not have known how to do that sort of thing."

Dr. Dow warned that in surrendering to government controls we are discarding "all of our experiences, traditions of past prosperity, and our entire knowledge of success with individualism."



Stock Market Closes Mixed in Dull Trade

New York, May 13 (AP).—Selected stocks made a modest advance in today's market but prices in general were irregular.

Altho traders were heartened by the drying up of selling, lightness of demand was a handicap. Transfers of 220,110 shares were the smallest for a short session since Sept. 4. Prices stiffened near the close and the Associated Press 60 stock average finished with a net gain of 0.1 at 51.6. For the week it showed a loss of 0.3.

Ending higher were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Western Union A, United Aircraft, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Southern Pacific, and Northern Pacific. Lower were Goodrich, Great Northern, Westinghouse Electric, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, and Texas company.

Cessna Aircraft on the Curb rose 1 3/8 points to 8 1/4, a peak for 1944, when directors announced a 100 per cent stock dividend.

CHICAGO STOCKS DIP.

Prices again declined moderately on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in quiet trading. Borg-Warner lost 1/2 and Miller & Hart 1/8. Peabody Coal B, the volume leader, gained slightly.

BOND PRICES SLIP.

New York, May 13 (AP).—Declines were fairly numerous in today's bond market but some corporates ended on a higher trend. Argentine liens were higher in the foreign department. United States government issues were steady. Transactions were $2,776,000, against $3,529,000 last Saturday.

PLAN OFFERED TO REORGANIZE BUILDING FIRM

A reorganization plan for the 188 Randolph Building corporation, owner of the 45 story building at the northeast corner of Randolph and Wells streets, erected in 1929, was proposed yesterday by Ben Gold, successor trustee. A hearing on the plan has been set for June 19 before Federal Judge Holly.

The plan provides for the creation of a trust which would acquire and liquidate the property. The trust would issue 35,000 certificates of beneficial interest, without par value, to the holders of the corporation's 3 1/2 million dollar unsubordinated series A bonds.

A commitment for a $300,000 first mortgage 4 per cent loan has been obtained by the trustee from Salk, Ward & Salk, Inc., for the payment of past due taxes. Five per cent certificates of indebtedness would be issued by the trust in payment of fees and compensation in the reorganization proceedings. No participation in the plan is accorded the corporation's other creditors or stockholders.

STEEL UNIONISTS RETAIN FEE FOR INTERNATIONAL

Cleveland, O., May 13 (AP).—The CIO-United Steelworkers of America today left unchanged a constitutional provision under which 75 cents of each member's monthly dues goes into the international organization's treasury.

President Philip Murray said the international's treasury holds more than 3 1/2 million dollars, but added: "I don't think the treasury is full enough. We will need more than that to protect the interests of the union after the war."

Under the union's constitution dues must be at least $1 per month, or which 75 cents are retained by the international and 25 cents are returned to the member's local. The locals are authorized, however, to increase their dues to a maximum of $1.50 a month.

100 PER CENT STOCK DIVIDEND AUTHORIZED BY CESSNA AIRCRAFT

Wichita, Kas., May 13 (AP).—Directors of the Cessna Aircraft company have authorized a 100 per cent stock dividend on the common shares, payable June 30 to holders of record June 15, the company announced today.

Distribution of one new share of common stock for each one of the 350,000 shares outstanding is contingent on approval by stockholders of a recommended increase in authorized common stock from 500,000 shares to 1,500,000 shares at a special meeting June 6.

The proposed stock dividend will partially capitalize the company's earned surplus.

30 TUGBOAT MEN STRIKE; 10 ORE FREIGHTERS IDLE

Cleveland, O., May 13 [Special].—Iron ore shipments to war plants on the Cuyahoga river were at a standstill tonight as 30 members of the Tug Firemen, Linemen and Oilers' Protective association remained on strike.

Three large freighters, moored at the ore docks of Republic Steel corporation and American Steel and Wire company, were stranded when tugmen walked off their jobs yesterday in a dispute over overtime pay. Captains of the ships would not make the trip down the river without tugs.

Three other freighters are waiting to be towed to steel plants and four others, after waiting hours, were ordered to unload their cargoes at other Lake Erie ports.

Capt. Chester W. Willett, president, Great Lakes Towing company, said the tieup began when unlicensed men on the tug Connecticut left their jobs, demanding four days' pay for 10 hours' work performed last Thursday, their regular day off. The tugmen refused the company's offer of the regular double hourly rate for overtime, Willett said.

COST OF INJURY CLAIMS BOOSTED BY HIGHER PAY

Settlement of personal injury claims costs more, partly because higher weekly wages increase the "lost time" item which is figured as a part of the settlement in the case of employed persons, James S. Kemper, president of Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, said yesterday in his annual report to policy holders.

"Many women who formerly were housewives are employed at high wages," he said. "When they are injured, their lost time is an item which adds appreciably to the cost of settlement."

The company's premium income decreased last year for the first time since its incorporation in 1912, totaling $31,399,515, compared with $37,028,129 in 1942. As of Dec. 31 assets totaled $52,941,954, reserves $33,797,116, and net surplus 8 millions.

Chicago Bank Clearings Increase Slightly in Week

Chicago bank clearings last week totaled $469,600,000 compared with $462,500,000 in the preceding week and $470,300,000 a year ago, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$69,700,000	$8,600,000

CHARGES FOOD BUNGLERS SEEK TO SHIFT BLAME

Hog Raisers Face 'Scapegoat' Role.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

The hog producer will be made the "scapegoat" of a series of blunders in the war food program unless crop planners in Washington are prevented from doing so by public opinion, Ralph Walter, president of the Chicago Live Stock exchange, said yesterday. He complained that it seemed to be common practice to place blame on the group affected most by the mistakes made.

"Spokesmen for the war food administration repeatedly have tried to shift the blame for the existing chaos in the pork and hog markets to the nation's hog raisers and feeders who tried so valiantly under all manner of handicaps to reach the production goal set for them," he said. "Farmers produced too many hogs and made them too heavy, crop planners tell us. The truth is that farmers at no time ever reached the high goals set by the WFA, altho they tried hard to do so.

Says Farmers Knew Best.

"The only real mistake made by the farmers was that they tried to follow the advice of the government against their better judgment. Many of them in the market with hogs during the last year, even before market congestion began, expressed apprehension about over-producing, but always asserted that the government wanted more hogs and at heavier weights than ever before and that they were confident their leaders knew best. Developments since last fall indicate the farmers themselves knew best when they became alarmed over the corn supply shrinkage.

"There is no basis on which to lay the charge that farmers produced more than they were told to, altho there is plenty of proof that farmers did raise meat animals and poultry of all kinds in excess of feed supplies on the insistence of the government which obviously failed to take the corn supplies into consideration until it was too late. At no time has the government done for the hog raiser what it led them to believe it would do. The result is that farmers are selling hogs for a great many millions of dollars less than they had expected the crop to return."

Higher Goal Is Set.

Walter recalled that the federal goal for last year was 100 million hogs. The year's slaughter was estimated at 93 million. Last winter the tentative goal for 1944 was set at 104 million. Production the first half of the year is expected to exceed by a large total the first half of 1943, but the last six months' volume will be cut drastically below last year, the result of the liquidation forced by unfair price tactics and the grain shortage, Walter said.

The failure of lend-lease to accept delivery on the vast tonnage it had promised to buy was said to be the cause of the situation in hogs. Federal purchases never have approached the high goal set for exporting, and at present is farther from that goal than at any time since lend-lease buying began. April purchases of all pork by lend-lease aggregated 87,597,000 pounds, compared with 166,208,000 in March and 221,497,000 in February. The April buy was 24 per cent less than in April last year.

Most packers and live stock interests agreed that the ending of point rationing for pork was a move in the right direction, but said that it came too late to be of much help to the hog producers because such a large part of the hog supply already has been sold in demoralized markets.

Rail Worker School Will Open May 22

Plans to train hundreds of railroad workers in Chicago for jobs in which serious man power shortages exist, have been completed, regional directors of the office of defense transportation and the railroad retirement board announced yesterday. The General Managers' association, representing all railroads entering Chicago, is sponsoring a program to train workers for "critical" occupations, such as firemen, brakemen, and switchmen.

R. T. Taylor, regional retirement board director, said there is immediate need in this area for more than 900 workers in those occupations. Classes, opening May 22, will run one to two weeks. Courses for potential railroad employes will continue until all labor needs are filled, he said.

Can Choose Employer.

"When trained, the graduate may choose the railroad company for which he wishes to work," Taylor continued. "Subsistence of $5 a day will be paid during the training period. Trainees, when employed, will be eligible for seniority rights, unemployment insurance, and other rights accorded regular railroad employes."

ODT officials said openings for trainees, in the Chicago area and thruout railway systems entering the city, made the training school program imperative. Arrangements have been made for out of town applicants to enroll.

How to Apply.

Under the war man power commission directive, all recruiting for the railroad industry is handled by the railroad retirement board's employment service. Taylor said applicants wishing to enroll in the new basic training school for firemen, switchmen and brakemen should apply in person, or by mail to the nearest retirement board office in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

In Chicago, applicants should communicate with the office of the retirement board employment service, 409 Washington st., between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. during the week and from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Sunday.

ALLEGE REBATE ON U. S. FREIGHT HARMS SHIPPER

Rails Ask Repeal of Land Grant Rates.

The land grant arrangement between the government and the early railroads has accomplished its purpose, the Association of American Railroads said yesterday in urging enactment of the Boren bill pending in congress which would repeal the land grant reductions in rates charged on transportation of federal freight and troops.

"The government has received what it bargained for in the settlement of the nation, the increase in value of lands it retained, the tax revenues received from the lands disposed of, and, above all, the unity and strength of America," an association pamphlet said.

Government Paid Many Times.

In the years since the lands were granted to the carriers, savings to the government in the form of reduced railroad rates have been many times the value of the lands when granted, the statement said. These reductions total more than twice that value annually, and total savings are much more than the highest estimate of values attained by the lands after the railroads were built.

"Because of the uncertainty of the application of land grant deductions, the railroads may hereafter be called upon to refund to the government vast sums on which they will have already paid income taxes," the statement said.

The present law requires the transportation of vast government traffic, both freight and passenger, at half of regular rates. "This deduction in rates, required on account of land grants made to a small mileage of pioneer railroads more than three-quarters of a century ago, has become under present conditions a source of discrimination against ordinary shippers—the very sort of discrimination which otherwise is prohibited as rebating," the statement said.

Termed Source of Discrimination.

"It has become also a source of discrimination and injustice as between those shippers so situated that they can do business with the government on reduced land grant rates, and other shippers who cannot."

Grants by the federal government totaled 130 million acres and the average selling price in the period, 1850 to 1871, was less than a dollar an acre, the association said. It added that "with the aid of these lands there were built thru unsettled sections of the west and south 17,600 miles of railroad, considerably less than 1-12th of all the mileage in the United States.

"On the face of it, it would seem that the only roads affected by the deductions are this tiny percentage. Actually, it works out differently because of the competitive conditions surrounding the transportation business. Long ago the railroads entered into what are called equalization agreements with the government by which those roads which include in their routes between two points little land grant mileage or even none agree to haul government traffic at the same rates as those routes which include the maximum land grant mileage between the same points.

"The application of land grant de-

POST-WAR RESERVES.

Most corporations are setting up in their account books special reserves designated variously as reserves for contingencies, for post-war reconversion, for deferred repairs and maintenance, or other purposes.

The aim, obviously, is to establish a backlog of ready cash to finance reconversion to peace time activities or to enable the corporation to survive any post-war period of economic stress.

The investor who derives comfort from these financial safeguards must look beyond them, however, to determine their real value. A reserve account, after all, is primarily a bookkeeping entry, and does not necessarily represent a liquid fund which will be on hand when and if it is needed.

Some corporations have actually segregated cash and marketable securities for specific and measurable post-war needs. The air line companies, for example, have separate and distinct funds set aside for the repurchase of equipment sold to the government.

United States Steel corporation's 1943 year-end balance sheet showed 135 million dollars in cash and government securities "set aside for property additions and for expenditures arising out of war." This fund was entirely separate from the 198 millions in cash and 177 millions of government securities carried as current assets available for ordinary corporate uses.

When cash and securities have not been segregated to cover post-war reserves there is always the possibility that assets which should have been held in this form may be invested in new plant and equipment, slow moving inventories, receivables which cannot be converted quickly into cash, or paid out in dividends.

If the corporation runs low on cash or highly liquid assets, its large reserves will be meaningless.

HOW HOPE GAS LOST PIPE LINE RACE REVEALED

Promoter Group Granted Priorities First.

.ermed construction of such a line a critical war necessity. Shortage of gas was threatened in the Appalachian industrial area, the board said.

Meanwhile, the Tennessee company revamped an application pending before the federal power commission and asked autho:-ity to construct a line from Louisiana to West Virginia. Hope also filed a similar application with FPC. Hope's application was mailed to the commission June 29, 1943, and its receipt by the commission was announced July 2.

Three days later the commission issued an order in connection with the Tennessee application which directed the company to produce evidence that it could obtain necessary gas and financing to make the line feasible. If the company could submit proper evidence, the commission promised to issue a certificate of necessity and ask WPB for priorities on steel pipe and other :sential material.

The Tennessee company .ad neither the gas nor the funds necessary to meet the conditions stipulated by the FPC order. The company officials thereupon negotiated a contract to purchase gas from the Chicago corporation, which has extensive gas holdings in the Corpus Christi area.

Company Lacked Funds.

The Tennessee company, however, was still without funds. It tried unsuccessfully to make financing arrangements with several groups, including RFC. Only a few days before the deadline set by FPC, Tennessee made the deal with Chicago corporation whereby the latter took over 90 per cent of the ownership of the firm and the promoters retired. In the meantime, Chicago corporation obtained an RFC commitment which Dall and his associates had failed to get.

When officers of the Tennessee company reappeared before the power commission Sept. :0 they obtained a favorable ruling on their application and a commitment for priorities on the necessary equipment. This action automatically eliminated Hope's chance of getting approval for its proposed line.

Subsequently, the Tennessee company, under the new management, acquired from Hope a right of way extending from Monroe, La., to Cornwell, W. Va., which raversed 800 miles of the 1,263 mile route proposed in the Tennessee application. Contracts were also made to sell the gas piped from Texas to West Virginia to Hope and United Fuels Gas company, which are the principal distributors in the Appalachian territory.

Texan Buys Stock.

After acquiring 90 per cent of the stock in the Tennessee company, the Chicago corporation sold 10 per cent of its interest to Paul Kayser, president of the El Paso Natural Gas company, who owns gas properties in Texas adjacent to the Chicago corporation holdings. Kayser is a former Texas business partner of Jesse Jones, chairman of RFC. Chicago corporation officials said the deal with Kayser was made after they had obtained their RFC commitment and that there was no connection between the two events.

It is reported the original promoters of Tennessee, who now have only a minority interest, have disagreed among themselves. Dall is said to be dissatisfied with the division of funds and securities. He has indicated a wish to resume active connection with the Tennessee company when he is released from army service. His overtures have been received coldly by he new management, it is reported.

SOUTHERN MINE OWNERS OPPOSE WAGE FORMULA

Washington, D. C., May 13 [Special].—The Southern Coal Producers' association told the war labor board today that, in view of the record of operations under the Ickes-Lewis formula, it could not approve the pending wage agreement between coal producers and workers based on that formula without "a clear repudiation" and violation of the stabilization program.

Edward R. Burke, association president, in a telegram to WLB Chairman Davis, said that altho the assumption of the agreement by which Secretary of the Interior Ickes and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, sent the striking miners back to work, was that more than 1 million more tons a week would be produced, the record shows no such results.

MONTANA WELL PRODUCES 5,000 BARRELS DAILY

Roundup, Mont., May 13 (AP).—An oil well estimated to produce 5,000 barrels a day was brought in by the Northern Ordnance company of Minneapolis on the Gage Dome, 12 miles northeast of Roundup. Northern Ordnance is headed by John B. Hawley Jr., Minneapolis munitions maker, who is "wildcatting" in Montana's southeastern oil region.

Papers Use 14.8 Pct. Less Newsprint Than Year Ago

New York, May 13 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publishers association today estimated total United States' newsprint consumption at 1,040,028 tons for the first four months of 1944. Daily newspapers reporting to ANPA, normally users of 75 per cent of all newsprint, used 780,021 tons in the first third of the year, a decrease of 14.8 per cent from 1943 and of 19.1 per cent from the first third of 1941.

ALLEGE REBATE ON U. S. FREIGHT HARMS SHIPPER

Rails Support Repeal of Land Grant Rates.

ductions is figured by taking any combination of lines which will give the highest percentage of land grant mileage, altho this hypothetical route might be one which under no circumstances would be used in the actual transportation of the shipment."

In illustration, the association explained that a normal route from Cleveland, O., to Fort Knox, Ky., is directly southwest for 417 miles, but land grant rates are calculated on a route west to Chicago, south to Cairo, Ill., and thence to Fort Knox, a distance of 943 miles, because land grant deductions apply between Chicago and Cairo.

Citing the experience of the Milwaukee road, of which he is trustee, H. A. Scandrett said his line has only a few small sections of line subject to land grant rates. However, under the equalization agreements land grant deductions reduced freight revenues last year 10½ million dollars. In addition 3½ millions was reserved to cover items in dispute.

CHANGE METHOD OF PAYING CORN SHELLING COSTS

Decatur, Ill., May 13 (AP).—A change in the method of payment of expenses incurred on corn pledged to the government was announced today by Lee M. Gentry, state agricultural adjustment administration chairman, who predicted it would "greatly accelerate" the shelling of corn and its movement to processing plants.

"Beginning immediately, payment of 5 cents per bushel for shelling and transportation of corn will be made directly to any person incurring such expense when he presents to the chairman of his local county AAA committee evidence of sale of his corn to an approved elevator," Gentry said.

Previously only sellers were eligible to receive 5 cents a bushel from the elevator operator who handled the corn for shipment to Commodity Credit corporation. If elevator men wish they may continue to pay the shellers or other persons incurring the expense, as they have in the past, Gentry said.

RUBBER STOCKS BECOME ACTIVE IN LONDON TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—The London rubber stock market became active this week, and prices in some instances exceeded those recorded before the far eastern rubber estates fell into Japanese hands.

The buying of rubber stocks without regard for pre-Japanese invasion values was attributed by market observers to hopes of a speedy reconquest of Malaya and Sumatra and a statement issued by the Federation of British Rubber and Allied Manufacturers association that, despite the vast American synthetic potential, natural rubber will be vital in restoring trade after the war.

Despite the lack of information as to condition of the rubber plantations under Japanese occupation, the association expressed confidence that production can quickly be resumed after the war.

FOOD RETAILERS TOLD TO REVIEW PRICE CATEGORY

Washington, D. C., May 13 (AP).—In an effort to lower some retail food prices the OPA will require all retail food stores to redetermine by June 15 their proper group classification for price schedules.

Now classified according to their 1942 sales volume, retail stores will determine their new classification on the basis of gross sales volume for the calendar year 1943.

The groups are: Group 1, an independent store doing an annual gross business of less than $50,000; group 2, an independent store doing an annual business of from $50,000 to $250,000; group 3, a chain store doing an annual gross business of less than $250,000, and group 4, a chain or independent store doing an annual gross business of $250,000 or more.

MURRAY TERMS VICTORY STEEL MEN'S 1ST GOAL

Cleveland, O., May 13 (AP).—President Philip Murray told the United Steelworkers of America today that the organization's "prime object is to win this war" and cautioned the membership to avoid "riotous and disorderly conduct" while the union's wage increase request is before the war labor board. Murray, also president of CIO, added: "Don't jeopardize your union or your country, and, above all, don't jeopardize the life of a single man or woman in the armed forces."

He announced union officials will ask WLB to set a deadline for presentation of testimony. Earlier the union voted to leave unchanged a constitutional provision under which 75 cents of each member's monthly dues goes into the international organization's treasury.

TWO GOVERNORS MEET TUESDAY ON POLLUTON

Gov. Schricker of Indiana announced in Indianapolis yesterday that he and other Indiana officials would confer with Gov. Green and Atty. Gen. Barrett of Illinois in the attorney general's office here at 2 p. m. Tuesday on Lake Michigan pollution matters.

The conference will take up the problems brought up by the suit filed by Barrett in the United States Supreme court seeking an injunction against the state of Indiana and the cities of Hammond, Gary, East Chicago, and Whiting to prevent the dumping, directly or indirectly, of raw sewage and industrial waste into Lake Michigan.

Indiana Held Party to Suit.

A motion filed by the state of Indiana asking that it be released from the suit because it was not a party to the pollution was denied by the court several weeks ago after Barrett argued that the state, by virtue of financing and other cooperation with the four cities, did hold partial responsibility.

"The conference has been arranged at the request of Gov. Schricker," Barrett said. "It is the position of the state of Illinois that pollution of Lake Michigan by the state of Indiana must be stopped. We feel it our duty to give every consideration to any proposal the governor of Indiana has to offer toward that end."

First Parley of Top Officials.

Illinois officials pointed out this was the first time in the long controversy over lake pollution that the governors of the two states, as well as the two attorney generals, had agreed to meet to seek a solution.

Barrett explained that ending the pollution of Lake Michigan from the Indiana communities would solve 90 per cent of Chicago's pollution problem. The United States public health service has found 10 miles east of Jackson park 3 million coli per cubic centimeter, compared with an acceptable health maximum of 50. Southeast winds blow this pollution directly toward the city's south side crib.

WALTERS, BACK AT POST, HAILS PEACE AT OPA

Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, returned to his office yesterday and denied again rumors of his impending resignation, which have been current since his whitewash last week by Washington, D. C., investigators. The investigation followed complaints of Chicago department heads about Walters' administrative practices.

The regional head said he returned Friday night from an inspection trip to the Des Moines [Ia.] district office to assure his regional staff he still is on the job and intends to remain there. He said his differences with certain staff members have been composed, and we're starting out fresh."

He denied he contemplates personnel changes. He said that, in three or four weeks, he expects to decide whether the present acting directorship of the Chicago area OPA office is to be permanent.

CHICAGO PILOT'S LIBERATOR BAGS TWO JAP PLANES

HDQ. 13TH ARMY AIR FORCE, South Pacific, May 12 (AP).—A Zero broke thru the fighter screen and came in on the tail of an American Liberator bomber piloted by 1st Lt. Philip A. Lunch, 6250 N. Bell st., Chicago. Suddenly, without apparent reason, the Japanese plane turned on its side. Its cockpit and engine were exposed to the Liberator's tail guns.

Staff Sgt. Paul M. Baumann of Great Barrington, Mass., let go with 75 pounds of tracers and armor piercing bullets. The Zero smoked and lurched downward. It hit the water just after the pilot bailed out.

The battle occurred during a 13th army air force bombing mission over Biak Island of the Schouten group, 260 miles northwest of Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea. Another Zero came in on the Liberator. The plane's front gunner set it afire and saw the Zero explode.

How Rats Are Killed

1,000 RATS KILLED DAILY; SAVE CITY $500,000 PER YEAR

25 Exterminators on Job in Chicago.

City exterminators are destroying an average of 1,000 rats daily and saving property owners more than half a million dollars a year, Michael J. Griffin, 1920 S. Hamlin av., chief exterminator, said yesterday. Griffin had his west division group of five men pumping cyanide gas into rat holes at the rear of 3132 15th st. and 3131 Douglas blvd., yesterday. In little more than a half hour 15 rodents wobbled out of their holes to be struck down, and a nest of nine young was uncovered.

Based on an estimate that only 10 per cent are able to get out of the hole, and 90 per cent are asphyxiated under ground, Griffin's crew had a score of 150, excluding the nestlings.

One Rat Does $2 Damage.

A rat will do at least $2 worth of property damage a year, and on the basis of a city rat population of 1,500,000, an economic loss of 3 million dollars annually would result, Griffin said. Destruction of 1,000 or more rats daily, he said, means a saving of approximately $624,000 a year.

Twenty-five exterminators, working in groups of five in as many divisions of the city, 10 wards to a group, operate on an annual appropriation of $50,000.

City Function Since 1933.

"Rats are the city's worst pests," Griffin said. "They are a menace to health and property, and many children are bitten by them annually. Various housing groups and club committees recognize these facts and encourage destruction of these pests. Since extermination was made a city function in 1933, we have trapped 10,000. Under microscopic examination, a single rat was found to carry five different kinds of fleas."

Water is a daily need of rats, which are attracted by lily ponds, rock gardens, and leaky water pipes, he said. "The war time man power shortage makes the rat problem worse in communities where garbage is not securely protected," Griffin added.

QUOTA IS OPEN FOR MERCHANT MARINE JOBS

Men in the merchant marine have, under recent legislation, the same rights to reëmployment, insurance, bonuses, and other benefits enjoyed by men in the armed services, it was pointed out yesterday, in an announcement that training quotas for the maritime service are "wide open" for the first time in three months.

Men over 26 are needed for deck and engine room, radio operators, cooks and bakers, and assistant purser-hospital corpsmen. Training requires three to six months.

Applicants are directed to the maritime service office, 844 Rush st.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

E. D. S. writes: About six months ago, an associate of mine received a commission as lieutenant, junior grade, in the navy to serve in an administrative capacity in the supply corps. Can you tell me if similar opportunities still exist?

ANSWER: Men between 30 and 38 years of age who have a degree from an accredited college and certain specialized experience are still eligible for commissions in the supply corps. The following types of experience are desirable: Purchasing agents; large department and chain store managers, group merchandisers, department heads, and buyers; wholesalers, importers, and exporters who deal in large volumes and great varieties of goods; executives in manufacturing concerns or production, plant, or distribution managers. Further information can be secured at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Board of Trade building, Chicago, Ill.

G. L. O. asks: Can a service man's family establish a homestead for him?"

ANSWER: If a service man's family—which means his wife and minor children—have settled upon public land, the service man may then make homestead entry of the land. If, for example, a service man is anxious to have his immediate family establish a homestead, but military regulations will not permit him to meet the residence requirements [because of necessity of remaining on duty] the family could, if they were real pioneers, settle upon any unsurveyed lands they can find and mark out the boundaries of the land they want, and the service man can take the necessary affidavits before his commanding officer and sign them. This possibility is, however, impractical excepting when the immediate family has some reserve funds upon which to draw to establish itself.

M. M. writes: "I have a friend 27 years old who is a truck driver for the railway express company. Under the new draft policy would he be deferred?"

ANSWER: It would depend upon the board determining that he is a "necessary man" just as heretofore. If he is replaceable, he could not be classed as a necessary man. A lot depends, too, on the type of truck driving in which he is engaged. If it is interstate trucking hauling defense materials, he moves into the same category as railroad men, but if he is just delivering stuff on a city route, etc., it is doubtful if his board could defer him.

P. J.: It would depend upon the type of discharge you received. If the discharge reads "not recommended for reënlistment" you could not get back into the WAVES or SPARS when you became of age. If the discharge does not bear this legend, you might be acceptable.

War Production Threatened by Drive to Unionize Management

★ The drive of union leaders to unionize management, beginning with foremen, is a threat to the war production effort.

★ It is a long step toward putting industrial management in the hands of union leaders.

★ What kind of collective bargaining is it when union leaders sit on both sides of the table?

★ It raises an issue which congress must clarify by amending the necessary laws, including the war labor disputes act.

★ Unless congress acts, this crisis will further obstruct an all-out war production effort.

The automotive council for war production, representing 550 established companies employing 1,200,000 workers and delivering 20% of the nation's war production, has authorized its president, Alvan Macauley, to make the following public statement and sent it to the President, other government officials, and all members of congress:

AT THIS most critical moment in history, on the eve of the great invasion of Europe which may settle the issue of human freedom for years to come, the public is entitled to know of a situation which threatens the success of that great effort.

The council has given careful consideration to the adverse effect on war production of the strike of foremen in the twelve plants of major war producers in the Detroit area and the still greater threat inherent in the organized drive to unionize management, beginning with foremen.

This is a long step toward putting industrial management in the hands of union leaders.

Successful business undertakings and great achievements depend on an organization responsive to the decision of those in charge. The commanding officers of production, like those of the army, must have their captains and lieutenants, their sergeants and corporals. Foremen, supervisors and managers are officers in the production army.

The division of their obligations and responsibilities between management and any outside organization will be just as disastrous to our war production front as outside organization of the army's officers to bargain and debate with their superiors would be at the battlefront. "No man can serve two masters."

The issue now is:

Can union leaders unionize management and take over control of war production?

Are their organizing drives for this purpose to be allowed to interfere with the efficiency and effectiveness of this production? Will they be allowed to disrupt American mass-production industry, one of the greatest assets of our country in both war and peace, by using it to experiment with a new and untried form of union-controlled management?

What kind of collective bargaining is it when union leaders sit on both sides of the table?

If management is to be unionized, where is union control to stop?

This issue results directly from the fact that the Federal laws and their administration are vague and confused in respect to the status of management.

In the interest of the war effort, we urge congress to make it clear that it does not intend to permit labor leaders to take over the management of our war production plants. This can and should be done immediately by clarifying and amending the necessary laws, particularly the war labor disputes act.

The automotive industry is not only producing a large part of our national armament output, but is also the largest manufacturing industry in peacetime; thus the nation is relying upon its prompt reconversion to provide jobs after victory.

The council was created by the industry immediately after Pearl Harbor to expedite in every possible way the industry's war production efforts. This included exchange of production equipment, knowledge of production methods, and efficient use of scare materials and manpower. This industry has done an outstanding war production job.

The council has never intervened in the collective bargaining problems of employer-employee relations, and there is no intention to depart from this practice.

Unless congress acts, this crisis will further obstruct an all-out war production effort

BANDIT HOLDS UP TWO STORES; 10 PATRONS ROBBED

A bandit wearing a sport coat and harmonizing slacks robbed proprietors and 10 customers, including five women, in two south side clothing establishments yesterday afternoon.

He entered the Challenger Clothing company, 6907 S. Ashland av., at 4:30. The owner, Oscar Heifetz, 7716 Cornell av., a cousin of Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, and his son-in-law, Samuel Hodes, 7114 Clyde av., were waiting on three men and three women customers. The newcomer took a revolver from his shopping bag, marched every one into the tailor shop in the rear, and made the eight persons lie on the floor.

Heifetz said the bandit got $750 of the store's money and $57.50 from the customers. Then the robber locked the eight in a washroom. As he started to leave the store, two women entered. He went thru their handbags and marched the women back into the lavatory.

Heifetz attracted attention by yelling and got help to open the washroom.

Half an hour earlier the bandit held up Irving D. Rosenthal in his tailor shop, 6415 Halsted st., and robbed him, two customers, and an employe of $403.

In times past we have sold a great number of very good farms and expect as time goes on to sell a great number more, BUT IN ALL PROBABILITY WE WILL NEVER HAVE A BETTER PIECE OF DIRT than a 293 we are now offering at $100 an acre. Beautiful black silt loam soil.

When a property belongs to an estate consisting of a large number of heirs, a buyer expects to get a bargain and he will not be disappointed in a farm of 355 acres [can also be bought as 204] we just listed. IDENTIFIED BY 4 AS ROBBER, BUT FACES FREEDOM

After John Dispensa, 24, of 2912 Wentworth av., was arrested May 10 as a suspect in a filling station holdup, he was identified by four robbery victims, was indicted on three robbery charges, and held for trial on $30,000 bond.

But Lt. Karen Phelan of the robbery detail, was troubled because an automobile, taken in one of the robberies, was not found.

So when Robert R. Burtch, 19, of Rockford, was arrested in Janesville, Wis., yesterday, in possession of the stolen car, Lt. Phelan collected two witnesses and went to Janesville to investigate.

Burtch confessed all the robberies in which Dispensa was identified except one, and the victim of that robbery subsequently identified Burtch's picture as that of the holdup man.

Lt. Phelan said he will ask Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, to go into court and move to quash the indictments against Dispensa. That is the only way Dispensa can get out of county jail.

SEVEN TRAINING SCHOOL INMATES FLEE TO WOODS

Seven boys, including three Chicagoans, broke out of line as they were being marched upstairs to bed in a cottage at the Illinois Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, last night, scrambled thru a rear door and fled into woods fringing the school grounds.

Richard Eddy, superintendent, led a searching party in pursuit of the fugitives, but darkness covered their trails and concealed their hiding places. State and county highway police were called out to search for them.

The missing boys are Thomas O'Brien, 16, of 4501 Emerald av.; Robert Schwinnen, 15, of 850 Fletcher st.; Louis Herrara, 17, of 744 Taylor st.; Donald E. Humes, 16, of Goodhope; Charles Leonard, 15, William J. Gibson, and Edward O. Ingle, 15, whose addresses were not learned immediately.

AIR MAIL'S STILL FASTEST LETTER TO PHILADELPHIA

Tribune Survey Average Disproves Charges.

A test of mail service completed by THE TRIBUNE yesterday showed that air mail on the average is six hours and 16 minutes faster than first class mail between Chicago and Philadelphia, and eight hours and 28 minutes faster from Philadelphia to Chicago.

The test was conducted by THE TRIBUNE after readers had complained that air mail service between the two cities was as slow as regular service. The complaints had been received since the airport at Philadelphia was closed last December because it was too close to the navy yards and presented a hazard to safety.

Now Goes Via New York.

Since then air mail to that city has been carried by planes to New York, 99 miles distant, and from there to Philadelphia by train. The reverse is true for outgoing Philadelphia air mail. For a while the air lines tried to use an airport near Allentown, 31 miles from Philadelphia, but this was halted when a farmer got an injunction forbidding the airliners to use certain runways. He maintained that the planes frightened his live stock.

The Tribune test disclosed that both air mail and first class mail between the two cities was very irregular. Air mail letters dropped in mail boxes here were delivered in Philadelphia anywhere from 19½ to 36 hours later, while the same type of letters mailed in the eastern city were delivered here from 19 to 37 hours later.

First class mail from Chicago to Philadelphia took from 21½ hours to 40 hours to be delivered, and from the eastern city to Chicago required 27 to 40 hours.

26 Letters Mailed in Test.

Altogether, 26 letters were mailed on regular business days, from Monday to Friday. The letters from Chicago were dropped in the letter box in Tribune Tower, and those mailed in Philadelphia were dropped in a regular letter box in the business section. They were mailed at various hours during the business day.

The average time for the letters between the two cities is as follows:

	Air mail.	First class.
Chicago to Phil.	25 h. 16 m.	31 h. 32 m.
Phil. to Chicago	26 h. 20 m.	34 h. 48 m.

Of eight sets of letters mailed to Philadelphia, two air mail letters arrived one hour after letters sent by first class at the same time. Two air mail letters were delivered at the same time as letters mailed first class. Four air mail letters beat the first class letters from two to 20 hours.

Rep. Hugh D. Scott Jr. [R., Pa.] has charged in congress that the New Dealers have a long range plan to make Philadelphia city nothing but a whistle stop for thru transportation to New York. He and city officials are now making efforts to get permission to use certain runways on the old airport which are not regarded as hazardous to the navy yards.

2 BUSES CRASH IN HAMMOND; 7 GO TO HOSPITAL

Seven persons were injured yesterday when two buses of the Chicago Calumet District Transit company collided in front of the Lever Brothers Co. plant on Indianapolis blvd. in Hammond. All were taken to St. Margaret's hospital in the suburb.

Police said a bus driven by Richard Ferguson, 30, crashed into the rear of another bus, driven by Floyd Koontz, 42, which had stopped to discharge passengers.

Ferguson, police said, had failed to see the parked bus because he was looking into the rear view mirror. Both drivers were released under $1,000 bonds as witnesses.

Chin Tong, 61, of 6636 Cottage Grove av., a laborer, died Friday in County hospital of a skull fracture suffered earlier when struck at Cermak rd. and Rockwell st. by a truck driven by Stanley Magiero, 27, of 2450 Austin blvd.

Eugene Arbour, 69, of 502 Industrial av., Kankakee, died there of injuries suffered when his automobile collided Friday night with a car driven by Mrs. Naomi York of Kankakee at a downtown street intersection.

Walter Binenek, 49, of 515 Madison st., died in County hospital of injuries sustained Dec. 27 when struck by an automobile at Archer and Cicero avs.

A GIRL, A DRINK, A NAP, AND THEN A LOSS OF $1,600

A red haired woman was being sought by the Chicago av. police yesterday on suspicion of administering "knockout drops" to Carl W. O'Neil, 190 E. Chestnut st., and fleeing with loot valued at $1,600. O'Neil told police he met the girl in a near north side tavern Friday night and later invited her to his room, where she served him a few glasses of beer. He became sleepy, he said, and when he awoke yesterday the woman was missing, as were two of his rings worth $1,125, two watches, and an overcoat.

Beverage Firm President Denies Whisky Gouging

Clifford Baer, president of the Calumet Beverage company, 209 Pulaski rd., Calumet City, pleaded not guilty yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker to charges of selling whisky above ceiling prices. Alcohol tax unit agents charged Baer also had billed customers for twice the amount of the actual delivery. The case was continued until May 23 and Baer's bond set at $1,500. He lives at 122 Mason st., Calumet City.

Film Star a Visitor

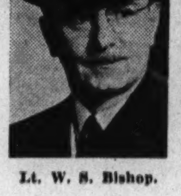
Marguerite Chapman at La Salle st. station yesterday.

Morale of wounded soldiers in eastern hospitals visited by Marguerite Chapman, Columbia picture star, is "magnificent," according to the attractive brunet who stopped in Chicago yesterday en route to Hollywood. Dressed in a black and white costume and wearing a large picture hat over her shoulder length hair, the actress told reporters that the patients she entertained on her four week tour praised the medical and hospital care they received at the front.

VETERANS' JOB OFFICE WORKS AT FULL BLAST

Head Says Employers Aid, Union Hostile.

Nearly 150 discharged service men have been placed in jobs by the reemployment division of the Cook county selective service system in the 16 days the new department has been in operation. Responsibility for putting discharged service men back into industry is laid upon the selective service system by the law which drafted them into military service.



Lt. W. S. Bishop.

Supervised by Lt. William S. Bishop, Cook county navy liaison officer, the reëmployment division set up at 105 Monroe street by Louis A. Boening, Cook county assistant to Paul G. Armstrong, state director, has interviewed 300 discharged service men and referred all of them to jobs.

Of the 150 referred to jobs by the reëmployment division, at least 100 are being considered by employers. Uncertainty about the status of the others will be cleared up this week after further reports are received from employers.

Procedure Followed.

When veterans are sent to employers for work they carry cards upon which the employer can notify selective service whether he has hired the applicant. Employers slow to return the cards cause some inconvenience in the personnel office, because until the card is returned the veteran's employment status is indefinite.

At least 2,000 discharged service men could be given jobs with 135 employers who have asked the personnel division to send them, Lt. Bishop said. About 100 of these listed employers are so eager to get men that they will train them for dozens of jobs in their own plants.

"Management," Lt. Bishop said yesterday, "is coöperating 100 per cent with this office, but difficulty has been encountered in some instances because union shop stewards in the plants refuse to permit veterans to work until they have paid back union dues, or, if not members, have joined the union.

Law's Provision Clear.

"The selective service law provision for the return of men to former jobs, or comparable jobs at the same pay, and with seniority, is clear. Selective service is interested only in getting the man back to his job if he wants it, regardless of union status or any other condition over which the applicant had no control because of his military service.

"When denied the right to work, the veteran has recourse to the United States courts. The United States attorney in the district where he applies for work must fight his case, and the selective service system will back the veteran if he is right."

Because the aim of the personnel division is to get discharged men back into industry as fast as possible, no time is wasted in lengthy interviews, red tape, or numerous forms. From the time the veteran reports to the personnel office in response to a definite appointment until he is on his way to see an employer only about 15 minutes elapse.

Dazed Wanderer in Loop Found to Have $1,000

A man wandering dazedly in the throng at State and Madison sts., last night was taken in charge by the police as a supposed victim of amnesia. In his pockets were $1,000 and papers indicating he was John Constantinedes, 1136 Market st., San Francisco, a member of the cook's union.

PLAN 141 HOMES FOR WORKERS IN BIG WAR PLANTS

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Financing of 141 new war homes in Chicago and Bensenville was announced yesterday by Keston J. Deimling, new head of the Chicago mortgage loan department of Investors' Syndicate of Minneapolis. They will house employes of the Douglas, Buick, and other war plants on the west and northwest sides. Some will be for sale at $6,250 and the others will be rented at $50 a month.

Keston J. Deimling.

Ninety-eight of the new homes will be built in the area bounded on the north by Gregory st., on the west by Olcott av., on the south by Catalpa st., and on the east by Osceola av. A new building firm, Besinger-Cotter company, composed of Leonard Besinger, builder, and Leo Cotter, former chief underwriter of the federal housing administration, will start work about June 1.

Will Be Finished by Dec. 1.

Designed by B. J. Bruns, architect, all of the homes will be two story single family dwellings, with the same kind of brick on all sides, containing six rooms and a full basement. Some will be ready for occupancy during September and all will be finished by Dec. 1, Bruns said.

Blackhawk Builders, Inc., of which M. A. Brain is president, is erecting 43 single family homes in Bensenville, on South Center and South Addison sts., at 1st av. Designed by John Burns, they will be almost identical with a group of homes built by the same firm between Westmont and Clarendon Hills.

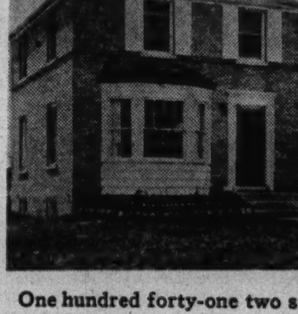
Simultaneously with the announcement of the 141 new homes Deimling reported that Investors' syndicate was extending its mortgage lending operations in the Chicago area. Following a survey of the entire metropolitan district, the syndicate has allocated 10 million dollars for FHA mortgages, both present and post-war.

Big Holder of FHA Mortgages.

Investors' Syndicate is one of the largest holders of FHA mortgages in the country, Deimling said. It also is one of the largest lenders of money on title six [war homes] FHA loans.

Deimling, who has been in the Chicago office of Investors' Syndicate for nine years in charge of real estate appraisals and acquisition of new business, recently succeeded F. J. Burns as head of the mortgage loan department. Burns is now vice president of General Mortgage Investments, Inc., which recently leased first floor space in the Rookery, La Salle and Adams sts.

In City and Suburb



One hundred forty-one two story homes for war workers similar to the above are scheduled for Bensenville and the northwestern part of Chicago.

HOME BUILDING SPEEDS UP IN CHICAGO AREA

Home building in the Chicago metropolitan area increased in April with permits issued for 782 home units with an estimated value of $3,391,777, the Bell Savings and Loan association reported yesterday in its monthly survey of new building.

April permits in 1943 numbered 284 for homes valued at $1,115,251. The March, 1944, totals were 461 and $2,057,251.

Chicago Home Show Planned for Next Year

Chicago is to have a home show—the first in several years—during the convention of the National Association of Home Builders next January in the Hotel Sherman, it was announced yesterday. An exhibit of home building materials and techniques will be staged by the Metropolitan Chicago Home Builders association, a chapter of N. A. H. B. George F. Nixon, former president of the Chicago chapter and a director of the national group, has been appointed chairman of a convention and exhibit committee.

Elisabeth Shoemaker.

It also was announced that Miss Elisabeth Shoemaker, former Chicagoan who handled promotion for the Own Your Home expositions in New York and Chicago, has been engaged to design and manage the proposed exhibit. She will have an office beginning June 1 with the Metropolitan Chicago Home builders.

The Chicago home show will be restricted to members of N. A. H. B. on Jan. 15, 16, and 17, and probably will be open to the public for two days thereafter, Nixon said.

TWO SOUTH SIDE LOFT BUILDINGS SOLD FOR $662,000

Sampson for $352,000, thru Farr & Co. The 10 story Bailey building at the southeast corner of Franklin st. and Lomax pl. was sold by the Elizabeth C. Baily estate to the New England Mutual Life Insurance company for $310,000.

A Feature That Became Panorama of College Life

By WALTER SIMMONS

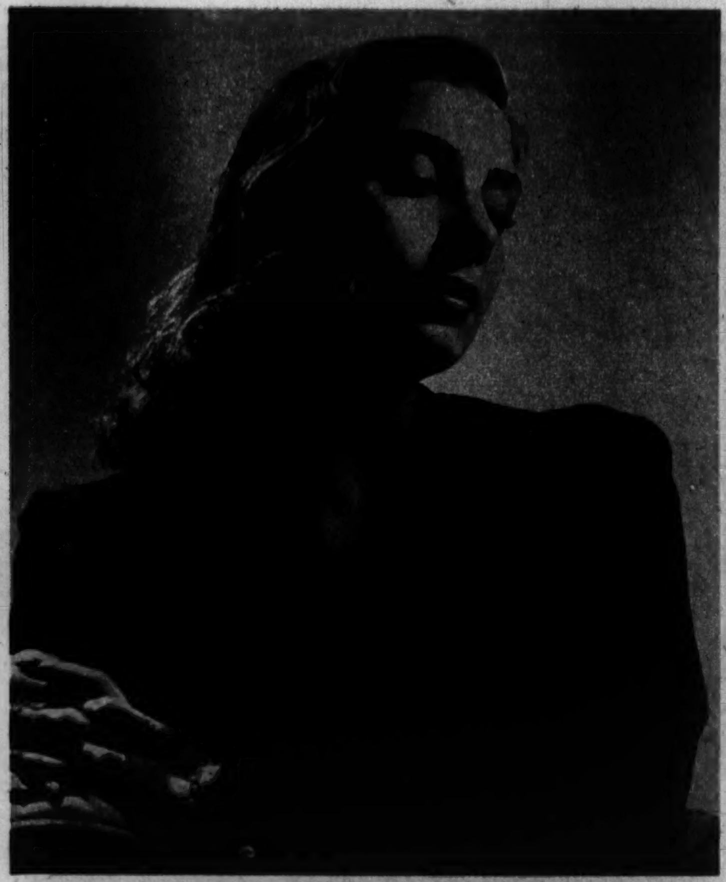
A NEW CAMPUS game originated last summer at DePauw university in Greencastle, Ind., when girl students in Mason hall named themselves the "Yocs" and invented "Yocing."

The game, it may be explained, involved being picturesque in the accepted collegiate sense and of doing the solidly magnificent thing with a flourish. Red-haired Betty got a high score in Yocing the week she broke all dormitory records for mail and long-distance calls. Judy, who was demure and refused to talk about her boy friends, scored heavily with the frequent arrival of orchids, which obviously cost some one much too much. Other healthy point totals were awarded when a girl was invited to something wildly exciting, such as the ring dance at Annapolis or prom week at West Point. It was, to pursue the subject further, Yocing when a co-ed struck such a picturesque pose in the house or on the campus as might catch the fancy of the "Youth on the Campus" photographer if he were around.

That was the inspiration for it all—"Youth on the Campus," The Sunday Tribune's weekly photographic report on student life at American colleges and universities. Since it first appeared in the Picture Section, Oct. 6, 1940, this feature has caused a reportorial team to travel nearly 100,000 miles in visiting more than 150 colleges and universities from coast to coast.

Based on the journalistic premises that college students are photogenic and that youthful verve adds zest to picture pages, this continuous series of camera reports has a fascinating background story of its own. It is the joint product of Eleanor Nangle, a trim and friendly little writer who has been Tribune beauty editor since 1934, and Andrew Pavlin, a skilful photog- (Continued on page three.)

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER



Toumanova proves dramatic ability in "Days of Glory," but Miss Hopper thinks they should let her dance.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Top Hat," one of their films that made picture history in the dance field.

Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelly in "Cover Girl" achieve luster seldom found in dance teams.

Rita also shone with Fred Astaire when they were teamed in the picture "You Were Never Lovelier."

THE WORLD WILL DANCE AGAIN

Hollywood.

IT LOOKS as tho history is set to repeat itself and movies will again make America dance mad. During World War I. the Vernon Castles helped the country forget its woes and worries thru the medium of grace and rhythm. Now it seems likely that another pair of dancers, Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelly, will accomplish the same thing and set a new vogue thru their work in "Cover Girl." The screen has had many talented dancers, but, to use Al Jolson's words, "You hain't seen nothin' yet" until you've seen routine done by Rita and Gene to Jerome Kern's tunes.

During World War I. the folks in the big cities went dance mad. Every gay blade out of a wheel chair and every deb wanted to imitate Irene and Vernon Castle doing the Castle walk, the hesitation waltz, and what was considered the last word in daring—the tango.

Then the movies figured if the Castles could pack night spots and legitimate theaters with their dancing, chances were the public in the hinterlands, who had heard about Irene and Vernon, would pay money at the nickelodeons to see the shadows of the famous pair.

So the Castles appeared in "The Whirl of Life" in 1918. It was a great hit, and the dance craze spread thru every cranny of the country. Hillbillies in Kentucky backwoods practiced the maxixe in bare feet, and farmhands in Iowa attempted to duplicate the rhythms of the turkey trot at Saturday socials.

Following this commercial success Carl Laemmle decided to introduce some "high art" to movie audiences and engaged the famous Russian ballerina, Anna Pavlowa, to whirl here before the cameras in "The Dumb Girl of Portici" for Universal. Pavlowa was no beauty, and audiences of that period shunned the film in favor of those starring the delicate loveliness of Mary Pickford and Lillian Gish.

Lewis J. Selznick, whose son David is now making Hollywood history, decided to bring another type dancing star before the public, and signed Rose and Jennie Dolly, the darlings of cafes in New York, Paris, and London. Noted for their dazzling gowns and exotic appeal, they were starred in "The Million Dollar Dollys." That also was a hit, and now Twentieth will put their lives on the screen, but I imagine will skip the tragic end of Jennie, who took her own life in a wild moment of despair.

Ann Pennington of the dimpled knees and roguish smile was lured from the "Follies" to dance for Paramount pictures, but she never really clicked. Years later, after sound, Ann returned in an early edition of "The Gold Diggers."

More than two decades ago, in 1920, to be exact, Hollywood discovered its first really great dance star, Mae Murray—blonde, curvacious, the original Nell Brinkley girl of the "Follies," and a dancer to boot. When she first came to movies she did western films and was practically unnoticed until Bob Leonard and George Fitzmaurice gave her a chance to dance. In "On with the Dance" Mae was sensational. She became a tremendous favorite. The girl with the "bee-stung" lips paid off the mortgage for Marcus Loew at the old Metro studio, and when the company merged with Goldwyn and Mayer to become Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Loew took Mae along as his biggest star. Best remembered of Mae's routines is the bull dance, which she did, dressed in gilded horns and little else, in "The Merry Widow," with John Gilbert.

Rudolph Valentino made a number of pictures before Rex Ingram let him do the tango in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and that single dance with a partner long since forgotten skyrocketed him to fame.

Joan Crawford, then a young, attractive girl, was winning cups for her Charleston and "black bottom" at the Cocoanut Grove and other hot spots of Hollywood. When she did the same routine before the cameras in such epics as "The Taxi Dancer" and "Our Dancing Daughters" she became a star. Eleven years ago, when the Crawford fame needed uplifting, her studio put her back into a story similar to her success, and "Dancing Lady" reinstated her with the public.

Gilda Gray, exponent of hula and shimmy, got a nod from Samuel Goldwyn, who put her in "The Devil Dancer." Later she shook and shivered everything except her feet in "Aloma of the South Seas" and "Cabaret." Gilda came back in talkies and did a dance in support of Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Rose Marie," but by that time she had shaken herself right out of public favor, because dancing, like everything else, must be up to the minute. The only old routines that go on forever are comedians' jokes.

Marilyn Miller, the fragile blonde beauty with nimble feet, recreated her stage roles of Sunny and Sally in the movies. Ruby Keeler, also a Ziegfeld alumna, appeared in "Forty-second Street" and numerous other hit films.

About this time a girl who had attracted no special attention and a dancer from the stage were teamed as second leads in a musical starring Dolores Del Rio and Gene Raymond. The picture was "Flying Down to Rio." After it was shown every one talked only of the new dance stars—Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire. Following this they were co-starred in "The Gay Divorcee," in Jerome Kern's "Roberta," and also "The Life of Irene and Vernon Castle," the saga of the two people who actually introduced terpsichore to the movies. Fred and Ginger eventually split, with Fred continuing as a dancing comedian. He's now working out new dance steps and continues with an unknown girl in "Ziegfeld Follies." Ginger has won an Academy Oscar as a dramatic actress. Recently, however, she returned to her earlier type of dancing and singing role in "Lady in the Dark," but was so laden down with fur dresses that the role, which should have been her best, was to be her worst.

Jessie Mathews, petite English star, made most of her films in England—"Evergreen" and "It's Love Again" being her best.

Toumanova, from the Russian ballet, has finished her first film, "Days of Glory," and Hollywood is repeating past mistakes by not letting her dance. Zorina and Baronova both appeared in pictures, and each appearance makes one want more of them.

Ann Miller, one of the newer dancers, is under contract to Columbia. Possibly the Kay Kyser picture in which she's appearing will put her on top. Another newcomer worth watching is young Marc Platt, who recently left "Oklahoma." He'll make his dancing debut on the screen in "Tonight and Every Night." Marc is young, husky, with curly red hair, and his spins and leaps have the youngsters talking.

Gene Kelly, of "Pal Joey" on Broadway, really comes into his own as a dancer in "Cover Girl." His work in the "alter ego" number, in which he dances as himself and his "double," is an amazing thing to watch. And, together with Rita Hayworth, they've got what we're all looking for—youth. Hollywood has made stars of many dancers, has tried to make dancers of many stars. But few have ever managed to gain anything of the luster of Rita and Gene in "Cover Girl."

If they don't start another dance craze in America a lot of people who have already seen the musical are going to be very much surprised.

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: Just stealing a minute from the job to thank you for your comments today on "The Curse of the Cat People." I noticed the same thing you mention (I was rather a lonely youngster, too). But, getting on the subject of inconsistencies in movies, I noticed a glaring one in the same picture. The little girl merely walks to a back street when she receives the wishing ring from the old actress. When she runs away from home she crosses woods and fields and reaches the same house. Some one was asleep in the studio—or what? MISS A. L.

Dear Miss A. L.: My impression was that the child got lost, sort of wandered in a circle, and so came back to the familiar location. But I can be wrong. Thanks for your interest, and come again.

Dear Miss Tinée: For years I have skipped your column—ever since I left my early teens, in fact. By chance my eye fell on your review of "Lifeboat" today, and I know now how right I've been. The children enjoy you—your gushy style, ridiculous italics, and puerile viewpoint. Since you dote on sweetness and light, I think you should write a juvenile column. To us adults you are a symbol of mirth. . . . Please, please retire. JOAN EVANS.

Dear Mrs. (?) Evans: Shouldn't let your eyes fall around like that.

RUTH WILL OUT

● Ruth Warrick can trace her movie success back to a turkey—not in the show business sense of a flop, but a real bird. As representative of her home town, St. Joseph, Mo., she took a turkey to Mayor La Guardia of New York, and stayed on to enter radio. Her dramatic courses at the University of Kansas City (Mo.) and three seasons of stock there stood her in good stead. Also, at 14 she had sung on a St. Joseph station.

Ruth met Orson Welles at a party in New York, and he asked her to audition for a role in "Citizen Kane." It led to her movie debut in that picture. Most recently she appeared in "Tender Comrade," and now is working on "By Secret Command." Ruth is 5 feet 6, weighs 120 pounds.

YOUTH ON THE CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE
(PHOTO STORY IN TODAY'S PICTURE SECTION)

Colorado Springs, Colo.

IT'S ALMOST dangerously easy to give the impression that Colorado college is the playground of the western college world. When, 'way back in 1874, some of the founders of the city of Colorado Springs and some far-sighted board members of the Congregational church planted a coeducational college practically at the foot of Pike's peak and in the heart of country spectacular in its beauty and its facilities for recreation, they made it almost certain that the words "country club" would be tossed lightly into modern conversation about it.

In one important sense Colorado college isn't a country club. Academically this little liberal arts college (normal enrollment 800) stands high. Its entrance requirements and its demands on its students to "hit the books" are as exacting as most parents and professors would expect them to be.

In another sense, tho, the extra-curricular one, Colorado college is country-clubbish. Its setting makes it so. White-mantled Pike's peak is only 15 miles or so from its mellow 50 acre campus in the residential district of Colorado Springs. In the thin, dry, exhilarating air at the college's elevation of a little better than 6,000 feet the peak appears within arm's reach. Most months of the school year C. C. students can and do skiing enthusiastically at Glen Cove, not far from the peak's 14,000 foot summit. And by the blessings of a truly extraordinary climate the college students may go coatless most of the year, too, and may sun-bathe of a morning and ski on sunny slopes high above of an afternoon.

They can climb mountains, fish, picnic, go hiking when their limited leisure permits. They can play golf almost all year 'round on the town's public links or those of the Broadmoor hotel. The Broadmoor, incidentally, plays a part in the college's recreational life. One of the fabulous resort hotels of the world, it is only two miles from the campus, and its facilities are a magnet for the boys and girls there.

It is in its enormous Ice Palace, for instance, that C. C. students can skate every day of the year. They can swim in Broadmoor lake, with the towering Cheyenne mountains reflected in its aquamarine depths, or ride thru the foothills or the plains on horses from its stables. They can attend concerts under the stars in the Penrose stadium and dance on Saturday evenings in the Broadmoor ballrooms or on its terraces.

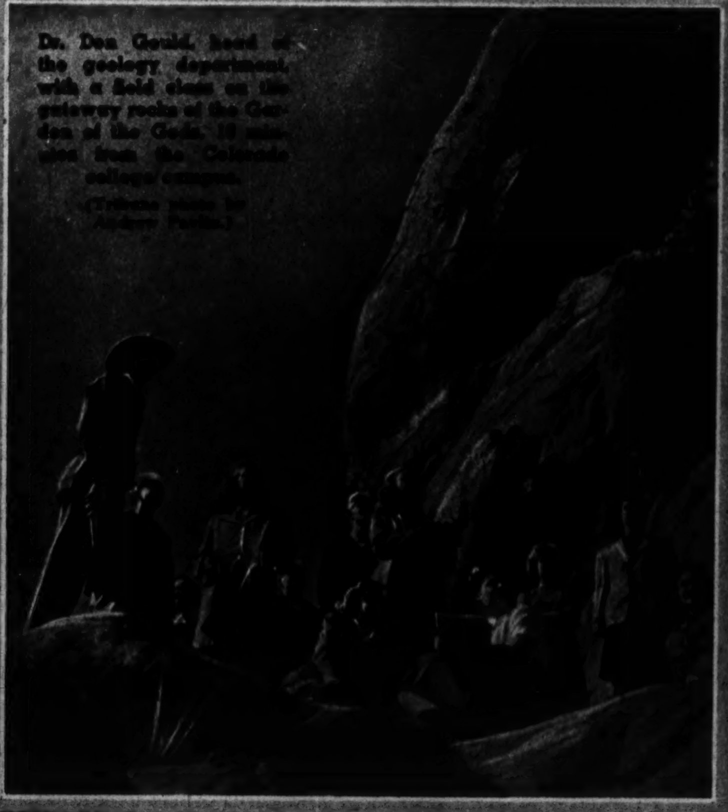
Interestingly enough, Colorado college in normal times always draws more students from Illinois than from any other excepting its home state. Even now, when enrollment is off and civilian boys are few, a poll of the women students reveals many from Chicago and its suburbs. Since July of 1943 a navy V-12 unit of several hundred has been on the campus; apprentice seamen and marines, many of them bemedaled veterans chosen from the fleet for college training, take classes side by side with the civilians.



Dr. Don Gould, head of the geology department, with a field class on the gateway rocks of the Garden of the Gods, 15 minutes from the Colorado college campus. (Tribune photo by Andrew Pavlin.)

When the college bus, transporting a geology field class, draws up to the gateway rocks of the Garden of the Gods, for example, or pauses on the ridge of a mountain drive, girls, civilian boys, and the uniformed men, all armed with hammers and notebooks, pour out of its doors and clamber off to explore.

Colorado college is a friendly place where all students seem to know and like one another. All women students take their meals in Bemis hall. The four sorority houses on campus are social lodges, not dwellings, and there are no tight little cliques. For the present the fraternity houses—and more structures—are quarters for the V-12 contingent.

The uniformed men are free for the sightseeing, the skiing, the fishing—all the recreations that beckon so temptingly all the time at Colorado college—only on week-ends. But they make the most of those. Student fun starts when classes end on Saturday morning and takes on an enchanting variety of expression—hiking, riding, skiing, skating, or perhaps awed feasting on the scenic splendors of the near-by countryside. In the good old days when gasoline was plentiful, expeditions to the Royal gorge, for example, or Seven falls, or the Cave of the Winds, or the Garden of the Gods, or the ghost mining towns were commonplace. Even now they are not impossible undertakings.

The Colorado Springs Fine Arts center, which is affiliated with the college—and incidentally is one of the finest art institutions in the west—encompasses a theater within its handsome and functional walls where students may, if so inclined, attend concerts, dance recitals, and other offerings of entertainment imported from all sections of the country.

It's a nice life here at Colorado college, and the boys and girls on this campus find their blessings almost too numerous to count.

A COLLEGE PANORAMA

rapher who enjoys the freshness of collegiate subjects.

Beginning its journey on the campus of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., the Tribune camera moved successively to the University of Wisconsin, the University of Iowa, and then to other schools—some big, some small. Miss Nangle's role in the smooth-working team is to make arrangements for each visit, select characteristic facts about each institution for an article in the Tribune Graphic Section (this week's appears above), gather data for pictures, and often to help worried co-eds choose dresses in which to be photographed.

"Youth on the Campus" captured reader fancy from the beginning. Appreciative letters and comment showed a feature had been born that rang bells somewhere in the incompletely charted zone that editors know as reader interest.

War's onset added to this popularity. The weekly picture chronicles became a link between men in the service and their contemporaries of more peaceful times. Thousands of the Picture Sections now find their way each week to former college men stationed at posts all over the world.

Every picture fetches its fan mail, much of it from service men. A girl at an Iowa college, who had been photographed while baking a pie in a home economics kitchen, captured scores of masculine imaginations. She received a large batch of admiring letters—all of which her father read thoughtfully. Then he charged her with the responsibility of baking cookies and sending boxes to a selected group of soldiers and sailors.

Pavlin is a veteran of World War I., twice decorated, once by the French. In a careless moment he lost the French medal and now cannot even remember the name of it. A family man (his older son, Robert, is winner of a Tribune scholarship to the Citadel), he has been "pledged" to sororities at Michigan State and the University of Wisconsin—and wears the pins on his suspenders to prove it. Once when he and Miss Nangle arrived at crowded Madison, Wis., on the eve of a football game he used his sorority connections to find the feminine half of the team a place to sleep.

The camera man has been assigned to the guest room in girls' dormitories on several occasions—a privilege given no other male. He used to be fond of the third floor guest room in DePauw's Rector hall, possibly because the girls serenaded him after he went to bed, but the navy has now taken over this bower and Pavlin has become indifferent to it.

Some schools in the midwest have been visited several times by the team, and Miss Nangle and Pavlin have become campus favorites. Mother Reilly at Barat college, Lake Forest, Ill., is sympathetic to an obscure inner urge which compels the photographer to steal grapes whenever possible. He has a standing invitation good for every September, when the grapes are ripest, and she has promised to look the other way. At St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Indiana, he is always surrounded with sisters seeking photographic counsel.

He once earned the lasting gratitude of co-eds at Western college, Oxford, O., by deceiving the navy. The girls that night were hostesses at a dance for navy students of near-by Miami university. While Andy was taking his pictures a co-ed complained, "Gee, we want to dance, but these boys have to go home at 10 o'clock!"

When 10 o'clock neared the photographer informed the ensign in charge that he hadn't finished shooting his pictures. "It'll probably take till midnight," he added. The ensign grinned and telephoned his commanding officer. Permission was granted for the men to remain. The dance continued merrily till 12 o'clock.

"I flashed a few bulbs to make it look good," Pavlin explained later.

In visiting schools from Bennington college, Vt., to the University of Southern California, and from Tulane to Minnesota, the team has come upon some pretty awful hotel accommodations. Sometimes a few sad looking $1.50 tourist cabins are all that is available. At Price, Utah, the harassed manager of a small hotel tried to hire both travelers as night clerks.

A characteristic incident occurred at the Kappa house on the University of Utah campus. A young soldier, assigned as instructor to a near-by air base, introduced himself as from a Chicago suburb. His bride was with him.

"I want you to know you had a hand in our marriage," he said. "I'd been arguing with Toots here for months, but she was only a freshman and thought we should wait. Then last February you ran pictures of the married co-eds at Northwestern university. I tore out those pages and used them as a sales talk—and it worked!"

"Youth on the Campus" pictures have inspired or abetted many other romances. Movie talent scouts are among the most attentive followers of the feature. Several girls, as a result, have received screen tests. At least two are known to have received contracts.

Miss Nangle entered journalism in 1926 as a reader for Liberty magazine. After leaving this job she spent a summer in Europe and came to The Tribune in 1927. As beauty editor she has handled all The Tribune's beauty contests since that time.

Her friendliness and charm have made her a welcome guest at colleges everywhere. Often she is

THE KNOCK at John Barrymore's door at 2 o'clock in the morning was made by Noll Gurney, the manager of several of Hollywood's foremost actors and a trusted friend of Jack's neighbor, the late John Gilbert.

Barrymore himself, in bathrobe and slippers, came to the door. "Hello, Nollie, old man. Come in."

"No, thanks," Gurney said restrainedly. "I haven't time." Barrymore cocked an eyebrow as Gurney added, "Jack Gilbert is in a bit of trouble." Gurney, of course, was unaware of Barrymore's own travail. (Jack had suffered one of his worst lapses of memory at the studio the day before, and was worried.)

"Trouble?" asked Jack. "Never heard of the word." Then he said forthrightly, "What can I do for Gilbert?"

"Would you mind coming to his house right away?" Then Gurney added, "I left his Filipino servant to keep an eye on him."

"I see," Barrymore said. "Threatens to do away with himself. Is that it?"

Gurney nodded. "You'd better put on a topcoat. It's chilly."

"I'll dress myself completely," Jack announced. "We have plenty of time, Noll. An actor will do nothing so operatic as self-immolation without an audience."

During the minutes Barrymore took to clothe himself, and later as they walked to the Gilbert estate, Jack questioned Gurney closely as to his neighbor's confusion of mind. Was he drinking heavily? Yes. Was he having woman trouble? Yes, his third wife, Virginia Bruce, was threatening to leave him. He had become so violent earlier in the evening that Miss Bruce had absented herself from the premises.

"One of the first of Gilbert's setbacks," Gurney said, "came after he signed a contract to do five pictures at $250,000 each, shortly before sound pictures came to the screen. He was permitted to make only one picture. It was hissed by the Stanford students at its Palo Alto premiere."

"What the hell!" Jack snorted. "Even Caruso once was hissed in Naples. There's something else bothering him."

"Yes," said Gurney, "there is. So many slurs have been made on Gilbert's voice that he's got it into his head that the public thinks him a softie."

"Well," said Barrymore, "my rugged friend Jack Dempsey has a voice like a sick sparrow, but I'd hesitate 50 light years before suggesting that he was anything less than a lethal bull."

They now were entering the grounds of the Gilbert estate. Jack suddenly halted to ask, "Haven't the Gilberts a new baby?"

"About 3 months old. A little girl."

"Did he mention his baby at all when talking about killing himself?"

"No."

"That's because the child can't leave him," Barrymore said. "The wife can walk out on him, but the baby is incapable of such things as decisions, leave-takings, and yowls of recrimination. Therefore the child is not in a position to hurt your friend's pride." He paused, then added, "This gives me an idea."

Gilbert was astonished when Barrymore entered the house. The unhappy man put on a hollow sort of cordiality, half rose from his chair, held out his hand, then said: "Great to see you. We'll make a night of it."

Barrymore shook hands perfunctorily. "Yes. We'll make a night of it."

"Get drinks for everybody," Gilbert called out to his houseboy. "Triple ones!"

Barrymore sat opposite Gilbert, then said quietly to the houseboy: "There will be no more drinks tonight for anybody. Understand?"

Gilbert made as if to speak to the bewildered Filipino, as if to assure him that Mr. Barrymore merely was jesting. Barrymore, however, closed off Gilbert's chance to say anything. "Shut up!" he said; "and stay shut up till I tell you to speak." Then he said impressively: "I hear that you've been making a damned fool of yourself. Over what? Don't answer! I'll answer for you."

Gilbert's eyes wavered; then his caller continued: "All because some one says this or says that. Why in hell do actors read the papers, anyway? Do you think the world turns on the importance or the unimportance of a ham? Well, it doesn't!"

Gilbert stared at the floor in a stunned sort of way.

"Why should you give a damn about your voice, good or bad?" Barrymore went on: "You can dig ditches, can't you? Or get a

ROMANTIC FIGURES of AMERICAN HISTORY

The dramatic illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches. Watch for this series every Sunday.

IN THE DARKEST PERIOD of the Revolutionary war in South Carolina it was Francis Marion's bold enterprise that turned fortune in favor of the American cause. Nicknamed the Swamp Fox because of his uncanny ability to outwit the British, Marion has come to be an epic figure of history and legend.

As a military leader he was courageous almost to the point of recklessness, a skillful commander in guerrilla warfare, and at all times a man of action. Altho his jealousy of authority has been remarked on by biographers, he generally was prompt and faithful in his cooperation with other leaders.

He was born in St. John's parish, Berkeley county, S. C., in 1732. The month and day are not known. His education was only that provided by country schools. In 1773 he acquired an estate, Pond Bluff, on the Santee river four miles below Eutaw Springs, where he established himself as a planter. In the meantime, however, in 1759 and 1761, he had served in the campaigns against the Cherokee Indians.

Elected to the provincial congress in 1775, he soon returned to military service as a captain in one of the two militia regiments raised in South Carolina at that time. By the time of the assault on Savannah in October, 1779, he had been promoted to the command of his regiment, with the rank of lieutenant colonel. Seven months later he escaped capture at Charleston owing to an injury that caused his temporary withdrawal from that city. The destruction of General Gates' army placed the entire burden of the defense of South Carolina on militia troops, and for a period of five months Marion was forced to draw upon his own resources. Sometimes he had several hundred men under his command, at other times only a few. One of his outstanding exploits in this situation was the recovery of a group of Americans who had been taken prisoner at Camden. Twice after this he was forced to retreat outside his field of campaign.

It was his work in disrupting British communications and his part in the battle of King's Mountain that turned the tide against the enemy in South Carolina. When in January, 1781, General Greene retreated, drawing the enemy after him, it was Marion who continued to carry on the war in that region. Only by three hard-fought engagements was he able to hold his own there. On the return of Greene to South Carolina began the reconquest of the state, in which Marion played an important role. By this time he had been elevated to the rank of brigadier general. He commanded the militia at the battle of Eutaw Springs.

He was elected to the South Carolina senate in 1781 and again in 1782 and 1784. The war had taken from him all his fortune except his land, but in the spring of 1784 the state legislature gave him command of Fort Johnson, one of the harbor defenses, at a salary of about $2,500 a year. He was a member of the state constitutional convention in 1790, and in 1791 he was elected again to the state senate. He died at St. John's on Feb. 26, 1795.

SHOULDERS and ARMS

1 Try this if you want better shoulder alignment: Sit tailor fashion, with legs crossed. Bend arms in front of chest, finger tips touching, elbows parallel to the ground at shoulder height.

2 Count one and force elbows back as far as possible. Two, return to starting position. Three, extend arms by flinging hands sideward, parallel to ground. Four, return to starting position.

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

THE shoulder and arm exercises herewith presented are taken from the SPAR physical education program and are the third in our physical fitness series worked out with officers at the SPAR training center at Palm Beach, Fla. They are in part responsible for the alert efficiency, the health and smart appearance of the SPARs.

The shoulder and arm exercises are for better alignment of shoulders (a great influence on the trim look of your suit), also for strength in this area, which in turn makes for easier carrying of heavy or light objects, along with better shoulder and arm contours.

3 and 4 Take position illustrated at left, sitting on a low stool before mirror so you can make sure your shoulders are kept level. Grasp the broomstick with both hands and then raise stick above head, with hands two to three feet apart. Without permitting head to come forward, lower stick slowly. Touch back of head with stick and continue lowering it until it comes to rest across the back of the shoulders. (At right.) Hold final position for five counts, resume starting position.

Barrymore, Philosopher

job with Western Union? How old are you? Shut up! Gurney here tells me you are 33 or 34."

Barrymore now turned to Gurney. "Noll, I had a grandmother who went broke for the 10th time when she was 72. Did she bump herself off? No. She had guts, God bless her! She went out and got a job." He again addressed his remarks to Gilbert. "It makes me sick when these lollipop Hollywood fainthearts go around with their heads in the clouds after a taste of notoriety; but at the smallest setback to their egos they put their taffy-coated skulls in their precious hands and begin to wail Eli, Eli!"

He paused. Gilbert now was sitting, his mouth open, as if uncertain what to do. He flushed. He clenched his hands.

"You've got a baby," Jack said. "Never entered your head, did it, that you owe the child something? No. The ham always thinks only of himself. Get up! We're going to look at the baby. Where is it?"

"In the nursery," said Gilbert meekly.

"Lead the way," Jack commanded. "It'll do us all good to look at something decent in this sinkhole of culture."

In the nursery Barrymore directed Gilbert to take the child in his arms. "Don't drop her. Just hold her close to you."

Gilbert held the child. Then Barrymore put his hand on Gilbert's shoulder. He now spoke slowly and with tenderness. "Doesn't that make you feel something? Isn't she more important than a bit of newspaper gossip?"

Gilbert was crying as he held his sleeping child. After perhaps a minute Barrymore took the baby girl from him and held her for a while himself. He kissed her head, then gently placed the baby back in the crib.

It was now 3 o'clock in the morning. "You go on home, Noll," Barrymore said to Gurney. "I'll sta·· here for a while."

Barrymore remained in Gilbert's home until 7 o'clock. He left his neighbor asleep, then returned to his own house to dress for the remaking of a scene at Universal.

Something from the Boys

By MAUREEN DALY

(Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother.")

MAYBE that's not the way you heard it. Maybe they call it by a different name at your school, or maybe your crowd doesn't even talk about it, but anyway the word is "necking," and the definition is just what you think it is, no matter what school you come from. It's not just a matter of holding hands we're talking about, or a pat on the cheek, or a good night k'ss on the doorstep—nobody needs to draw pictures. This subject has come in for a lot of hot chatter, and here it is again for a once over lightly.

You meet a lot of fancy queens who "neck" and a lot of charming dolls who don't; you meet a lot of gals who get around without it and a lot of long-faced biddies who claim that's the only reason the other girls do get around. Maybe you belong on the side of the fence where the gals are greener and excuse themselves by saying, "You're only young once, so make the most of it"; maybe you are the kind who keep that sweetness rationed because of personal ideals, because your mother once said, "That's not for you, Mary Ann," or because you haven't met a boy you could love yet and you're saving your affection for the big day. Well, let's forget what you think for now and get the straight dope from a fellow, just the kind of Jackson you're out to please. This comes from a chap in the air corps, and he puts into words just what a lot of Joes, away from home and with time to think, would like to say. His letter, for gals only, goes this way:

"Why are girls always so coy about asking the wisdom of 'necking'? Let them just think about it before asking and they won't have so many questions. Certainly no fellow has indicated his respect for you merely because you indulged in this pastime. Maybe he liked it, maybe he came back for more. But that's all he came back for. Had you stopped giving out, he'd have gone 'wolfing' in other locales.

"No doubt you've noticed the difference between a 'dime store shopper' and some one interested in making a significant purchase. The former picks up, puts down, and discards most of the items he handles. He may buy something, but not with much thought. The store is just packed with inexpensive articles which he can afford. You, the 'Saturday night cuddle,' are no different than one of the dime store bargains. There are more of you than one fellow can hope to get around to. So you can't afford to be independent, because, to put it quite bluntly, you're too cheap an item!

"The individual making the significant purchase, tho, is different. There isn't a surplus of what he wants, and he can't afford to be wrong the first time. Well, there's certainly no surplus of girls who don't neck, and no fellow cares for the other shopworn material. Do you get the point? You should have before this. If you neck, don't expect respect.

"On the other hand, if you don't, that will be no guarantee of dates galore or bouquets of respect. The last two require a real girl who is an individual, capable of thought and principle. It's up to you to decide whether or not you're going to be tagged for the rummage counter. As a 19-year-old pre-air cadet I'll not claim to be speaking for all fellows, but will nine out of ten satisfy you? It should!"

Think it over. Take it only from the single angle of what those nine out of ten Joes think of you as date bait. You don't want to be the kind of phone number that boys will call after 10 o'clock at night or as a last-minute resort on Saturdays. You don't want to be like that at all. When you thought of yourself growing up you had something rather wonderful in mind.

You didn't want to be stuffy by calling it an ideal, but that is just exactly what it was. You wanted people to like you; you wanted to be smooth—but you didn't want to be worn smooth by rough experience. You wanted to be the kind of girl a fellow liked because she was smart and fun to be with—not because of what he could get out of her.

If you go in for heavy necking date after date you'll find your resistance running low. You just won't be the swell girl you used to be. Better wise up before you reach the "Mr. Anthony, here is my problem" stage; before you have a reputation of being such an easy date that fellows refer to you as their "ghoul friend." Jack up your standards and keep them there!

AMPHIBIOUS TANKS

The new armed Water Buffalo churning thru the surf toward a beach.

(Food Machinery Corporation photos.)

Out of the water, the Buffalo displays its new armament, a 37 mm. cannon and a .30 caliber machine gun in a revolving turret. Two other .30s are mounted in hatch at rear.

By WALTER SIMMONS

THE NAVY'S "Water Buffalo" amphibian tank, formerly a serviceable but inoffensive vehicle for carrying men and equipment ashore thru surf, has now been turned into a formidable assault vehicle. The addition of a 37 mm. cannon has equipped the Water Buffalo with a sting which the Japanese felt for the first time in the Marshalls.

In addition the tank—known officially as the LVT (A) (1) (for landing vehicle tracked, armored)—now carries a .30 caliber machine gun with the cannon in a revolving turret and a pair of .30s in hatches to beat off enemy aircraft.

These modifications will give the amphibious forces a telling offensive weapon to lead assaults on hostile beaches, clear the way for men in landing boats, rip out barbed wire entanglements, and blast enemy resistance by sheer fire power. The Water Buffalo, once ashore, is able to surmount obstacles, jungles, swamps, and rivers. It is manufactured by the Food Machinery corporation from designs created by the company and the navy's bureau of ships.

The Buffalo is able to surmount obstacles as well as negotiate swamps, jungles, and rivers.

"The Eve of St. Mark"

1 In New York on a one day furlough Pvt. Quizz West (William Eythe) meets Janet Feller (Anne Baxter). They make two discoveries: that they are upstate neighbors and in love.

2 On his next furlough home Quizz takes Janet to meet his mother and father (Ruth Nelson and Ray Collins). He tells of the unusual way he and Janet met.

3 One night at a cafe near camp Quizz and Pvt. Francis Marion (Vincent Price) are "adopted" by the Bird twins (Joann Dolan and Toni Favor), but Quizz remains true to Janet.

4 Quizz gets overseas orders before America is attacked, so there is no time for a wedding. He and Janet plan their future on hopes alone.

5 At the port of embarkation Quizz finds he won't have time to mail a letter to Janet, until a tough sergeant relents and arranges for an M. P. to do it.

6 Months later Quizz and Privates Glinko (Stanley Prager) and Shevlin (Henry Morgan) find themselves alone on a strip of island in the Philippines. The Japs are attacking in force. Quizz reads an order permitting them to evacuate.

7 Altho their position is untenable, Quizz and his friends elect to stay on and hold off the Japs as long as possible. With his reply to his commanding officer Quizz sends a letter to his family and Janet.

8 With the letter comes a note from the commanding officer telling of the extraordinary heroism of the small group. Janet reads both letters aloud, except the last part of Quizz's. His parents still hope he is alive.

9 But Janet knows better. The part of the letter she didn't read was Quizz's explanation of why he put duty above his devotion to her. Instinctively she knows he has died in action—that there will be no reunion. . . . (THE END)

Will you help their calls get through this evening?

Evening is about the only time most service men have to call. Then there is a rush on Long Distance lines from camps, naval stations and air bases.

You can help by leaving the lines from seven to ten for the service men.

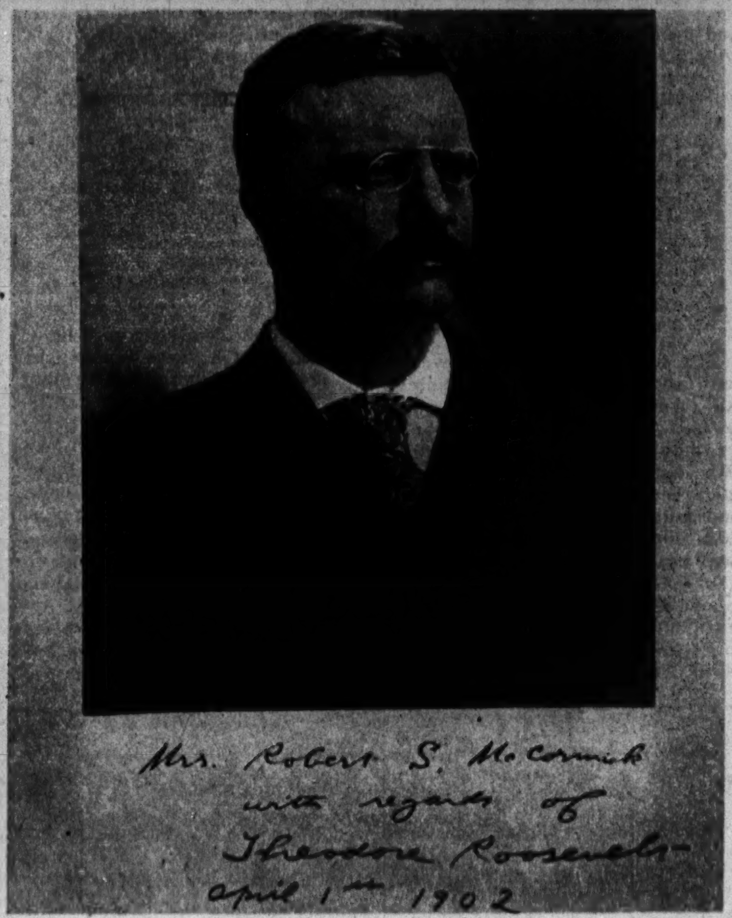
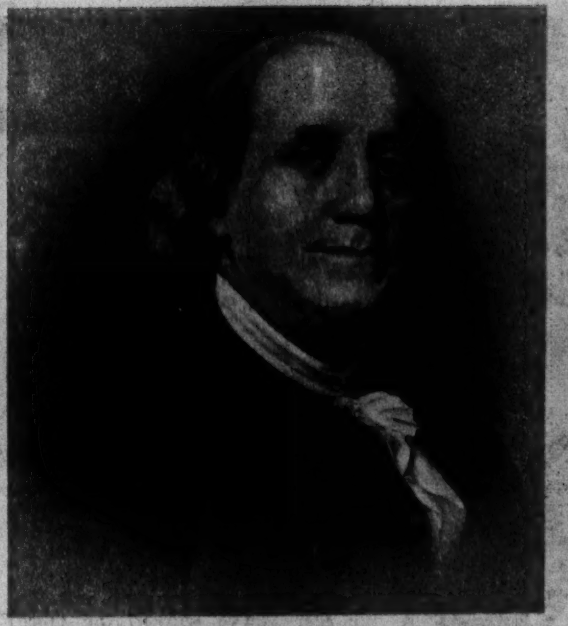
PERSONALITIES

From the album of the late Mrs. Katherine Medill McCormick. (More personalities in an early issue.)

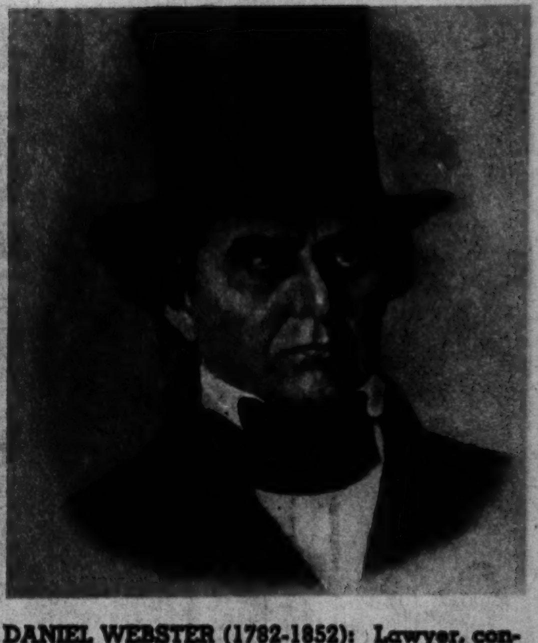
REAR ADM. CHARLES D. SIGSBEE (1845-1923) served in the Civil war at the battle of Mobile and in the attacks on Fort Fisher; made a deep-sea exploration of the Gulf of Mexico; invented deep-sea machines and appliances; was captain of the Maine when that battleship was blown up in Havana harbor; commanded the cruiser St. Paul during the ensuing Spanish-American war. When the admiral presented this photograph to Mr. McCormick in 1905 he was in command of the four ship expedition which brought the body of John Paul Jones from France to the United States.



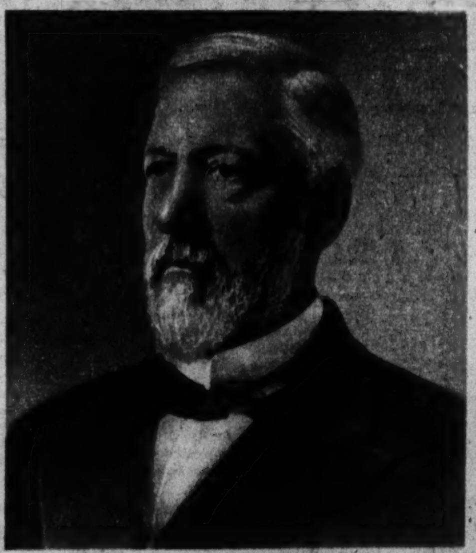
THEODORE ROOSEVELT (1858-1919): Assistant secretary of the navy; commander of the famous "Rough Riders" in the Spanish-American war; governor of New York state; Vice President; 26th President. He had occupied the White House for only a little more than six months at the time he presented this portrait to Mrs. McCormick.



BENJAMIN FRANKLIN (1706-'90): Philosopher, inventor, journalist, patriot, statesman. This is a photograph of a portrait painted in Paris by J. S. Duplessis in 1782. Franklin, who had won the aid of France for his country in the War for Independence, remained in the French capital as a peace negotiator.



DANIEL WEBSTER (1782-1852): Lawyer, congressman, peerless orator, and "great expounder of the Constitution"; secretary of state under Harrison, Tyler, and Fillmore. Inseparable from memories of Webster is the deathless rallying cry he uttered in 1830 in the reply to Hayne: "Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable."



JAMES G. BLAINE (1830-'93), "the Plumed Knight": Congressman, United States senator, secretary of state. Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1884, he lost New York, and therefore the election, by a margin of 1,149 votes.

"Here are the two reasons I wouldn't be without Super Suds'

EXTRA SUDS!"

"The dirtiest play clothes are really a cinch to wash in SO MUCH MORE SUDS and LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS," says Mrs. Frances McMahon

"WHAT with Marilyn and little Arthur messin' 'round with paints and things, I sure need Super Suds' EXTRA SUDS! I never knew anybody with youngsters who didn't have a big wash. And the bigger the wash, the bigger the difference it makes to have SO MUCH MORE, LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS—the kind you get from Super Suds. Those hard-workin' suds soak out so much of the dirt I used to have to rub out . . . like in dirty play clothes. Yes, it sure saves my back and lots of time . . . havin' sudsier Super Suds to wash with!"

"Such hard-workin' suds, yet so gentle!"

"Yes, Super Suds is mild enough for my very best rayon stockings! And it's just a marvel how nice my hands look and feel since using Super Suds. THOSE RICH SUDS do all the work, and don't have to depend on anything strong added."

Make the easy "milk-bottle suds test"

Shake up a teaspoon of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water—even hard or cool water—in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another bottle. See if you don't get more suds, longer-lasting suds, from Super Suds.

LONG ON SHORTCAKE

Moist with wine and strawberry juice, covered with berries and custard, this shortcake is good!

By MARY MEADE

WHEN a group of women gets together in the afternoon or evening these days it usually isn't just for bridge. Perhaps they'll have time for a little bridge after several hours of pasting U. S. O. scrapbooks or doing other soldier morale building "war work," but an entire afternoon or evening devoted to bridge alone seems a shameful waste of time.

When the scissors, magazines, and paste pots have been put away it's time for dessert. That part of the occasion hasn't changed. The bridge club may have altered or completely changed its activities to make them more suitable for a war time existence, but refreshments are refreshments, and the harder you've worked the more welcome they are!

A bridge club metamorphosed into a war work group might appreciate bridge party cakes along with its tea or coffee. A heartier dessert is an aristocratic strawberry shortcake for which the strawberries are soaked in wine and a custard takes the place of whipped cream.

BRIDGE PARTY CAKES

- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Confectioners' sugar icing
- 2 squares chocolate
- 2 teaspoons butter

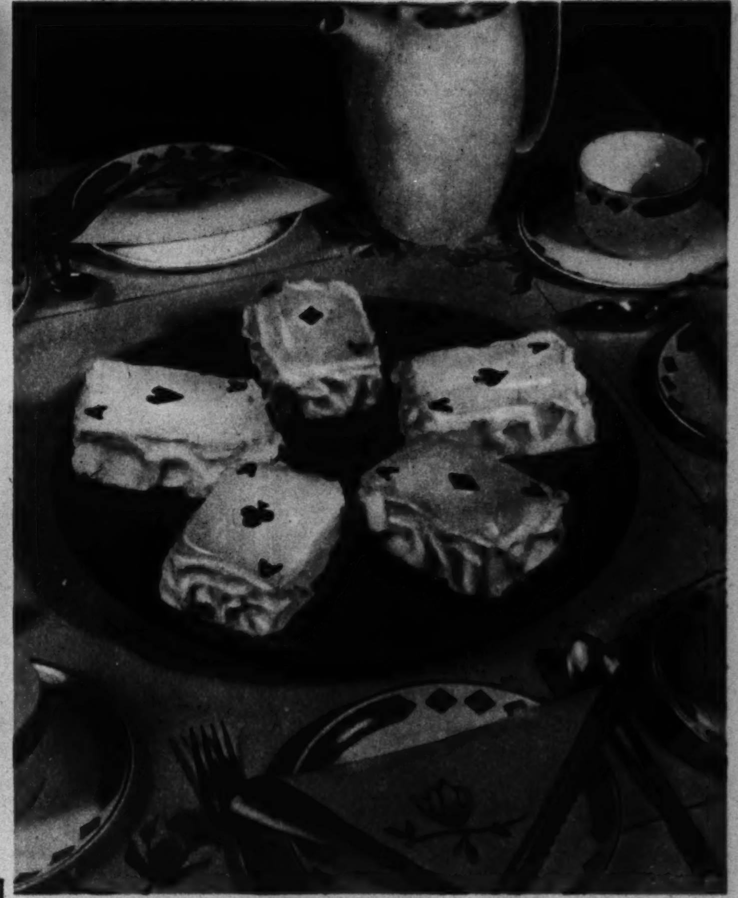
Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and sugar. Have shortening at room temperature; stir to soften. Sift in flour, add one-half of milk, with eggs and vanilla. Stir until all flour is dampened, then beat 1 minute. Add remaining milk, blend, and beat 2 minutes longer. Turn into greased, wax paper lined pan (grease paper, too) and bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes. Cool 5 minutes, turn out onto a rack, and cool thoroly. Cut into oblong shapes, spread with frosting, and paint in card suit designs with the chocolate melted and mixed with the butter. Use a small brush or a toothpick to apply designs.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE GOURMET
(Serves six to eight)

- 1 9-inch sponge cake layer
- 1 pint fresh strawberries, sliced
- 1¾ cups milk
- 3 eggs
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup tokay, port, or angelica wine

Scald milk; beat eggs until light. Add salt and 3 tablespoons sugar to eggs. Pour scalded milk into egg mixture, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until custard will just coat a clean spoon. Stir in 3 tablespoons of the wine. Chill at once. Combine remaining sugar and wine with strawberries. Just before serving split sponge cake and arrange strawberries between layers and on top.

Pour some of the strawberry juice and wine over the cake and serve with the wine-flavored custard sauce. There's a good sponge cake recipe in "Baking the Perfect Cake," a fat book of cake recipes of all kinds. The booklet sells for 25 cents in stamps. Address Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.



These bridge card cakes were cut from a cake layer, frosted, then decorated with melted chocolate.

MUSIC FOR A "HAPPY MARRIAGE"

Here "comes the Fruit Cooky Pie

"A real point-saver for shortening!

"See how much you get with so little shortening and so quickly, too."

That's right! And it's all because flour, baking powder and salt are "married" in Presto.

FRUIT COOKY PIE

Cream . . . . . 6 tbsp. vitaminized margarine OR butter OR shortening with . . . . . 1 c. sugar and . . . . . 1 tsp. grated lemon rind OR vanilla.
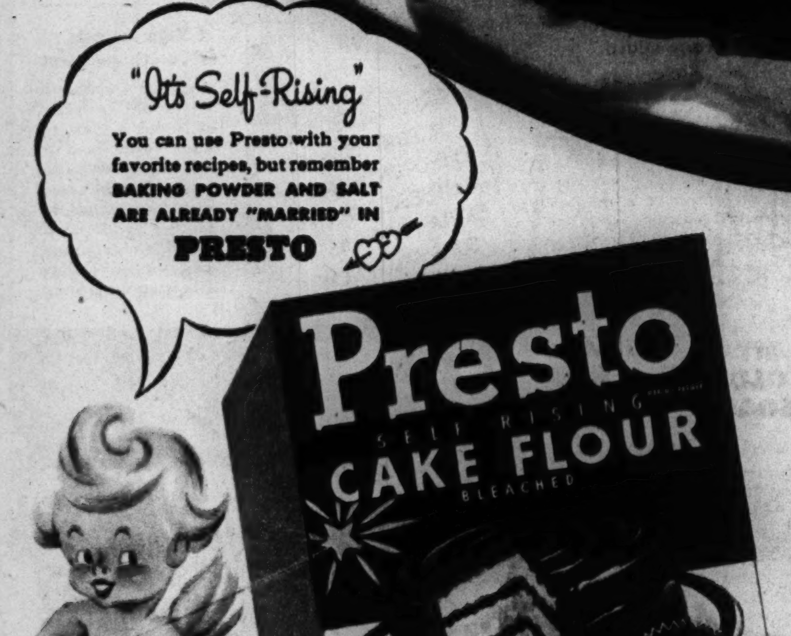
When fluffy add . 1 egg OR 2 egg yolks. Beat light.
Sift, measure, add . 2⅓ c. PRESTO Cake Flour. Mix well.
Roll out about half the dough to 1/16-inch thick. Line lightly greased pie plate with dough or cut in cookies and overlap to cover plate. Bake. Cool. Fill with any fresh OR drained canned fruit for complete dessert. Cut like pie. Store rest of dough in refrigerator until desired.
BAKE: 375°—20-25 min. (pie) MAKES: 1 pie, 3-4 doz. cookies

VICTORY COOKIES

Roll balance of above refrigerated dough very thin. Cut in strips about 3 inches wide. Cut these diagonally to form triangles. Snip out tiny triangle from one side to form V. Brush with slightly beaten diluted egg. Sprinkle with chopped nuts OR spiced sugar. Bake. Cool thoroughly before storing.
BAKE: 375°—8-10 min. MAKES: 3-4 doz. cookies

"It's Self-Rising"

You can use Presto with your favorite recipes, but remember BAKING POWDER AND SALT ARE ALREADY "MARRIED" IN PRESTO



DON'T look so surprised! The "marriage" we refer to is the happy union of flour, baking powder and salt – in every package of Presto Cake Flour.

It's like this. First comes soft winter-wheat cake flour – in just the right amount. Then we measure out just the right kind of baking powder and salt in the exact proportions for perfect baking.

Then we blend them – mix them – "marry" them – so long and so thoroughly that a whole day of sifting by hand wouldn't give you the same result.

That's why Presto does such wonders in a recipe – why so many women wouldn't think of using anything else.

Try it. Your cakes, muffins, rolls and pastries will have that "party" look to them. They'll be a delight to the eyes, as well as to the taste.

Presto saves you shortening, too

Compared to all-purpose flour, Presto is a point-saver when it comes to shortening. Muffins, biscuits, coffee cakes, waffles – all taste divine, all take less time than you'd believe possible. Prove it by the consumer-tested recipes on the big blue Presto package. They're certain to get a big hand from the family.

Know Your Horses

PERCHERON Most popular of the draft-horse breeds in America is the Percheron, represented by heavy, shapely animals that frequently weigh as much as 2,000 pounds when only 2 or 3 years old.

The breed originated in the old French district of Le Perche, from which it takes its name. It was developed, as were other draft breeds, in considerable part from early Flemish horses, altho modified to some extent by probable crosses with the Arab. Before railroads came into use Percherons were bred for stage-coach purposes, but since that time they have been greatly increased in size by scientific breeding.

Percherons were imported into America, where they soon became popular in the east. It was not until after the Civil war, however, that they were found west of Ohio. By 1870 Illinois had become the center of American interest in the breed. American demand was for a heavy draft horse, and French breeders shaped their breeding to produce larger Percherons. The number of imported Percherons in this country even 20 years ago exceeded the total of all other imported draft horses combined.

The average Percheron, altho not as large as the average Belgian or Shire, is as a rule somewhat heavier than the Clydesdale. The average height is about 16 hands 2 inches, but some stallions attain a height of 17 hands. The short-legged, compact type generally is preferred by Percheron fanciers. The head is lean and more refined than that of other draft breeds, the neck is rather short and well crested, the chest deep and broad, the back short, and the loins smooth and well muscled. The legs are clean, with well defined tendons, and the feet shapely and sound. Prevailing and preferred colors are gray and black, but about 5 per cent of all animals of the breed are represented by browns, bays, and chestnuts.

For their size Percherons handle themselves well at either the walk or the trot, the last named being characterized by a snap not displayed by other draft breeds. Type and action, along with absence of long hair on the legs, account for the breed's popularity.

The horse pictured above is the Percheron stallion Koncarcalyps, the sire of a number of famous Percherons.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS By BOB BECKER

WHEN we were in a small animal hospital a short time ago watching the veterinarian put a dressing on a dog's paw the veterinarian remarked that he wished we could have seen the 12-year-old dog he had treated earlier in the day. When we asked what was wrong with this canine patient the veterinarian replied, "Teeth." Further questioning developed the fact that this dog was suffering from the effects of neglect. The owner had failed to have this old pet's teeth examined, and as a result infections had developed from several loose ones. It was a pretty sad looking pet when we saw it later on. The dog looked sick. It was thin. Its eyes were dull and its coat was poor. In fact, its general appearance was that of an animal decidedly below par. The infections that developed from several loose teeth were responsible for this condition.

This old dog, suffering from neglect of its teeth, could have been spared a lot of suffering and trouble if its owner had taken it to a veterinarian much sooner. The point is that old dogs are quite apt to have bad teeth. One or more may become loose. When that happens it opens the way to infections which naturally affect the general health of the animal.

We own one dog that is 11 years old. He goes to the veterinarian at least once every year to get a checkup on his teeth and gums.

A dog gets his permanent teeth early, and they must last him thruout his comparatively short life. (This permanent set replaces the first, or milk teeth, as they are called.) Considering the way a dog uses his teeth, he gets along very well. At least he doesn't have to worry about cavities and dentists' drills! During the early part of the dog's life his teeth usually require little attention unless one may be broken off in an accident. It must be extracted by a veterinarian.

We have found that dogs differ in the amount of attention that must be given to their teeth. Some seem to develop heavy deposits of tartar, while others do not. We had one hunting dog that had to have his teeth scraped (in order to remove the tartar deposits) about every eight or nine months, while one of our dogs was not troubled in this way.

A dog's teeth are going to wear down as the years go by. But some of the bad habits which pets develop may hasten the wearing down process and make the dog old before its time. One of these habits is picking up stones or other hard objects which the dog wants thrown so he can retrieve them. These hard objects act as an abrasive. Dogs that like to retrieve should be given some object like a hard rubber ball, a wooden dumbbell, or a small wrapped dummy such as is used in training a gun dog. The dog can get his teeth into these, yet they are not hard enough to wear down his "ivory."

Too many large bones also will wear out a dog's teeth. Puppies, of course, need the bones. They like something hard to chew on at the time they are losing their milk teeth. But a mature dog will come thru life in much better condition if he doesn't get a chance to put in many hours a week working on large, smooth beef bones. On the other hand, we doubt if an occasional smooth bone (no splinters in it) will injure the animal's rows of "ivory." Altho we give our dogs an occasional smooth bone with meat on it to give them a real workout, they also get a chance to crunch hard food by tackling large dog biscuits which have been baked very hard.

This English setter, Pat, was a veteran of many seasons in the hunting fields. A heavily ticked blue Belton with several show points to her credit, Pat was owned by Bob Becker. This picture of her holding a ruffled grouse was made a short time before she died.

the center of attraction at dormitory midnight suppers where the fare consists of lemon cream pie and cokes. Both she and Pavlin seem to possess the copper-coated digestive systems necessary to cope with weird campus food fads. At the University of Nebraska they joined students breakfasting on shoestring potatoes, catchup, and cokes. At eastern girls' schools they have frequently lunched on peanut butter and marshmallow sandwiches.

House mothers dote on the two. Miss Nangle and Pavlin have played bridge with co-eds in countless school social rooms, skied with Rockford college students during winter sports week, slid down Carleton college's snow-covered hills on trays filched from the dining hall, and drunk from Hollins college's sulphur well in Virginia.

Pavlin was an unsuccessful but enthusiastic participant in a tobacco spitting contest during ranch week at Texas Christian. He made himself somewhat less than popular at the Citadel by dancing persistently and continuously with the belle of the ball while cadets watched hungrily, too punctilious to cut in on a noted guest. ("It was the chance of a lifetime," he argued by way of justification.) It was here that Miss Nangle was assigned two towering cadet officers as a military escort.

The photographer has become somewhat of an authority on campus fashions. He shudders uncontrolably at girls wearing blue jeans and lumberjack shirts, much preferring pinafores, dirndls, and "pretty" clothes.

Like all popular features, "Youth on the Campus" gets lots of fan mail. Here's a recent—and cheerful—sample:

Fredericktown, Mo.

When I was a junior at the University of Wisconsin in 1940 my picture appeared in "Youth on the Campus." Since that time, during which I married, left my home in Wisconsin, and had a daughter of my own, the pictures each Sunday of youth on the campus everywhere have been a delightful reminder of my own college days and those of my friends and acquaintances, who are now scattered all over the country.

Lately I've been amusing myself planning my own 1-year-old's college career—and as a first step I'd like to nominate her for "Youth on the Campus" in 1960. I'm registering her for that, if you don't mind, and I'm looking forward to the day when I'll see her picture on a campus—perhaps my own, that of Wisconsin. A requisite of the college, I think, should be that it is one you will visit to make those pictures that we enjoy so much!

MARGARET BILLINGS.

In response Pavlin sent formal assurance that a 1960 date with Miss Billings on some campus somewhere had been entered faithfully in his future book of assignments.

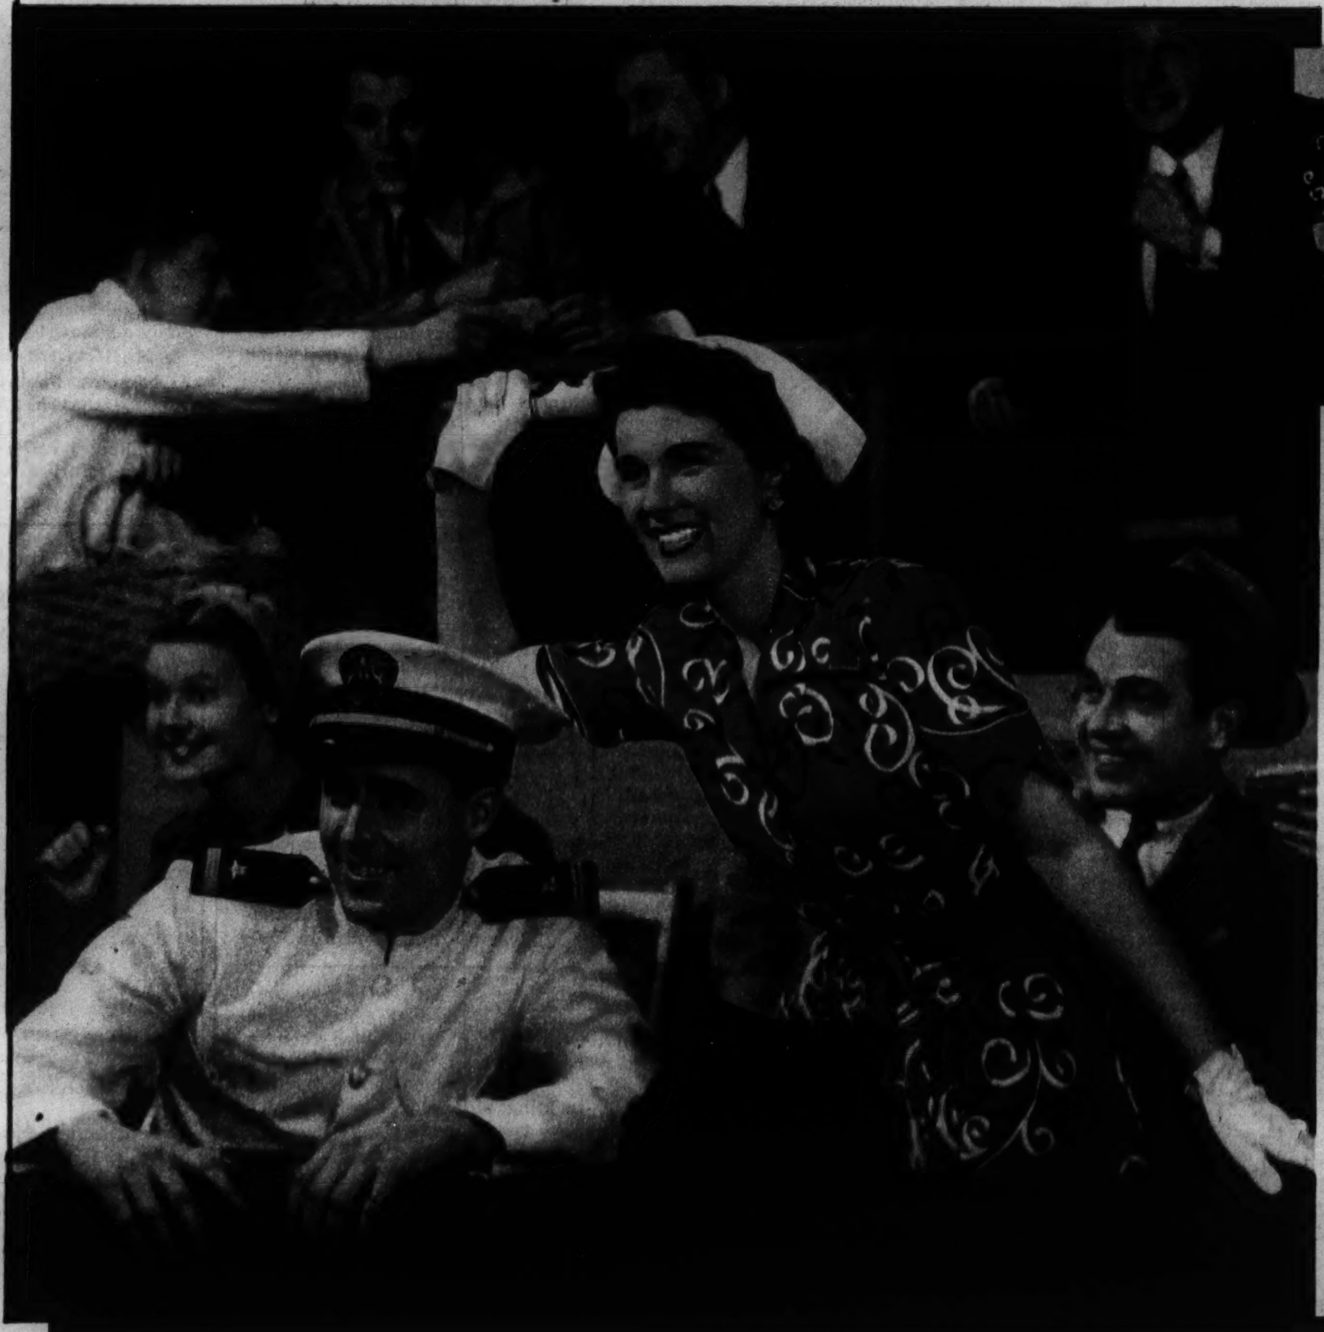
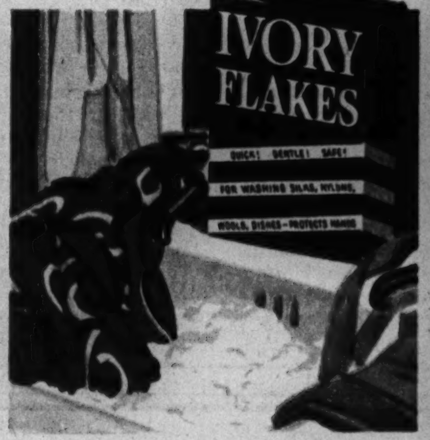
TWICE the Wear with Ivory Flakes Care!"



"OUR LITTLE PITCHER is a chip off the old block," beams Mrs. Emerson Dickman of Great Neck, N. Y. "Bet he grows up and plays ball with the Boston Red Sox, like his pop did before he joined the Navy. Luckily we have family re-unions fairly often. Thank goodness I always have something pretty to wear for those big moments! That's because I've heard about twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care! Replacing clothes these days, when they're so scarce and expensive, would be tough!"

"DON'T TREAT THINGS ROUGHLY with the wrong kind of soap," is Mrs. Dickman's plea. "Change to gentle care with pure, mild Ivory Flakes." Wash tests prove that hard-to-replace dresses, undies, housecoats, sweaters give as much as twice the wear with Ivory Flakes care. So let the flake form of baby's mild Ivory help protect all your pretty washables—stockings, blouses, curtains, girdles!

"MAKE IVORY FLAKES LAST LONGER, TOO!" Mrs. Dickman does—and with good reason. "Soaps use vital war materials," she says, "we daren't waste any! So, measure Ivory Flakes in a cup or glass. Add carefully to lukewarm water. Even a tiny bit whips up heaps of kind-to-colors suds."



Wash tests prove the Ivory Flakes way Helps keep "pretties" bright and gay!

8 In 10 You May Risk Cavities Like These

See that cavity in the tooth at the left? It's NOT decay or erosion! That cavity was caused by daily scouring. Dental clinic studies have shown that over half of all adults examined had these cavities —and more than 8 in 10 risked getting them—cavities ground into the softer tooth structure exposed by receding gums.

BUT—extensive laboratory tests show this: TEETH CLEANED WITH TEEL ARE PROTECTED FROM SUCH CAVITIES . . . BECAUSE TEEL CONTAINS NO SCOURING ABRASIVES. MOREOVER, TEEL IS THE ONLY LEADING DENTIFRICE THAT GIVES YOU THIS PROTECTION.

HE: Simple! Dental studies showed that 8 in 10 adults may risk getting cavities at the gumline.

SHE: Wait a minute, professor. My dentifrice is safe!

HE: You may think so—but studies show that TEEL is the only leading dentifrice that protects you from those ugly gumline cavities.

SHE: But I like the dentifrice I'm using.

once upon a time

there was a dashboard cigarette lighter

It's sweet of you to study the Casco lighter so closely, boys. Truth to tell, we were very proud of it.

It was handsome. It was practical. It was foolproof. It was the cigarette lighter on practically every American automobile before the war.

When it was pushed in, it stayed pushed in—all by its lonesome. And when it was hot enough to light a cigarette, it popped out with a click, turning off its own current. The dear little thing was almost human.

But if you're trying to figure out how our "Pop-Out" lighter could possibly send planes up in smoke, you're barking up the wrong blueprint. You know how it is—all of a sudden you find yourself in a new business. And our new business is making mortar bomb fuses and armor-piercing bullet cores instead of auto lighters, auto spotlights and electric heating pads. Catch on now why you're catching it so badly?

Oddly enough, we knew no more about bullets than Little Orphan Annie when we started out. And the only thing we salvaged from our peacetime production was a habit of doing things in an unusual way and an intimate knowledge of the lives and loves of machines. We're as surprised as you are that we're one of the largest manufacturers of bullet components in America.

And though we'd love to take full credit for pulverizing your aeroplanes, smashing your cities and annihilating your troops, all we can truthfully be is glad we were good enough to make the team. Don't remember us alone when your empires crumble. Remember all the placid little manufacturers like us who showered fire and flame on you.

How could you possibly forget them . . . in hell!

Penicillin

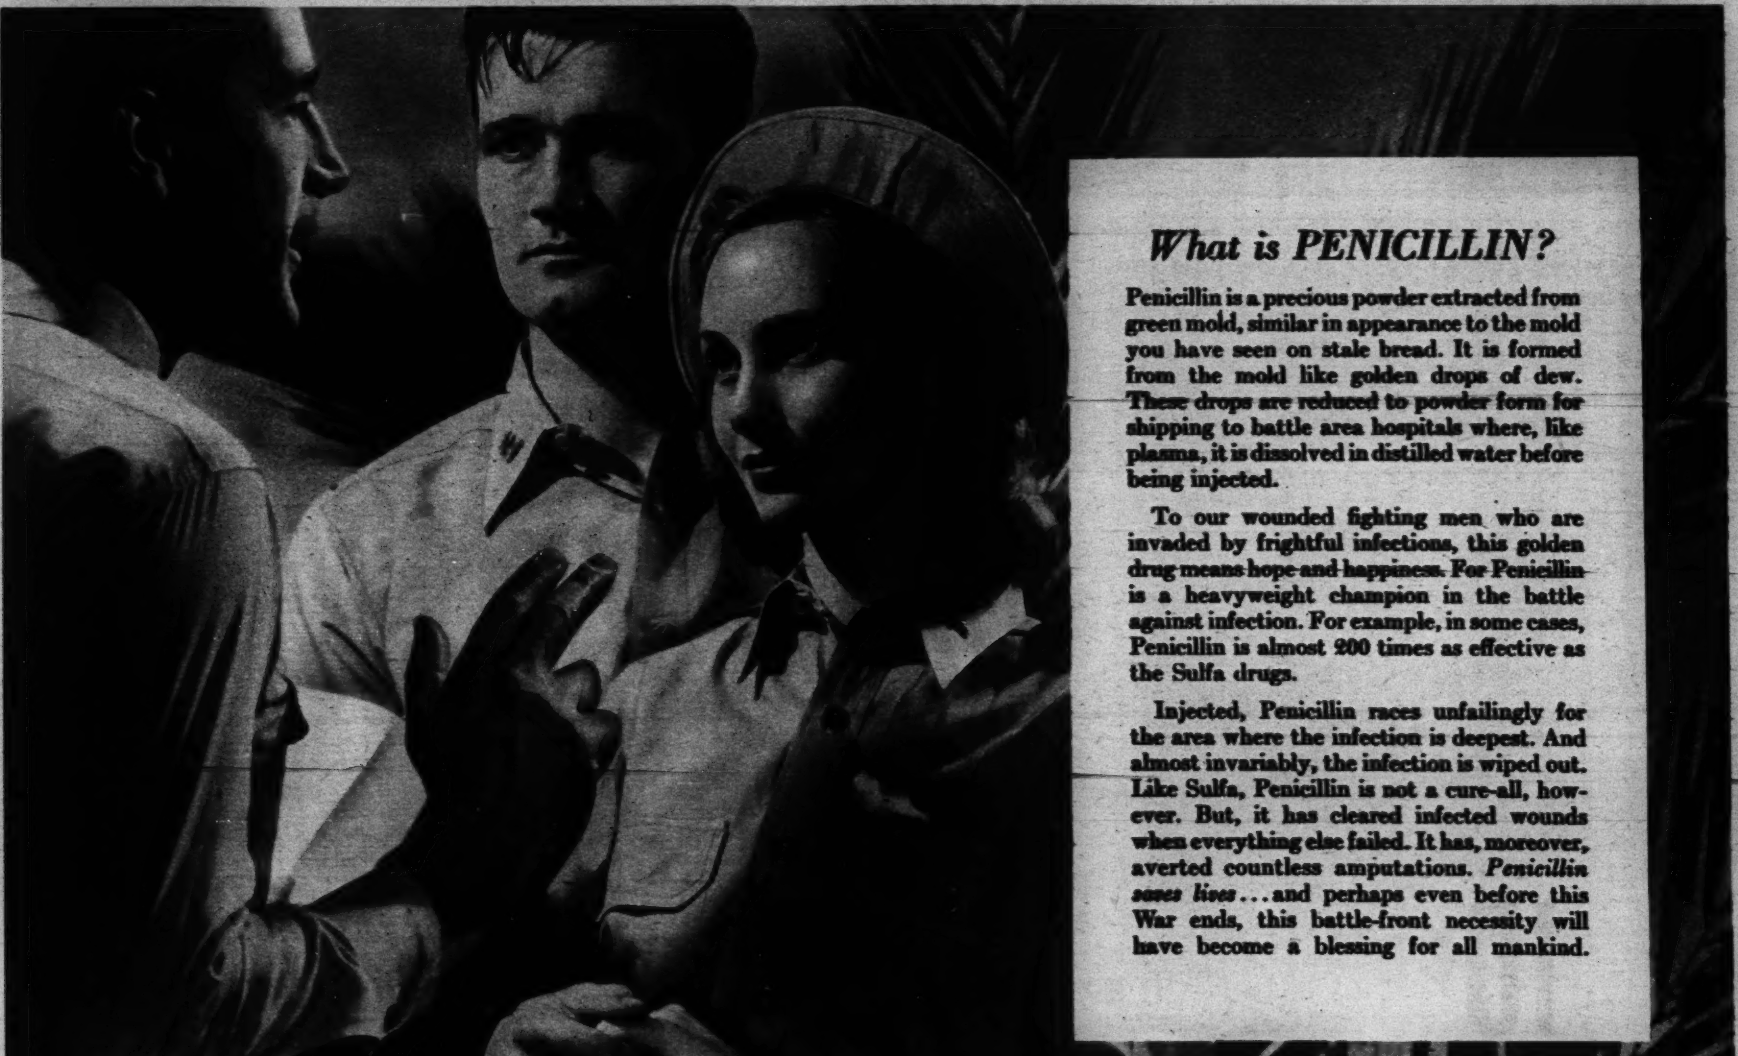
Golden Drug of the Battlefront ...Blessing for Mankind

"HOW PENICILLIN SAVED MY LIFE"
...As a Marine Captain Might Have Told It

I have two legs. My own! You can't know what those words mean. But let me tell you I owe those legs to two of the bravest guys in the world and the miracle drug we call Penicillin ... it happened in the Pacific ... early one dawn ... when we invaded what the papers call an atoll."

"Through the night our battlewagons and planes blasted away 'til we thought they had flattened every tree on the place. Every tree, yes. Every Jap, no. They were still plenty alive ... and shooting! Halfway up the beach something smashed me. I was afraid to look and scared enough to pray. Then, through that blizzard of bullets came two Medical Corpsmen. 'Take it easy, Captain, we'll get you back,' one said. I'll never forget them."

"All I remember of the hospital ship was the whispered consultation over me. 'Looks bad. Have to amputate.' I wept like a baby. But, later I was told the doctors figured out the one long chance of saving my legs. I was flown to base hospital. That was nine weeks ago. Those nine weeks of Penicillin treatment did the trick, as you can see. But that's not all. Those weeks of treatment also got me, a Marine, the prettiest Army nurse in the South Pacific."



What is PENICILLIN?

Penicillin is a precious powder extracted from green mold, similar in appearance to the mold you have seen on stale bread. It is formed from the mold like golden drops of dew. These drops are reduced to powder form for shipping to battle area hospitals where, like plasma, it is dissolved in distilled water before being injected.

To our wounded fighting men who are invaded by frightful infections, this golden drug means hope and happiness. For Penicillin is a heavyweight champion in the battle against infection. For example, in some cases, Penicillin is almost 200 times as effective as the Sulfa drugs.

Injected, Penicillin races unfailingly for the area where the infection is deepest. And almost invariably, the infection is wiped out. Like Sulfa, Penicillin is not a cure-all, however. But, it has cleared infected wounds when everything else failed. It has, moreover, averted countless amputations. Penicillin saves lives ... and perhaps even before this War ends, this battle-front necessity will have become a blessing for all mankind.

Another Brilliant Medical Triumph

Just as Penicillin is making medical history today, so also was medical history made in 1898 by the discovery of Aspirin. Today Bayer Aspirin is trusted whenever men of medicine fight pain ... as a dependable, speedy, effective pain reliever.

Through doctors' advice and through the privilege of selecting the product they prefer by brand name freely and with an open mind, the American people have used more Bayer Aspirin in their homes for the quick, reliable relief of the pain of simple headache, of neuritis and neuralgia than any other analgesic. So when you want relief that's fast and trustworthy, ask for BAYER—the famous name in Aspirin for almost half a century.

"Swifter than a race horse it flew over the icy streets!"

MANY a mustache cup was put down with a clatter. Many a housewife on this wintry Sunday morning in 1900 began to dream and talk of a new family carriage —without a horse!

There on the front page of the newspaper was the thrilling story. Henry Ford had given a reporter a ride in the first Detroit-built automobile—an experimental model. It had been an inspiring experience.

A speed of 25 miles an hour had been attained. The reporter nearly leapt overboard in fright, but had kept his perch over the 3-gallon gas tank.

He was now able to record ecstatically that the "big machine rode with dreamlike smoothness" despite the ruts . . . that it "stopped within six feet" and was off again "like a frightened ghost".

Mr. Ford had proved himself "an expert in cutting circles and other fancy figures". He turned sharp curves "with the grace and ease of a wild bird". Even a milk wagon and a loaded dray had been encountered without mishap!

From these early days, the name Ford has never ceased to be news.

The reason lies in the basic Ford principle: build a sturdy, simple car priced within the reach of the greatest number.

When production was stopped on the 1942 models, more than 30,000,000 Ford-built cars and trucks had taken to the road. Millions of them, the country over, are still serving America's vital transportation needs.

Much of the present news of Ford is of course "restricted", for it has to do with the mass production of giant aircraft and many other tools of victory.

But there will come a day when Ford news will again feature civilian models. You may be sure they will reflect all the ingenuity and precision engineering which are traditional with Ford. They will benefit, too, by the newer knowledge of materials and fabrication methods.

Yes, the Ford cars of the future may even challenge the descriptive powers of that forgotten reporter who, at the turn of the century, rolled along the streets of Detroit "swifter than a race horse".

Scientists checked their findings with photoelectric measuring devices and authorize this statement: Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands . . . brighter than any of them—bar none! These results have been double-checked by identical twins who made practical in-the-home tests . . . by technicians in dental clinics . . . by dentists in their own offices. The result is always the same: Pepsodent Powder makes teeth far brighter. Get Pepsodent Powder to make your teeth brighter . . . today!

You CAN have a new smile!

A smile that's marred by chipped or broken teeth need not be a permanent handicap. Today, modern dentistry can do much to make that smile attractive. For, like the movie stars, you can have chipped or broken teeth recapped. Even crooked, misplaced teeth can be straightened by a series of corrective treatments. Your dentist will tell you what needs to be done and how quickly you can expect results. Yes, it's the truth—your dentist can help you have sound, good-looking teeth, but it's up to you to keep them clean and bright!

You CAN change your voice!

Want to trade a flat, nasal voice for a round, mellow one? First, listen to yourself speak. Hold a newspaper in front of your face as a sounding board. If tones are flat and thin, try lying on your back and breathing from the lower stomach. For colorless, nasal voices, recite the alphabet aloud in front of a mirror, allowing mouth and lips to make tones round and full. And while you're watching your mouth, you'll see why it's so important to use Pepsodent Powder for bright and sparkling teeth.

ENOUGH RIDING

"IF some of you fellows will get an onion I'll make onion crisps for supper," the Teenie Weenie Cook said.

Onion crisp, which is thin slices of onion fried in black walnut oil, is a favorite dish with the Teenie Weenies and the Turk had no trouble in getting the Dunce, the Chinaman and Gogo to help hunt for an onion.

"We ought to find one back of the grocery store," said the Turk as he led the way toward the lane near the Teenie Weenie village. The little men walked down the lane some distance and then took a short cut across a lawn beside a big house. As they passed around the side of the house the Dunce stopped and pointed toward a pair of roller skates that stood near by.

"Let's go and look at those skates," he said.

The little chaps ran to the skates and examined them closely. The skates stood on the top of a little hill and the Dunce was quick to see an advantage in that.

"We could coast down the hill on one of those skates," he suggested

"I didn't come here to roller skate," said the Turk, "I'm after an onion," and he set off toward the grocery while Gogo, the Dunce and the Chinaman pushed one of the roller skates to the top of the hill.

"Now," said the Dunce, "we can all get up onto the skate and start it going down hill with a pole."

Gogo found a long stout twig, but in spite of the fact that all three of the little men pushed with all their might on the twig they couldn't start the skate. They were about to give up in despair when the Turk came in sight with a small onion on his shoulder, and the Dunce asked him to give the skate a push. The Turk put down the onion and began pushing.

Presently the skate started down the hill, but instead of going the way the Teenie Weenies had intended it struck a small stone, bounced off against a bush and upset, spilling the three Teenie Weenies head over heels. Gogo split his sweater right up the back. The Dunce knocked one of his Teenie Weenie teeth loose and the Chinaman got a bloody nose.

"Don't you want to ride down on the other skate?" grinned the Turk when he saw that none of the little chaps was badly hurt.

"NO!" answered the Dunce as he wiggled the loose tooth with his Teenie Weenie finger, "I've had enough riding."

RECRUIT YOUTHS FOR FARM JOBS

PLASTICS USED FOR FIRST TIME IN EYE MAKING

Discovery Climaxes Two Years' Work.

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

After two years of experimentation, Paul Gougelman Sr. of Glencoe has produced the plastic artificial eye. Some members of the industry hail the step as one of the most important in the artificial eye business in 150 years.

Thru the introduction of plastics into eye making the manufacturer believes he has severed for all time the bond which tied American manufacturers to the German monopoly, f r up until the war the American industry was at the mercy of the German cartel, which controled all export of artificial eyes and the glass for making them.

The monopoly has been likened to that of the Venetians, who kept their glass making artisans virtually imprisoned on the island of Murano in the 16th and 17th centuries. For Germany would allow but eight pounds of this highly sensitized colored glass to each worker. Approximately 97 eyes could be made from each pound of this allotment.

Used American Glass.

In order to meet the American market of 350,000 artificial eyes each year, American manufacturers resorted to American glass for the sclera or white portion of the eye, reserving the German product for the iris.

"The plastic eye is a natural development in the industry," said Gougelman. "It is the answer to a search which has been going on for years for a material which has all the artistic merits of glass and is free from many of the disadvantages. We found plastic as easy to handle as glass. It makes an eye which cannot shatter, is more sympathetic to the tissues around the eye, looks more natural, and keeps its color longer than do glass eyes."

Plastic More Costly.

Plastic eyes, however, are more expensive to manufacture and therefore more costly to the purchaser. In order to continue to supply the lower cost product an American glass has been perfected.

Manufacture of glass for eye makers could not interest the glass producer from a profit standpoint. Glass is generally made in tanks holding approximately 50,000 pounds each. These tanks take two weeks to pre-heat. Since the average eye maker uses but 200 to 300 pounds of each color pigmentation a year, poundage was an expensive proposition. It remained cheaper to buy from the German market.

Offer 70,000 Colors.

Now the matter of pigmentation also has been perfected and manufacturers have a collection of almost 70,000 color varieties from which they match the client's eye. This glass is now being used successfully in England.

While the greater portion of the new eye is plastic, the iris or pupil is still made of glass. This is because glass has a three dimensional quality not yet developed in plastic. This allows a reaction to light, similar to that noted in the human eye.

Paul Gougelman's father, Pierre Gougelman, introduced the artificial eye industry into the United States in 1851. He studied his art under a man known simply as Boissenau, for whom he served as interpreter on his travels thru Switzerland, Pierre's native country.

Ordered Out of Germany.

A tutor of languages, Pierre found himself in Germany during the students' revolt of 1848. Known as a sympathizer of the student cause, he was ordered to quit Germany within 48 hours. He chose America as his destination.

He opened the first office of Gougelman & Co. on Van Dam st., in New York, in 1851. Since that time three generations have carried on the work he started and the art is passed down from father to son. Paul Gougelman Jr., 25, son of the man who perfected the new plastic eye, recently established his own business in Chicago.

Skokie Art Guild Develops Latent Talents in Firehouse Studio

Looking pensively at nothing in particular, 2 year-old Jo Clare Crawford models for two members of the children's class at the Skokie Art guild. Charles Owen, 11, prefers to draw planes and war pictures. Bonnie Beth Yost, 9, says she would like to be an artist. Looking on is Mrs. Mary Bornarth, guild president, who helps the children if they want help. [TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

A young sculptor at the guild, Philip Bornarth, 14, is modeling a ballet dancer. Philip is a student at Niles Township High school. He has been sketching and painting since he was 10 and has studied at the Art institute. He would like to be an architect

Hunched over their drawing boards, some of the 40 children in the guild class try their hand at drawing a classmate, Carlene Sistrom, 9. Usually they take turns posing for each other. They meet Sunday afternoons on the top floor of Skokie's firehouse. Besides sketching a model they do imaginative drawings and work with clay. Some of the children come from Chicago and Evanston.

On Wednesday nights the 17 adult members of the guild haul out their easels and smocks and go to work. A few of them are professional artists who take a busman's holiday at the guild. The others are housewives, engineers, and business men, who paint for fun and relaxation. The art guild was started three years ago. Members fixed up the studio and built most of the equipment themselves. The model is Margot Koche, a dancer who belongs to the guild. (Story on page 3.)

Mother Finds Triplets Are Bit of Enigma

Life in a family where there are girl triplets, a 3 month old baby, and four other children, all under 12, is somewhat complicated.

Take gifts, for example. If Mrs. Catherine Manzella, whose husband, Mario, is a truck driver, goes shopping for one present she feels she has to get eight.

With the triplets, she can't make a fuss over just one. She has to get all three on her lap or their feelings are hurt.

The triplets had their third birthday recently. They are Jean, Joan, and Judith, all blonde and all blue eyed. But their mother never has had any difficulty telling them apart, their personalities are so different.

Joan Isn't Playful.

Joan, for example, doesn't play much with the other two. "Whatever I'm doing, she's right there," Mrs. Manzella said. The other day when her mother was about to scrub the kitchen floor Joan asked for a pail of water and a brush and went to work, imitating Mrs. Manzella's movements almost exactly.

Jean is more persistent than her sisters and likes to have her own way. Judith, Mrs. Manzella said, is the motherly type. Whenever Mario Jr. begins to cry, however, all three of them rush to him and take turns rocking him. Mrs. Manzella is afraid he's going to be spoiled.

"The triplets eat as much as a grownup," she said, "and they love spaghetti and chicken soup." She makes most of their clothes, identical sets of pajamas and panties and dresses.

Triplets Are Chalk Artists.

The family lives in a second floor flat at 2224 N. Clybourn av. The triplets have their own room, with a dresser, blackboard, and three little oak beds. They like to pretend to write on the blackboard. "E, e, e," they'll say, running to Mrs. Manzella with chalk marks on their hands. "See, a, a, e, e, e." Their mother, however, hasn't been able to identify the letters so far.

"You ought to see them jive when the radio is turned on," she said. "They jig to the music, march and do a conga chain." Mrs. Manzella is planning a dancing career for them.

Mrs. Manzella is 29; small and dark haired. The four older children, by a previous marriage, are Joseph, 12; John, 10; Mary, 8, and Andrew, 5.

NORTH SIDE AREA TO HONOR FLYER LOST OVER TRUK

Dedication of a plaque honoring Lt. [j. g.] Albert Lilienthal, 533 Belmont av., who was killed in a bomber action over Truk three months ago, will take place at 2 p. m. today at Briar pl. and Cambridge av.

City and navy officials and members of the OCD and R. O. T. C. from Lake View High school, where Lt. Lilienthal attended classes, and the Lincoln Park American Legion post will participate in the unveiling ceremonies. Rabbi Abraham Hirschberg of Temple Sholom will speak. Paul Mills, block captain, will direct the program.

Lt. Lilienthal was one of the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Lilienthal of the Belmont av. address. He was an honor student at the University of Illinois before entering the service.

Report Lt. W. S. Sayles Is Prisoner of Germans

Second Lt. Willard S. Sayles, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sayles of Evanston, a bombardier navigator with a 94th bombardment group in England, is now a prisoner of war, according to word received by his parents. He was reported missing over Berlin on March 8, when two engines were shot out of the B-17 bomber on which he was flying. Members of his squadron observed four or five of the crew parachute out. It is now believed that Lt. Sayles was one of this group.

Women at War

Anita Stueland, a member of the first marine corps women's reserve platoon to be recruited largely from the Chicago area, is stationed at Parris Island, S. C. A brother, Lt. Gerald Stueland, is with the infantry in Hawaii. Miss Stueland formerly lived at 6353 N. Glenwood av.

Anita Stueland.

Priscilla Higinbotham, 6041 Kenmore av., has been promoted to WAC technician 5th grade at Camp Stewart, Ga. She is assigned to the station hospital there as general clerk.

Pvt. Annemarie J. Berndt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berndt, 5104 N. Winthrop av., and Pvt. Katherine Reid of Evanston are among the newest members in the WAC at Fort Sheridan.

Pvt. Berndt was born in Vienna and left Austria six months after it was occupied by Germany. Her father, at one time concertmaster of the Vienna Symphony orchestra, was interned in a Nazi concentration camp for three months before he escaped.

Pvt. Reid, a civilian chauffeur for the sixth service command before entering the army, is one of four WAC grandmothers at the fort. She has two brothers in service and a sister in the army nurse corps in North Africa.

Pvt. Frieda Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, 1932 Hudson av., has completed WAC training at Fort Des Moines, Ia., and is stationed at Casper, Wyo.

STUDENTS HELP EASE SHORTAGE OF HIRED HANDS

Boys, Girls to Take Work Near City.

A campaign to recruit boys and girls from 14 thru 17 as farm volunteers to relieve the farm labor shortage in this area is getting underway this week in north side schools. Registration will be held until May 25.

North side suburban schools are enlisting farm helpers under a more informal plan. Each school is paired with a county and working arrangements are made between the farmers in that county and the students.

C. A. Hughes, cook county farm adviser, has said that 2,000 volunteers are needed. It is expected that the majority of boys and girls from north side city schools will work on truck farms nearby and live at home. Transportation will be arranged for the volunteer workers.

To Organize Work Crews.

Work crews will be organized, and volunteers who show leadership qualities and who are good workers will be appointed supervisors. They will be responsible for seeing that the farm jobs are done well.

In addition to weekly wages, boys and girls who spend the major part of the summer doing farm work will be given certificates by the Cook county agricultural extension service.

In the suburbs New Trier, Highland Park, and Waukegan Township High schools are paired with Lake county. Ray T. Nicholas, Lake county farm adviser, said that so far about 50 farmers have indicated they will need help this summer.

Students to Live on Farms.

"Last year farmers were reluctant to take students, but by the end of the season they were happy to have them," said Nicholas. Students will live on the farms and receive, on an average, $30 to $40 a month, as well as board and room. One Lake county farmer was so pleased with the boy who was helping him last year that he had raised his pay to $70 a month by the end of the summer, Nicholas said.

Cecil Hook, farm labor assistant for Lake county, will talk to prospective volunteers at New Trier High school this week. Matthew P. Gaffney, superintendent, who is in charge of the farm program, said that week-end trips will be made to the farms to acquaint volunteers with the nature of the work. Last year 160 New Trier boys worked on farms.

Many Already Have Jobs.

Highland Park High school had 80 boys and girls helping farmers last summer, said Frank Peers, farm adviser at the school, and many students have jobs lined up for this season. A farm training class was held last year, but there will be none this spring. Instead, volunteers will go to Grays Lake to interview farmers.

Al Grosche, conducting the farm help program at Waukegan Township High school, expects about 25 volunteers this year. Three Saturday field trips are planned, with a trip to Grays Lake this week.

Expects 20 Volunteers.

Evanston Township High school has been paired with McHenry county. M. L. Hampton, business manager of the school, expects at least 20 volunteeers. There probably will be no training classes at the school, he said.

Among those working with Hughes on the farm aid program are Frank Gingrich, assistant state farm adviser; C. N. Glover, assistant farm adviser for Cook county; Elmer J. Steil, county farm labor supervisor, and Leland Medsker, assistant director of the occupational research bureau of the board of education.

FIREHOUSE ART CENTER BUILDS SKOKIE LEGEND

Cape Cod and Maine and the fishing villages along the east coast have artists' colonies that are legendary now. But in the last three years, in the picturesque town of Skokie, a legend has been growing too, about the art guild that meets in the red brick firehouse built before the turn of the century.

Not for professional purposes do these guild members meet. The people there paint for the joy of painting, for relaxation from their day by day professions, as business men play Bach and housewives act Ophelia in amateur orchestras and community playhouses.

Children Meet Sundays.

On Wednesday nights, in paint smeared smocks, the 17 members set up their easels around the model's stand and go to work. No one acts as instructor. "When we get in a mess with perspective or shading we help each other," said R. E. Dickinson, who by day is in the printing business.

Sunday afternoons more than 40 children come to the guild from Evanston and from Chicago as well as Skokie. Mrs. Mary Bornarth, president, is there to help them, if they want help, with their drawings. "We try not to interfere with the children," she said. "We want them to develop their imagination and their own style."

The studio is on the upper floor of the firehouse, in what used to be the old town meeting quarters. The room was donated to the guild rent free, with heat and light, by the town mayor, George Blameuser.

Dress Up Place.

Guild members modernized the place to suit themselves. They painted the walls white, installed indirect lighting, and built horses, benches with one end high as a brace for drawing boards.

Typical of the members is Mrs. Virginia Bartlett, a housewife and former social worker, who paints "just for fun." A few are commercial artists, such as Miss Virginia Thulstrup, who likes to paint with the guild because "we can do anything we want to and nobody bothers us."

Lawrence W. Stine, a mechanical engineer, belongs to the group for a different reason. "Five years ago," he said, "I went to an exhibit of paintings with my wife. After looking it over I told her, 'I think I could do better than that!'" He's out to prove he can.

Soldier's Bride

Mrs. Joseph A. Silvers, the former Joy Muriel Malnick, and her husband are now living in Bend, Ore., where he is a private in the army engineers. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Malnick, 2041 Farwell av. Pvt. Silvers' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silvers, 6618 N. Ashland av.

SALUTE 100,00TH YOUNG CITIZEN ON W-G-N ON WEDNESDAY

The 100,000th student in the Chicago area to participate in W-G-N's Citizens of Tomorrow will be announced by Philip Maxwell, who conducts the show, during the recording of the program at Aquinas High school next Wednesday afternoon. This program will be broadcast at 1:30 p. m. next Sunday.

At the same hour today the Citizens of Tomorrow will salute the Marengo [Ill.] Community High school. Principal Oscar P. Barthel will speak and the Girls' Glee club, directed by H. W. Since the program was introduced four years ago 137 shows have been broadcast, saluting 98 public, 25 Catholic, and various other schools. When the program originated 600 guests from the school saluted came to W-G-N's main studio for a "live" broadcast. When the transportation problem became acute in October, 1942, W-G-N began taking recording equipment to the schools and transcribing the programs for presentation on Sundays.

Since the beginning 309 students have had their names added to the roll of honor. Thru the coöperation of colleges and universities of the midwest nearly 50 of these students have received scholarships.

The Symphony hour is a summer replacement for the Theater of the Air operas and operettas. It is presented in the main audience studio.

SGT. LYON DOWNS A YANKEE PLANE; MAY GET MEDAL

Blasts Nazi Trickster in Italian Raid.

Sgt. Robert R. Lyon, son of Mrs. Rachael Lyon, 6961 Ravenswood av., had the unique experience of shooting down an American fighter plane recently. The plane previously had crashed over enemy territory and had been rebuilt by the Germans and then sent into battle against American bombers making a raid over Benevento, Italy.

Not until the Nazi pilot had succeeded in shooting down three of our craft, did Sgt. Lyon send the plane and the pilot hurtling towards earth.

Trailed by Messerschmitts.

In telling of the battle, Sgt. Lyon said, "Thirty-six of our Mitchells were making a raid over Benevento. As we approached the railroad yards target, we saw the Warhawk fighter come streaking toward us. Streaming smoke, it was pursued by 40 Messerschmitts. Since it was one of our planes, we thought it was piloted by a yank in trouble, and was headed towards our formation for protection.

"As soon as he closed in, he opened fire. He blazed right thru the tail end of our group and shot down three of our bombers before I nailed him at 400 yards. He exploded, but by that time, the 40 Messerschmitts had piled in on us," Lyon said.

Got Nazi Plane, Too.

"Seconds after I had shot down the Warhawk, I hit another German fighter plane. It too went down in flames. We got 22 of the enemy's planes that trip, but we sure had to fight our way out of that mess."

Sgt. Lyon, 25, is now at the A. A. F. redistribution center at Atlantic City. Before coming home he shot down his third plane over Sicily and escaped uninjured from crash landings in Africa, Sicily, and Italy. He holds the air medal with eight oakleaf clusters and has been recommended for the distinguished flying cross for his action in the Benevento raids.

Pupils Buy Plane.

The treasury department has notified the Winnetka public schools that a sponsor's certificate, representing the pupils' bond purchases, has been placed in a Mustang fighter plane.

N. SIDE SCHOOL TOPS CATHOLICS IN PAPER DRIVE

Transfiguration Collects 47,209 Pounds.

With a total of 47,209 pounds of scrap paper, or 472.09 pounds per pupil, Transfiguration school, 5044 N. Rockwell st., was first place winner among Chicago's parochial elementary schools in the five week contest for $1,000 in prizes donated by the Chicago waste paper campaign committee. Transfiguration's 100 pupils worked "day and night" during the late stages of the drive to keep their lead, said Sister Mary Henrietta, school principal.

On collection days paper was brought to school in every sort of conveyance, from doll buggies to wheel chairs. The older boys stacked the bundles and the sisters did all the tying and weighing themselves.

Paces Girl Workers.

Leader among girl collectors was Felicia Czerwionka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Czerwionka, 2541 Carmen av., a fifth grader. This 10 year old youngster often travels two or three miles on her waste paper search, she said. Sometimes she meets relays of friends who accompany her until they tire.

"If one gets tired, then I leave her and find another friend to go with me for awhile," said Felicia. "I always keep going until I have a big stack of paper. I never get very tired."

With three members of her family in service, Felicia is anxious to help "get the war won." Her sister, Irene, 22, is a second class yeoman in the SPARs. One brother, Pvt. Frank, 19, is overseas and another brother, Fred, 24, is a staff sergeant in Louisiana. Felicia gets help on her paper collection from her father, a fireman, who gathers waste paper at the station and brings it home to her each week.

Sisters Share Loads.

Another leader among the girls was Peggy O'Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O' Neil, 2552 Gunnison st., a fourth grader. Peggy says her mother "has fits because I'm so anxious to save waste paper that I even take new magazines to school before the family has read them."

Her father, a railway express worker, also helps with her collectoins of waste paper by driving her around in the car, often as far north as Evanston. While Peggy runs in to ask for paper at offices and factories he waits in the car 'catching up on his sleep." She explained that his working hours are long and that sometimes he has only a few hours' sleep before his daughters are "begging him to get up and help them find some waste paper. Peggy's sister, Kathleen, is in first grade at Transfiguration. "And she insists on getting half of whatever I collect," Peggy complained laughingly.

Boys Active, Too.

Leaders among the boys included Robert Siegel, Eugene Adankiewicz, and Joe Zielinski. Thirteen and in the sixth grade, Robert collected almost three tons of paper during the last drive. A grocery store, where he formerly worked after school, contributed 700 pounds to his collection at one time. Robert has three brothers in service. They are Barney of the marines and Bill of the merchant marine, 20 year old twins, and Eddie, a seaman first class in the navy. Bill and Eddie are overseas.

An eighth grader, Eugene has two brothers in service. They are Lt. Louis, who is overseas, and John, a seaman first class, stationed at Great Lakes. Altho Joe, also an eighth grader, has no brothers in service, he has the same reason as the other two leading collectors for his hard work on the waste paper drive. I tis "to get all our boys back home as soon as possible."

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 15.

It is almost too late to make additional sowings of the early, cool crops, but after May 20 beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, and the tender things like tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers can be planted. Summer radishes can be sown and lettuce under cheesecloth may prove successful. It needs a mellow soil with copious amounts of water. Remember to cultivate just as soon as the rows can be distinguished and after a rain as soon as the soil is sufficiently dry. Begin to thin the plants just as soon as they can be handled.

Tuesday, May 16

If you live in a community where cow manure can be obtained, take a bushel of it, place it in a burlap bag and suspend it in a 50 gallon container of water. When the color of tea pour it along the sides of the vegetable rows. You may also use commercial fertilizers by simply scattering it along both sides of the row at the rate of 4 pounds to each 100 foot row. Hoe under and water in.

By planting a collar of paper close to the stems of tomatoes, cabbage, and other plants the cutworm will not be able to disturb them. It is a practice well worth while but the operation should be done right to be effective.

Wednesday, May 17

Be sure to examine your plants for insect pests by looking at the underside. Insects are certain to seek the hidden places to lay their eggs and unless discovered before they hatch in endless numbers they are likely to cause considerable damage. If liquid sprays are used buy an angle attachment so the spray can be sent upward and beneath the leaves without difficulty.

Thursday, May 18

If there is a better and more popular flowering plant than the geranium it has yet to be introduced. It is a plant for the million because it is a fine bedding and window plant.

Like all plants it will respond to good care, but it should not be given too much nitrogen or the growth will be too soft and rank. It likes to be "on the dry side" as the grower would say, which means that too much water should not be given it. Some of the best varieties include red barney, Mrs. E. G. Hill, S. A. Nutt, beaute poitevine, Jean Viaud, and Alphonse Riccard. They do well when grown to a comparatively large size for patio display in pots.

Still another group that is excellent for city conditions is the Cannas, which grow from rhizomes. They revel in hot weather and plenty of water when well established.

Friday, May 19

Among annuals of superior worth for city gardens may be listed the following: Petunias for general purposes with the small flowering types for bedding and the balcony types for window boxes. Some cities have selected the petunia for their official flower because it flowers so profusely and is so satisfactory. One community has adopted the four o'clock as its official flower for it does so well under adverse conditions.

Zinnias are among the best of the annuals but cosmos, snapdragons, portulaca do well in exceedingly hot and dry locations. If plants are purchased, the verbena, viola, and others fill the garden with a good range of color.

Saturday, May 20

Practically everything can be planted outdoors now for there is little likelihood of frost injury. Tie up all straggling plants and especially stake tomatoes when growing them on the small plot. Keep the hoe going at least once a week. Watch for insect pests and never allow them to gain any headway or disaster may result.

Thin all plants to give those remaining a chance to grow to their maximum size and produce all they can. Do not sow too much of any one thing for it may be a waste of time, labor, and produce.

AWNINGS NEED CARE; THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE!

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

You are fortunate this year if you have awnings. Since they are of critical material it will pay to take good care of them.

Here are a few ways you can add to their longevity:

Paint them now, if they need it. Employ a special type of awning paint. If the frames show any signs of rusting get rid of this rust by sandpapering and then apply a coat of metallic paint.

Sturdy overcoatings for awnings are available which can be used over the paint, a water repellent material which will leave the awning pliable and give it a "double protection."

If your awnings are merely in need of a cleaning there are colorless cleaners available, liquids which can be applied with a cloth to freshen colors, increase flexibility and assist in protection against sun.

Check before putting up the awnings to make sure there are no breaks in the canvas. If you have to use a carpet thread to mend awning you can run it thru paraffin to make it resist weather. Some people brush just a little hot paraffin into the seams of their ownings to help preserve them.

GREEN'S OUT, BUT IN AS WAUKEGAN SCHOOL LEADER

Council Votes No on Only Nominee.

Reappointment of Wallace A. Green as president of the board of education of Waukegan city schools was rejected recently by the city council by a vote of 8 to 6.

MAYBE SHE DID SPANK YOUR LIT'L...

That was long, long ago when your future destiny and the destiny of this land of ours was being shaped and guided by your mother's busy hands. That was in the dim, dim past when you brought your broken cart to her to be mended, and you asked her to make you a kite that would reach way, way up into the sky.

How long since you leaned your little elbow upon her tired knee, and with happy little eyes, dear dewey blue eyes that set beneath a thatch of tangled hair, looked lovingly up into hers and asked for 'one 'ittle kiss for my teddy bear, and one 'ittle uzzer for me!'

There were those footprints, when days were wet, you streaked across her shining floor or your little muddy boots, or cap, or jacket that lay right where your busy, rowdy little self would leave them. Yes, maybe she did spank your lit'l . . . But in her hands was the keeping of your tomorrow. . . .

Today is your MOTHER'S day. . . . The day the world calls her own. If she could but find again that little muddy boot, or cap or jacket on her spotless floor; if she could but kiss that rosy, restless foot and hear it patter in her home once more. . . . How blissfully content she would be. But . . . for the mothers of those brave and stalwart sons who are arrayed against a mad arrogance which would enslave the earth, the sea, the heavens, and their very souls—that's not to be—and yet . . .

Even though she did occasionally spank your lit'l . . . She's planning for the day when you will come home. She knows she's going to be mighty proud of the man she made out of her boy, she knows, because, didn't she use to say to you:

"Son, don't aim to be an earthly saint, with eyes fixed on a star,
Just try to be the fellow that your Mother thinks you are."

ENROLL YOUTHS TO HELP ON FARMS

ORGANIZE DRIVE FOR $1,000,000 SOUTH SHORE Y

District's Goal Set at $275,000.

Plans for a campaign organization to raise the community's share of $1,000,000 for a new Y. M. C. A. building in the south shore district are now being formed. The new building, which is to be at 71st st. and Bennett av., will occupy the entire block, according to H. F. Wuehrmann, president of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago.

The new Y will have complete modern facilities, including swimming pool, gymnasia, health rooms, handball courts, game and clubrooms, lounges, library, craft shops, space for social and recreational groups, a large dormitory section, and accommodations for luncheons, banquets, and large meetings.

The South Shore Y. M. C. A. has been operating its program for the last 13 years in rented quarters at 2320 E. 75th st. The new building will be the newest and one of the largest Y. M. C. A. structures in the city.

Mall to Direct Drive.

It is planned that $275,000 will be raised in the community by public subscription, Wuehrmann said. If this amount is secured, the board of managers of the Y of Chicago will contribute another $275,000 for the building and the remaining $450,000 will be financed as an investment of the general endowment funds of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago.

Arthur W. Mall, president of the Mall Tool company, 7740 South Chicago av., has been appointed by the Y. M. C. A. board of directors as general chairman of the campaign. Mall, who resides on Varden lane in Flossmoor, has been actively interested in Y. M. C. A. affairs ever since he founded his firm in Milwaukee and lived for many years in a Milwaukee Y dormitory room.

Name Committee Members.

William H. Clay, 7753 Kingston av., president of the board of directors of the South Shore Y, will serve as general co-chairman of the financial campaign.

An executive committee of the following South Shore men will direct the drive: Clinton W. Howe, 2315 E. 69th st.; O. H. Baehler, 8139 Paxton av.; J. Wesley Blades, 8200 Crandon av.; Charles E. Bradley, 7443 Luella av.; James Bridge, 7803 Cregier av.; James N. Elliott, 7317 Chappel av.; Walter B. Kessens, 7731 Yates av.; F. W. Mezek, 7425 Harvard av.; Harry J. Pulling, 7621 Colfax av., and Dan W. Stevens, 8142 Paxton av.

Chairmen of special gifts committees, women's committees, and committees to arrange meetings, a speakers' bureau, church coöperation, prospect lists, and publicity will be appointed by Mr. Mall this week.

SEVILLE ORDER'S 10TH MASS WILL BE HELD SUNDAY

More than 1,000 members of the Order of Seville, which is comprised of employes of the Railway Express agency, are expected to receive holy communion at their 10th annual mass at 8 a. m. next Sunday in old St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines sts. The Rev. Lawrence Kenney, newly appointed chaplain of Castel 3 of the Order of Seville, will celebrate the mass, which is being said for the employes of the company who have died in the last year and for the 1,575 railway express men in military services. The mass will be followed by a breakfast and meeting in the church hall. P. C. Conroy will introduce the newly elected officers. They are T. J. Dunn, James Ragona, J. M. Myrne, L. P. Engemann, L. J. Kelley, J. P. Butler, John J. White, and N. J. Powers.

WINIFRED HECKMAN WINS ART LEAGUE'S SEARCH FOR TALENT

Winifred M. Heckman, 7818 Crandon av., recently was named winner of a talent contest, sponsored by the Greater South Side Four Arts league. Miss Heckman won first prize gold medal two years ago in the contralto division in the Chicago Music Festival.

Gertrude Powell

Winifred M. Heckman.

Second place went to Gertrude Powell, 7114 Merrill av., a soprano. She has sung with the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Both singers will be featured as soloists in the Greater South Side Music festival in August under the direction of Emma Rund, program chairman of the league.

Tribune V-Mail Photos Sent Over World on Mother's Day

Mother's day tributes to the wives of service men are the V-mail pictures which appear in today's Metropolitan section and are being sent to the fighting fathers thruout the world.

This is an especially happy Mother's day for Mrs. Lara Radloff, a native of Iceland who met her husband, Horace, when he was stationed there with the army. They were married in Iceland and when Pvt. Radloff was transferred, they agreed that Mrs. Radloff should live with his sister in Lansing, Ill.

She encountered many difficulties in her trip to Illinois. After weathering months at sea, traveling to Scotland and then to America in a convoy, she arrived in October, 1943. She found his sister, meanwhile, had followed her husband, who had been drafted, to his station in California. It took courage for Mrs. Radloff to make a home for herself in a strange country without a single acquaintance.

Son Is 10 Weeks Old.

Mrs. Radloff met Mrs. Lorraine Lorenz, 18307 Torrence av., who worked next door to where she lived. They became friendly and discovered Mrs. Lorenz' parents had been friends of Horace's parents. Mrs. Radloff now has a home with Mrs. Lorenz' sister-in-law, Mrs. John Hargesheimer, 2437 183d st., Lansing. Mrs. Radloff's son, Horace Gisle Robert, is 10 weeks old. Pvt. Radloff is stationed in Ireland and entered the service before Pearl Harbor.

Corp. Charles Paul Herich stationed in England with a medical corps will have his wishes answered when he receives the V-mail picture of Charles Robert, his 6 month old son. Corp. Herich was sent overseas last August and the baby was born in October. Mrs. Herich and Charles Robert are living at 425 E. 89th st.

Has Two Pinup Girls.

Petty Officer Hugh H. Buffington will boast a picture of his two favorite pinup girls when he receives this V-mail photo of daughter, Bonnie Ann, 15 months old, and Pauline, his wife. Officer Buffington, an engineer, enlisted in the navy in October, 1940, and was sent overseas in June, 1942. His wife and daughter reside at 5120 Harper av.

Capt. S. W. Rosenberg, who has been overseas 14 months and now is stationed in Italy, will add a third picture to the collection of family photos. Arlene, 6 months old, is the third Rosenberg child. Rochelle, 5 years old; Robert, 3, and his wife, Jeanette, complete the roll call at their home, 5201 Blackstone av.

The captain, a surgeon in an infantry regiment, recently wrote his wife that he was the first American army medical officer to land on the continent of Europe in the battle of Salerno Sept. 9. He has been in service more than three years. He received his medical training at the Cook county hospital, and had his practice in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mothers Are Sisters.

Mrs. H. W. Allen and Mrs. Norman W. Mackie, both of 4840 Lake Park av., have much in common. Besides being sisters, they are both wives of service men and recently became mothers of husky sons.

Lt. H. W. Allen is a bombardier on a B-24 in Italy, and recently was awarded the air medal with oak leaf cluster. He left for overseas duty Jan. 5, 1944, and his son, Stephen, was born Jan. 15, 1944.

Norman W. Mackie, lieutenant [j. g.], has been overseas more than a year and is stationed now in the South Pacific. His son, David William, is 8 months old.

South Shore Y Auxiliary to End Season Wednesday

The Women's auxiliary of the South Shore Y. M. C. A. will hold its final meeting of the season at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the clubrooms at 2320 E. 75th st. Mrs. Walter B. Kessens, 7731 Yates av., program chairman, will introduce Emma Rund, whose pupils will present the "Yankee Doodle Review." Mrs. John H. Bird and her committee will serve luncheon. Mrs. E. R. Peterson, 7740 Euclid av., is the new president.

STUDENTS WILL EASE SHORTAGE OF HIRED HANDS

Seek 200 to Live at Thornton Camp.

South and Southwest students in public and parochial schools will register between now and May 25 for volunteer jobs on farms this summer to ease the farm labor shortage in this area. Two hundred Chicago students are being recruited to live at the Thornton victory farm volunteer camp near Harvey in the Cook county forest preserve, which will be open between June 26 and Aug. 26.

Volunteers at the Thornton camp will be sent out daily to farmers who need assistance in weeding, planting, cultivating, and harvesting. Other boys and girls from city and suburban schools will live with the farmers for whom they work, it was announced recently by C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm adviser, and Frank Gingrich, assistant state farm labor supervisor.

Boys and girls from southern suburban high and elementary schools who volunteer their services for several weeks or months during the summer will live at home and be called for by their employer each morning, or they will live at the farmer's home.

Organize Work Crews.

To increase efficiency, work crews of from three to seven boys and girls are being organized in suburban schools before the beginning of the summer vacation. Farmers will apply at the schools and at the Thornton camp for available crews. Boys displaying qualities of leadership, ability, and responsibility will be appointed crew leaders. On the shoulders of these "morale men" will fall the duties of dealing with farmers, of keeping crews together, and of getting work done as the farmers want it.

Blue registration cards are now available at school offices and from officials at the following places: Cook county farm bureau, 201 N. Dunton st., Arlington Heights, and 2414 W. Grove av., Blue Island; Raymond Gouwens, Thornton township High school, 151st st. and Broadway, Harvey, and Clarence Helmrath, Washington Elementary school, 16th st. and Chicago rd., Chicago Heights.

All cards will be turned over to the agricultural extension service of the emergency farm labor program or to the schools. Applicants will be placed, if possible, on the type of farm they prefer. When beginning work, they will be given identification cards.

To Receive Certificates.

At the end of the season the juvenile farm laborers will be awarded certificates in recognition of their work. Altho the volunteers are too young for army service or war plant work, the certificate will acknowledge their contribution to the war food production program.

Volunteers will be paid weekly wages on a sliding scale based upon their ability and experience.

Elmer J. Steil, emergency farm labor supervisor for Cook county, expects that 2,000 boys and girls will register in the county this year. Volunteers last summer totaled 1,950. This summer many are expected to come from elementary schools, he said, because many high school students have summer jobs formerly held by war plant workers.

Many farmers, once dubious of the value of the young city workers, are eager this year to reëngage the same crews they had last summer. A survey by state farm labor officials at the close of last summer's work showed 85 per cent of the farmers voted for reëmployment of their helpers. Eighty-seven per cent of the students who volunteered last summer voted to return to service in the land army this year. The survey, which only accounted for 25 per cent of the total workers, also disclosed that 40 per cent of the boys and girls had no previous farm experience.

Youths to Ease Shortage.

Formerly dependent upon transient workers and the seasonal employes from Chicago, the 1,000 vegetable farmers south of Chicago face a critical help shortage with the juvenile volunteers will help alleviate.

When the Thornton camp closes, at the end of the summer, 500 Jamaicians will be available to farmers in this area to harvest their tomato and other autumn crops.

The school volunteers will work at weeding the various crops and tending early onion sets, the largest single crop in the south area, as well as carrots, beets, beans, and parsnips. They will detassel corn, pick fruit, work in canneries, thrash, mow, and bale grain crops, milk cows, drive tractors, take care of live stock, harness, and drive teams.

Working with Hughes, Gingrich, and Steil on the farm aid program are Charles Glover, assistant county farm adviser; Robert Krejeci, Boy Scout camp supervisor who will act as advisor to the director of the Thornton camp; Leland Medsker, assistant director of the occupational research bureau of the board of education; and Noble Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

ST. THOMAS WINS SECOND IN SCRAP PAPER CAMPAIGN

Six Year Old Leads with 6,309 Pound Total.

Second place winner among parochial schools in the recent five week contest for $1,000 in prizes donated by the Chicago waste paper campaign committee was St. Thomas the Apostle, 5467 Woodlawn av. A runner-up in the first prize contest, St. Thomas finished the second with a total of 131,668 pounds of waste paper, or 252.72 pounds per pupil. Eleven pupils at the school brought more than 1,000 pounds apiece.

Six year old George Reese Jr., with energy matching his bright red curls, led all other pupil collectors with his contribution of 6,309 pounds of waste paper. This peppy little kindergartener, whose parents reside at 5435 Cornell av., goes by himself on a waste paper route thru his neighborhood several times weekly. He has cultivated numerous friends among building janitors, his mother said, and they usually have stacks of paper waiting for him.

Wears Three Stars.

When the paper is all collected on the back porch of his home, George's father takes it to school in the car. Not happy unless he is dressed in juvenile army or navy uniform, the tiny contest winner is jubilant at reaching the "rank" of three star general, on the basis of school custom according to make-believe army and navy ranks to pupils reaching certain quotas in the waste paper drive. Two pounds of scrap paper is the requirement for enlistment, said Sister Agnesita, school principal. Quota for an army "captaincy" is 500 pounds.

Various other titles and individual prizes are given collection leaders each week, the principal said. A baseball, a silver dollar, some war stamps, or candy bars are often the awards. An individual record is kept of each child's waste paper contribution, Sister Agnesita said, and, altho it entails a large amount of bookkeeping for teachers, the system serves to promote a "healthy" competition among the pupils. Those who brought 400 or more pounds for the contest will also be given a half day off from their studies as a reward.

Done in Spare Time.

"Little or no time was taken out of school for waste paper activities during the contest," said the principal. "There was a minimum of exertion or interference with school work and the children seemingly find their waste paper collecting a pleasant way to occupy leisure time."

Another small collector with a big total at St. Thomas was Gilbert De Grauwe, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abdon De Grauwe, 1207 E. 52d st. A first grader, Gilbert brought in 2,124 pounds of waste paper topping his contribution of 2,082 pounds toward the previous contest in which he won first place. As a reward for that contest, this youngster had his portrait painted by a professional artist and received five dollars in war stamps.

Even Wears G. I. Clip.

Also fond of wearing juvenile army and navy uniforms, Gilbert usually struts proudly about in his navy air corps suit, his crew hair cut standing up as straight as he. As janitor of a building, his father has asked various other janitors to help Gilbert with his waste paper collecting, he said. The youngster also makes a door to door canvass of his neighborhood every week.

Other leading paper collectors at St. Thomas, with their grade and number of pounds collected, were:

John Nation, 7th, 3,029; Robert Van Schoor, kindergarten, 2,338; Mickey Ryan, 8th, 1,605; Mary V. Flynn, 6th, 1,555; Mitzie Wiggins, 8th, 1,376; Howard Bauwens, 3d, 1,339; Michael Igoe, 8th, 1,255; Carol Fellers, 4th, 1,125; Michael De Bella, 5th, 1,000.

Tune Up for De La Salle Concert

Bernard Konka, 2964 S. Loomis st., and Walter Murphy, 6108 S. Sacramento av., show Brother Francis of De La Salle High school, school, and Capt. Arthur Murphy of the marine corps, how well tuned up they are for their part in the De La Salle service men's benefit concert to be held Wednesday night at Orchestra hall.

BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT TO AID MEN IN SERVICE

1,500 from De La Salle Will Benefit.

The De La Salle High school band will honor the 1,500 members of the De La Salle Alumni association in military services at its 19th annual spring concert Wednesday night at Orchestra hall. All proceeds will be used to purchase and send gifts to the alumni service men. The school is located at 3455 Wabash av.

"Things that appear insignificant or incidental to us are of monumental value to the boys on the fighting fronts," Capt. Arthur Murphy, marine corps hero of several battles in the first World war, who is now on recruiting service in Chicago, told his fellow alumni as he urged support of the service men's benefit concert. He is one of the chairmen assisting Jack H. Stewart, alumni president, and Sheriff Mulcahy, general chairman of the concert committee.

Treasured a Prayer Book.

"I remember how I prized a pocket knife, a tiny prayer book, and some rosary beads sent to me from home when I was at Verdun," Capt. Murphy said. "I thought so much of these little items that when I returned from France almost 25 years ago I immediately put them in a vault to keep forever. It's the little things that count most." Capt. Murphy gave up his law practice to reënter service soon after the outbreak of the current war.

"Our honor roll already shows eight gold stars," pointed out Sheriff Mulcahy. "Several of the boys who died for their country were members of De La Salle bands of other years."

Heads Patrons Committee.

Morgan Murphy is chairman of the patrons committee. Other officers of the alumni association include Don Grace, vice president; Joseph O'Neill, treasurer, and Edward Klinger, secretary.

The executive committee includes: William O'Brien, Gen. John V. Clinnin, Andrew McGivney, Michael Dwyer, John E. Dwyer, John J. Kelly, Arthur J. Ward, Walter F. Riley, George Hardin, Thomas P. Flynn, George Entress, Henry J. Halaburt, and Bernard Fallon.

The concert program will include the Victory chorus of 45 boys and the 140 voice girls' glee club of Immaculata High school.

JERRY'S SINGING VOICE EARNS HIM CHANCE IN FILMS

Chicago Lad and Teacher to Hollywood Soon.

Thirteen year old Jerry Scott was born down south in Greenwood, Miss. And since the day Jerry was born his one great love was to sing —any time, anywhere. His mother, Dora Scott, and his five sisters and brothers moved to Chicago and have lived for several years at 17 E. 40th st.

Recently a dream of Jerry's came true—one to which he had hardly dared give much thought. Talent scouts for M. G. M. heard him sing at bond rallies, concerts, and entertainments, and decided he had one of the finest child voices in the country. They believe he will develop into a great tenor.

Hollywood Bound.

Jerry signed a contract and is scheduled to make several pictures. He and his music teacher, Edward N. King, leave for the M. G. M. studios Wednesday night.

Jerry, who has been a student at the Mosley Special school, 24th st. and Michigan av., for the last four years, is also a composer, having written and published "Fight for the Right of America." The first 500 copies of this composition were purchased by the board of education and used as the theme song for most of their bond and stamp drives.

Gets Treasury Praise.

He has been recognized by the treasury department too, having received several citations for his assistance to the department in boosting bond sales.

Jerry asserted that his grade teacher, Hugh F. Lewis, and his school principal, Howard B. Smith, are among those who helped to spur him on to "keep pitching." He will get his diploma from Mosley school next month.

SUMMER NIGHT COURSES LISTED BY ILLINOIS TECH

Registration of Students to Open Tomorrow.

Registration at the Illinois Institute of Technology, 3300 Federal st., will open tomorrow for south siders who wish to enroll in any of 31 courses included in the summer evening war training program.

Classes begin Monday, May 29, and run 15 weeks. Lecture classes meet once a week, laboratory classes two or three nights a week.

Facilities are available for approximately 3,000 Chicagoans at the three branches of the institute. A total of 2,292 men and women enrolled in last year's summer program. More than 29,000 persons have received training in Illinois Tech's 10 previous programs.

Courses Cost Free.

Basic requirement for admission to the courses, which are tuition free, is a high school education or its equivalent in industrial experience. •Some advanced courses have additional qualifications.

All the training is college level, but because of the highly specialized nature of the work no college credit is given. Certificates of graduation are awarded students completing the courses satisfactorily.

Six General Groups.

The 46 general courses will be divided into six general groups—chemistry, drafting and design, engines and power plants, inspection and testing, metallurgy and metallography, and production and management.

The 29 radio and electrical engineering courses include seven divisions—electrical engineering power, engineering electronics, illumination engineering, mathematics, power systems, radio engineering, and telephony.

Other courses offered are Diesel engines, heat treatment, fundamentals for accounting, aluminum alloy, industrial statistics and quality control, and industrial safety engineering.

Tho women are eligible for any of the courses in which they qualify, 28 of the 75 courses have been designed especially for women. Included in the 28 are elements of telephony, heat treatment, inspection methods, time study practice, engineering drafting, production illustration, and radio mathematics.

Navy Men in the Pacific

EDWARD C. FERGUSON.

WILLIAM A. GRUBBS.

After serving for more than two years in the navy two south siders met with Gary Sheahan, Tribune staff artist, who sketched them in the South Pacific. The men are Lt. [j. g.] Edward C. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Ferguson Sr., 6830 Merrill av., and William A. Grubbs, seaman first class, 1310 S. Michigan av.

AUSTIN DELANEY NAMED MAN OF WEEK AT CAMP

The "Man of the Week" at the 102d general hospital at Camp Grant selected recently by Lt. Col. William F. Holmes Jr., was Pvt. Austin Delaney, 830 Oakwood blvd.

In selecting Private Delaney, Col. Holmes recalled that Delaney was born in Ireland on March 3, 1908, received his education there and came to this country in 1925. He lived in New York and Pennsylvania and then moved to Chicago where he was married and lived for 16 years. He is the father of three children and was a railroad worker.

When Pvt. Delaney was sent to Fort Sheridan, a little lady in Ballendie, County Mayo, Ireland, put another service pin on her map of the world. Seven or eight of Delaney's brothers are in the service of the allied nations. He hasn't heard about brother Pat recently, but he does know that three brothers are with the British army and four or five are in the American army."

Pvt. Delaney spent about two months at Fort Sheridan and then was sent to the 102d General hospital where he is at present taking his basic training.

SHEAHAN DRAWS 2 SOUTH SIDERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC

Two south siders who donned the navy blue more than two years ago were sketched by Gary Sheahan, Tribune staff artist, in the South Pacific.

Lt. [j. g.] Edward C. Ferguson has been in the service two and a half years and has spent 14 months overseas. In this period he has been to South America, Australia, and Africa. He qualified on the Wolverine carrier while a trainee at Glenview Naval Air station and was stationed at Pensacola, Fla., before going overseas. He has 550 hours in the air to his credit.

Lt. Ferguson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Ferguson Sr., 6830 Merrill av., attended the University of Notre Dame, studying engineering, for two years prior to his entry in the service. He is on a carrier in the Pacific.

William A. Grubbs, seaman 1st class, has been in the navy two years and two months, having served 15 months of this time overseas.

Seaman Grubbs, son of Vernon L. Grubbs, Nashville, Tenn., lived at 1310 Michigan av., has seen action in the Aleutians, Kodiak, and participated in the capture and defense of Guadalcanal.

BOTTLE BLAMED AGAIN; IT KILLED GROCERY SMELL

Veteran Tells of Era from Gas Light to Rationing.

BY PATRICIA LEEDS.

If you've wondered what's happened to that fragrant spicy smell that grocery stores used to have, James Lawler, one of the oldest independent grocers in the business, explains "It's all gone into packages. Used to sell cinnamon, syrup, flour, coffee, even vinegar by bulk. Now it all comes in bottles and packages."

Lawler will celebrate his 57th year as a grocer this week. He started out in business in May, 1887, with a little store lit by kerosene lamps at 26th st. and Lowe av. Ten years later he moved to 37th st. and Wentworth av., where he remained for 25 years until he moved to his present site at 524 E. 75th st.

Lawler says he's always been modern. "Why, we were one of the first groceries to have gas light. That was about the time my best selling items were kerosene lamps and candles," he chuckled as he sorted eggs. The veteran grocer is tall, slim, and looks about 20 years younger than the 85 years he professes to be.

First with Telephone.

"There's something else that's changed," he continues. "We used to make deliveries by horse and wagon. Don't do that any more. And, by the way, I was the first merchant in the neighborhood to have a telephone. The undertaker and dry goods store owner were always running in to use it."

He lifted another crate of eggs closer to the light. "We don't work very hard now," he continued. "Back in those days we used to open the store at 6 o'clock in the morning, and if we weren't open by then the customers would bang on the door until we did open. And we kept open until 9 o'clock at night."

Asked about customers from the mansions along Michigan boulevard, he shrugs his shoulders. "Yes, we had a lot of prominent ones; can't remember who they were, tho. I think C. D. Peacock and J. Louis Comiskey were a couple of 'em."

Rationing Doubles Work.

The dean of grocers was raised on a farm in Watertown, N. Y., and came to Chicago in about 1882. He was a street car conductor for four years on the Clark-Wentworth line, which ran as far south as 33d street.

Tho he's still modern, he "sort of misses the cracker barrel and running downstairs to the vinegar barrel or the potato bin."

"No," he answers, "he hasn't had much trouble with the shortage of help. His son, Joseph Lawler, 7415 Rhodes av., is in the grocery business with him. "He's the only one of the family left in the store now."

Four Sons Are Physicians.

He is also proud of the fact that four of his sons are well known physicians. "There's Frank, he's a captain in the navy, and Edward, and Paul, they're twins," he adds. "That's three, and then there's Richard, that takes care of the doctors. Charles Thomas is a chief petty officer stationed at Great Lakes. He used to be a policeman at the South Chicago station. And then there's two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Lamb and Mrs. Kathryn Lamb, they're married to brothers."

Mr. and Mrs. Lawler, who live with their son, Joseph, at 7415 Rhodes av., will be celebrating their 52d wedding anniversary next month.

Julius V. Jones, 5257 Wabash av., recently promoted to staff sergeant, is serving with the 10th air force in India.

Sgt. Mark M. Greenburg, 5426 Ellis av., was decorated recently with the air medal by Brig. Gen. Prentiss, commanding troop carrier units of the 5th air force. Sgt. Greenburg is a radio operator on a troop carrier unit in New Guinea. The unit participated in the paratroop drop mission which led to the fall of Japanese strongholds in New Guinea.

Sgt. James J. Flanagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flanagan, 68 E. 76th st., is in one of the most active 12th air force B-26 Marauder groups in the Mediterranean theater, now based in Sardinia. On New Year's eve the sergeant found cause for celebration when a large chunk of shrapnel buried itself in the ground at his feet.

Lt. Delbert J. Reiter, bombardier on the 8th A. A. F. Flying Fortress, Burpy Buzzard, received the distinguished flying cross for "extraordinary achievement" on numerous bombing assaults on Nazi war plants in Germany and enemy occupied territories of Europe. He also has the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Riter, 7741 Phillips av.

Corp. LeRoy H. Hoffman, 1357 Hyde Park blvd., was recently awarded the good conduct medal for duty in the Italian campaigns.

AWNINGS NEED CARE; THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE!

You are fortunate this year if you have awnings. Since they are of critical material it will pay to take good care of them.

Here are a few ways you can add to their longevity:

Paint them now, if they need it. Employ a special type of awning paint. If the frames show any signs of rusting get rid of this rust by sandpapering and then apply a coat of metallic paint.

Sturdy overcoatings for awnings are available which can be used over the paint, a water repellent material which will leave the awning pliable and give it a "double protection."

If your awnings are merely in need of a cleaning there are colorless cleaners available, liquids which can be applied with a cloth to freshen colors, increase flexibility and assist in protection against sun and rain and mildew.

Check before putting up the awnings to make sure there are no breaks in the canvas. If you have to use a carpet thread to mend awning you can run it thru paraffin to make it resist weather. Some people brush just a little hot paraffin into the seams of their ownings to help preserve them.

Some homeowners already have adapted the practice of giving longer life to their awnings by putting them up a few weeks later in the spring, and taking them down a few weeks earlier.

This Week in the Gardens

Monday, May 15.

It is almost too late to make additional sowings of the early, cool crops, but after May 20 beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, and the tender things like tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers can be planted. Summer radishes can be sown and lettuce under cheesecloth may prove successful. It needs a mellow soil with copious amounts of water. Remember to cultivate just as soon as the rows can be distinguished and after a rain as soon as the soil is sufficiently dry. Begin to thin the plants just as soon as they can be handled.

Cultivate the newly set strawberry bed and all other newly planted stock. You may leave some crops in the ground until they are half grown before thinning, such as carrots, turnips, and onions. All of these are tender and the thinnings can be used for the table.

Tuesday, May 16

If you live in a community where cow manure can be obtained, take a bushel of it, place it in a burlap bag and suspend it in a 50 gallon container of water. When the color of tea pour it along the sides of the vegetable rows. You may also use commercial fertilizers by simply scattering it along both sides of the row at the rate of 4 pounds to each 100 foot row. Hoe under and water in.

Wednesday, May 17

Be sure to examine your plants for insect pests by looking at the underside. Insects are certain to seek the hidden places to lay their eggs and unless discovered before they hatch in endless numbers they are likely to cause considerable damage. If liquid sprays are used buy an angle attachment so the spray can be sent upward and beneath the leaves without difficulty.

Try a few pot roses this month for they start into growth and will make headway before fall. The hybrid perpetuals are the best for the middle west, and there are many varieties to suit the most exacting. The rambler climbing roses are about the best for general purposes. They flower on wood made the previous season, and after flowering the old canes should be cut away entirely to give the new ones full strength to develop. Some roses are very susceptible to attacks from mildew but if dusted with sulphur it can be kept in check.

Thursday, May 18

If there is a better and more popular flowering plant than the geranium it has yet to be introduced. It is a plant for the million because it is a fine bedding and window plant.

Like all plants it will respond to good care, but it should not be given too much nitrogen or the growth will be too soft and rank. It likes to be "on the dry side" as the grower would say, which means that too much water should not be given it. Some of the best varieties include red barney, Mrs. E. G. Hill, S. A. Nutt, beaute poitevine, Jean Viaud, and Alphonse Riccard. They do well when grown to a comparatively large size for patio display in pots.

Friday, May 19

Among annuals of superior worth for city gardens may be listed the following: Petunias for general purposes with the small flowering types for bedding and the balcony types for window boxes. Some cities have selected the petunia for their official flower because it flowers so profusely and is so satisfactory. One community has adopted the four o'clock as its official flower for it does so well under adverse conditions.

Saturday, May 20

Practically everything can be planted outdoors now for there is little likelihood of frost injury. Tie up all straggling plants and especially stake tomatoes when growing them on the small plot. Keep the hoe going at least once a week. Watch for insect pests and never allow them to gain any headway or disaster may result.

CITY SCHOOLS TO RAISE FARM ARMY

PLASTICS USED FOR FIRST TIME IN EYE MAKING

Discovery Climaxes Two Years' Work.

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

After two years of experimentation, Paul Gougelman Sr. of Glencoe has produced the plastic artificial eye. Some members of the industry hail the step as one of the most important in the artificial eye business in 150 years.

Thru the introduction of plastics into eye making the manufacturer believes he has severed for all time the bond which tied American manufacturers to the German monopoly, for up until the war the American industry was at the mercy of the German cartel, which controled all export of artificial eyes and the glass for making them.

The monopoly has been likened to that of the Venetians, who kept their glass making artisans virtually imprisoned on the island of Murano in the 16th and 17th centuries. For Germany would allow but eight pounds of this highly sensitized colored glass to each worker. Approximately 97 eyes could be made from each pound of this allotment.

Used American Glass.

In order to meet the American market of 350,000 artificial eyes each year, American manufacturers resorted to American glass for the sclera or white portion of the eye, reserving the German product for the iris.

"The plastic eye is a natural development in the industry," said Gougelman. "It is the answer to a search which has been going on for years for a material which has all the artistic merits of glass and is free from many of the disadvantages. We found plastic as easy to handle as glass. It makes an eye which cannot shatter, is more sympathetic to the tissues around the eye, looks more natural, and keeps its color longer than do glass eyes."

Plastic More Costly.

Plastic eyes, however, are more expensive to manufacture and therefore more costly to the purchaser. In order to continue to supply the lower cost product an American glass has been perfected.

Manufacture of glass for eye makers could not interest the glass producer from a profit standpoint. Glass is generally made in tanks holding approximately 50,000 pounds each. These tanks take two weeks to pre-heat. Since the average eye maker uses but 200 to 300 pounds of each color pigmentation a year, poundage was an expensive proposition. It remained cheaper to buy from the German market.

Offer 70,000 Colors.

Now the matter of pigmentation also has been perfected and manufacturers have a collection of almost 70,000 color varieties from which they match the client's eye. This glass is now being used successfully in England.

While the greater portion of the new eye is plastic, the iris or pupil is still made of glass. This is because glass has a three dimensional quality not yet developed in plastic. This allows a reaction to light, similar to that noted in the human eye.

Paul Gougelman's father, Pierre Gougelman, introduced the artificial eye industry into the United States in 1851. He studied his art under a man known simply as Boissenau, for whom he served as interpreter on his travels thru Switzerland, Pierre's native country.

Ordered Out of Germany.

A tutor of languages, Pierre found himself in Germany during the students' revolt of 1848. Known as a sympathizer of the student cause, he was ordered to quit Germany within 48 hours. He chose America as his destination.

He opened the first office of Gougelman & Co. on Van Dam st., in New York, in 1851. Since that time three generations have carried on the work he started and the art is passed down from father to son. Paul Gougelman Jr., 25, son of the man who perfected the new plastic eye, recently established his own business in Chicago.

Bohemian Women Brighten Service Men's Lives with Native Pastries

Tuesday morning is always baking day for Mrs. Joseph Tomanek, 1436 18th st., who in 20 months hasn't missed a week of contributing to the two loop service men's centers. She is placing kolackies, a Czecho-Slovak pastry, in the oven. In 25 minutes they will be ready to take to the food depot at 1831 Blue Island av., for the weekly Tuesday night pickup.

Mrs. Anna Wolf, seated, of 1635 Blue Island av., chairman of the food depot, and her assistants, Mrs. Stephen Kupres, left, 1417 19th st., and Mrs. Miles Rada, 1242 19th st., make a record of all the food brought into the depot and delivered to the centers. Many of the contributions are Bohemian pastries, made from recipes handed down from mother to daughter for generations. The large round loaf in the center and smaller one to the left are babovkas, coffee cakes filled with raisins, fruit, and nuts. Next to the cakes are another type of kolackies, and the horns, filled with walnuts and apples, are rohlickies.

Mrs. Joseph Klimes, 1436 18th st., knows how to make the Bohemian pastries, but she chooses to bake an angel food cake for this contribution. She is the mother of three sons in service, all overseas. The bearded son in the picture at the left is Joseph Klimes, who has been in four major battles on a submarine in the South Pacific. George Klimes, at the right, is a gunner on a sub chaser in the coast guard. The oldest son, Marine Sgt. James, will bring his bride home from New Zealand after the war.

Siskas are the favorite of all native pastries among the Bohemians. Mrs. Bessie Slivka, 1601 Allport st., sprinkles powdered sugar on them as a finishing touch. Her mother, Mrs. George Bartusek, also of 1601 Allport st., made the houska, large twisted loaf on the table which is another Bohemian coffee cake also filled with raisins and nuts. Kolackies are in the other pan. Mrs. Bartusek is knitting her 30th sweater for the American Red Cross. Her son, Sgt. George Bartusek, has seen action in Sicily and Italy.

PUPILS AGAIN CALLED ON TO AID HARVEST

Seek 2,000 to Work in Two Counties.

While their older brothers and sisters are joining the ranks of military service, west side high school youths will have a chance to join a land army of their own for the summer months. Blue overalls and broad brimmed farmers' straw hats will be used in place of the khaki and navy blue of the older members of the family serving Uncle Sam.

More than satisfied with the efforts of school children on the vegetable farms in the Chicago area last summer, farmers have asked for more boys and girls to assist them with the cultivation, weeding, and harvesting of crops during summer vacation.

Work in 2 Counties.

Folders and registration blanks are being sent this week to the principals of all west side city schools explaining a recruit program for a land army, Leland L. Medsker, assistant director of the bureau of occupational research of the board of education, said.

It is hoped that by the end of the school term in June more than 1,500 boys and 500 girls, between 14 and 17 years old, from Cook and DuPage counties will have volunteered for farm work, Medsker explained. The representative from the board of education is working with C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm advisor; Harry Wright, Du Page county farm advisor; Frank Gingrich, district supervisor, and Elmer J. Steel, farm labor supervisor, both of the University of Illinois agricultural extension service.

Some to Live on Farms.

For the most part west side farmers will obtain their help thru Mr. Wright from Boy Scout troops, schools, and other boys' groups. Arrangements will be made for a few of the boys and girls to live with the farm families and others will arrange for daily transportation from their homes.

Some west side boys will take summer quarters at Boy Scout Camp Fort Dearborn, opened last summer specifically to assist farmers near Des Plaines, Camp Avodah for Jewish lads, also near Des Plaines, and Thornton camp on the south side. Camp Fort Dearborn will accommodate approximately 150 and Thornton camp, operated under the agricultural extension service, will have facilities for 200.

Work crew-supervisors will be appointed from the boys' ranks. The supervisors will act as morale men for their groups and will be responsible for keeping their crews together and seeing that work is done as farmers want it.

To Be Paid Weekly.

Weekly wages will be paid the volunteer workers and certificates will be awarded by the Cook county agriculture extension service to the young urban farmers who devote the major part of the summer to their work.

Altho most of the work will be on vegetable farms a few boys and girls will be placed on dairy and general farms. Later in the summer a large number of them will be employed in detasseling hybrid corn.

"Veteran" farmers who experienced the farm and camp program at Fort Dearborn last summer have expressed an eagerness to return. August Bestman, a farmer near Des Plaines who hired one of the largest groups last summer, is eager for more help of the same kind.

"They adapt themselves readily to farm life," Herbert Mueller, a neighboring farmer, said. "One of the city boys developed a method for harvesting onion sets last year on my farm that was half again as fast as the older methods."

BENEFIT PAGEANT CAST LISTS FIVE FROM WEST SIDE

Five west side residents will be among the 150 members of the cast of "My Book of Memories," to be presented by the Bensenville Ladies Auxiliary at 8:15 p. m., Friday in the auditorium of Lane Technical High school, Addison st. and Western av. West side participants are Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, 4120 W. 25th st.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bromann, 1112 Franklin blvd., River Forest; and Miss Mary Zelluf, 1748 Jackson blvd.

The program will be held for all residents of Oak Park who have attained citizenship during the last year, either by reaching their 21st birthday or by naturalization. New citizens now in military service may receive their certificates by proxy if their parents attend the program.

DOWNERS GROVE CHOIR CONCERT SET FOR TONIGHT

Downers Grove High school's a cappella choir of 60 members at 8 o'clock tonight will present its annual concert in the Methodist church auditorium. Two of the selections, "Infantry Song" and "Say a Prayer" have been arranged for the choir by its director, William G. Pohlmann.

The program will begin with a group of Russian numbers: "Cherubim Song" by Glinka; Ivorsky's "Hospodi Pomilui," a religious chant used in Greek orthodox rituals, and "Let Thy Blessed Spirit," by Tschesnekoff. Included in the second group will be four old English songs: "My Bonnie Lass," a bright love song by German; "The Keys of My Heart," a madrigal arranged by Warrell; "Shoot False Love," an ex-lover's carefree discourse by Morley, and "Allan a Dale," a musical biography by de Pearsall.

The second half of the program will begin with Noble Cain's "Music of Life" and end with "America, My Own," by the same composer. Other numbers will be "Steal Away," a Negro spiritual arranged by Fisher; a description of "June Moonrise," arranged by De Lamater, and "Lovely Heart," describing conflicting emotions, by Roberton.

Altar Society to Give Minstrel May 23-24

YOUNGER FOLKS 'COOK WITH GAS' AT PLAYGROUNDS

Huddle System Produces Results in Suburbs.

Under student management, playground centers at Oak Park and River Forest now are "cooking with gas." In "jive" language, approximately 600 high school youths from the two communities gather at Carroll playground and the Hans Andersen recreation center to "cut a rug" each Saturday night.

Designated as "Huddle I." at Carroll and "Huddle II." at Andersen, the recreation centers are fairly "jumping" each week-end as the villages' young people swing their partners thru intricate jive steps. A medley of hit tunes pours from the juke boxes, and two coke bars in the corners provide refreshment between dances.

The slower waltzes also are played but the dancers prefer the livelier tunes. One jitterbug contest recently brought out 400 youngsters to one playground.

Huddles Meet with Favor.

The huddles, which started in January, were the conception of Ashley B. Smith, playground commissioner, and have received the sanction of many community churches, clubs, high schools, and civic committees.

Altho supervised by the playgrounds, the huddles are managed by the boys and girls. Four seniors from the high schools are appointed co-chairmen each two months. They in turn appoint new committees each week to select juke box records, decorations and make other arrangements. Present co-chairmen at Carroll are Leila Wasmund and Jeanne Leastina, and at Andersen, Gloria Nicholson and Bernard Edstrom.

Stags Get Discount.

A "bartender," dressed in white jacket, serves candy and soft drinks. Smoking rooms are set up in the basement of each center. A fee of 25 cents for stags and 35 cents for couples is charged to help defray expenses.

Strictly a young people's affair, the only adults allowed are two parents who act as host and hostess. They in turn invite a host and hostess for the next week's huddle. They are not allowed to serve for more than one week at a time.

Service Men Invited.

Home town boys in service are invited to attend huddles and sign the guest book. One sailor who recently returned from the Pacific exclaimed, "It's a swell way to see all the kids you grew up with at once. When I'm back on that boat again I won't forget the kids having such a swell time together."

The newest idea at the huddles is identification cards. Each huddle participant receives a tag with his name and high school inscribed and he is asked to wear it thruout the evening.

"That breaks down timidity and formality," Miss Josephine Blackstock, playground director, explained. "Soon every one knows everybody and they all have a good time."

Lends Atmosphere to Benefit Tea

Mrs. John R. Orndorff, active clubwoman of River Forest, will give an Hawaiian atmosphere to a Chicago Commons benefit tea when she appears in a cellophane adaptation of the native grass skirt Friday afternoon, May 26, in the Seward Gunderson home, Oak Park. HAWAIIAN MOTIF FOR ANNUAL TEA BY WEST SIDERS

Proceeds Will Benefit Settlement House.

Members of the Oak Park and River Forest auxiliary to Chicago Commons will create a Hawaiian atmosphere for their annual tea which will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, May 26, in the ballroom of the Seward Gunderson home, one of the oldest large Oak Park houses.

Mrs. John R. Orndorff of River Forest will present three Hawaiian dances which she learned from a native dancer, Koa Loa Notley, while visiting the islands before the war. With the dances, "Lovely Hula Hands," "In Old Hawaii," and "Little Grass Shack in Kealakekua," Mrs. Orndorff will relate legends, culture, geological formation, and history of the Hawaiian Islands.

For some of her dances Mrs. Orndorff will wear an adaptation of the Mother Hubbard dress which the American missions took to the islands for the native girls to wear and then will change into a cellophane costume representing the well known grass skirt.

She will provide her own accompaniment on the puili, a musical instrument made of reeds, and the uli uli, another instrument made from a gourd and topped with white feathers.

The "aloha" tea—Hawaiian word of many meanings including a salutation of friendship, greeting of love, or of departure—is being given for the benefit of the Chicago Commons Social settlement.

West side villagers who are participating in the plans for the tea include Mrs. Earl Meyer, general chairman; Mrs. Robert E. Hills, tickets; Mrs. Lucius Cole, decorations; Miss Virginia Gunderson, program; Mrs. Leo Sheldon, refreshments; Mrs. Austin Cole, music and properties, and Mrs. Charles Muther and Mrs. I. J. Spring, publicity.

Mrs. John Redden, president of the board, will assist Miss Gunderson as hostess for the afternoon.

Two Glen Ellyn war activities recently came together in a patriotic program when Glenbard High school stressed donations to the service men's center in Chicago and then sent a company of performers to present a variety show at the center.

Mrs. Charles Green of Glen Ellyn originated the first of 22 canteens in the suburbs to channel goodies to the men in uniform. The variety show, "The Gay 90s," produced for guests of the downtown center, was directed by Miss Rachel Whitfield, instructor of public speaking at Glenbard.

Table decorations will carry out the theme of the program to be presented by Marcia Snow and Frazelle Boucher, Pan-American impersonators.

The guest artists will impersonate men and women of Mexico from beggars to dukes, market vendors, street singers, gay dancers, and university professors. The colorful dramatization has been praised for helping to cement Pan-American relations.

Plan Art Exhibit.

Also at the luncheon there will be an art exhibit including the 25 prize winning photographs selected by the Elmhurst Photo Arts club, paintings and drawings by Barbara Tozier, 13; water colors and lithographs by Marion Johnson of York High school, water colors by Bernice Becker of York High school, water colors by Robert Ferry, and etchings and wood block prints by Charles Carey.

The Elmhurst branch of the American Association of University women was organized five and one-half years ago with Mrs. W. Carlyle Selden as president. The second president was Mrs. Edwin L. Paintin. Mrs. Vernon L. Orton is the present president.

Runs Exchange Shop.

Objectives of the branch as laid down by the national association are to promote wider opportunities for women in higher education, to obtain the intellectual advancement of individual members, to procure broader opportunities for women, and to enlarge the educational and cultural resources of the community.

Besides being a social organization, the branch participates in community activities. A year ago, the branch opened an exchange shop in downtown Elmhurst where nursery and children's equipment and children's clothing are sold on a consignment basis.

General monthly meetings of the branch are designed to stimulate and inform members. The international relations group, which has high standing in the state, has devoted considerable time to the study of the far east and Russia.

ORIANA MUSICAL GROUP WILL GIVE SPRING CONCERT

Works of Chicagoans Are Featured.

The annual spring concert of the Oriana a cappella choir will be presented at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in Kimball hall, Jackson blvd. and Wabash av. Dr. Paul Vernon, director, will conduct.

One of the highlights will be the "Cantata of Peace," one of the latest works by Darius Milhaud, a contemporary composer who is in this country as a refugee from occupied France. The program also will include music from two Chicago composers, Leo Sowerby and Rossetter Cole. The latter's composition, "The Wild Blush Rose," was dedicated to the Oriana choir. Sowerby's selection will be "When the Lord Turned Again."

Choir Covers Wide Range.

The choir will cover a wide range of music from the 16th century madrigals and motets to such contemporary compositions as Randall Thompson's "Alleluia" and "The Lark in the Morn." A group of Negro spirituals also will be included. Nine American composers will be represented in the program.

Dr. Vernon, who is president of the Austin Academy of Fine Arts and head of the violin department at Cosmopolitan School of Music, has directed the Oriana a cappella choir since 1931. The choir, the membership of which comes largely from the west side, is one of the largest choral groups in the city.

Pick Name, Oriana.

The name Oriana, which often was used in reference to Queen Elizabeth by the poets of her time, was chosen because the choir originally specialized in English madrigals of the Elizabethean period. Its work since has embraced music of all periods and countries, including anthems from the Russian church, Negro spirituals and modern church melodies.

For several years the choir has sung Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas holidays in First Congregational church at Washington and Ashland blvds.

BOHEMIAN FOODS EXCITE PALATES OF SERVICE MEN

Wednesday Specials Rich in Taste, Tradition.

BY MARY HOLSINGER.

What mother's son—too far away to get home for Mother's day today—doesn't have a wistful memory of his mother in the kitchen and a delicious aroma escaping from her baking in the oven?

Every day is Mother's day at the two loop service men's centers and especially is it true when the volunteer workers bring out the cakes, pies, and cookies which are so quickly consumed every day by the hundreds of hungry soldiers and sailors. Almost any boy is certain to find that favorite chocolate cake, peach pie, or ginger cookies—"almost as good as mother's specialty at home"—but baked by another woman who probably has a son in service too.

Exciting Pastries.

Wednesday is a red letter day for those who like the fanciful and unusual in pastries. That is the day the women—most of them mothers—in the Bohemian district on the lower west side set out their kolackies, rohlickies, siskis, and babovkas, fancy goodies with recipes that have been handed down for generations like the perennial favorite apple pie dessert for Americans.

"I could give you the recipe for kolackies," one mother volunteered, "but it would be written in the Bohemian language." There is no real recipe for the pastries, which are much richer than American delicacies such as cream puffs, brownies, and ice box cakes. Rather they are traditions which have been handed down from mother to daughter, varying only as one woman might bake differently from another.

Every week for two years the women on and around Blue Island av., have carried two truck loads of cakes and Czecho-Slovak pastries to their food depot at 1831 Blue Island av. There Mrs. Anna Wolf, whose son, Pvt. Otto C. Wolf, is stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala., and her assistants, Mrs. Miles Rada and Mrs. Stephen Kupres, have loaded the food into delivery trucks which have been driven each Tuesday night to the two loop centers by Joseph Zuzek.

Some of the women haven't missed a week in 20 months in contributing something—and most of the Czecho-Slovak pastries call for a pound of butter which meant until recently 16 red points a week from the family's allotment of rationed meat and dairy products.

The total contributions from the lower west side community, in which more than 29 nationalities are represented, is swelled once a month by contributions from the domestic science classes at Jungman branch of Harrison High school, 1746 Miller st.

Girls and boys alike, daughters and sons of the regular contributors among the women, bake cakes, pies, and chocolate chip cookies. They leave the Bohemian pastries to their mothers but their bake goods are as successful as any American cake or pie set before the service men.

ELGIN GROUP TO SPEED HIRING OF WAR VETERANS

Action to assure that no honorably discharged veteran will be required to tramp the streets of the city in search of employment, recently was taken by directors of the Elgin Association of Commerce.

The board has approved a veteran's reëmployment plan which applies to the physically incapacitated as well as those who return from the war in normal health.

Personnel men of the larger industrial and commercial firms of the city were being enlisted in the campaign to "find a job to fit every returning service man."

Chester E. Collins is chairman of the association's post-war planning committee. He said:

"The committee's primary purpose will be to speed the reëmployment of every returned veteran who for one reason or another is unable immediately to find work.

"The reëmployment committee will obtain facts regarding the returned veteran in discovering his abilities and limitations. An endeavor will then be made to find a job to fit the man as well as take steps to encourage the satisfactory and permanent employment of the veteran."

DOWNERS GROVE RAISES $1,557 IN PAPER CAMPAIGN

Plan Fifth Collection on Sunday, June 18.

Thru a series of waste paper drives that have been consistent in preparation of the public for pick-up dates and community coöperation, Downers Grove has raised $1,557, which will be used for supplemental fire fighting equipment.

Under direction of C. L. Baylor, salvage chairman of the OCD organization, four drives that began Oct. 10, 1943, have brought in a total of 203,510 pounds of waste paper, or an average of 25 tons per collection.

The first drive resulted in 46,980 pounds of waste paper at a value of $422.82. The second, Dec. 19, 1943, resulted in 34,930 pounds valued at $209.58. The third campaign, Feb. 20, 1944, brought in 63,480 pounds at a value of $507.84, and the recent drive collected 58,120 pounds with a value of $416.84.

Next Drive June 18.

Baylor, village engineer, announced the next paper collection for Sunday, June 18.

Village trucks and those of Downers Grove merchants are used in the paper collections. Mayor N. H. Fishel and village commissioners have driven trucks or otherwise aided in the drives. All workers have served without pay.

Fire Truck Needed.

The Downers Grove fire department wants to purchase a truck which will carry the OCD fire fighting equipment turned over to the village by the national organization. A purchase permit from the government agency is awaited, and it is hoped that the money now on hand will be sufficient to buy the truck.

Grant Dicke, fire chief, who with business men of the village has aided in making a success of the Downers Grove collections, has hopes of obtaining a used truck chassis which may be released by the army.

Monday, May 15.

It is almost too late to make additional sowings of the early, cool crops, but after May 20 beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, and the tender things like tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers can be planted. Summer radishes can be sown and lettuce under cheesecloth may prove successful. It needs a mellow soil with copious amounts of water. Remember to cultivate just as soon as the rows can be distinguished and after a rain as soon as the soil is sufficiently dry. Begin to thin the plants just as soon as they can be handled.

Tuesday, May 16

If you live in a community where cow manure can be obtained, take a bushel of it, place it in a burlap bag and suspend it in a 50 gallon container of water. When the color of tea pour it along the sides of the vegetable rows. You may also use commercial fertilizers by simply scattering it along both sides of the row at the rate of 4 pounds to each 100 foot row. Hoe under and water in.

By planting a collar of paper close to the stems of tomatoes, cabbage, and other plants the cutworm will not be able to disturb them. It is a practice well worth while but the operation should be done right to be effective.

Wednesday, May 17

Be sure to examine your plants for insect pests by looking at the underside. Insects are certain to seek the hidden places to lay their eggs and unless discovered before they hatch in endless numbers they are likely to cause considerable damage. If liquid sprays are used buy an angle attachment so the spray can be sent upward and beneath the leaves without difficulty.

Thursday, May 18

If there is a better and more popular flowering plant than the geranium it has yet to be introduced. It is a plant for the million because it is a fine bedding and window plant.

Like all plants it will respond to good care, but it should not be given too much nitrogen or the growth will be too soft and rank. It likes to be "on the dry side" as the grower would say, which means that too much water should not be given it. Some of the best varieties include red barney, Mrs. E. G. Hill, S. A. Nutt, beaute poitevine, Jean Viaud, and Alphonse Riccard. They do well when grown to a comparatively large size for patio display in pots.

Still another group that is excellent for city conditions is the Cannas, which grow from rhizomes. They revel in hot weather and plenty of water when well established.

Friday, May 19

Among annuals of superior worth for city gardens may be listed the following: Petunias for general purposes with the small flowering types for bedding and the balcony types for window boxes. Some cities have selected the petunia for their official flower because it flowers so profusely and is so satisfactory. One community has adopted the four o'clock as its official flower for it does so well under adverse conditions.

Zinnias are among the best of the annuals but cosmos, snapdragons, portulaca do well in exceedingly hot and dry locations. If plants are purchased, the verbena, viola, and others fill the garden with a good range of color.

Saturday, May 20

Practically everything can be planted outdoors now for there is little likelihood of frost injury. Tie up all straggling plants and especially stake tomatoes when growing them on the small plot. Keep the hoe going at least once a week. Watch for insect pests and never allow them to gain any headway or disaster may result.

Thin all plants to give those remaining a chance to grow to their maximum size and produce all they can. Do not sow too much of any one thing for it may be a waste of time, labor, and produce.

AWNINGS NEED CARE; THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE!

You are fortunate this year if you have awnings. Since they are of critical material it will pay to take good care of them.

Here are a few ways you can add to their longevity:

Paint them now, if they need it. Employ a special type of awning paint. If the frames show any signs of rusting get rid of this rust by sandpapering and then apply a coat of metallic paint.

Sturdy overcoatings for awnings are available which can be used over the paint, a water repellent material which will leave the awning pliable and give it a "double protection."

If your awnings are merely in need of a cleaning there are colorless cleaners available, liquids which can be applied with a cloth to freshen colors, increase flexibility and assist in protection against sun.

Check before putting up the awnings to make sure there are no breaks in the canvas.

OAK PARK WILL SAVE ORDER TO EXECUTE 'WICHE'

The historical account of how a Salem, Mass., maid was tried and found guilty of witchcraft will be preserved by the Oak Park Historical society when Mrs. Lena Secord presents a letter, signed by Cotton Mather and other members of the execution committee, Thursday night in the south branch of the Oak Park library, Gunderson av. and Harrison st.

The letter, yellowed and blurred in 252 years, will be placed in the files with other historical material of the society to keep it from further deterioration.

The letter is addressed to the sheriff of Essex county and reads in part:

Sentence Wiche to Hange.

"Rebecka Nurge—wiche has been tried by court and is guilty of the power of getting all who come in touch with her under her spell. . . . Therefore we give here the same sentence of all wiches. Ye are commanded to take her out of Her Majesty's jail in Salem and conveighe her in the livinge bodye to the execution ground and ye shall hange her by her necke until she is dald at the houre of bright sune on this day and date, 16th of June, 1692 . . . and may God reste her soule."

Cotton Mather's name appears second on the list of 17 signatures of men who had gone over the "papers of the trial" and then sentenced her.

Pageant Will Be Given.

Following presentation of the letter, a choral pageant, based on American colonial history, will be given by the 6th grade boys and girls of Longfellow school. Miss Esta D. Johnson is directing the pageant.

Twelve memorial books will also be presented to the south branch library in memory of Mrs. Grace W. Stover and Milton J. Marland, former members of the historical society.

Elect Officers.

Officers will be elected at the business meeting preceding the program, thus concluding activities of the society for the year. The Oak Park Historical society was organized in January, 1937, and received its charter in 1941.

Frank Stevens is president. Other officers are Mrs. George White, 1st vice president; J. C. Miller, 2d vice president and chairman of the historical facts committee; Mrs. Adele H. Maze, 3d vice president and historian; Mrs. Faye W. Stevens, secretary, and Mrs. William J. Unfried, corresponding secretary.

Austin Jewish Sisterhood Plans Installation Rites

The officers will be Mrs. Bess Gelman, president; Mrs. Molly Lavin, first vice president; Mrs. Elsie Holden, second vice president; Mrs. Marion Goldstein, recording secretary; Mrs. Gertrude Tiersky, financial secretary, and Mrs. Lottie Jacobson, treasurer.

Tribune V-Mail Photos Bring Greetings on Mother's Day

Mother's day will have a special meaning this year for wives of service men who, while their husbands are on duty in foreign theaters, must act as both mother and father to infants born under the shadows of war. Helping to span the distances between separated parents and children are the rapid techniques of microfilm and V-mail. As a special service for fathers transferred overseas before the birth of their babies, the metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE has taken pictures which will be transferred to V-mail stationery to be sent abroad with maximum speed.

Among the young mothers who smiled into Tribune cameras recently in preparation for the Mother's day pictures was Mrs. Raymond B. Fordyce, 3311 N. Kildare av., whose husband, Lt. Fordyce, is stationed in England. A photographer in the air corps, he has been overseas since June, 1943. Their son, Raymond Jr., 7 months old, was born Oct. 1, 1943, at the Norwegian-American hospital.

Father in England.

Another northwest side mother who posed with her first born for a V-mail photograph was Mrs. Lodi Navta, 1111 N. Central Park av., whose son, Tommy, 5 months old, was born Dec. 4, 1943. Tommy's father, a second lieutenant in army ordnance at an English base, is kept informed of the baby's progress by letter. "He knows everything the baby does, how one day he chews his toes and the next day discovers his ears," says 21 year old Mrs. Lodi. "But the V-mail picture will give him a more accurate idea of what Tommy is really like."

The Lodis were married in February, 1943, in Tennessee, and lived in the south until Lt. Lodi received his overseas orders last September. Mrs. Lodi and the baby are making their home for the duration with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lavcek of the Central Park address.

Sgt. Eugene Hampton, 3941 N. Francisco av., was on desert maneuvers when baby Marilyn Jean was born April 23, 1943. Sent shortly afterward to a port of embarkation, he was transferred to the Hawaiian Islands before he had an opportunity to see his new daughter.

Sgt. Hampton entered the service in April, 1941. A member of the medical corps, he was stationed in Tennessee, Oklahoma, and Washington before being sent to Hawaii. Until he returns home, his wife and daughter are living with his parents at the N. Francisco av. address.

Son 8 Weeks Old.

When Sgt. Robert Gabler of the marine corps received word of the birth of his son, Robert Michael, now 8 weeks old, he and his comrades drank to the baby's health in rationed beer. Altho the celebration took place half a world away in the South Pacific, he soon will have opportunity via V-mail to see his infant son's picture. Mrs Gabler and the baby reside at 4251 N. Marmora av.

Mrs. Victor Trunek, 3235 Potomac av., says that baby Georgene Ann looks just like her daddy and has his dark hair and mischievous blue eyes. Pvt. Trunek soon will have the chance of seeing the resemblance for himself when he receives the V-mail photo of his 9 months old daughter.

In service since December, 1942, Pvt. Trunek has been in the South Pacific since last May. Mrs. Trunek and the baby will remain with her mother, Mrs. Esther Neumann of Potomac av., until Pvt. Trunek returns to civilian life.

PLASTICS USED FOR FIRST TIME IN EYE MAKING

Glencoe Man's Process Hailed by Industry.

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

After two years of experimentation, Paul Gougelman Sr. of Glencoe has produced the plastic artificial eye. Some members of the industry hail the step as one of the most important in the artificial eye business in 150 years.

Thru the introduction of plastics into eye making the manufacturer believes he has severed for all time the bond which tied American manufacturers to the German monopoly. For up until the war the American industry was at the mercy of the German cartel, which controled all export of artificial eyes and the glass for making them.

The monopoly has been likened to that of the Venetians, who kept their glass making artisans virtually imprisoned on the island of Murano in the 16th and 17th centuries. For Germany would allow but eight pounds of this highly sensitized colored glass to each worker. Approximately 97 eyes could be made from each pound of this allotment.

Used American Glass.

In order to meet the American market of 350,000 artificial eyes each year, American manufacturers resorted to American glass for the sclera or white portion of the eye, reserving the German product for the iris.

"The plastic eye is a natural development in the industry," said Gougelman. "It is the answer to a search which has been going on for years for a material which has all the artistic merits of glass and is free from many of the disadvantages. We found plastic as easy to handle as glass. It makes an eye which cannot shatter, is more sympathetic to the tissues around the eye, looks more natural, and keeps its color longer than do glass eyes."

Plastic More Costly.

Plastic eyes, however, are more expensive to manufacture and therefore more costly to the purchaser. In order to continue to supply the lower cost product an American glass has been perfected.

Manufacture of glass for eye makers could not interest the glass producer from a profit standpoint. Glass is generally made in tanks holding approximately 50,000 pounds each. These tanks take two weeks to pre-heat. Since the average eye maker uses but 200 to 300 pounds of each color pigmentation a year, poundage was an expensive proposition. It remained cheaper to buy from the German market.

Offer 70,000 Colors.

Now the matter of pigmentation also has been perfected and manufacturers have a collection of almost 70,000 color varieties from which they match the client's eye. This glass is now being used successfully in England.

While the greater portion of the new eye is plastic, the iris or pupil is still made of glass. This is because glass has a three dimensional quality not yet developed in plastic. This allows a reaction to light, similar to that noted in the human eye.

Paul Gougelman's father, Pierre Gougelman, introduced the artificial eye industry into the United States in 1851. He studied his art under a man known simply as Boissenau, for whom he served as interpreter on his travels thru Switzerland, Pierre's native country.

Ordered Out of Germany.

A tutor of languages, Pierre found himself in Germany during the students' revolt of 1848. Known as a sympathizer of the student cause, he was ordered to quit Germany within 48 hours. He chose America as his destination.

He opened the first office of Gougelman & Co. on Van Dam st., in New York, in 1851. Since that time three generations have carried on the work he started and the art is passed down from father to son. Paul Gougelman Jr., 25, son of the man who perfected the new plastic eye, recently established his own business in Chicago.

FEW IN NUMBER, PUPILS ARE LONG ON ENTHUSIASM

There are only 75 pupils in Our Lady of Good Counsel Elementary school, 916 N. Western av., but what they lack in numbers they made up in pounds during the recent five week waste paper contest for $1,000 in prizes donated by the Chicago waste paper campaign committee. Sixth place winner among parochial schools, Our Lady of Good Counsel collected 6,185 pounds of waste paper, or 82.46 pounds per pupil.

Most of the children did waste paper collecting after school and on Saturdays, they said, but some of the older boys who have after school jobs had to gather their scrap paper in the evenings. Often the convent doorbell was rung as late as 10:30 or 11 o'clock at night by pupils bringing their evening's paper collection to the sisters' home for safe keeping, said the mother superior.

Accurate Count.

The sisters, themselves, took care of all the weighing and tying of paper "so there would be an accurate count of pounds," said the school principal. All the "lugging around" was done by the seventh and eighth grade boys.

One of the school's champion paper collectors is Gerald Snajder, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Snajder, 2417 W. Walton st. Gerald, a fifth grader, says he "walks miles after school in search of waste paper because the kids have collected just about every scrap in the school neighborhood."

Gerald is particularly interested in paper salvage because his father, a lumberjack, is out in Seattle, Wash., "cutting down trees to make more paper," the boy said. That is Gerald's favorite pastime, too.

"When I go out to my uncle's farm in the summer time he lets me cut down trees all I want," he said happily.

Wants to Help Dad.

Another leading paper collector is Carl Meeks, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Meeks, 912 N. Western av. Another fifth grader, Carl said he intends to "keep on working terribly hard" on the waste paper drive all summer, especially since his father is about to leave for navy service. He wants to help "get dad home as soon as possible." He is also anxious for the school to win more prize money to buy varnish for the desks and additional books for the library.

Both Gerald and Carl think waste paper collecting is "fun." The reason: "It gives us something to do in our spare time, and lots of times people give us cookies and candy along with their waste paper."

N.W. SIDE GUNNER DARES DEATH TO SAVE COMRADE

Adds DFC to Purple Heart, Air Medal.

The distinguished flying cross has been awarded to Sgt. Roger H. Kirkpatrick, 4745 N. Kedvale av., who recently completed his 25th mission as tail gunner on a Flying Fortress. Sgt. Kirkpatrick, stationed at an English air base, also wears the air medal with oak leaf clusters and the Purple Heart.

Sgt. Kirkpatrick.

Sgt. Kirkpatrick distinguished himself for courage and skill on all of his missions, but especially on a harrowing afternoon in the flak filled skies above Bremen when he gave his oxygen supply to a stricken comrade.

Feet, Hands Frostbitten.

As he was removing the canvas screen of the Fortress' tail gun to obtain added deflection against enemy planes, Sgt. Kirkpatrick's feet and hands became so frostbitten he could hardly move. When he called for help over the intercommunication phone, Sgt. George M. Conrad of Philadelphia crawled to the tail. Not noticing that the spare oxygen bottle was empty, he hooked his oxygen mask to it and in a short time became unconscious.

Sgt. Kirkpatrick, altho crippled, disconnected his own oxygen supply, connecting Sgt. Conrad's mask to the bottle. He then called for more help. When another gunner came back to assist the two, he found Sgt. Conrad partially revived and able to help him bring Sgt. Kirkpatrick to the radio room for first aid.

Sgt. Kirkpatrick, who has been overseas for the last eight months, has been in service since September, 1942. He and his brother Charles, an army sergeant stationed in the far east, enlisted on the same day.

The boys had made a pact that they would enter service together to avenge the death of their uncle, Capt. Thomas L. Kirkpatrick.

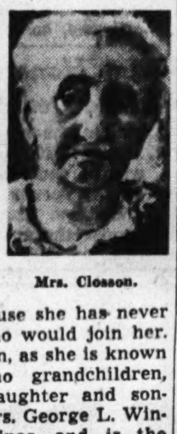
MRS. CLOSSON, 94, SEEKS PARTNER FOR PLANE RIDE

Finds Friends Too Timid to Share Her First.

Proof of the adage that you are only as old as you feel is genial 94 year old Mrs. Elizabeth Closson who eagerly awaits the end of the war, the fourth she has lived thru, and laments the fact that she has never fulfilled her ambition to ride in an airplane. That ambition has been frustrated, she adds hastily, because she has never found any one who would join her.



Mrs. Closson.

Grandma Closson, as she is known altho she has no grandchildren, lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Winzeler in Des Plaines, and is the youngest and only survivor of a family of 10 children. Her five brothers died before they reached 70, but her sisters all lived to be over 80.

Has Simple Diet.

Attributing her long life to accepting things as they come and never allowing the current of events to disturb her, Mrs. Closson always looks to the brighter side of life. Her diet consists of bread, coffee, and very little meat and vegetables. She does not care for the "new fangled concoctions that people eat today."

Born in Scotland, the daughter of a shepherd, she was brought to America in a sailing vessel at the age of 4 by her parents. She lived in New York for a time until her parents moved to Ingham county, Mich., where they became pioneer farmers and she met her husband, John, when she was only 14.

Thoughts of Farm Linger.

Looking back over a life of almost a century, the jovial little lady readily recalled the days when she and her husband rode to church in an ox drawn cart and she wore a calico dress and bonnet. She remembered when she made her husband's clothes by hand and the feeling of happiness she experienced when her husband bought their first lawn mower. She also recalled that she churned 20 pounds of butter by hand every other day for many years.

Mrs. Closson, now a widow with only one of her three children surviving, came to live with her daughter 15 years ago and has many friends in Des Plaines. However, a nostalgic look passes over her face when she speaks of the old Closson farm in Onondago, Mich. That, to her, is home.

AWNINGS NEED CARE; THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE!

You are fortunate this year if you have awnings. Since they are of critical material it will pay to take good care of them.

Here are a few ways you can add to their longevity:

Paint them now, if they need it. Employ a special type of awning paint. If the frames show any signs of rusting get rid of this rust by sandpapering and then apply a coat of metallic paint.

Sturdy overcoatings for awnings are available which can be used over the paint, a water repellent material which will leave the awning pliable and give it a "double protection."

If your awnings are merely in need of a cleaning there are colorless cleaners available, liquids which can be applied with a cloth to freshen colors, increase flexibility and assist in protection against sun and rain and mildew.

Check before putting up the awnings to make sure there are no breaks in the canvas. If you have to use a carpet thread to mend awning you can run it thru paraffin to make it resist weather. Some people brush just a little hot paraffin into the seams of their ownings to help preserve them.

Some homeowners already have adapted the practice of giving longer life to their awnings by putting them up a few weeks later in the spring, and taking them down a few weeks earlier. You also can alternate the awnings each year if the windows on each side of the house are the same size.

Monday, May 15.

It is almost too late to make additional sowings of the early, cool crops, but after May 20 beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, and the tender things like tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers can be planted. Summer radishes can be sown and lettuce under cheesecloth may prove successful. It needs a mellow soil with copious amounts of water. Remember to cultivate just as soon as the rows can be distinguished and after a rain as soon as the soil is sufficiently dry. Begin to thin the plants just as soon as they can be handled.

Cultivate the newly set strawberry bed and all other newly planted stock. You may leave some crops in the ground until they are half grown before thinning, such as carrots, turnips, and onions. All of these are tender and the thinnings can be used for the table.

Tuesday, May 16

If you live in a community where cow manure can be obtained, take a bushel of it, place it in a burlap bag and suspend it in a 50 gallon container of water. When the color of tea pour it along the sides of the vegetable rows. You may also use commercial fertilizers by simply scattering it along both sides of the row at the rate of 4 pounds to each 100 foot row. Hoe under and water in.

Don't be satisfied with a few short rows of corn for there isn't enough to make it worth while. If there is room sow it in blocks to insure pollination and good ears. Corn likes a well fertilized soil. Root crops like a lot of organic matter in the soil, such as decayed manure. Carrots will germinate more quickly and more uniformly if the seed is soaked for an hour or so in warm water. Thin to two to three inches in the rows.

Wednesday, May 17

Be sure to examine your plants for insect pests by looking at the underside. Insects are certain to seek the hidden places to lay their eggs and unless discovered before they hatch in endless numbers they are likely to cause considerable damage. If liquid sprays are used buy an angle attachment so the spray can be sent upward and beneath the leaves without difficulty.

Try a few pot roses this month for they start into growth and will make headway before fall. The hybrid perpetuals are the best for the middle west, and there are many varieties to suit the most exacting. The rambler climbing roses are about the best for general purposes. They flower on wood made the previous season, and after flowering the old canes should be cut away entirely to give the new ones full strength to develop. Some roses are very susceptible to attacks from mildew but if dusted with sulphur it can be kept in check. It is wise to spray roses by adopting a regular program.

Thursday, May 18

If there is a better and more popular flowering plant than the geranium it has yet to be introduced. It is a plant for the million because it is a fine bedding and window plant.

Like all plants it will respond to good care, but it should not be given too much nitrogen or the growth will be too soft and rank. It likes to be "on the dry side" as the grower would say, which means that too much water should not be given it. Some of the best varieties include red barney, Mrs. E. G. Hill, S. A. Nutt, beaute poitevine, Jean Viaud, and Alphonse Riccard. They do well when grown to a comparatively large size for patio display in pots.

Friday, May 19

Among annuals of superior worth for city gardens may be listed the following: Petunias for general purposes with the small flowering types for bedding and the balcony types for window boxes. Some cities have selected the petunia for their official flower because it flowers so profusely and is so satisfactory. One community has adopted the four o'clock as its official flower for it does so well under adverse conditions.

Saturday, May 20

Practically everything can be planted outdoors now for there is little likelihood of frost injury. Tie up all straggling plants and especially stake tomatoes when growing them on the small plot. Keep the hoe going at least once a week. Watch for insect pests and never allow them to gain any headway or disaster may result.

Place window boxes where they can be used. Keep them watered and supplied with plant food for the area in which the plants grow is quite restricted. Make your garden a success by using common gardening sense.

LIST ADDITIONS TO PARKS DURING DISTRICT REGIME

Park supervisors in the northwest area tallied the improvements that have taken place during the last decade, as Chicago recently marked the 10th anniversary of the consolidation of its park system under a unified administration. In May, 1934, the first board of commissioners took charge of the then newly created Chicago park district. The 22 park districts that previously functioned, each in its own area and without reference to the others, technically passed out of existence at that time.

Unified management of the parks, boulevards, and recreation facilities in all parts of the city has called for standardization of policies and extension of services in all areas.

Build 11 Courts.

A survey of developments in the 25 parks on the northwest side shows that all have increased their facilities. In Riis park, Wrightwood and Mead avs.; for example, 11 new tennis courts have been constructed, as well as a children's playground, a wading pool, a swimming pool, two softball fields, and a football oval.

At Blackhawk park, Belden and LaVergne avs., a new athletic field was installed and the gymnasium remodeled. Similar improvements took place at Eckhart park, Chicago av. and Noble st., where the fieldhouse was altered to provide increased recreational facilities, and two new tennis courts were provided.

The boat landing at Humboldt park was rebuilt, 26 black topped tennis courts and a football field were constructed. Fieldhouses were remodeled at Kelvyn, La Follette, Sauganash, and Wilson parks.

Convert Garage.

At Independence park, 3945 N. Springfield av., the women's community building was rehabilitated and the basement converted into an arts and crafts studio. The garage at Jefferson park, Higgins and Long avs., was made into a craft production shop, a new volleyball court and ice skating rinks were constructed, and a library was installed in the fieldhouse.

To facilitate the use of the swimming pool constructed at Norwood park, dressing booths and 700 basket checking racks were installed. Pools were rebuilt at Portage and Pulaski parks. Ice skating areas were provided at Avondale, Gladstone, Gompers, Jensen, Wilson, and Rosedale parks. Space for artcrafts, drama, and games was provided at Kilbourn park. Ball diamonds were installed at Rutherford-Sayre, Eugene Field, Avondale, Shabbona, and Amundsen parks.

MARK 25TH YEAR OF K. C. COUNCIL IN ELMWOOD PARK

St. Anthony de Padua Knights of Columbus council celebrated its 25th anniversaray recently with a dinner-dance at Elmwood Park. Officers of the council include E. L. Osweiler, grand knight; Fred Garecht, deputy grand knight, and the Rev. David Lynch, assistant pastor of St. Celestine's parish, chaplain.

The council was organized as Franklin Park council, in Franklin Park, in 1919. The name was changed when the organization moved to Elmwood Park in 1933, setting up headquarters at 7300 Grand av. Present for the anniversary were A. F. Lange, first grand knight of the council, and the Rev. L. P. Hurkmans, once pastor at St. Gertrude's parish, and one of the council's founders.

LINDBLOM HIGH TO HOLD SILVER JUBILEE FRIDAY

Mark Anniversary at Festival.

Melodies which have resounded thru the halls of Lindblom High school for the last 25 years will be featured at the silver jubilee music festival to be presented by 500 students at 8:30 p. m. Friday in the school, 6130 S. Wolcott av. An additional performance will be given on May 26.

The festival, an annual event, this year marks Lindblom's 25th anniversary. Several numbers on the program have been dedicated to memorable school events. One group of songs, favorites of Harry Keeler, Lindblom's first principal, will be sung in his memory by the a cappella choir. These compositions are "Dear Land of Home," by Sibelius; "Lullaby on Christmas Eve" by Christiansen; and "Goin' Home," by Dvorak.

Choruses Will Sing.

Arias and choruses from operas which have been performed at Lindblom will be sung by the combined boys' and girls' choruses and soloists. These will include selections from "The Bohemian Girl," "Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance," "Robin Hood," and "The Chocolate Soldier."

The orchestra and band will play compositions ranging from the first movement of Shubert's "Unfinished Symphony" to the "Light Cavalry Overture," by Von Suppe.

The events being celebrated this year began on March 17, 1917, when ground was broken for the building which was to house a new high school to be named for Robert Lindblom, a member of the board of education, a civil service commissioner, and a leader among Swedish-American citizens of Chicago.

30 Teachers Plan First Term.

In May, 1919, as the building neared completion, Harry Keeler, then assistant principal of Englewood High school, was named principal of the new school, and in June of that year he called a meeting of the 30 teachers who were to plan the fall term. The motto which he selected, "How Good to Live and Learn," is still the school emblem.

On Sept. 2, 1919, Lindblom High school was opened to 965 freshmen and sophomores from the neighboring grammar schools and from Tilden, Englewood, and Parker High schools.

The first four year graduating class in February, 1922, numbered 56 students, while the largest class consisted of 811 in June, 1940.

Along with its educational program, Lindblom has presented many outstanding musicals, dramas, and school assemblies.

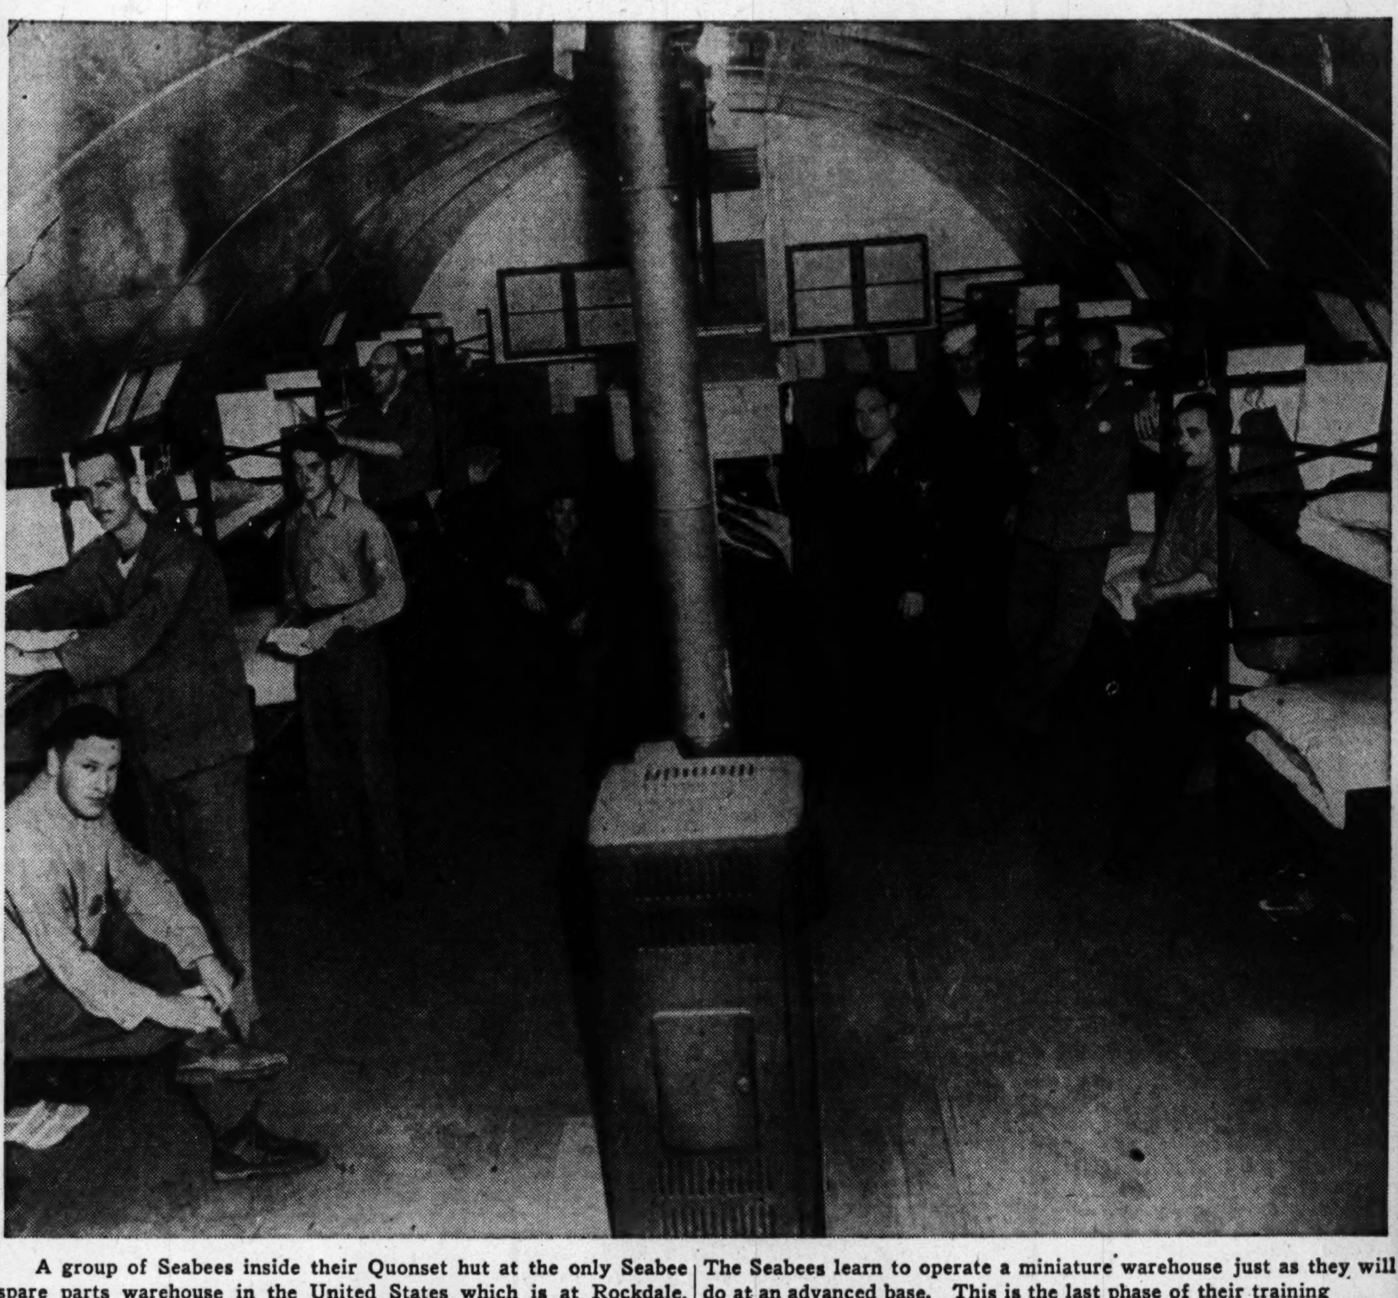
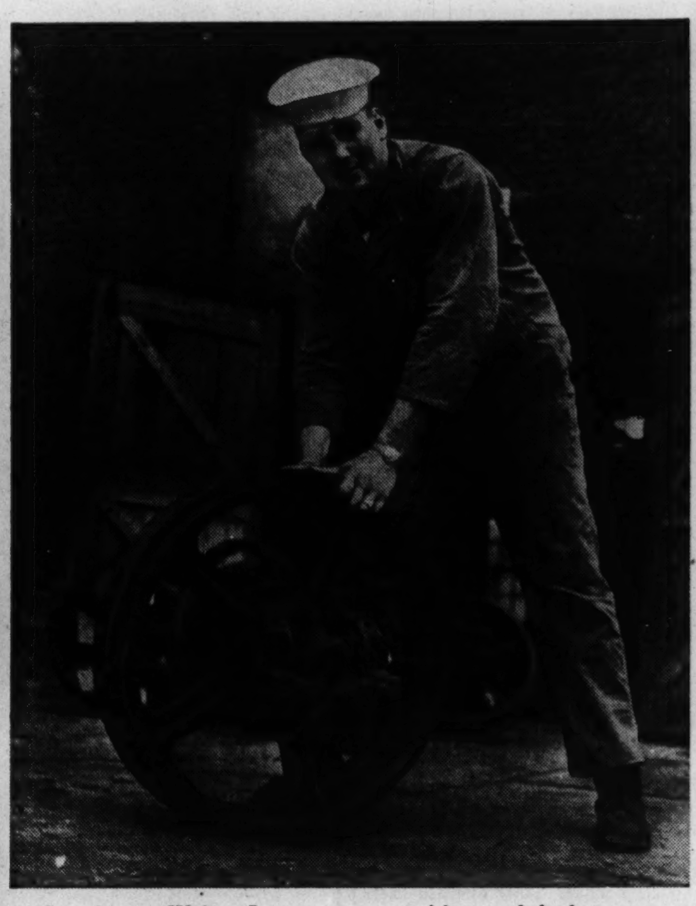
Seabee Warehouse at Rockdale Ships Spare Parts to Fighting Fronts



A group of Seabees inside their Quonset hut at the only Seabee spare parts warehouse in the United States which is at Rockdale.

The Seabees learn to operate a miniature warehouse just as they will do at an advanced base. This is the last phase of their training



Storekeeper Walter Jorgensen poses with one of the largest spare parts handled by the warehouse, a tractor idler wheel weighing 350 pounds. The depot sends all types of spare parts, from egg beaters to crane cables, to all naval construction battalion advance bases.

Mrs. Agnes Weis, Joliet, shows Seaman Baron Gritz, a former newspaper man, how to pick parts from the hundreds of thousands of bins. The bins vary in size from 6 inches square to 8 feet square. Location cards show the bin of every part in the warehouse.

STUDENTS WILL EASE SHORTAGE OF HIRED HANDS

Seek 200 to Live at Thornton Camp.

South and Southwest students in public and parochial schools will register between now and May 25 for volunteer jobs on farms this summer to ease the farm labor shortage in this area. Two hundred Chicago students are being recruited to live at the Thornton victory farm volunteer camp near Harvey in the Cook county forest preserve, which will be open between June 26 and Aug. 26.

Volunteers at the Thornton camp will be sent out daily to farmers who need assistance in weeding, planting, cultivating, and harvesting. Other boys and girls from city and suburban schools will live with the farmers for whom they work, it was announced recently by C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm adviser, and Frank Gingrich, assistant state farm labor supervisor.

Boys and girls from southern suburban high and elementary schools who volunteer their services for several weeks or months during the summer will live at home and be called for by their employer each morning, or they will live at the farmer's home.

Organize Work Crews.

To increase efficiency, work crews of from three to seven boys and girls are being organized in suburban schools before the beginning of the summer vacation. Farmers will apply at the schools and at the Thornton camp for available crews. Boys displaying qualities of leadership, ability, and responsibility will be appointed crew leaders. On the shoulders of these "morale men" will fall the duties of dealing with farmers, of keeping crews together, and of getting work done as the farmers want it.

Blue registration cards are now available at school offices and from officials at the following places: Cook county farm bureau, 201 N. Dunton st., Arlington Heights, and 2414 W. Grove av., Blue Island; Raymond Gouwens, Thornton township High school, 151st st. and Broadway, Harvey, and Clarence Helmrath, Washington Elementary school, 16th st. and Chicago rd., Chicago Heights.

All cards will be turned over to the agricultural extension service of the emergency farm labor program or to the schools. Applicants will be placed, if possible, on the type of farm they prefer. When beginning work, they will be given identification cards.

To Receive Certificates.

At the end of the season the juvenile farm laborers will be awarded certificates in recognition of their work. Altho the volunteers are too young for army service or war plant work, the certificate will acknowledge their contribution to the war food production program.

Volunteers will be paid weekly wages on a sliding scale based upon their ability and experience.

Elmer J. Steil, emergency farm labor supervisor for Cook county, expects that 2,000 boys and girls will register in the county this year. Volunteers last summer totaled 1,950. This summer many are expected to come from elementary schools, he said, because many high school students have summer jobs formerly held by war plant workers.

Many farmers, once dubious of the value of the young city workers, are eager this year to reëngage the same crews they had last summer. A survey by state farm labor officials at the close of last summer's work showed 85 per cent of the farmers voted for reëmployment of their helpers. Eighty-seven per cent of the students who volunteered last summer voted to return to service in the land army this year. The survey, which only accounted for 25 per cent of the total workers, also disclosed that 40 per cent of the boys and girls had no previous farm experience.

Youths to Ease Shortage.

Formerly dependent upon transient workers and the seasonal employes from Chicago, the 1,000 vegetable farmers south of Chicago face a critical help shortage which the juvenile volunteers will help alleviate.

When the Thornton camp closes, at the end of the summer, 500 Jamaicians will be available to farmers in this area to harvest their tomato and other autumn crops.

The school volunteers will work at weeding the various crops and tending early onion sets, the largest single crop in the south area, as well as carrots, beets, beans, and parsnips. They will detassel corn, pick fruit, work in canneries, thrash, mow, and bale grain crops, milk cows, drive tractors, take care of live stock, harness, and drive teams.

Working with Hughes, Gingrich, and Steil on the farm aid program are Charles Glover, assistant county farm adviser; Robert Krejeci, Boy Scout camp supervisor who will act as advisor to the director of the Thornton camp; Leland Medsker, assistant director of the occupational research bureau of the board of education; and Noble Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

SEABEE PARTS FROM ROCKDALE SEE THE WORLD

Warehouse Trains Men, Supplies Outposts.

From Rockdale flow most of the spare parts received by naval construction battalions thruout the world. On a site of 35 acres 2⅛ miles south of Joliet, along the Des Plaines river, is located the only Seabee spare parts warehouse in the United States. Civilians, naval officers, and Seabee trainees work side by side as they get "the right part at the right place at the right time in proper condition for immediate use," whether it be needed in the next room or 10,000 miles away at the scene of the next invasion of enemy territory.

Lt. Comdr. Scott.

There, on 480,000 square feet of floor space in 40 warehouses over 100,000 types of spare parts for use in naval outposts, are received, stored, processed, and shipped to advance bases. They vary from egg beaters to crane cables.

There, living and working with the same materials with which they will create air fields, and virtual cities in captured territory, are classes of Seabees receiving their last training before going into action.

100 in Each Class.

Each class is composed of 100 enlisted men and 10 commissioned and warrant officers. For eight weeks they attend lectures and work alongside the 2,100 civilian employes learning to identify, order, pack, and ship parts. They operate their own miniature warehouse just as they will at an advanced base and learn to order equipment quickly and accurately just as they may have to do under enemy fire.

Lt. Comdr. R. C. Scott, resident officer in charge of the warehouse, said "accuracy in ordering thousands of parts cannot be overstressed in our training. Requests for equipment are sometimes flown 400 miles from the front to the nearest advance base warehouse and there is no time for mistakes. A construction battalion might be called upon to erect quarters for 2,500 men containing light, power, heat, ventilation, and sanitation facilities in new territory within eight weeks."

The Seabees at Rockdale are housed in 35 temporary overseas Quonset huts, buildings with curved steel roofs and steel sides. The same style of quarters they will erect on some distant battle front.

Work with Civilians.

Before leaving the Seabees spend some time with the civilian employes of all the many departments of the warehouse. A careful study is made of the catalogs of the various manufacturers to learn the code numbers of thousands of parts. To further familiarize themselves with the parts the Seabees work with the civilian picking crews who walk among the hundreds of thousands of bins arranged in tiers and fill the orders.

The depot also has its own navy switch engine which pulls freight cars in and out of the plant. A load of 34 cars can be received, checked, and processed at the same time.

In the processing and shipping department the Seabees learn how parts are treated and packed so that the rough treatment of war and the elements have no damaging effect. After the part is thoroly cleaned hands never touch it again until it is used at a front.

Waterproof Packages.

The first step of the extensive processing method is the dipping of the part into a container of liquid wax. This gives it a protective covering. Waterproof wrapping next covers the part. Code numbers identifying the part are stuck onto the wrapper which is covered by a wax coating leaving the numbers visible but protecting the wrapper from the effects of salt water.

The package is then tightly packed in a box which is lined with waterproofing, sealed with a water proof glue, nailed, and then tightly strapped with steel bands. The part is then sent to an advance base.

More than half the civilian employes are women, many with relatives and friends in service. Among them is Rose Wendell, 20, 106 Miller av., Joliet, whose six brothers are in the service. Three are in the navy, two in the army, and one is in the marine corps. When her duties at the spare parts depot are finished she joins her sister, Lorraine, in keeping up correspondence with 50 service men stationed thruout the world. She is also president of the Girls' A. B. D. club which holds dances, parties, and receptions for the Seabees at the depot.

Employ General's Brothers.

Two employes are first cousins of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery. They are Hugh Montgomery, 68, of 1730 Channahon rd., Joliet, and his brother, Joseph Montgomery, 66, of 914 E. Clinton st., Joliet. They were born in Ballymena, county Antrim, Ireland, near the general's birthplace. The elder of the general's cousins left Ireland in 1901 after serving six months in the queen's guard.

Both Montgomerys are naturalized citizens and have been engaged for many years in the buying and selling of cattle and horses in and near Joliet.

At the helm of the spare parts depot, as in the rest of the organization, military men and civilians work side by side. Military officials in charge are: Lt. Comdr. Scott; Comdr. Ralph Bryan, personnel officer and officer in charge of the spare parts training school; and Lt. I. M. Smith, executive officer. Civilian officials are: E. E. Davis, project manager; P. E. McCracken, operations manager; and George Bent, in charge of labor relations.

TELEGRAPHER AT '80 CONVENTION SEEKS JOB AGAIN

Saw G.O.P. Refuse Third Term for Grant.

At the age of 84 Marion T. Heath wants to experience, once again, the thrills of a telegrapher at a national Republican convention. He participated in the famous Republican convention of 1880 when the followers of James A. Garfield quashed Gen. Ulysses S. Grant's aspirations to a third term in an outpouring of campaign oratory which culminated in a majority for Garfield on the 36th ballot.

Marion T. Heath.

Heath relates: "There was a rush of votes for Garfield, and a dark horse was nominated. Then the refrain, 'Glory, Glory, Hallelujah, as We Go Marching On' swelled into pandemonium. Garfield, paling in the fierce light of a nation's gaze, marched on to victory—and death.

"Over at the Stadium next June another convention is to vote on questions of importance equal to any since the time we were 'Marching Through Georgia'," wrote Heath recently to the Chicago office of the Western Union Telegraph company. "As I was an employe in the convention of 1880, so I would like to be next June.

Tired of Retirement.

This elderly American is tired of being retired. He left his sending key at the age of 70 when he was pensioned, but "loafing," he says, "is the hardest work in the world." Besides, he is aroused over the political issues of today which he considers "graver than any since the Civil war. Freedom of enterprise and the strength of our Constitution are at stake," he sternly warns.

Despite his age, Heath has a full head of hair. His face is ruddy, he stands erect, and there is no tremolo in his clear low voice. He proudly relates that his grandson, Capt. Richard Heath Krogh, is with the United States air force in Corsica. Heath lives with the captain's wife and her daughter at 807 W. 79th st.

He was born in Guysville, O., on July 10, 1859, and it was in the local telegraph office, where he was a messenger boy, that he learned to send and receive Morse code. On New Year's day of 1879 he was hired as a telegrapher in Chicago and the next year worked at the historic convention which so impressed him that he can still describe it.

Denied Third Term.

"The Stalwarts led by Roscoe Conkling, a senator from New York, were trying to get Grant in for a third term. It was a deadlock between Grant and Garfield, the dark horse. On the 35th ballot there was a break for Garfield and on the 36th ballot that break had spread thruout the hall.

"There were no radios and no loud speakers in those days," Heath added, "and a man had to have a real voice to make himself heard in that huge hall." As the ballots were read they were handed to Heath, who clicked the results to the waiting world.

After the convention Heath worked for 20 years as a telegrapher and station agent for the Illinois Central railroad. Once, during his railroad days, he functioned as a newspaper correspondent when a hurricane swept thru a section of Illinois. At the request of a Chicago newspaper he telegraphed an 800 word story from his station at Amboy. After a short time with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad at the 63d st. station he returned to his first post in a Chicago telegraph office where he remained for 29 years until his retirement on Jan. 31, 1930.

Fears Central Power.

Since then his patriotic fervor has inspired him to write a 200 page manuscript entitled "Pioneers of America." The theme of the work, plainly stated in its prolog, is the warning that, "to preserve the liberty enjoyed in the past, Americans should jealously guard their rights against encroachments, the centralization of power, and against traitors who would destroy freedom in the name of liberty."

He has also written a treatise on the Masonic order. He is a past master of the Auburn Park lodge and is currently active posting new members. A third literary work by Heath is a poem entitled "Dear America" which he has had set to music.

Heath says he has read THE TRIBUNE practically every day since 1880 and always works the crossword puzzles in order to increase his vocabulary. He is anxious to vote in as many Novembers as are left for him.

U. S. Uppermost with Him.

He has no recipe for longevity, eats all he wants, drinks a glass of beer now and then, and, whenever he feels the weight of his 84 years, he takes something stronger. The Chinese proverb, "moderation in all things" seems to best describe Heath's attitude toward everything but politics and the future of America.

He believes the morals of the younger generation are a little better than those of previous generations but government has not shown the same improvement. His voice takes on a ringing tone when he says: "We must go back to government by laws rather than government by bureaus."

Heath's request that he be permitted to work on the floor of the 1944 Republican convention was recently answered in a letter from S. E. Hastings, commercial superintendent of Western Union, which read in part: "I do assure you that we will make every effort to effect arrangements whereby you can again take your telegraph key in hand to round out a career of more than three score years."

Monday, May 15.

It is almost too late to make additional sowings of the early, cool crops, but after May 20 beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, and the tender things like tomatoes, egg plant, and peppers can be planted. Summer radishes can be sown and lettuce under cheesecloth may prove successful. It needs a mellow soil with copious amounts of water. Remember to cultivate just as soon as the rows can be distinguished and after a rain as soon as the soil is sufficiently dry. Begin to thin the plants just as soon as they can be handled.

Tuesday, May 16

If you live in a community where cow manure can be obtained, take a bushel of it, place it in a burlap bag and suspend it in a 50 gallon container of water. When the color of tea pour it along the sides of the vegetable rows. You may also use commercial fertilizers by simply scattering it along both sides of the row at the rate of 4 pounds to each 100 foot row. Hoe under and water in.

Wednesday, May 17

Be sure to examine your plants for insect pests by looking at the underside. Insects are certain to seek the hidden places to lay their eggs and unless discovered before they hatch in endless numbers they are likely to cause considerable damage. If liquid sprays are used buy an angle attachment so the spray can be sent upward and beneath the leaves without difficulty.

Thursday, May 18

If there is a better and more popular flowering plant than the geranium it has yet to be introduced. It is a plant for the million because it is a fine bedding and window plant.

Like all plants it will respond to good care, but it should not be given too much nitrogen or the growth will be too soft and rank. It likes to be "on the dry side" as the grower would say, which means that too much water should not be given it. Some of the best varieties include red barney, Mrs. E. G. Hill, S. A. Nutt, beaute poitevine, Jean Viaud, and Alphonse Riccard. They do well when grown to a comparatively large size for patio display in pots.

Still another group that is excellent for city conditions is the Cannas, which grow from rhizomes. They revel in hot weather and plenty of water when well established.

Friday, May 19

Among annuals of superior worth for city gardens may be listed the following: Petunias for general purposes with the small-flowering types for bedding and the balcony types for window boxes. Some cities have selected the petunia for their official flower because it flowers so profusely and is so satisfactory. One community has adopted the four o'clock as its official flower for it does so well under adverse conditions.

Saturday, May 20

Practically everything can be planted outdoors now for there is little likelihood of frost injury. Tie up all straggling plants and especially stake tomatoes when growing them on the small plot. Keep the hoe going at least once a week. Watch for insect pests and never allow them to gain any headway or disaster may result.

AWNINGS NEED CARE; THEY ARE IRREPLACEABLE!

You are fortunate this year if you have awnings. Since they are of critical material it will pay to take good care of them.

Here are a few ways you can add to their longevity:

Paint them now, if they need it. Employ a special type of awning paint. If the frames show any signs of rusting get rid of this rust by sandpapering and then apply a coat of metallic paint.

Sturdy overcoatings for awnings are available which can be used over the paint, a water repellent material which will leave the awning pliable and give it a "double protection."

If your awnings are merely in need of a cleaning there are colorless cleaners available, liquids which can be applied with a cloth to freshen colors, increase flexibility and assist in protection against sun and rain and mildew.

Check before putting up the awnings to make sure there are no breaks in the canvas. If you have to use a carpet thread to mend awning you can run it thru paraffin to make it resist weather. Some people brush just a little hot paraffin into the seams of their ownings to help preserve them.

EMPTY YOUR FILES! The old records in your files will make paper containers for blood plasma, food, and ammunition. Turn them in and save a boy's life.

now HITLER'S PRIVATE DOCTOR tells All!

FOR THE FIRST TIME DER FUEHRER'S

Incredible, Shocking, Personal Life Revealed By

THE MOST SENSATIONAL DISCLOSURES Ever Made About Any Person

By all normal, human standards—what a rotten psychological background this fiend-incarnate reveals, to his own private physician, who lived Hitler's own life through the whole 15 years of Hitler's rise to power. And these confidential confessions, which explain Hitler's inhuman abberations, his madness for power, his hatred of the Jews, his vitriolic temper, his blood lust, his reputation for abnormalities, were made to give him a greater grip on himself, and on the enslaved, miserable "beneficiaries" under the "new order."

DR. KRUEGER LIVED HISTORY—YOU READ IT

These terrible confessions, these ghastly self-revelations, were written into this astounding scientific, first-hand psychoanalysis of Hitler by Dr. Krueger, his own physician, after he fled Germany to save himself from the Hitler purge. And the book was written only in the hope that widespread detailed knowledge of Hitler's abysmal cruelties of body, mind and soul would incense the world enough to help PURGE Hitler.

Every Patriot Will Read This Amazing Must Book

If you hate Hitler now, no word in our language will describe your feelings AFTER you have read "I Was Hitler's Doctor." It holds you breathless. It carries you from astonishment to freezing shock and back again — repeatedly. For you see

WHAT HITLER TOLD DR. KRUEGER

Yes, through fifteen years Hitler—the diabolical, intuitive Fuehrer—was seeking mental relief through psychoanalysis, and to Dr. Krueger, in man to man discussions, he confessed his abnormal love for his mother, his venereal taints, his degradation and murder of his glamorous young niece, his relations with Captain Roehm and other men—indeed most of these authenticated revelations are so affecting that they may not even be mentioned in an advertisement. Now you, too, for only $1.98, can know as much of Hitler as Dr. Krueger does; and understand your new-found knowledge fully because of the brilliant doctor's lucid scientific explanations.

KURT KRUEGER, M. D. —AN EX-NAZI

Dr. Krueger writes without passion or prejudice, with medical college frankness. He is both a Christian and an "Aryan" and WAS a Nazi, till he realized the debasing purposes of the "cult"—for CULT it really is.

UPTON SINCLAIR

This famous American author says in a special introduction to his book: "I take the liberty of telling the critics and the book readers of my country that this volume is of great importance to our times."

OTTO STRASSER

Ex-aide of Hitler, the man who came to power with Hitler and was one of his most intimate friends until he escaped Hitler's blood purge, writes a special introduction to this book revealing his intimate knowledge of Hitler.

K. ARVID ENLIND, M. D., LT. COL. MED. RES., U. S. ARMY

In a special preface to this book, says:
"As a doctor, I recognize the phenomena described as human, and as such understandable."

This Is What This Sensational BOOK REVEALS

Hitler and His Secret Disease • The Roehm-Hess Relationship • Frustration and Impotence • Hitler's Habits • The Patient's Confession • Why Hitler Had No Wife • Hitler's Bestialism • Blitz-Dreams and Nightmares • Campaign Against Jews • Attempted Assassination • Hitler and His Women • The Suicide Complex • Hitler's Prison Days • Hitler's Odyssey of Torture • Murder Complex

Alicia Markova to Dance with Ballet Repertory

Stars in New Massine Work June 13 to 15

By Claudia Cassidy.

Something between a gulp and a gasp probably will be the average reaction to the news that, when Leonide Massine's new ballet, "Poetic Moments," opens the June 13, 14, and 15 performances of the Ballet Repertory company at the Eighth Street theater, Alicia Markova, Marina Svetlova, Alexis Dolinoff, and George Zoritch will dance its leading roles. No, Markova is not a misprint. The exquisite ballerina whose illness kept her from us when Ballet Theater made its last visit is the star Massine asked for and got.

My own gasp quickly melted into a purr of satisfaction. On two counts. Both Massine and Markova are artists of the highest caliber, rare even in a renaissance of ballet. And I'm delighted to see the Ballet Repertory company stubbornly holding its own. My interest dates back almost a year to the day a slim girl with a soft voice came in to say she would like to start a Chicago ballet. I said it would cost money and hard work and probably heartaches, ballet being the most volatile denizen of the never precisely stable world of theater arts. She said she didn't mind the cost much, or the work at all, providing they got results.

So Carla Bradley rented a studio in the Fine Arts building and got to work on what turned out to be the Ballet Repertory company. She couldn't put Chicago in the title because of an injunction waiting to pounce. The group made a fledgling bow at the Eighth Street theater last November, with no less a guest choreographer and ballet mistress than Bronislava Nijinska. It wasn't a resounding success, but it had a glimmer worth encouraging. Several young dancers bloomed under good treatment, and a couple of local designers had the cash to carry out interesting ideas. But the company suffered one of those balletic schisms that splinter the dance universe, and for a time it looked like the end of a gallant little venture that didn't quite make the grade.

Miss Bradley might have paid the bills and quit. She just paid the bills. The faithful in her troupe kept working and by this time may even have taken up tap dancing, because Paul Draper, who simply can't resist a smooth surface, has been visiting the studio, no doubt embroidering the five positions with a counterpoint of taps. Perhaps he is even a little wistful about the whole business, from his solitary stardom, because he used to want his own company, with Ray Bolger as first choice. This always bolstered my faith in Mr. Draper's company, which has a superior dream existence.

But to get back to the Ballet Repertory and its June blooming with guests. You know Svetlova and Dolinoff, of course, from their visit with the Metropolitan Opera. You probably remember Svetlova from the Ballet Russe when her flowing arabesques adorned "Paganini." Zoritch is one of the more gifted young Russians, with exceptional style. He has danced the "Faun" several times here.

As the three identical programs are now arranged, the curtain goes up on Massine's new ballet, which he will put into rehearsal to as yet unidentified music when he arrives May 22. "Spanish Rhapsody," to music of Liszt, comes next, choreographed by Vela Montoya, a Chicagoan, in collaboration with Miss Bradley and danced by the local company headed by Montoya and Dolinoff. The other productions are holdovers from November, including the Glazounoff piece called "Debutante's Ball" and Nijinska's "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star," danced to a mixture of Tschaikowsky's "Capriccio Italien" and the Suite in G. Dancing in the latter will be George Lawrence as the mad musician, Dorothy Gremchuk as the street dancer, and Marilyn Bebber, Carole Layden, and Dorothy Howe in other leading roles. Tickets are now on sale at the studio in the Fine Arts building. They cost from $1.20 to $4.80.

In lieu of actual announcements, guesswork flourishes. It seems fairly well established that Pierre Monteux will open Ravinia June 27, and gossip adds young Leonard Bernstein to the conducting list. More gossip names Oct. 16 as the opening of the Chicago Opera season, even if it turns out to be the Metropolitan in thin disguise. At least that date falls on a Monday—tho, come to think of it, our recent seasons had a way of taking in extra cash by a nonsubscription Saturday night start.

Whatever our own plans turn out to be, San Francisco has its season sewed up to start in late September, again with Gaetano Merola at the helm. William Steinberg will make his début as one of the conductors, while Vivian Della Chiesa is new in the soprano list, and Margaret Harshaw has joined the contraltos. Novelties and revivals include Lily Pons' first performance of "La Traviata," Ezio Pinza in "The Tales of Hoffmann," Salvatore Baccaloni in "Falstaff," possibly Rise Stevens in "Carmen," and Leonard Warren in either "Simon Boccanegra" or "The Masked Ball." The list also hovers between the Puccini and Massenet versions of the Manon story, which is reminiscent of Ravinia, where we used to get both.

What do soldiers in the Aleutians think about? No doubt a lot of things. But Pvt. Russell H. Johnston recently wrote to ask what violinists own Stradivari. "Your answer is anxiously awaited," he added, "as I have five bucks bet on it." Here is part of the answer—Mischa Elman has two, one dated 1717, the other 1722; Albert Spalding plays a Stradivarius dated 1721; Erica Morini has the "Davidoff," 1727; Kreisler has one but usually plays a Guarnerius with orchestra or in big halls; Millstein has the "Dancla," 1710; Zimbalist owns the "Lamoureux"; Ruggiero Ricci plays one, and Adolf Busch has one of the finest, the "Wiener," dated 1732. Heifetz, of course, plays the famous "David" Guarnerius once the property of Wilhelmj and Sarasate. Szigeti has the Guarnerius once, according to legend, played by Tartini.

THE BUILDING OF JALNA

By MAZO DE LA ROCHE

(Copyright: 1944: By Mazo de la Roche.)

INSTALMENT VIII.

THE celerity of this birth as compared with Gussie's, and her speedy recovery from it, were a miracle to Adeline. She gave all the credit to Dr. St. Charles. She sang his praises to everyone who came to see her. She even gave him credit for the vigor of the lusty baby. Tho Philip did not much like the idea, she added St. Charles to the chosen name, and, tho Christmas was three weeks off, the name Noel. She was truly happy. Adeline was able to nurse Nicholas, which she had not been fitted to do for Gussie. She found an English nurse who, with the arrogance of her class, took almost complete possession of the babe. Marie, however, would not give up Gussie. She and the nurse established two hostile camps in the domestic quarters.

The nurse had the advantage of knowing she was almost indispensable to Adeline. Marie knew that Philip reveled in her souffles and meringues. The nurse extolled her charge's beauty. He was the handsomest infant in Quebec. Marie told how people stopped her in the street to admire la petite Augusta, in her white lamb coat and blue velvet bonnet.

There was no disagreement between the parents as to the relative beauty of their children. Nicholas was indeed a fine child, and in the months that followed he grew more attractive each week. His skin was like a milk white flower petal. His brown eyes had golden lights in them and early sparkled with mischief and vitality. He was not bald at his birth but had a pretty coating of brown down which grew so fast that, by the time he was five months old, his nurse could coax it into a fine Thames tunnel, the very pride of her life. Adeline could see in him a strong resemblance to her mother but there was a promise of Whiteoak stalwartness in his infant frame. Philip said he was the image of Adeline without the red hair. Adeline thanked God he had not inherited that. She hoped none of her children would for she looked on her red hair as a blemish. She had her wish. Not one of her four children had an auburn hair in his head. It remained for her eldest grandson to inherit, even in a more pronounced degree, her coloring.

The christening was an event in Quebec. The robe worn by Adeline and her brothers, somewhat the worse for wear, was sent out from Ireland to adorn him. The ceremony was at the garrison church, the guests being entertained afterward at the Whiteoaks' house, where short but effective speeches were made and much champagne was drunk to the health and future happiness of Nicholas Noel St. Charles.

The Whiteoaks gave a still larger party at mid-Lent. The guests were asked to wear the costumes of the reign of Louis XVI. How they were transformed by powdered hair and patches, by the elegance of their costumes! Philip and Adeline were charming hosts. They were in their element. The house in the Rue St. Louis echoed laughter and the music of the dance, as it had not done since the days of the Duke of Kent.

The weather was bitterly cold. It had been a severe winter and surely it was time for spring. But day by day it grew colder. Great snowfalls made the streets impassable. All day long men in mufflers and ear muffs shoveled the snow. Milk was delivered in frozen blocks. Meat was frozen. One morning Patsy O'Flynn found a dog frozen stiff on the doorstep. Philip had his ears frozen when returning from dinner at the Fort. The thermometer sank to 30 degrees below zero. The lights of the Lower Town twinkled palely at night like little stars. The sun, aloof all day, blazed at its setting into crimson grandeur across the icebound St. Lawrence.

A new member of the household, and one who took up a good deal of room, was Nero, a huge black Newfoundland dog. Tho he was young he was burly and possessive. He behaved as tho he were master of the house and his coat was so thick that he was puzzled to know whether a beating was in correction or play.

He was the center of the Whiteoaks' first "family group." The photographer arranged Adeline on a Louis Quinze chair which her billowing garments quite concealed, with Nicholas on her lap. She wore her sealskin sacque and little cap beneath which her hair escaped in thick curls. The infant on her lap was clothed in white rabbit skin with the exception of his dimpled feet, which were bare. Gussie stood at her mother's knee, looking almost as broad as long in her white lamb coat and velvet bonnet. Philip, in his fur lined coat, stood proudly beside his family and at their feet lay Nero, also manifestly impervious to 20 below zero weather. Behind the group was a somewhat Grecian landscape, but this was offset by the impressive snowstorm that enveloped all.

It was still winter when April came. Wilmott had definitely made up his mind to go to Ontario. He did his best to persuade the Whiteoaks to do the same. Philip already had a friend, a retired Anglo-Indian colonel, who had settled on the fertile shore of Lake Ontario. Col. Vaughan was an older man than Philip. The colonel had known him in India, and his attitude toward him in this new land was almost fatherly. He urged him to remove to Ontario where they might be neighbors. "Here," he wrote, "the winters are mild, we have little snow and in the long, fruitful summer the land yields grain and fruit in abundance. An agreeable little settlement of respectable families is being formed. You and your talented lady, my dear Whiteoak, would receive the welcome here that people of your consequence merit. If you come, our home shall be yours till you have built a suitable residence. My wife joins me in this offer in the most wholehearted manner. Our house is comparatively large and, tho we live simply, I think we could make you comfortable."

The transplanting to Canada had stimulated Adeline's vacation nature. She was ready to move on, from province to province if need be, till the ideal situation was found. She had made friends in Quebec but she could go back to visit them. More than any of these her desire to retain Wilmott as a friend influenced her. His friendship meant more to her than that of any one in Quebec. If he went to Ontario this would be lost to her. She consented to the migration.

Once that Philip and Wilmott had won Adeline over, they threw themselves heart and soul into the preparation for the journey. The property in Quebec was disposed of, tho for a lesser sum than Philip had hoped for. The packing of the furniture, the innumerable small preparations, took time and energy. Only a year had passed since they had thrown themselves with enthusiasm into turning the houses in the Rue St. Louis into an abode to their liking, and now it was dismantled. It resumed its air of melancholy. They had made no impression on it.

All the Balestriers wept at parting from them. From Monsieur Balestrier downward, they wept with less and less restraint till, when it came to Lou-Lou, the youngest, he clung to Adeline's neck screaming and kicking.

The furniture was to be stored in Quebec till sent for; only their personal luggage, their live stock, consisting of Nero and Maggie, the goat, journeyed with the family and their two servants. It was a heartbreak for Marie to part with Gussie. She cried till her features were blurred and Gussie cried, too, tho she was pleased to be going on a journey with mamma and papa. She would have liked to leave Nicholas behind, for she had as yet no love for him. She had a real affection for Nero and Maggie. She remembered vaguely her sea voyage and, when she realized that they were going to travel by ship again, her mouth went down at the corners, and she clung tightly to her nurse's skirt. But this was a fine steamer and its progress was made up the bright river in complete comfort and serenity.

Thru canals, along shores where orchards flourished, past wild rapids and peaceful slopes, now by barge, now by stage coach, the party leisurely made their pleasant way. The sky arched high and turquoise blue, the land smiled its promise. There seemed no limit to the possibilities of this country. From the stage coach they alighted at taverns with painted floors and French cooking. On they journeyed till they came to taverns with unpainted floors and a flow of hard spirits. Philip, Adeline, Gussie, Nicholas, Matilda, his nurse, Patsy O'Flynn, Nero, the Newfoundland dog, Maggie, the little goat, Wilmott, who studied maps and deplored the way Philip scattered money about, all moved westward to their new home. Only Wilmott did not go as far as the Vaughans but remained in the nearest village to inquire about the possibility of buying a small place for himself.

David Vaughan had acquired from the government, at a very moderate cost, several hundreds of acres of beautifully wooded fertile land. He had built a comfortable but unpretentious house with a wide veranda across the front, on which he and his family spent much of their time in the fine weather. He had now lived there for three years and he regarded them as his happiest years. He was one of those fortunate men who can look back on the greatest undertaking of his life and say it was well done, who can look forward to the future secure in the thought that he is settled exactly where he wants to be and that no further change is to be considered. He loved and admired his wife. He was proud of his son. It was his most cherished wish to draw congenial people to the corner of the province where he had settled, and with their help, establish the customs and traditions of England, to be enjoyed and cherished by their descendants. To these he wished to add the breadth and freedom of the new land. He believed the combination to be the ideal one for comfort, tolerance and content. He remembered Philip Whiteoak as a man who would fit admirably into this pattern of living. He had not met Philip's wife, but he had heard that she was distinguished looking and animated in her conversation. To him it seemed worth a real effort to persuade such desirable people to settle beside him.

From the stagecoach they alighted at taverns with painted floors and French cooking.

As the trouble of a prolonged visit from the Whiteoaks would fall on Mrs. Vaughan she was less enthusiastic than he. She earnestly hoped they would not stay as long as he had suggested. However, she prepared two bedrooms, one for the nurse and two infants, the other for their parents. Philip had forgotten to mention Patsy O'Flynn, the Newfoundland dog and the goat. There was such an abundance of game and fish, almost at their own door, that the question of food was not too exacting. Later in the season, wild strawberries, raspberries, and blackberries would provide fruit. There was no better bread or butter than was made in her own house. She defied any one to make as good cheese as she herself could. No, it was not the meals that hung over her, it was the thought of outsiders always denying their privacy and she felt hurt that her husband seemed not to mind that. As for her son, Robert, he was delighted. But what else could you expect of a boy of 19 who sometimes found life a little too quiet in the country?

It was a lovely evening in the first week of June when Adeline and Philip first saw the scene where the rest of their lives would be spent. David Vaughan had sent a carriage and a pair of strong gray horses to meet the stagecoach. Also a light farm wagon for their luggage.

The Vaughans came out to the veranda to greet them. David Vaughan and Philip had not met since Philip's marriage. They shook hands warmly, then each presented the other to his wife, the ladies to each other. Mrs. Vaughan and Adeline looked with a good deal of curiosity into each other's eyes. Mrs. Vaughan was determined to like Adeline but she had a misgiving when she looked into her eyes, even tho Adeline's smile was sweet with blandishment. "I don't believe I shall like her," Alice Vaughan thought, "but what beautiful teeth and skin she has!"

Adeline saw a wife in Alice Vaughan, a woman whose thoughts never ranged beyond husband and children. She was handsome, in the early 40s. Her prematurely gray hair framed a square face with even features and large gray eyes. Her complexion was clear and she had a good color in her cheeks. She wore a black silk dress, but no crinoline. Her only ornament was a large cameo brooch. On her smoothly arranged hair was a small white lace cap. After a moment's hesitant scrutiny she took both Adeline's hands in hers and kissed her.

"Welcome to your new home," she said.

"How sweet of you to say that!" cried Adeline.

"It is to be your home, you know," put in Col. Vaughan, "till you have built a house for yourselves."

Mr. Vaughan turned with tender eagerness to the children. Gussie looked tired out, even tho her little face was sunburned to an unnatural rosiness, but Nicholas, sitting on his nurse's arm, was superb. From under his white bonnet a dark curl hung above his fine brown eyes. His face expressed complete well being.

"What dear, dear children!" said Mrs. Vaughan. "What a lovely baby! Do you think he will come to me?"

"He is a most gregarious rascal," said Philip. "He has made friends all the way from Quebec."

Young Robert Vaughan had stood by quietly watching the interchange of greetings. He resembled his father who looked the man of letters rather than the soldier. Robert was slenderly made. He had reflective blue eyes and a mass of fine, fair hair which he wore rather long. He had spent the first 10 years of his life in India, then had been sent to school in England. He had not joined his parents in Canada till the summer before. He was to enter the university in Montreal in the autumn. He had not yet settled down to life in Canada.

After the Whiteoaks had freshened themselves in their room they joined the Vaughans in the cool, vine shaded dining room for supper. Above the table hung a branch of cedar, the scent of which was supposed to repel the house flies which were so difficult to keep out. Pigeon pie and a fine boiled ham were on the table and a bowl of large lettuce leaves. There was a cottage cheese, and later came jam, made from wild strawberries, and a caraway cake.

It was hard to believe that Philip and Adeline were at the end of a long journey. He looked as well groomed as when he had promenaded the terrace at Quebec. She, finding her dress crumpled, had retained a long silk cape of tartan. She looked hungrily over the table.

"I declare," she said, "I have not had a decent meal since I left Quebec. I'm starving!"

"You have come to a land of plenty," said David Vaughan. He turned to Philip. "Do you like shooting?"

"Nothing better."

"Well, you need scarcely leave your door to pick up a brace of these." He indicated the pigeon pie which he now began to serve.

"And the fishing?"

David Vaughan laid down the fork and stared at him. "Believe it or not," he said, "the sea salmon come right up thru the lake and into our river. I caught a whopper right here on my own property less than a month ago."

"Well, well, do you hear that, Adeline?"

"I do, we shall not starve, at any rate. How delicious this pie is!"

"Will you have some of the lettuce?" asked Mrs. Vaughan. "We pride ourselves on it. We are the only people who grow it. We supply the neighborhood."

"What about the neighborhood?" asked Philip. "Pretty congenial, from what you wrote, Vaughan."

"A very respectable community. You'll like them and they'll like you. I can tell you every one is excited by your coming and will be still more so when they meet you." His eyes rested admiringly on Adeline.

"I left good friends in Quebec," she said.

"Too damn French!" said Philip.

"That's what I felt," said David Vaughan. "My aim is to keep this settlement purely British. Indeed, if I had my way, only the English, Scottish, and Welsh should be allowed to settle in any part of Canada."

"No Irish?" asked Adeline.

Before he could reply, Philip broke in—"I warn you, my wife is straight from the Ould Sod."

"I should welcome just one Irish lady," said Vaughan, "to be queen of us all."

David Vaughan was giving the history of the principal families of the neighborhood. After the meal, they returned to the veranda and he brought out a map of the district which he had himself made, showing the course of the small rivers, the residences of the families he had described, the roads and forest. A thousand acres of richly timbered land, adjacent to his own property was for sale and this he counseled Philip to buy.

In their room, Philip remarked to Adeline:

"I shall not make the mistake of building our house in a hollow. In 50 years from now this place will be buried in greenery. If I cannot find a rise to build on, I shall at least be out in the open."

"Is there an 'out in the open,'" she wondered, peering thru the windows. "Trees—trees—there are trees everywhere. How many varieties did Col. Vaughan say there are?"

"I forget. But what I mean is, I shall make a large clearing for our house, and it must be on the highest point on our land."

"I don't like the thought of a large clearing. I like trees about. I like a park."

"You shall have a park with deer in it."

"How lovely! Where does the land lie? Am I looking out toward it?"

"Yes. I think so."

She drew a deep breath. "Just fancy! I am breathing the air from our land! Over there is our land—the very spot our foundations will rise from! Will the house be stone?"

"That depends on what material is to be had. For myself, I like a nice mellow brick. It looks warm-colored among the trees. It has a cozy, hospitable look."

As he spoke, he raised his head and listened. There came the rumble of wagon wheels and the loud barking of dogs.

"They have arrived!" he exclaimed.

She started up. "Nero and Maggie!" she cried. "And I forgot to tell the Vaughans about them! Did you?"

"By jove, no! Still, they are expecting the wagon with our boxes. I shall explain about the dog and the goat tomorrow. I wish you had left the damn goat in Quebec. Gussie does not need her milk now."

The rumbling of wagon wheels ceased but now came the snarls and yells of a dog fight. Men were shouting at them.

"Their dogs are killing Nero!" she cried. "O, Philip, run! Quick! Quick! Save Nero!"

Philip hurried from the room. A small lamp still burned in the hall. Downstairs he found David Vaughan with a lighted lantern. They went together to the stable.

It was some time before Philip came.

"Well," he said, "it was more sound and fury than bloodshed. But the Vaughans' bulldog and collie gave our Nero the worst of it. He has a torn ear and a bite on his forehead."

"O, the brutes!" she cried. "I do hope the Vaughans will keep them tied up."

"We can scarcely expect that. I must say that Vaughan was very decent about it. He gave me a box stall for Nero for the present."

"And how is Maggie?"

"Right as a trivet. Little bell tinkling and all."

What Has Gone Before

Having inherited a legacy from a greataunt, Adeline Court, an Irish beauty, visits her Cousin Judith in India. There she marries Philip Whiteoak, dashing officer of the hussars. When Philip's uncle in Canada dies and leaves Philip heir to his property they decide to venture to the new world to establish their home. They sail for England, where Adeline meets Philip's family, then journey to Ireland to Adeline's old home. When they sail, Patsy O'Flynn, the coachman, and Adeline's two young brothers, Conway and Sholto, accompany them. On the ship they become friendly with two Irish gentlemen, D'Arcy and Brent; Mrs. Cameron of Montreal and her daughter, Mary, and an Englishman, Mr. Wilmott. The ship springs a leak and turns back. On second sailing Conway, Sholto, and Mary Cameron do not board the ship. Huneeta, Adeline's native maid, dies at sea. They land in Quebec, where Adeline and Philip become established in their new home. They learn of the marriage of Conway and Mary. Early in December a son is born to Adeline and named Nicholas. Philip is becoming restless with his life in Quebec.

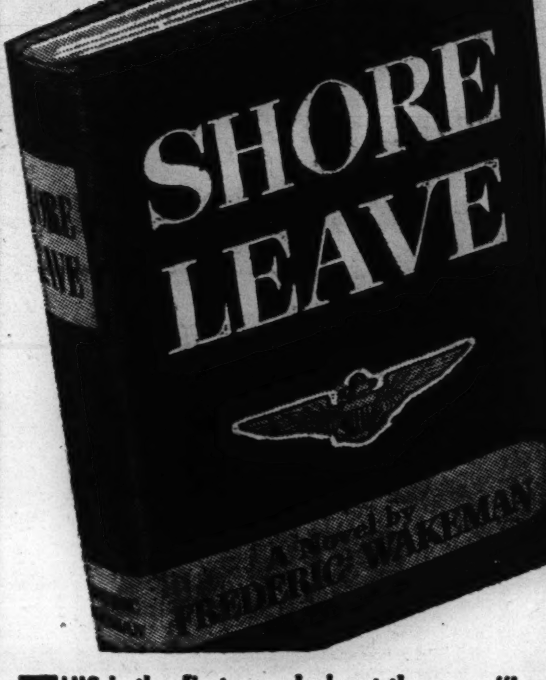
THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea.

TITLE.	SUBJECT.	VERDICT.
"FAR FROM MARLBOROUGH ST." by Elizabeth Philbrook. [Viking, $2.]	Nancy Lee Wadsworth's dream of adventure came true when she traveled all alone on the stage coach from Boston to Springfield, Mass. The cheery stage drivers, the friendly inns, the two gold pieces in her pocket, and the unusual happenings make the trip a grand one. Best of all she arrived just in time to unravel the mystery of the Blue Teapot.	A very real little heroine, a thrilling journey and a mystery make this one of the most satisfactory stories of the year for fourth and fifth grades. In addition, the picture of old New England inns, coaches, and family life adds to their understanding of their country's history. Attractive, meaningful illustrations by Marjorie Torrey.
"PIGEON HEROES" by Marion B. Cothren. [Coward-McCann, $2.]	True stories of real pigeon heroes and their flights in World Wars I. and II. Includes brief history of pigeon messengers in peace and war from the days of Julius Caesar to the present.	Thrilling book for the boy or girl interested in homing pigeons. Tells something of their feeding and training, but is devoted primarily to their heroism and accomplishments. Illustrated with photographs. For upper grade readers.
"FAMOUS GENERALS AND ADMIRALS," by Ramon R. Coffman and Nathan G. Goodman. [Barnes, $2.]	Brief accounts of the lives of famous generals and admirals of many nations from the time of Alexander to the present. Brief chapter on allied leaders in the present conflict.	Timely introduction to more complete accounts for children of fourth and fifth grades. Photographs indexed for reference use.

1000 bucks to spend on a ten day leave from death...



THIS is the first novel about the new "Lost Generation" — their young women, their behavior, and their philosophy. The generation that came home from the last war stunned America. SHORE LEAVE may help the wives, sweethearts, mothers and fathers of servicemen to understand those who will someday come home from this different, wickeder war.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

THE past week has been celebrated locally as Chicago Public Library week, nationally as Religious Book week. . . . The week before that was designated national Russia Book week. . . . And next week is to be dedicated to Paper Salvage Week for the Book Trade. . . . The theory, of course, is that the book trade contributes paper to the salvage campaign, but one wag wants to know if it shouldn't work the other way.

They tell a story about Dale Warren of the Boston publishing firm of Houghton Mifflin, who received a bulky manuscript from an old classmate. . . . He wrote his friend: "Your book is unpublishable, but what'll you take for the paper?"

It Is Really Public.

The 700 guests at the annual luncheon of the Friends of the Chicago Public Library a week ago yesterday met some very heartening statistics about their library, as well as listened to many of the city's most sparkling authors. . . . They learned that almost 10 million books were circulated last year [nearly three books for every living soul in the city]; that there are 2,005,000 volumes in the library; that 703,482 borrowers of books are registered; that there are 4,890 borrowers of books for the blind, and 10,009 borrowers of music. . . . In a word, our public library is really used by our public.

Russia Book week was sponsored jointly by the OWI and the American Library association. . . . The A. L. A. has recently published "A Basic Book Collection for Elementary Grades," listing 1,400 children's books which a special committee of teachers and librarians thinks a child should get to know during his first 12 years. . . . It was designed for use in schools and libraries, but many parents find it indispensable.

A Zealous Young Man.

The recent crowning of Martin Flavin's "Journey in the Dark" with the Pulitzer novel prize reminds me of a letter which I had from the author when he read my review of it.

"You have said just the things I would most like to have said about the book," he wrote, "and this so seldom happens, even in a good review. It is a great satisfaction to find that the 30 years of my life which were spent in Chicago contain a genuine imprint of the experience, and that I have been able to recall them in a veritable form. . . . The first job I ever held, when I got out of college, was with THE TRIBUNE—not in the editorial department, where I yearned to be, but in the business office, taking classified ads over the counter.

"I was a very zealous young man, and once my zeal led me into trouble. I woke up the publisher of the Journal [Eastman, I think his name was] in the middle of the night because I was supposed to get a 'mat' out of the Journal office and no one could find it. When Mr. Eastman got his breath he expressed his opinion in no uncertain language, and I was sure I would lose my job. But I did get the 'mat'; it was a soap ad. That was 38 years ago, but I remember it. And I didn't lose my job. Some days went by and then Medill McCormick sent for me, and asked me what happened. I was scared out of my wits. I told him the instructions I had had—that the most important thing on earth was advertising copy for THE TRIBUNE—and it didn't seem to me that Mr. Eastman's sleep should be allowed to interfere with that. And a little later on, to complete this pretty story, I got a raise in salary—from something to $15 a week."

Miss Eberhart's Deftest.

Our former fellow Chicagoan, Mignon G. Eberhart, has just published the deftest book of her career, "Escape the Night." . . . It is really a novel of human relationships among a group of wealthy Californians, with murder intensifying and resolving those relationships, rather than a mere whodunit tale. . . . It is an unusual book in which both geography and the social scene are integral parts of the mystery rather than mere background or adornment.

Oriana a Cappella Choir to Sing Spring Concert on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

OUR trip thru that yellow scrapbook discovered at the Great Northern looks like a thumbing tour in instalments. There isn't any end to it, and it has provoked some reminiscent letters as interesting, and almost as voluminous, as the scrapbook itself. When last week's column reached the stop sign we had arrived at the May 21, 1906, souvenir program of the Studebaker's 2,500th performance, which happened to be Reginald de Koven's "The Student King," with Raymond Hitchcock, Lina Abarbanell, Gustave von Seyffertitz, and a comedian named Dittmar Poppin, better known today as Detmar Poppen, familiar Lutz of "The Student Prince."

Adventuring Further Thru That Theatrical Scrapbook

If theaters have ghosts, and of course they do, the Studebaker's should be merry ones. For back in the early 1900s it housed many a melodious show. Not only the Savage productions of grand and light opera from "Otello" to "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," but Pixley's and Luder's "King Dodo," "The Prince of Pilsen," with Arthur Donaldson and Trixie Friganza, and George Ade's "Sultan of Sulu," "The County Chairman," and "The College Widow." Henrietta Crosman and Arthur Byron played repertory there, Arnold Daly flourished in Shaw, and Lillian Blauvelt, now Mrs. Alexander Savine of Chicago, played "The Rose of the Alhambra."

Gramophones and 3 Per Cent Interest.

The advertisers were at it again, too. The Columbia Phonograph company was trumpeting a free offer of savings banks and talking machines, in that order, announcing unequivocally, "As a matter of advertising we intend to place 5,000 gramophones in Chicago homes where they will do the most good." A thoughtful merchant took space to say, "Don't mistake Jos. M. Frey's stores for saloons. They are strictly bottle and bulk goods shops. A lady may trade in either of our places without fear of meeting with any one objectionable." St. Hubert's grill was in the Majestic hotel and featured organ recitals, while the latest 1905 Franklin four cylinder air cooled model cost $1,650 for a light tonneau with rear entrance. Mrs. Gervaise Graham, anticipating Anita Loos, remarked that theater tickets are all very nice, but a good complexion is a joy forever. The banks vied for the privilege of paying 3 per cent interest on your savings, and stayed open Saturday nights to lure your trade.

The Ben Greet Players had Sydney Greenstreet among them, as well as the Sybil Thorndike now a dame of the British empire, and they were playing "The Comedy of Errors." The older Shubert brother, the late Sam S., was presenting "The Filibuster" with brother Lee. The Consumers company took a full page to state truculently, "We do NOT furnish the drinking water served in this theater. Hydrox is absolutely pure . . ." Bertha Kalich was playing "The Kreutzer Sonata" with Theodore Roberts in the cast, and there was a place on State st. where your ostrich feathers were curled while you waited. A fox stole cost $50 at Shayne's and the huge muff to match was $35. Tom Murray, the haberdasher, was showing you the back of his head with the invitation, "Meet me face to face." He said, reasonably enough, that he wore his own $10 suits and they were good enough for you. The Stevens Duryea was bragging about six cylinders.

Victor Moore a Star in 1907.

But now to another theater, the vanished Colonial. William Harris was president, George W. Lederer the manager. Fay Templeton was playing there in 1906 [she made her last appearance here with Sydney Greenstreet in "Roberta"], and her show was George M. Cohan's "45 Minutes from Broadway," with Donald Brian and Victor Moore. Mr. Moore must have been pretty good, because here he is back in 1907, starred in the Cohan and Harris production, "The Talk of the Town."

Ladies' custom tailored suits, to the chin, wrists and floor, cost $30. An auto coat could be had for $20. By the next season Tom Murray had gone up to $15 for suits, and George M. Cohan himself was here in "The Yankee Prince," with father Jerry, mother Helen, and pretty sister Josephine. The show was billed as "a timely satire on titled fortune hunters." In this very playbill the Central Trust company goes straight to the point by saying if you don't know the value of money, try to borrow some.

Here we go, backing up again. At the Grand Opera house, Nov. 22, 1905, we encounter the fourth appearance in the elastic farewell tour of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who was playing "Adrienne Lecouvreur." Pasted alongside is W. L. Hubbard's review, which scolds the management for selling the wrong libretto. He said it confused the audience.

Richard Mansfield in Shakespeare.

Another visitor that season was Richard Mansfield in Shakespearean repertory, and "Beau Brummel," with the very A. G. Andrews who had a success this season as the ancient retainer in the Le Gallienne-Schildkraut revival of "The Cherry Orchard." Cyril Scott was playing "The Prince Chap," with one Cecil De Mille [no initial] as the earl of Huntington. Mrs. Leslie Carter was here in Belasco's "Zaza," and of that performance an unidentified clipping remarks, "Mrs. Carter rose to her customary hysteria, passed all bounds of restraint, and carried the climax with such abandon and power as to arouse enthusiasm and win her many curtain calls." How's that again?

Well, as Grandpa said in "You Can't Take It with You," here we are again. Only he meant at table, and I mean at the bottom of the column. The best I can offer is the oldest teaser in serialdom, "Continued in an early issue."

Milhaud's New Peace Cantata Heads Program

The first choral work by the distinguished French contemporary composer, Darius Milhaud, to be performed in Chicago and one of the few works of that type written by him, will be the "Cantata of Peace," which will be sung as the major number of the annual spring concert of the Oriana a cappella choir under the direction of Paul Vernon at Kimball hall on Tuesday at 8:15. The "Cantata of Peace" was written in 1937 to a text by Paul Claudel, the French diplomat-poet. This is not the first collaboration of these two artists, for Claudel also supplied Milhaud with the texts of his operas "Protée," "Agamemnon," "Les Choëphores," "Les Euménides," and "Christophe Colomb." In addition, Milhaud wrote incidental music for Claudel's play "L'Annonce faite à Marie," and has set a number of his poems to music. The program also includes two numbers by Randall Thompson and compositions by two Chicago composers, Leo Sowerby and Rossetter Cole.

Government to Make Movie at University of Iowa

School Picked as Typical in College Field

By the Rev. John Evans.

The University of Iowa has been selected by the office of war information as the typical American educational institution to be shown by sound motion pictures to the peoples of neutral countries and liberated lands. President Virgil M. Hancher, announcing the project, said the film to be made at Iowa City probably will be called "Freedom to Learn."

Twenty-two languages will carry the film's narrative, with the scenes built around the normal life of the university. No professional actors will be used, and the entire production will be designed to show the relationship between citizen and university and the role to be played in the survival of democratic processes.

President Hancher said the selection of Iowa was made on the basis "of its broad program" enabling the picture "to cover many aspects of American education in one place."

Northwestern alumni have been awarded 93 medals and decorations, including a congressional medal of honor since the war began. The congressional medal, highest of all awards for heroism, was given posthumously to Maj. John L. Jerstad, who was killed in the first Ploesti oil field raid. Among 47 air awards was one given to Lt. Comdr. William Eadie of Evanston for his rescue of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. University records list 98 alumni killed or missing, three of whom have had ships named for them. These are the destroyer escorts Christopher, Bebas, and Finch. Northwestern men have suffered about 30 per cent more casualties than in the first World war. Approximately 8,000 alumni are in the various services, including 1,000 women, as compared with 2,911 in the last war.

President John A. Hannah of Michigan State college has announced the establishment of four maintenance scholarships for Chinese students in agriculture, veterinary science and home economics. Notes of the Theater

"School for Brides" is booked into the Civic theater Friday evening, May 26, a California product propelled to Chicago by Howard Lang, who did well here as co-producer of "Good Night Ladies." Frank Gill Jr. and George C. Brown wrote the new one, and the cast includes Roscoe Karns, Bernadine Hayes [who was in "Good Night Ladies" when it opened], Warren Ash, Ann Turner, John Sheehan, and Margaret Hayes. It has been playing San Francisco, with Portland and Seattle on the eastbound schedule. The Civic announces matinées for Saturday and Sunday.

Even people who don't understand a word of Yiddish may want to investigate "The Green Yankees," a new Yiddish musical comedy which will play three performances at the Civic Opera house next weekend, opening Saturday night and playing twice on Sunday. Its costars are Leo Fuchs and Aaron Lebedeff, and Mr. Fuchs is the young Polish Jew who had a success here last summer in another Yiddish musical, "Sing America, Sing." The comedian was born in Lemberg in 1911 of a theatrical family, and was brought to America in 1935 by Michael Saks, who starred him at New York's Second Avenue theater in "The Lucky Boy." He played one season at the Yiddish Art theater, and has appeared in Yiddish pictures, on the radio, and in vaudeville. This time he will be in an operetta by Alexander Olshanetzky and William Siegel, sharing billing with Mr. Lebedeff. Others in the cast are Goldie Eisman, Vera Lubov, Rose Richman, Leon Charaz, Stella Shulman, and others.

Altho our theater season threatens to be continuous, "Wallflower" hopes to be the first new show to greet us in the fall. This would be a Chicago company of the comedy by Mary Orr and Reginald Denham, which has been playing New York since January. The plan is to play Boston after a Connecticut tryout, arriving here late in September.

Summer operetta is cropping up at other places than our Civic Opera house. The St. Louis Municipal Opera goes on as usual, the Shuberts are staging a Kentucky season at Iroquois park in Louisville, and other projects are under way for Toledo, Dallas, and Grand Rapids. Not many summer theaters are opening, but exceptions are the Bucks County Playhouse in Pennsylvania, the Queenboro at Elmhurst, L. I., and the Brattle Hall theater at Cambridge, Mass.

Agatha Christie's expert mystery story, "And Then There Were None," will open in New York June 12 as "Ten Little Indians." The cast holds Michael Whalen, Claudia Morgan, Estelle Winwood, Halliwell Hobbes, Georgette Harvey, and Nicholas Joy. If it clicks, Chicago ought to get a good copy.

If Dave Wolper, producer of "Follow the Girls," has his way, fall will find him launching a new musical called "Pin Up Boy." The hero? Groucho Marx, if Mr. Wolper can get him.

New York's Stage Door Canteen is closed until June for a general overhauling.

Jack Whiting will be in "A Connecticut Yankee" by the time the Rodgers and Hart musical arrives at the Studebaker May 29. He succeeds Dick Foran on tour May 22. Vivienne Segal sticks with the ship.

Not to be uppity about it, the Theater guild notes that the special citation to "Oklahoma!" is not the Pulitzer prize's first nod in its direction. It is, to be exact, the seventh. Other winners were Sidney Howard's "They Knew What They Wanted," Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," Maxwell Anderson's "Both Your Houses," Robert E. Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight," William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," and Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night." Bows for the latter Sherwood play were shared by the co-producer, the Playwrights company.

A summer festival of seven productions of operetta and musical comedy, each scheduled for two weeks, will be presented at the air conditioned Civic Opera house this summer, starting early in June, under the joint sponsorship of the Messrs. Shubert and the theater management. J. Charles Gilbert, formerly well known in operetta and now manager of the theater, will be the managing director. Mr. Gilbert promises names and dates within a few days, and says they will be well known names, augmented by lavish productions, a chorus of 50 and a ballet of 20. Popular prices will prevail, with matinées each Saturday and Sunday.

Casadesus Honored.

Robert Casadesus, French pianist, recently was awarded the degree of doctor of music by Lawrence college at Appleton, Wis.

Villard Stoutly Champions Principle of a Free Press

"THE DISAPPEARING DAILY," by Oswald Garrison Villard. [Alfred A. Knopf, $3.50.]

Reviewed by William Shinnick.

Mr. Villard's study of the American press has as its background his own experience. He served for years as editor of the New York Post, altho he was better known as the editor of the Nation. He has reached mature age and has seen the big newspapers of the United States pass in review. He has the gift of forceful writing and he needs pull no punches in expressing his principles and prejudices.

An avowed liberal and internationalist, Mr. Villard is a straightaway advocate of the freedom of the press. One of his sharpest criticisms is that so many publishers fear government and fail to inform their readers of every new attempt of the Washington administration to chip away the cornerstone of our liberties piecemeal.

Whatever else he has done in this book, he has spoken clearly and with a mighty passion for total freedom of utterance; he has declared this freedom a right and a duty of newspapers in war time as in peace time. In his opinion—and Mr. Villard is an opinionated writer — the daily press has so far surrendered itself to the dollar sign that it has lost the confidence of the reading public as well as of President Roosevelt.

Oswald Garrison Villard.

His scorn, which he passes out voluminously, is heaped principally on papers that kowtow to the advertiser. He has plenty left over for that portion of the publishing fraternity which opposes "social change." He likes dignity in his papers; he likes vigor; he likes a neat appearance; he likes a lot of authoritative news from foreign parts. He disdains the columnists who play lead parts in many journals; likewise the comics.

It is in his estimates of individual editors and their newspapers that Mr. Villard is most interesting. He charges upon them with a can of sirup in one hand and a hunk of dynamite in the other. Some get one dose and some get both. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is in the second category.

For THE TRIBUNE'S fight for press freedom he has nothing but praise; for its refusal to back down under governmental threat he has only commendation. He relates that "multitudes" of people who don't like Tribune policies "are ready to champion its refusal to approve of the President, while supporting the war against Japan and Germany." The same people, he states, "rejoiced" when the government effort to punish THE TRIBUNE for printing a true account of the battle of Midway "was promptly thrown out of court."

"To the best of my belief," he continues, "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has not been guilty of any unpatriotic dissent.

"There was nothing unpatriotic or un-American in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S desire to keep the country out of the second World war, certainly nothing more unpatriotic than were Abraham Lincoln's bitter attacks on President Polk's conduct of the Mexican war. . . . No one can accuse Col. McCormick of any ulterior motive in seeking to keep his country at peace. . . . The point is, again, that he maintained a historic right when he fought to the last to keep the country out of war."

"At any time," Mr. Villard says, "it [THE TRIBUNE] is capable of rendering a distinct public service at the risk of financial loss."

Also: "Where other newspaper owners have yielded to the President's power and prestige, THE TRIBUNE'S have defied him with contempt and disdain, even in war time, so the President has felt impelled to strike back whenever he could."

On a point or two of fact Mr. Villard has slipped woefully. One is when he asserts THE TRIBUNE "indorsed the Ku Klux Klan." The exact opposite is true. Members of the editorial staff had never heard of such a charge until Villard printed it without basis. Mr. Villard also displays an astonishing ignorance as to the distribution of Chicago newspapers.

The author has decidedly acid opinions on many phases of Tribune policy. He even objects to Stephen Decatur's great motto, which he calls "mischievous" — and misquotes.

Doubtless he has a more accurate knowledge of the eastern press. The New York Daily News receives high commendation from Mr. Villard, as do the New York Times and several other publications. His analysis of the Marshall Field and Hearst newspapers can only be described as without mercy.

Nationalism Study Found Superficial

"THE IDEA OF NATIONALISM, A Study in Its Origins and Background," by Hans Kohn. [Macmillan, $7.50.]

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi.

To write a historical text of 576 full-sized pages, and to avoid being dull or tiresome, is an art. Professor Kohn masters this art, but the price the reader pays for its enjoyment is the superficiality of most of his writings. As a matter of fact, this is essentially a popular textbook of general history, reaching from the ancient Jews and Greeks to the French Revolution, written around the ideological conflict of nationalism versus universalism as the picturesque background.

Hans Kohn.

As a textbook it is brilliantly fitted for girls' colleges such as Smith, where Professor Kohn teaches, and where the charm of his style, the large variety of cultural subjects he touches on, and the semi-profundity of the social philosophy painted over it will undoubtedly be appreciated.

As a study of the idea of nationalism, the best of the book is the some 150 pages of scholarly notes which show the author's wide reading and provide an excellent international, especially German bibliography. Nor does it lack inspiring remarks and interesting references, but the historical over-simplification which he rightly criticizes in others is a pitfall Professor Kohn did not avoid himself.

And he did not avoid the cheap Spenglerian influence that expresses itself in the oblique construction of alleged national characteristics, which not only miss their historical backgrounds and sources, but actually misrepresent them.

To make of the ancient Greeks and Jews unique national unities, as an example, fundamentally different from their contemporaries, and to call the Greeks "people of sight, of the spatial and plastic sense," who "knew how to look [?], and therein lay their historical importance [?]," while the Jew "did not see so much as he heard; he lived in time," is nothing but sweet dilettantism.

"A solid, workmanlike structure that stands four square and commands respect. It is the story of a boy in a great city as filled with tumultuous life as some of the novels of Dickens... as precise and elaborate a study of a social milieu as the novels of Theodore Dreiser, although it is much more deftly and fluently written. The slow even flow of his narrative builds up to a huge panorama. It portrays an immense amount of Viennese life. There are dozens of characters in this book, all of them sharply, soundly drawn. A huge, impressive first novel."

Selection of Tales About Great People

"GREAT STORIES FROM GREAT LIVES," edited by Herbert V. Prochnow. [Harpers, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Tremaine McDowell.

Herbert Prochnow is assistant vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, editor of "The Public Speaker's Treasure Chest," and, according to his publisher, "an effective public speaker who is widely in demand."

In "Great Stories from Great Lives" he presents 84 excerpts from 60 recent biographies. The subjects of the biographies range in time from Confucius to Einstein and in importance from Alexander the Great to Bathhouse John. Americans outnumber foreigners 42 to 18. Among Americans, statesmen and politicians lead all the rest, with 13 examples. There are 11 professional men, six military men [counting Billy Mitchell twice, as he appears twice], six authors, and one professional athlete. The length of the great stories ranges from two lines to 20 pages; the average is four pages.

Influenced perhaps by the anthology "This Is My Best," Mr. Prochnow asked each biographer to choose the most significant passage from his book. Those who do so are guided by a variety of considerations and choose all kinds of specimens. When the selection falls to the editor, he favors little items useful to after dinner speakers. The result is a miscellaneous "treasure chest" of biographical anecdote and incident, in which every one will find something to his taste.

I was particularly intrigued by a passage from the biography of Dr. John B. Murphy of Chicago, in which he is quoted as saying on his deathbed: "I want a post-mortem made after my death. You will find plaques of calcification in my aorta. There are two other points I want checked carefully: my appendix, because I had appendicitis when I was a boy, and when I was in Germany studying I had a kidney infection, so look carefully at my kidneys." As the excerpt ends there, I shall some day look into the doctor's biography for myself, to learn what the post-mortem revealed concerning his aorta, his appendix, and his kidneys.

How a Little Girl Grew Up in Honduras

"ENRIQUETA AND I," by Argentina Diaz Lozano; translated from the Spanish by Harriet de Onis; illustrated by Antonio Gattorno. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edw. Wagenknecht.

This book was given the nonfiction award in the Second Latin American Literary Prize competition. It is heartening in times like these to witness such an award, for "Enriqueta and I" is not "significant," it is not "timely," nor does it contain one word which bears on the present world situation. It is simply the story of how a little girl grew up in Honduras.

She traveled from place to place while her adored, young, widowed mother was trying to support herself and her child as a school teacher; she was palmed off on relatives in the lean in between times; she got caught up in the excitement of two revolutions.

There were no children in the Garden of Eden, but Cain was a child once, and many childish traits have been stable since his day. If it is only in modern times that much of an attempt has been made to record the business of growing into life because life is sacred for its own sake, and not merely as an approach to some "end," moral or otherwise, we are certainly doing well to make up for a late start.

To the familiar pattern Senora Lozano adds the interesting variations which come from having been born in what is still to Americans an unfamiliar—and much underwritten—country. This makes for an excellent book.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Charles Collins.

THE retirement of Richard Schneider, called "the literary waiter," from the management and ownership of Schlogl's ancient café in Chicago's extinct Fleet Street district, brought back a few memories. For example: Ben Hecht, sitting alone in a corner shortly after his departure from the pious precincts of the News on charges of having written a certain scandalous book called "Fantazius Mallare." He should have been reading a rare manuscript on demonology or some scabrous classic of French decadence, but as a matter of fact he was doing a plain American crossword puzzle. We commented upon the bourgeois nature of his diversion, and he answered: "Well, one can't read all the time."

This frank confession of a man of letters often cheers us when we undertake to dash off a column about the flotsam and jetsam of the publishing business. On our desk, at the moment, as corner stones of a fortification of current printings, are two solid tomes, bought and paid for because of their quaint and curious lore, that we want to read but can't for lack of time. One is "The Loom of Language," by Frederick Bodmer [Norton], which unveils the mystery of foreign tongues, and the other is "A Treasury of American Folklore," by B. A. Botkin [Crown], which contains many grotesque and humorous fables of the American soil. They are to our taste, but for the time being we are on the ropes after mowing down the 500,000 words in Konrad Heiden's "Der Fuehrer," also a permanent investment for our library shelves.

One glance at "The Loom of Language" uncovers this nugget of satirical wisdom:

"To be able to speak more than two new languages without any trace of foreign accent or idiom is a lifework. So linguistic polish is a perquisite of prosperous people whose formal education has been supplemented by the attentions of foreign governesses and by frequent trips abroad. It is the cultural trademark of a leisure class. Indeed, no type of knowledge has more ostentation value."

Which reminds us of our advice to Henry Kitchell Webster, the novelist, on his going abroad for the third time, wondering why his French was not understood: "Speak as you have learned the sounds of the language, and to hell with the Parisian accent." On his return, he reported that this system was a howling success. The French howled in their sleeves, but they understood him.

To be able to hand an author a newborn work of his own creation upon which his entranced eyes gaze for the first time is an experience usually restricted to publishers and nurses in obstetrical wards. But it was ours when we passed to Vincent Starrett a reviewer's copy of "The Case Book of Jimmie Lavender" [Gold Label, May 19]. Mr. Starrett knew that the little stranger was on its way, of course, but he seized it as if it were the first edition of Poe's "Tamerlane."

This book represents Mr. Starrett's gentleman detective in his first bow between covers. There have been many Jimmie Lavender stories in magazines, and the 12 here assembled are the choicest, "feinste Beeren auslese," as the Germans say of some of their vintages. Mr. Lavender is a sleuth of deep knowledge and good manners, but without the customary swank of universal wisdom. His name was borrowed from a former pitcher of the Cubs, in their great era, with the athlete's consent. The book is dedicated to two editors, Harry F. Maule and Ellery Queen, and also to two popular heroes, the real life Lavender and Dr. John W. Watson of Baker street, London. . . . What ho! for a good week-end with this item, even if the sky remains dark and dreary.

Also on the agenda for relaxation is "The Case of Mr. Cassidy," by William Targ, former Chicago book seller. The detective is a bibliophile who knows his way around Chicago's first edition dens, and the mystreant [new word for miscreant] is the Fiend, a wholesale throat cutter. The volume is an attractive reprint [World Co.'s Tower Books]. Its original issue was in 1939.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAY-OFF.
"ESCAPE THE NIGHT," by Mignon G. Eberhart. [Random House, $2.]	Mysterious payments of large sums of money were at the bottom of some nasty murders that shattered Serena March's return to her native California, to visit her sister, after four years in New York. Old friends among suspects.	Story captures interest at the outset, with smart pegging of characters in involved situation that develops increasing suspense. Romantic theme blended into thoroly good mystery plot.
"THE CASE OF THE CROOKED CANDLE," by Erle Stanley Gardner. [Morrow, $2.]	Incident of car bumping truck draws Perry Mason into complicated melange that includes murder on a yacht, an interrupted elopement, and oil land scheming. It leads to sharp conflict with shrewd adversaries of both sexes.	This is up to the form Gardner fans expect. Full quota of enticing characters, abundant action, sharp play of wits, and smoothly unrolled puzzle that hides solution to final pages.
"THE CASE OF THE DOWAGER'S ETCHINGS," by Rufus King. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.]	Wealthy 70 year old Mrs. Giles decides patriotically to rent her guest rooms to war workers. Inadvertently she turns her home into a nest of crooks, and scene of wild excitement that starts off with a murder.	Sinister cross-plots adroitly converged into tale of exciting interest and suspense. Author presents freshly original character in main role. Story moves swiftly.
"SAID THE SPIDER TO THE FLY," by Richard Shattuck. [Simon & Schuster, $2.]	Rocky Smith, intending to help a friend, confesses murder of a girl. That tosses him into midst of a Utah family complicated by zany offspring of a Mormon patriarch and his three wives. Rocky leads way to real murderer.	Unusual household affords diverting background. Story develops brightly, altho situations are on the wacky side. Hero is a novelty in mystery characterization.

Sophie Tucker Heads Brilliant Chez Paree Show

Last of 'Red Hot Mammas' at Her Best

By Will Davidson.

Some of these days, I presume, Sophie Tucker will retire from show business. That is a sad and sobering thought, indeed, like the gloomy realization that eventually the Washington monument will weather and crumble away, and Mount Rushmore's Presidential profile will erode into nothing more than rubble.

For Sophie is Miss Show Business. She is the personification of the gay and gaudy world of after dark. She is a tradition, mountainously gowned in ostrich feathers and satin and mile high orchids, shouting a lusty challenge to convention and the academic conception of a normal morality.

But worry not, for the Last of the Red Hot Mammas also is the lastingest, and right now, 35 years after she first sang "Some of These Days" out at White City, Sophie Tucker is turning in a performance at the Chez Paree that I would stack against any in that three and a half decades. She's tremendous—and I'm not overlooking that lost 40 pounds.

Sophie's B complex outlook on life is hilariously expressed in "They're NEVER Too Young or Too Old," "3-A Pappa," the admonitory "I Had a Man—I Had a Friend." She covers the past with everything from "My Blue Heaven" to "A Good Man Is Hard to Find." And she comes up to date in the definitive, the ultimate dissection and destruction of "Pistol Packin' Mamma" and "Mairzy Doats."

All is well on Fairbanks court. Sophie's again heading the Chez parade.

That parade includes a very expert young tap dancer, Sandra Barrett, who opens the show; Patricia Bright, earning a special Pulitzer award for her discerning and amusing satire on Hildegarde; Corday and Triano scowling and swirling their way thru some colorful and competent dances—best of which by far is the Spanish cape number; the Adorables dancing, and Gay Claridge playing. Under Olive Bernard the Adorables are attempting a conversion to routines and ideas different from the old. So far they haven't succeeded in making the change and must be given more time before a fair assessment of the experiment can be made.

Georgie Price again is endearing himself to Chicago with his singing satires and his energetic entertainment in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel. He has a crackerjack opening parody on "San Fernando Valley" in which Chicago calls him back. He repeats his hilarious "Fuehrer's Face" and gives a friendly take-off of Stalin singing "Pistol Packin' Mamma" in Russian. Better than most he catches the humor and the almost pathetic undertones of "Leave Us Face It," as he sits upon accompanist Buddy Arnold's piano.

GEORGIE PRICE

Georgie Price has returned to the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel, where Neil Bondshu's band is playing. [Kriegsmann Photo.]

Georgie hasn't forgotten his old favorites, either, and uses them as theme songs for some brilliantly acid impersonations. His riotously off-key counterfeit of George Jessel is still a classic.

Neil Bondshu long ago earned his seemingly permanent engagement. If he'd only have a bad night or do a poor number I'd have something to write about. As it is, what can you say but "ditto" each week?

Surprise of the last 10 days was Chuck Foster. When he was at the Blackhawk a year ago he had a good, competent band. Now, at the same spot, he has one that ranks with the best in the near-swing field. A year or so ago his sister, Gloria, was a beautiful and pleasant singer. Now she is dynamic, and on her way to being a name. This Foster band is probably the finest collection of dischargees and 4-F's you'll see in a long time, and they can play music. Young Jimmy Confer is a coming singer, and Charlie Noble is one of the best wild drummers challenging the well secured throne of Gene Krupa.

A good show accompanies Chuck's return—which is a break not many bands have had at the Blackhawk lately. Lew Hoffman, the zanie juggler, is a lot of fun, and his cigar box trick is excellent. Maurice and Maryea, who've been dancing there some weeks now and will continue indefinitely, are attractive and smooth and very effective in this room. Without ever rising to any dramatic heights, they depend upon appearance, good training and a careful selection of routines to create their appeal.

Sonny will be shining in the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman Friday. Mr. Dunham returns with his jumping jivers for four weeks.

Delinquency Is the Theme of Broadway Play

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK [Special].—The other night I met a theatrical producer, the kind who hasn't got a play but who is "looking for one." In a polite reply to the usual how's tricks greeting he said, "Awful. I've got all the money set up and everything, but I can't find a play. There are only two kinds being written: dramas about the war and dramas about juvenile delinquency.

William Harrigan.

So far his predicton is not accurate enough to be dire. Playwrights, to a lesser extent than scenarists, try to follow the headlines, and juvenile delinquency has had enough publicity in the last few months to warrant the dialog carpenters having a try at it. Yet, so far, only one drama about teen-age sin has come to town, a number by one Elsa Shelley called "Pick-Up Girl."

Miss Shelley, the wife of a voluminous but generally unproduced playwright named Irving Kaye Davis, has done an admirably photographic, often touchingly human, piece about a 15 year old girl who is on the way to becoming a tramp when a juvenile court judge gets hold of the case. If the author had been able to advance some notion of what should be done to protect the inherent innocence of children, she'd have had a play which could be labeled "important." But she has been able to do no more clear thinking than the rest of the human race on the problem; so her drama remains a piece of courtroom reporting which is good theater and nothing more.

As a courtroom play it is pretty slick, for Producer Michael Todd [masquerading behind the names of three of his office assistants] has cast it well, and Roy Hargrave has directed it for pace and realism. The action is continuous—an hour and a half or so of a hearing in the children's court of a kindly judge, most warmly impersonated by William Harrigan.

The story evolves, mainly, thru questions by the judge and answers by the witnesses. This is a very confining sort of dramatic writing, and, to come off, it requires resourcefulness on the part of the author, the man who hired the actors and the director.

The case before the judge is of a lass of 15 who has entertained a middle-aged man in her room. A neighbor has spotted the misdeed and called the cops. The story is a familiar one, and was familiar long before this war or the last war. An unhappy home life; decent, hard-working, poverty-ridden parents; drudgery at home, taking care of younger brothers and sisters while mother is out slaving; a yearning for fun and for pretty things to wear; a worldly schoolmate who tells the girl it's easy to have fun and get presents; loitering at Broadway and 43d st. with the chum, accepting the pick-up of a couple of sailors, a drink in a roadhouse.

As Judge Harrigan patiently unravels the story, one comes to know and sympathize with many persons, mostly underprivileged: teen-age female bimbos, tough boys, the sensitive boy who is going to be a violinist [there's one in every tenement district, according to the playwrights], astonished parents, courtroom attaches. All these are presented economically and forcefully, and quite often with humor.

But in the end "Pick-Up Girl" is no more than a transcript of a case. It shows the bad influences of home, of school, of chums, of the human race. It offers no solution to the problem of juvenile delinquency, and the best a very understanding, experienced judge can do is send the girl away—first to a hospital for treatment of syphilis, then to a reform school where, he hopes, she may get a new start in life.

Among those who help William Harrigan with realistic jobs of acting are Pamela Rivers, who gives a touching performance of a nice girl gone wrong; Kathryn Grill, as a worn-out mother who never understands the problems of her own home; Frank Tweddell, as a mousy father; Zachary A. Charles, as a youth of the sidewalks, and Marvin Forde, as the would-be violinist who still loves the girl after her sordid little story is known.

THE BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB EDITORIAL BOARD

HENRY SEIDEL CANBY (Chairman)

CLIFTON FADIMAN first attracted attention in the world of letters, in the early twenties, for critical essays on American and European literature which seemed profound and wise far beyond the years of their writer; an aspect of his talents not known to a good many of the millions whom he now entertains as an imperturbable Master of Ceremonies on the radio. His major interest has always been this deep concern with books, and the ceaseless cross-fertilization that goes on between literature and life.

Mr. Fadiman's election to the Editorial Board of the Book-of-the-Month Club is the first one since the beginning of the enterprise eighteen years ago. The original members were Dorothy Canfield, Heywood Broun, Henry Seidel Canby, Christopher Morley and William Allen White. Heywood Broun died in 1939 and William Allen White a few months ago.

The simple principle this Editorial Board has always followed in making its monthly choice has sometimes been misunderstood. They have never conceived that their function was to choose books anybody else "ought" to read. Nor do they try—indeed, they know it is impossible—to pre-guess what books the American public is going to enjoy.

They are, however, all of them, readers with the most catholic curiosities and extremely divergent tastes. Consequently, when any newly-published book comes along that deeply interests all of them—for any reason, whether because of its good writing or the nature of its subject matter—they believe, and the Club believes, that a large proportion of the American reading public, with equally variegated tastes, will similarly enjoy such a book.

This common-sense theory has worked. There can be no doubt that the remarkable record of choices made by this group in the past eighteen years has resulted from following it faithfully.

Clifton Fadiman's highly individual book-judgments, and his acute critical conscience, fit beautifully into such an editorial picture; and the Book-of-the-Month Club is delighted to present him, in this new phase of his career, to its subscribers and the American reading public.

Indian Book Attempts to Be Impartial

"THE PEOPLE OF INDIA," by Kumar Goshal. [Sheridan House, $3.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

The problems of Asia and the near east are not going to be solved when the curtain is rung down on the fifth act of this war. In many ways they are more complicated and full of potential danger than those of Europe. And of all these Asiatic problems none more need wise understanding than those of India with its nearly 400 millions of people. Anything that lifts the fog of sentimentality that has long shrouded that unfortunate country and lets cool reason and understanding abound is a blessing indeed.

Kumar Goshal.

Specifically we need to know something about the long history and traditions of that huge subcontinent, of how it became the central jewel in the British imperial crown, and above all how it might easily become the world's gravest danger to any abiding peace. A clear impartial book on India today, well written, documented, but not carrying its scholarship as a burden, is tragically needed.

The "People of India" is interesting as an effort, made by a patriotic Indian, to do precisely this. That it doesn't quite succeed does not detract from its significance, for it lets us know, in no uncertain way, just how a large fragment of the people of thinking India feel in the present crisis. It tells us exactly what can be counted on, and what cannot be counted on, for a peaceful and happy settlement of the Indian problem. So far the book is all to the good. For it is frankly partisan. There are large fragments of the people of thinking India just as patriotic who will not agree with Mr. Goshal. And for our fuller understanding we should also listen to their plea.

To illustrate I need cite only the fact that in his all-important bibliography the writer has omitted the two most notable and impersonal studies of modern India: "Modern India and the West," edited by O'Malley, and "Nationalism and Reform in India," by Smith.

Nor does he let us know that only three times in all Indian history, before British rule—and then only for the briefest of periods—was India a political unit. It was the British that first awoke in India a national consciousness. That blessing at least might have been acknowledged.

But this criticism apart, the book is an excellent reminder to careless Americans that India is a huge and complex problem.

Today's Version of Five Little Peppers Family

"MOM COUNTED SIX," by Mac Gardner. [Harper, $2.50.]

Mom and Pop Holly had five children, tho Mom always hoped there would be six, and this detailed account tells how they grew. As original as the Five Little Peppers, the Hollys were always up to something, and whether they intended to be interesting or not, they couldn't help themselves. In a big old house belonging to Gramma and Grampa they became acquainted with Puget sound country, and made the welkin ring with their loud and happy voices, and scared the neighbors into next week with their pranks and wanton wiles.

These Hollys are certainly different. And their difference has been caught by Mac Gardner, and put down as one who lovingly records some childhood memories. Simple but endearing, this is a story to commemorate some homespun virtues, shot thru with bright threads of laughter. KENNETH HORAN.

BOOKS ALIVE
by Vincent Starrett

FEW distinguished men have been as successful as was Justice Holmes in triumphing over the blighting influence of a famous name. Named Oliver Wendell, after his father, the popular New England poet and essayist, he had a stern race to run and he won it handily. For there is no doubt—is there?—that he has outstripped the autocrat for top honors in the immortality handicap. There must have been many times, before he passed the doctor in the stretch, when the name was anathema to him. Fathers who name their sons after themselves probably think they are doing the boys a favor. Pretending to compliment the lads, in actuality they are flattering themselves and fondly presenting junior with a baptismal millstone. When the father is himself a man of fame the disservice is aggravated. And I don't want to hear from a lot of ruffled juniors unless they agree with me.

The influence of Alexandre Dumas père was of more use to Alexandre Dumas fils than the name; the father's wide acquaintance among theatrical people obtained such performers as Bernhardt and Coquelin for the son's plays, thus giving him an early start. In the circumstances, any other name would have done as well, and would have obviated inevitable confusion. In this race, incidentally, the outcome never was in doubt; the elder Dumas is still triumphantly the winner.

"He Is My Father!"

"O, yes," somebody once said to Justice Holmes, "you are the son of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes." "No," answered the great lawyer, "he is my father!" That illustrates what I mean when I speak about a blighting influence. The son, unless he becomes a greater personality than his father, can never be himself, and the sanctimonious aura of the name stifles personality.

It is almost as embarrassing to be a great man's son when the names are not precisely duplicated, when only a sonorous surname is passed on. For years, Julian Hawthorne has somewhere testified, he wanted to write books, but was stopped by the illustrious name he wore. There would be comparisons of his work with that of his father, he feared; he was afraid his own work would be unworthy. And he was right. Ultimately he wrote many novels and tales, not one of which came within 100 miles of Nathaniel Hawthorne's least performance. Would he have done better if, with the same talent, he had been born to another name? Possibly not, but the question at least is arguable.

I don't know enough about heredity or the psychological hazards of the situation to do any more than scratch the surface; but—getting back to my first paragraph—I have been reading Catherine Drinker Bowen's "Yankee from Olympus: Justice Holmes and His Family" [Little Brown], and it occurred to me that the juniors of the world must frequently have a tough time of it.

Pusillanimous Popovers.

Biography is never more delightful than when it concerns itself with food. There is a pleasing anecdote in R. L. Duffus' recent book, "The Innocents at Cedro" [Macmillan], which I have not seen mentioned by the serious critics—who were perhaps more interested in Thorstein Veblen's theory of the leisure class than in Mr. Duffus' recipe for popovers. The book is principally about Veblen, with whom the Duffuses once lived. But the anecdote illustrates at once the charm of Mr. Duffus' writing and the temperamental nature of the popover, one of this department's favorite delicacies.

"In theory the popover is simple," Mr. Duffus writes. "You take eggs, milk, flour, a little salt, a trifle of baking powder if you are under the Rumford influence. You then have something between gruel and mush, which you beat like hell for as long as you can stand it. Then you ladle it into a very hot muffin tin and put the muffin tin into a very hot oven. My Aunt Alice achieved a popover so light a breath would almost blow it away, so tall it almost hit the top of the oven, crisp on the outside, pleasantly moist on the inside, and a dozen of them was not too much for a boy. She did this regularly, and without worry or effort. I never made a popover that in the least resembled hers, tho I followed her recipe as closely as I could.

"My popovers, it is true, would heave a little. I would open the oven door, and there they would be, plainly discontented, obviously trying to make something of themselves. But they never hitched higher than the rims of the little molds in the pan in which I had placed them. They did not constitute true popovers, and calling them twin mountain muffins, as I sometimes did, was but a subterfuge."

Claimants of Balderdash.

As far as I am aware, the recent bombing of Belgrade stirred among correspondents no nostalgic memory of the old alliterative ballad beginning

"An Austrian army, awfully array'd,
Boldly by battery besieged Belgrade . . .

which was widely popular in my innocent Victorian youth. I think we used to recite it about the time of the Crimean war, altho the lines go back to the early '20s of the 19th century. It was an adult game, however; a sort of memory test, an alphabet for semi-literates, a "building blocks" divertissement for grownups. The whole alphabet [including the ampersand] may be found in Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations," where the authorship is asserted to be unknown. Claims have been advanced for [or by] Alaric Alexander Watts and the Rev. B. Poulton; the lines belong to that school of fugitive verse in which the most incredible balderdash is usually claimed by half a dozen belligerent poetasters.

Inquisition Tortures Topped.

Can you imagine a more appalling form of self-torture than that practised upon herself by Martha Foley, now hard at work editing another volume of "Best American Short Stories" for Houghton Mifflin? She is on the subscription list of not less than 100 fiction magazines from the top-flight pulps on up. Some of these are weeklies, some are monthlies, and a few are quarterlies. A slight mathematical calculation will tell you the approximate number of magazines she reads in a year. Sitting in a favorite armchair, we are told, she wades thru each issue as it comes to her—from cover to cover.

Miss Foley's sacrifice is our gain; her annuals are uniformly admirable. I have liked them all. But my thought is, the simple Spanlards of the Inquisition had only the boot, the rack, the thumbscrew and the water cure. It never occurred to them to make a victim read all the magazines. In all things we progress.

A committee of American composers will sponsor a testimonial dinner for Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, in New York on Tuesday. Aaron Copland will be master of ceremonies and Howard Hanson will pay tribute to the conductor. Other composers interested in the testimonial are Samuel Barber, Nicolai Berezowsky, Roy Harris, Leonard Bernstein, Edward Burlingame Hill, Walter Piston, Vladimir Dukelsky, William Schuman, and Deems Taylor.

"Pieces of Eight," a chamber opera with music by Bernard Wagenaar and libretto by Edward Eager, was given its first performance at Columbia university in New York City last week. The work is described as an operatic comedy in two acts, for nine singers and chamber orchestra. The action takes place in 1720 and deals with the Captain Kidd legend in America. Otto Luening conducted four performances.

The Robin Hood Dell series of summer concerts by the Philadelphia orchestra, June 19 to Aug. 4, will be conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, George Szell, and Vladimir Golschmann. The three conductors will divide 25 of the concerts between them, with the remaining three planned as "pop" programs under conductors to be announced later.

"The Prairie," a cantata by Lucas Foss based on Carl Sandburg's poem of the same title, is scheduled for a first performance in New York tomorrow by the Collegiate Chorale under the direction of Robert Shaw. A symphonic synthesis of the work was played earlier by the Boston Symphony orchestra under Serge Koussevitzky.

The Metropolitan Opera company ended its spring tour in Cleveland with eight performances, each of which attracted audiences of more than 9,000. Total receipts were over $200,000.

Questions concerning the permanent retirement of Giovanni Martinelli, absent from the last season of the Metropolitan Opera company, seem to be settled by the fact that he was scheduled to sing with the Philadelphia La Scala Grand Opera company in Pittsburgh last week.

Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra, is due to arrive in Australia soon to conduct concerts in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, and Adelaide, including a number of free concerts for service men. An "informal résumé of the history of song" is being presented in a series of studio recitals by Marjorie Morgan in the East lounge of Ida Noyes hall, University of Chicago. The second program will be given on May 25 at 8, and the final one on June 22 at 8. The former will be devoted to "Dramma Per la Musica," a program of early songs and arias, and the latter is described as "Musical and Poetic Compositions," comprising excerpts from oratorio and cantata, German lieder, opera arias, and modern art songs. Scott Goldthwaite of the University of Chicago department of music will assist and William Whitaker will be at the piano.

BOOK NEWS AND REVIEWS

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

FOOTNOTE to history: On Oct. 3, 1943, THE TRIBUNE'S book section carried this statement in a review by Prof. Tremaine McDowell of the University of Minnesota: "For the next Pulitzer prize in American history I nominate 'The Growth of American Thought.' It has been 16 years since a book of this stature has appeared." And the other day it was announced that the 1943 Pulitzer prize in history had been awarded to Prof. Merle Curti for his "The Growth of American Thought."

Mr. Curti, a native of Nebraska, has served on the faculties of Smith college, Columbia university, and the University of Wisconsin. . . . His book didn't appeal to Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton, but apparently the Pulitzer committee listened to Prof. McDowell and other reviewers. . . . Mr. McDowell's nomination was widely quoted by the publisher [Harper] in newspaper and magazine advertisments. . . . Word reaching this desk has it: "Mr. Curti seems to be convinced that THE TRIBUNE'S prompt naming of his book for the award was definitely influential."

A Personal Account of Soviet Life

"MY LIVES IN RUSSIA," by Markoosha Fischer. [Harper, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

This book is a useful account of the way people lived in Russia until 1939. It is incomplete and quite superficial about many of the daily things we want to know, but it is an adequate description of the process of mind which one person went thru as Russia itself went thru various large social processes.

Markoosha Fischer.

The writer is the wife of an American correspondent long stationed in Russia. The book is an account of her first enthusiasms for the soviet, the gradual rise in the standard of living in Moscow accompanied by a gradual rise in the morale of the populace, and finally her own disillusionment with the soviet over two things: the purges, which destroyed many of her own intimate friends, and the soviet-Nazi pact, which seemed to her a betrayal of the proud antifascist record of Russia. The book ends with her departure from Russia, after difficulties, and her new life in America.

These personal records of soviet life are invaluable; they are the one way [insufficient but yet immediate] by which Americans can penetrate a little into that vast darkness which is soviet life. But like most of the books which argue as this one does—that Russia would have been great, as her military record shows, had it not been for the oppression of her system—it fails to recognize that the terriffic fight put up by the Red army has been made possible only by the rigid dictatorship against which they complain. If opposition had been allowed to flourish, if there had been no purge of dissident elements, there would have been no solid front to Hitler.

The problem few admit is this: If it was true that the thousands killed in the purge were traitors, then what forces in soviet life drove that many men to become traitors?

"Fightin'est Ship."

Lt. C. G. Morris, U. S. N. R., and Hugh B. Cave are the authors of an account of the cruiser Helena, which was partially disabled by a torpedo in the Pearl Harbor raid and after refitting went thru a remarkable series of engagements which caused the navy to call it "the fightin'est ship." The term will be used as the title of the book, which will be published by Dodd, Mead & Co. in June.

HOMELESS SEEK TO ESCAPE FROM EUROPE

Vainly Look for a Means to Get Away

"TRANSIT," by Anna Seghers. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

The hundreds of thousands of readers of "The Seventh Cross" [it was a choice of the Book of the Month club in 1942] will be eager to plunge into "Transit," for "The Seventh Cross" was one of the tensest thrillers of our day, a tale of a man hunt which was also literature, a melodrama which also had epic qualities of human characterization.

Those who demand a duplication of "The Seventh Cross" may be disappointed in "Transit," for there is no Gestapo noose tightening about a man's neck, and little of the sickening fear that the light of recognition in one man's eye may mean eternal darkness for another. The scene is not Germany. The story is not of a man hunt but of homeless man's desperate hunt for a home. "Transit" is less melodramatic than "The Seventh Cross," but it is a deeper delving into human emotions.

Marseille is the scene of "Transit," that French port to which thousands fled in panic when the Germans took Paris, a port ironically without boats, and whose docks sheltered only the phantom ships of hope. To it come people, two or three times the number who normally live in Marseille, fleeing from, but unable to flee to, a home.

The narrator of the story is a German, an anti-Nazi who had escaped from a French labor camp near Rouen when the Germans came and had made his perilous way across France. In Paris he accidentally crossed the fate line of "a man named Weidel, a writer." From that moment his own fate was inextricably enlaced with Weidel's. All of good, all of love, all of bad, all of sadness that was his lot from that moment was either directly or indirectly because of Weidel. For half the book at least the reader does not realize just how dramatically the life of Weidel has become entangled with the life of the hero. The person most intimately concerned, the heroine, never does realize it.

In the plot at times the long arm of coincidence is so attenuated that it seems purely artificial. And the heroine has a definite aura of unreality about her. She will remind you a bit of Dona Rita, the heroine in Joseph Conrad's "The Arrow of Gold," who also lived in Marseille. But there is no unreality about the pictures of life in Marseille, of the lesser characters who people that life, or of the squirrel cage activity of their enforced, bored leisure. Ceaselessly, hopelessly, but never losing hope, they make their frenzied rounds of bureaus, consulates, relief agencies, cafes, for visas, permits, steamship tickets, registrations, encouragement. Rumor is as nourishing to them as their meager meals, or so poisonous that it kills them rather than the bullets they shoot into their temples.

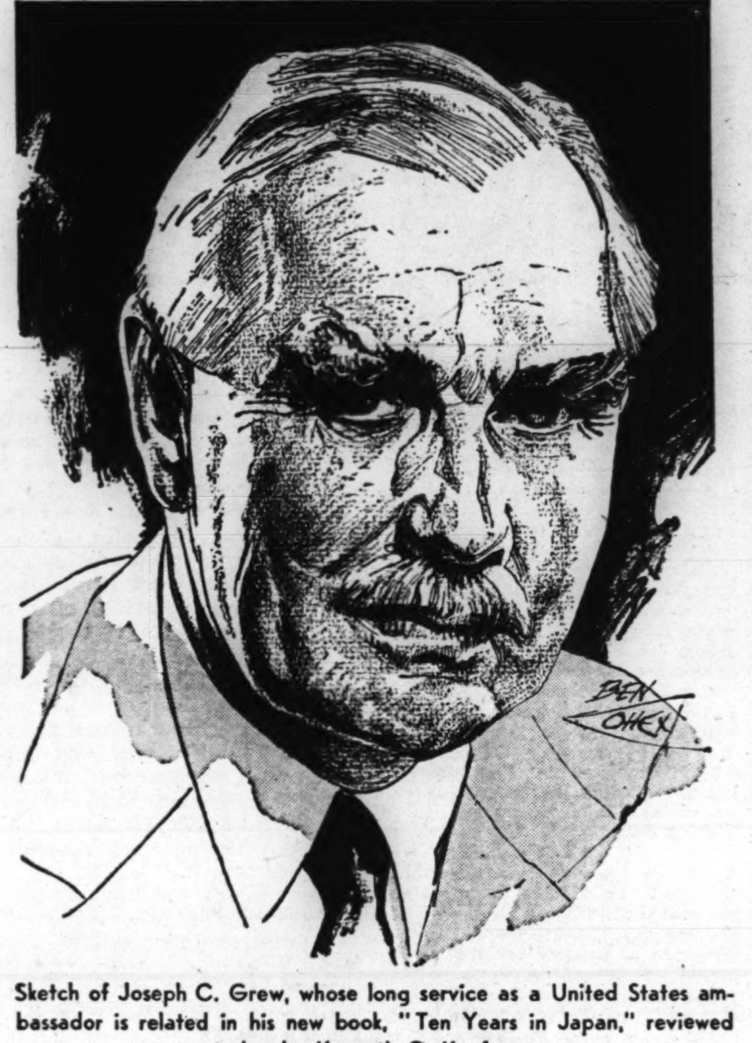
In contrast to "The Seventh Cross," whose tempo was a breathless scherzo [one cannot refrain from quoting the old and this time very appropriate mot "because they're scared so"], the movement of "Transit" is as slow as the physical forward movement of its characters. But in "Transit" Anna Seghers proves that there can be as tense suspense for the reader in hampered action as in pursued flight.



Sketch of Joseph C. Grew, whose long service as a United States ambassador is related in his new book, "Ten Years in Japan," reviewed today by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

Grew Relates His Ten-Year Tussle with Jap Jingoism

"TEN YEARS IN JAPAN," by Joseph C. Grew. [Simon & Schuster, $3.75.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

Ambassador Grew's previous book, "Report from Tokyo," aimed at giving a realistic view of the strength of our Asiatic enemy and at combating undue optimism; the present volume goes further back and further forward, portraying and analyzing those complexities of national mentality and character which slowly pushed Japan into national hara-kiri, and building up a predicate for a solution of the peace problems.

When he went to Japan it was obvious that the war mongers had embarked on a course of rule or ruin; they had seized Manchuria and were preparing to junk the Washington treaties, quit the league of nations, and bid for leadership in Asia. President Hoover appointed him on May 14, 1932; on May 15 a series of political assassinations culminated in the murder of Premier Inukai. Nevertheless, that first year led only to the recognition of Manchukuo, followed by a period of comparative calm. On the surface it looked as if the moderates—and they were many—might swing the country back to sanity.

But in February, 1936, hotheaded young army officers staged another series of murders; again they failed and some of their number were executed. Yet troops kept pouring into North China and in 1937 the China incident became open war. By 1940 the military were so firm in the saddle that they were able to align their country with the axis and begin the southward expansion.

To that point Mr. Grew, a career diplomat with 40 years of experience [he had served in Mexico, Russia, Austr -Hungary, Germany, Denmark, Switzerland, and Turkey], had what might be termed a ringside seat at the struggle between the dual governments of Japan—civil and military—and his book, consisting of excerpts from his 10-year diary, official papers, speeches, and letters, selected and arranged chronologically, is an exciting play by play account. Thruout are to be found shrewd glimpses of Japanese life and customs, amusing and pathetic incidents, portraits of outstanding personalities. Mr. Grew, with all the resources of his training and experience, made it his business to know Japan and the Japanese, in their lighter as well as in their more serious moments, and much of the book is shot thru with easy tolerance and high good humor.

As conditions deteriorated, it concentrates more and more on the problem in hand—the twofold one of upholding American rights in the east and of avoiding war. The situation was well-nigh hopeless at the outset but Mr. Grew, regarding diplomacy as our first line of defense, went to work with courage, restraint, honesty and sincerity, and an unquenchable optimism. He cultivated the moderates but he dealt with equal fairness with the most sanguinary radicals. And he was still working with all the resources at his command when the fatal bombs fell at Pearl Harbor.

Probably Mr. Grew was unaware, in compiling his book, that he was doing his self-portrait; but he was, and it is a picture to make one proud of being an American. As for the book—required reading.

Children's Book Awards Are Given at Cleveland Meeting

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the award of the John Newbery and Caldecott medals comes this year from Cleveland, O., where the Northern Ohio Library association met last week. The John Newbery medal for the best children's book of 1943 goes to Esther Forbes for "Johnny Tremain," published by Houghton Mifflin, and the Caldecott medal for the best drawings for a children's book in 1943 goes to Louis Slobodkin, who illustrated "Many Moons," by James F. Thurber, published by Harcourt, Brace.

Frederic Melcher, who instituted the awards and looks after them, tells me that there was no opportunity to meet with the American Library association this spring, but the Cleveland meeting served the same purpose. Frances Clarke Sayers, superintendent of children's activities at the New York Public library, was chairman of the committee on awards and attended the Cleveland meeting to make the announcement Thursday. The medals are well established and eagerly awaited by authors. Publishers and book sellers say they create new interest in the titles as well as in other children's books.

Booksellers' Meeting.

The American Booksellers' association decided this year to concentrate all its activities on one day, May 16, at Hotel Astor in New York. The business discussions will take place morning and afternoon and will terminate with a general cocktail party at 5 p. m., leaving visitors free to use the evening as they see fit. Nicholas Wreden is president of the association and George L. Hecht is convention chairman. Rose Oller Harbaugh of Chicago will be chairman of the conference on the care and control of stock and also will speak on bookstore methods.

One of the interesting discussions will deal with advertising books in what New York calls "the rest of the country." Local newspapers are rationing space, with the result that publishers are testing "outside" fields and discovering that they, too, are good book markets. The general cocktail party is a novelty and is expected to wipe out the numerous private parties usually held in hotel suites by publishers. Book sellers wishing to pay their respects to the various houses usually went from one suite to another, being quite chipper when they started with Abingdon and making an erratic path by the time they reached Viking. This year the participating publishers are being assessed $75 each, which ought to pay for refreshments, including caviar.

Personnel Changes.

Nicholas Wreden has just changed his position. After serving as general manager of the Scribner book store for many years he is going to develop a new office for E. P. Dutton, associated with sales. Dutton has had a highly successful year. Mr. Wreden also has literary interests; last year he translated Aldanov's "The Fifth Seal"—which started a letter writing barrage. He is a member of the committee that chooses books for the Armed Services Editions. Henry la Cossitt has just been promoted to managing editor by Collier's. He went there not so very long ago from the American magazine, where he was fiction editor. John McCaffrey succeeded him on the American, going there from Doubleday. Don F. Saunders has been made associate editor of Redbook magazine. Malcolm Johnson has resigned as an officer and director of Doubleday, Doran.

Referring again to the Bernard DeVoto-Sinclair Lewis duel of words; after the Lewis article on DeVoto was published several friends called up Lewis, saying: "This is Benny. What do you mean, you so-and-so?" But Lewis was not fooled. From Boston comes word that after the first fine rapture DeVoto said: "But Sinclair Lewis is an old friend of mine!" Raymond Everitt of Little, Brown tells me that repercussions from the DeVoto book have been felt all the way from Kansas City [it's like earthquake shock] and that the book is doing nicely.

A Place of Vanished Glory.

No doubt many older Chicagoans recall the Eagles' Nest artist's colony that grew up around the home of Wallace Heckman on the Rock river near Oregon, Ill. A memorial of that famous retreat is "A Middle-West Utopia," by Jessie H. Hirschl, in the Delphian Quarterly for April. Miss Hirschl says the last member of the colony has died. Margaret Fuller had celebrated the beauty of the valley in 1843. When Eagles' Nest was in its glory it was the retreat of Lorado Taft, Hamlin Garland, Ralph Clarkson, Henry B. Fuller, Allen and Irving Pond, Harriet Monroe, James Spencer Dickerson, Horace Spencer Fiske, James Breasted, Ernest Seton-Thompson, Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, Robert and Elia Peattie, Roswell Field, Bert Leston Taylor, and kindred souls.

Sumner Again on Warpath.

John S. Sumner, secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, has started a new drive against a book. He is proceeding against "The First Lady Chatterley," by D. H. Lawrence, which was published in April by Dial Press with a new foreword by Frieda Lawrence. Esther Forbes called this first draft far better than the later, published version, but readers disagree. At any rate, Mr. Sumner is busy again. About 15 years ago he used to bring actions against books, but usually unsuccessfully. He was active when "Jurgen" was attacked. At present a "decency drive" is sprouting. Suppressing books is hardly a way of stopping people from reading them.

Miss Lillian Smith, author of "Strange Fruit," which is under fire in Boston, has written a defense of her language, saying it was the logical thing to write as she did. Frankly, I don't believe the words objected to belong in her book, which does not report the vernacular stenographically. But she's the author.

Clubs in South Hold Interest of Chicagoans

By Thalia.

For prairie-bound Chicagoans the North Carolina mountains have the irresistible allure of heights unscaled, of vistas capped by verdant spires. And in this year when peace is in few hearts, their immemorial calm is a special blessing to war-taut nerves.

Not long ago this Chicagoan went up a steep mountain road from that lovely deep blue tarn so aptly called Lake Lure, thru woods whose deep green was dappled by the pale lime of bursting dogwood, or talc sifted by an occasional full blown flower, to a mountain top which was the Empire State building of the neighboring crests. There overlooking valleys, cols, and deep ravines is a large Swiss "chalet," a club of special interest to Chicagoans, many of whom have visited there. It is owned by Dr. and Mrs. Murray Washburn.

Dr. Washburn used to be one of Chicago's most popular men of medicine, both professionally and socially. Some years ago he retired to the lovely mountains of North Carolina to spend what then seemed like his few last years. But so rejuvenating is the Carolina mountain air that Dr. Washburn is today as sturdy as one of the great trees which surround The Chalet. He was being a pioneer in fact as well as in spirit when we found him on his mountain top. The war had taken all of the servants which used to staff the club and it has been closed for the duration.

Mrs. Washburn was away on a visit, and the 70 year old doctor was doing everything for himself and, when he could, for some of the men from the near-by Lake Lure army air corps redistribution center. In that beautiful quiet spot flyers who have completed their allotted missions in combat may spend a happy holiday of two or three weeks with their wives before they are "redistributed." Many prefer Atlantic City and Miami Beach as more exciting, but Lake Lure is the choice of those whose nature calls for nature's attractions rather than man's distractions.

Before the war "The Chalet" was filled from year to year by the 20 odd guests who were lucky enough to know about it or to be able to get there. It was an easy two day drive from Chicago or a convenient stopping place for motorists on their way home from a Florida winter. This year its lovely terraces are empty. The intoxicating fragrance of the laburnum lavishes itself on the thin air, appreciatively sniffed only by an occasional human nostril. The eternal silences of the mountain top echo a twig's crackle, but seldom gay human laughter. In a world where there is peace in few men's hearts and nature itself is wracked by men's madness, the peace of the Carolina mountains is a balm.

A few miles away, between Lake Lure and Asheville, live Mr. and Mrs. James G. K. McClure on "Hickory Nut Gap Farm." Mrs. McClure was Elizabeth Cramer before her marriage, and has often visited her Chicago relatives, her brother and sister-in-law, the Ambrose Cramers; her mother, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, and her step-sister, Mrs. Donald Ryerson. Incidentally, young Mrs. Cramer spent a few days here recently with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, seeing to the Lake Shore drive apartment which she and Mr. Cramer had rented furnished to Desire Defauw when he came to Chicago to conduct the symphony. The Defauws have just bought a coöperative apartment. Mr. Cramer, who has been working in Washington in lend-lease, has recently been made head of the de-

Women Voters Plan All-Day Meet Tuesday

The Cook County League of Women Voters has invited a Chicago alderman and a state senator to its annual business meeting Tuesday to explain reapportionment and how it affects the vote. Reapportionment in relation to Chicago wards will be discussed by Ald. Frank Keenan of the 49th ward, and Sen. Thomas E. Keane of the 23d district will talk on the subject in relation to senatorial and congressional districts.

Mrs. Raleigh W. Stone.

Mrs. Raleigh W. Stone, president, will convene the day-long meeting at 10:30 o'clock. The morning session will be devoted to reports of officers and committee chairmen and election of a vice president, a secretary, and a nominating committee. Polls will open for voting a half hour before the meeting. Ald. Keenan's and Sen. Keane's talks are scheduled for the afternoon.

Slated for the office of vice president in the county league is Mrs. Walter J. Preston of Glencoe, and Mrs. Ralph Brady of Chicago has been named for the secretary's post. On a slate of nine candidates for the nominating committee, from which four regular members and one alternate will be chosen by proportional representation, are Mrs. Edgar R. Curry, Mrs. James F. Donnelly, Mrs. E. Gorman Ham, Mrs. W. T. S. Jones, Mrs. Will F. Lyon, Mrs. Leston B. Nay, Mrs. O. T. Robertson, Mrs. Fred S. Rye, and Mrs. F. A. Vetter.

The meeting will be held in league headquarters at 225 N. Michigan av.

Members of the Barrington league will gather Tuesday for their closing all-day meeting of the season at Mrs. George Owen Fairweather's Willow Hill farm. The foreign policy study group, directed by Mrs. Edgerton Throckmorton, will assemble at 10 o'clock to hear a panel discussion by Mrs. Fairweather, Mrs. Kenneth Hunter, and Mrs. Clive Ford Marshall of the probable peace table demands of the Balkans, Finland, and Russia.

At the afternoon session, the group will hear a lecture by Dr. William S. Stokes of the political science department of Northwestern university on "How United States Political Economy Is Affected by Our Foreign Policy." Dr. Stokes will be presented by Mrs. Sumner Koch, vice president of the Barrington league.

A picnic is planned for the midday interval, with each member bringing her own box lunch.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

It's the extra little touches that often add a fillip to one's enjoyment—the fragrance of a gardenia, the chromium on a limousine, the whipped cream on a sundae. By the same token it's sometimes the whimsical and unexpected accessories worn by a well dressed woman that catch one's eye even before her complete ensemble has registered an impression. Mrs. Edward Morris wears not one new spring hat but two—miniature gold panamas with black enameled hatbands and tiny diamond bows at the side. In reality they're handsome earrings, but she has converted them into clips. The other day at luncheon at the Casino she had them snapped to the neckline of a three toned wool dress which had a saffron fronted bodice, bands of gray down the sleeves, and black across the back. Mrs. Peter D. Ridenour's young son is hoping that a clever postilion sailor of braided white straw that his mother is wearing this spring soon may be relegated to the rummage sales sponsored by one of her favorite charities, the Kenilworth Infant Welfare, so that he may inherit its trimming. Fastened to the chartreuse and cherry grosgrain band that circles it are cunning little Mexican figures of peons and burros which would make amusing playthings for any youngster. To the Arts club recently Mrs. Ridenour wore this fetching bonnet to complement a cherry gabardine ensemble cut so skillfully that one could hardly tell whether it was a dress or a coat. A striking print blouse which Mrs. James C. Thompson often wears with a black skirt appears at a distance to have perpendicular bands of a green and blue floral pattern against white, but up close the "flowers" resolve into white faced monkeys climbing trellises. Mrs. Philip D. Block Jr. adds dash to a prim bolero suit of black and white checks with a half hat of shiny black straw with bunches of black and white dice at either side.

Actress Sylvia Sidney, last seen in Chicago in "Jane Eyre," was a picture of urban sophistication at Romanoff's in Beverly Hills, where women's dress runs the gamut from slacks to mink. Having luncheon there one day, and departing afterwards in a modest four year old low priced coupe, Miss Sidney was stunning in a trim navy suit with gilet revers of bright red and blue plaid and a double pancake hat of blue and red perched well forward on her upswept black hair. Descending from the Chief on her way from Santa Fe to Detroit to join her husband, Mrs. David McNeill, whose father is New Mexico's governor, wore a smart black suit with a tailored white blouse and a natural colored rough straw sailor tied in black veiling. Mrs. McNeill, who was accompanied by her 18 months' old son, has many friends in Chicago. The center of much admiration is Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy's engagement ring. It consists of two square diamonds, which can be raised in the setting to be surrounded with sapphires, rubies, or emeralds, whichever color best suits her ensemble that day. Mrs. Herbert Kochs has a "turnabout" dress, the front of soft blue brushed wool, with the exception of one short sleeve and half the bodice, which are of brown, echoing the color of the entire back of the dress. With it she wears a blue wool hat cuffed in mink, with a spray of tiny flowers with stems and petals of blue wool cascading down one side.

Girl Scouts to Open Annual Camp June 28

By Irene Steyskal.

One of the enduring constants for young Chicago in a pattern of living which so abruptly has become confused by war's unsettling variables is that sunny stretch of Wisconsin acres, lake bordered and stream laced, known to the world of Girl Scouting as Juniper Knoll.

Word from Scout headquarters that the vacation spot will open June 28 for campers must come as reassuring news to many a father and mother who have taken to heart the general censure of law enforcement and juvenile protective agencies in recent months. Juvenile delinquency is a misnomer, it is asserted by those concerned over the startling increase in the number of youthful offenders against law and the moral codes. "Parental delinquency" is nearer the mark, they maintain.

Responsibility for a major social problem of the day is laid squarely at the door of the "too busy" parents, fathers and mothers who have forgotten their children's first claim upon their attention, affection, guidance, and supervision, permitting their time to be absorbed by secondary causes and interests, however worthy, outside the home.

Guaranteed, then, to wipe out at least one set of lines from harassed adult brows is the wholesome picture of the Girl Scout camp, with carefree youngsters laughing in the sun.

Juniper Knoll lies to the north west of Chicago some 96 miles—55 acres of grassy and flower studded meadows and woods of giant junipers, oaks, white birches, and sturdy hickory, above the sheening waters of Lake Pleasant. Bobbing at their mooring ties at the H-shaped dock and nearby float when the first campers arrive will be the Scouts' fleet of six freshly painted rowboats and eight canoes, promising hours of fun to the girls who favor the aquatic sports.

Grouped in six units for the various age groups—the camp takes girls from 10 to 18—are the sleeping tents, Greenwood, the screened unit for the youngest Scouts; Shonghela, Scotland, and Sunny Ridge, headquarters for the experienced campers enrolled for special activities; the Frontier, distinguished by the sign of the covered wagon, for those who like "roughing it," and Clippership, with ship's bell and gangplank entrance to set the nautical note.

Topping the knoll and looking out over the lake is the sturdy lodge, about whose great stone fireplace camp life centers. Here on the rainy nights, in the companionable circle of firelight, the Scouts, small and large, and their counselors congregate for sings, for story telling, or impromptu theatricals. The lodge houses also the main dining room, serving room, and kitchen. Second of the buildings in the girls' affection is Book Nest, the camp library, where comfortable chairs can be drawn up before two large fireplaces for a quiet hour of reading, and where there are special rooms furnished for activities on those days when the weather sends Scouts scampering indoors. Growing Well is the emergency center presided over by a registered nurse, who stands ready with iodine swab for all cuts and scratches and with bandages and adhesive tape for the blistered toes and skinned knees.

Staffing Juniper Knoll are 40 adult camp leaders and counselors, including the Red Cross swimming and water safety instructors [one guard for every eight swimmers], who direct the waterfront activities. For a third year, the Juniper Knoll camping season, which continues thru Aug. 23 on a two-week vacation plan for groups of 145 Scouts, is under

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE Jedge said I should write about spring on the farm. And just to make sure I wouldn't forget anything, he began making a list: garden, lambs, calves, birds, planting, chickens. At that very moment Lem Jones, the hired man, came rushing in [well, almost rushing] to say: "Reckon youuns knowed you had some goslin's out here!" So because goslings are 24 hours newer than Little Lambsey Divey they're the pets of the hour.

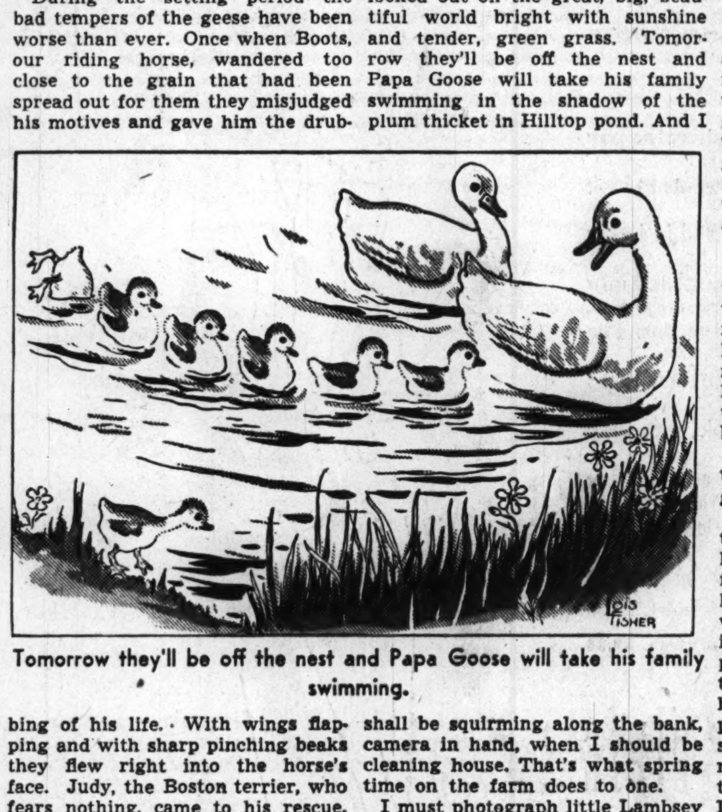
For the last 28 days two geese have been setting side by side on a nest. And was that nest inside the neat little goose shelter with the glass front? Indeed not! Obviously these geese had never heard about the importance of a family's environment. They scooped out a nest in the manure pile, about a foot above ground. There they laid their king size eggs, carefully covering each one with straw until they were ready to set. During the setting a slanting board, braced against the fence, gave protection to one goose, but the other was out under the sky. Thru frosty nights and rainy days and bright, sunny hours they have been loyal to those eggs. Papa Goose has wandered lonesomely about, making frequent trips to the nest . . . to complain about getting his own meals, probably. Apparently it was his job, too, to pick up bits of barn yard gossip and relay it to the women folks. Occasionally he has sat for a half hour close to the back fence, near our kitchen windows. Then I'd see him waddling up to the nest, where he would sit beside his mates and chatter volubly to them. I could always imagine that he began the conversation by saying:

"Well, girls, you can't guess what those darn fool humans are doing today. Listen . . ."

During the setting period the bad tempers of the geese have been worse than ever. Once when Boots, our riding horse, wandered too close to the grain that had been spread out for them they misjudged his motives and gave him the drubbing of his life. With wings flapping and with sharp pinching beaks they flew right into the horse's face. Judy, the Boston terrier, who fears nothing, came to his rescue.

Every now and then some one asks me when I'm going to pick the geese. I know it would be nice to have a comforter filled with those soft downy feathers which the geese will shed anyway. But the only way I'll ever get them is to play strip poker with the geese . . . and win! Tonight those downy feathers are nestling over seven greenish-yellow goslings. All day 14 beady, black eyes have looked out on the great, big, beautiful world bright with sunshine and tender, green grass. Tomorrow they'll be off the nest and Papa Goose will take his family swimming in the shadow of the plum thicket in Hilltop pond. And I shall be squirming along the bank, camera in hand, when I should be cleaning house. That's what spring time on the farm does to one.



Tomorrow they'll be off the nest and Papa Goose will take his family swimming.

I must photograph little Lambsey Divey, too, while she is still in the knobby kneed, long tailed stage. She was born yesterday to Orrena the Second, down in the deep woods at the edge of the Home Forty. All day the mother kept her down there. Then in the evening the Jedge carried the baby up to the barn, the mother tagging along and protesting at every step. This morning mother and daughter went to the sunshiny woods in front of the house. It must have seemed like a long way to the lamb, for she stopped to rest at every 10th step. Once she lay down for a nap in the middle of the roadway while her mother patiently stood guard above her. Every few minutes the mother would nose her gently as if to assure her that those flakes falling from above were only the pinkish-white petals from the apple blossoms overhead.

The first lamb born at the farm this spring chose the exact hour when I should have been getting ready for Sunday school. The ewe had a bad time. The Jedge worked madly to save her, and I stayed home from Sunday school to save the Jedge. He ran from house to barn and barn to house shouting:

"Heat some water! Get me a towel! Where are some clean gloves? Where's that antiseptic?"

Too bad I had always avoided those hospital movies. I might have been able to respond with professional dignity. I might even have saved that beautiful lamb which never drew a breath. But if he were here now, he would probably be a bad influence on little Lambsey Divey. He might lure her to play after her mother had parked her to rest on the sunny side of a stump while she fed nearby. Orrena is probably telling the rest of the flock right now that Lambsey Divey is the best baby she ever had.

On farms all about us long legged, soft eyed calves are being born, but ours are still in the anticipated stage. It seems to me that calves are prettier than ever this year. Perhaps that is because so many farmers now prefer Holsteins for their milk cows. With a typical spring background of green pastures, blossoming fruit trees, and blue skies, these bright black and white calves look like something an artist might have put in to give the landscape a point of interest. Our calves will be golden in color [Jerseys] to blend with the autumn scene. And long before that we'll be admiring the black and white babies of Little Eva, our two color cat.

Another set of babies eagerly awaited will come from the eggs which our red hen, Barbara, is hovering in the corner of the horse barn. What a surprise Bobby will get when her children plunge into the pond and go blithely swimming away! Maybe it was a dirty trick to set her on duck eggs. But like most farmers we have lost our enthusiasm for chickens in any great number. There were tears and wailings last Saturday when the high cost of feed and low price of eggs forced us to sell our 200 white Leghorn beauties and bring home 12 Red Hampshires. With the flock reduced to home size, we prefer the Hampshire hen. She doesn't fly over fences and scratch up gardens.

Speaking of gardens brings us to the most important spring chore on the farm . . . making the garden! It's definitely women's work in the Ozarks. That's why you often see a fine garden at a mountain home when the fields about it are half tended. The woman of the house is more interested in her work than in fishing. Our garden was plowed and harrowed by Rounder Smith, who says I may refer to him as a "retired moonshiner." He did as good a job on the garden as he used to do with his moonshine business.

From there on the garden was my problem. I disregarded all traditions and moon signs and planted everything on Good Friday. Furthermore, instead of nice, neat rows from end to end of the garden, I planted everything in circles. Three central points were established at equal distances in the 100x50 foot plot. Then with mathematical precision and the hired man's reluctant help, 21 circles were drawn in the soft ground, seven graduated circles being formed about each of the three points. The circles were then planted alternately in vegetables and flowers. Into the triangles between the outer circles went tomatoes and cucumbers. At the end of the garden plot, in a narrowed place, I planted a garden of blue flowers about the letters "S. M. F." done in white alyssum. Along the edge bordering the lawn I planted everything the seed catalog called "night blooming!"

Once she lay down for a nap in the middle of the roadway while her mother patiently stood guard.

And who can blame us if the Jedge and I dream of sitting out under the sycamore on balmy summer evenings breathing the heady fragrance of beautiful flowers blooming whitely in the moonlight! After all, the best part of gardening is the faith of which dreams are made.

Our orchard, which lies at the right of the lane, had never known pruning shears until this year. I actually felt pain in my own arms when I stood and watched a pruning wise neighbor lop off big branches and a million smaller fingers. The orchard looks far neater now, and we're looking forward to luscious cherries, apples, pears, plums, peaches, quinces, and apricots from our trees and red, white, and blue grapes from our vines. If they fail us, we shall remember the wine-y fragrance of grape blossoms and the bridal bouquet appearance of every blossoming tree. And we shall feel that vineyard and orchard have thereby earned their keep.

But of course, the greatest of all spring time joys are the sight and song of the birds. All the northbound birds seem to make our farm a stopover point, and fortunately many like it well enough to stay. Many a time when I should be doing the breakfast dishes or burying the body I murdered in my new book, I have my field glasses slung around my neck and am out on the front terrace or dining room gallery trying to see the bird that is giving us that delightful concert.

One day I had been looking steadily into the woods at the front of the house for several minutes enjoying the sight of a bird with zebralike stripes on her back and a red spot, exactly like a snood, at the nape of her neck, who was house hunting with her red capped mate. Suddenly just as one will turn in a theater when he feels eyes upon him, I swung the glasses to the big apple tree at the right of the lane and looked straight into the quizzical eyes of a bird with a chartreuse vest and red crest. I'll swear he was laughing at me. Both of us were embarrassed. The bird hastily flew away. I dropped the glasses.

Yes, spring time on the farm is full of fun.

The McClures live in a wonderful farm house which once was an old mountain road tavern. They remodeled it so carefully and with such affection that its tradition has been kept without interfering with modern comfortable living. The air was damp after a rare 24 hour rain when we arrived, and a roaring fire in the library was a cozy welcome, altho the air outside, heavy with the wet boxwood odor, was delicious. There is something convincingly permanent about the smell of box. Its life may be measured in centuries, and its fragrance grows more mustily pungent with time.

We sat before the fire, looked out on the dripping trees, admired the book-crowded shelves which enclosed us — and were astonished when one side of the small room moved slowly outward. It was a trick door, skilfully designed by Ambrose Cramer — who is one of Chicago's best known architects— to open, books and all, into a small farm office which had been an adjoining shed in the old tavern. It was a perfect setting for a novel of secret cabals set in the days of the tavern's birth. But it is used for less romantic flights of the pen by Mr. McClure, who edits a popular local coöperative farmers' magazine and actively manages his own broad and beautiful acres.

Only a few miles away is Asheville, the best known city of the Carolina mountains, with its suburb of Biltmore Forest, which was once part of the great George Vanderbilt estate. Two generations of young Chicagoans have been prepared for college in the Asheville School for Boys, which is just outside the city. Charles B. Goodspeed was a member of one of its early classes and is now a trustee, as are also Louis A. Ferguson and Philip R. Clarke of Chicago. The headmaster, our fellow townsman, David R. Fall, was himself a graduate of the school. The great meadow which lies before its buildings, now the athletic field, was literally a mountain top shaved off. From it one can see the tall top of Mount Mitchell, 6,711 feet up, the highest peak in the neighborhood, which some members of each year's class always scale, and to get to the school from the city's center one crosses a river whose name always gives non-natives a chuckle, the French Broad. Natives and Mr. Webster both assure you that "broad" means "an expansion of a river."

The Grove Park inn in Asheville is one of the country's fabulous hotels, physically, geographically, and financially. It is built on the top of Sunset mountain, and its windows look into space and at night down upon a city sparkling with lights like a backdrop for the third act of "Louise." A huge park surrounds it in which the famous Biltmore Weavers has its hand looms and shop. The Weavers was started as a charity work shop for the local mountain women by Mrs. Vanderbilt over a generation ago, but is now operated commercially.

The hotel is a vast pile of local boulders, inside and out. The walls of the huge common room are as jagged—and as cozy—as a dungeon keep. But vast windows relieve their terror, and one of the biggest fireplaces in America accommodates almost whole trees for comfort. The inn was built three decades ago by a famous patent medicine tycoon whose product was designed to cure the headaches that might be induced by its architecture.

The Grove Park inn housed the alien diplomats who were caught in America by the war. I thought that you would be interested in knowing that they lived in the greatest possible luxury, in one of the most beautiful spots in America. They had been permitted unrestricted use of the park and the golf course, but had not been allowed outside the gates, so the hotel manager told me. Both Germans and Italians had been quartered there, but they had not battled one another as they did in other places. The inn is now in civilian hands again, but either it was early in the season or the aura of aliens still pervaded it, for there were few guests to wonder whether our diplomats interned in Germany and Japan and Italy were lapped in such luxury.

If there were few people in Asheville, there wasn't an inch available in the Cloister at Sea Island, Ga., which, before the war, used to be another favorite overnight stop on the way up from Florida. It is one of the warm but temperate South's most popular resorts, open the year round, and this war year doing a business crevice-full with almost no transients but so many reservations for two or three weeks or a month that many guests had already booked rooms for next season.

The Cloister has long been popular with Chicagoans, and many go back year after year. The first persons I saw there the first time I visited it some years ago were the Kenneth Templetons. In late March this year his was again one of the first faces I recognized. Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart's were even more familiar and welcoming faces. The David Crawfords and the George Kellys and Dr. John Favill completed the Chicago group — all of them on a well earned leave from vital work for the war—caring for, feeding, or transporting Americans.

An active interest always has been sustained at the Chicago Woman's club in procuring adequate recreational facilities for the town's children, and new problems developing from war conditions now find the women on the alert. Mrs. Mulberry, who is a member of the national board of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be in New York at a three day meeting of the congress, a war time conference on childhood and youth, convening Monday, May 22, in Hotel Pennsylvania.

Last year, for the first time in its history, the National Parent-Teacher congress canceled its convention because of war time travel conditions, but this year's conference was considered essential because of emergency problems in the child welfare field.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to speak on the opening night of the conference, and the delegates will hear Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, and John Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, on the following days. Mrs. Theodore Gleichman of Moline, who, as president of the Illinois congress, also holds a seat on the national board, will attend the New York conference. Presiding at the meeting will be Mrs. William A. Hastings of Madison, Wis. On the House

By Louise Bargelt

Your screens, whether of copper or bronze or galvanized iron, are precious this spring and should be given the care they deserve. . . . The same is true of your gutters and leaders. . . . Galvanized iron screens and gutters and leaders should be kept in top notch condition by proper paint.

Protect copper and bronze screens from greenish oxidation that can wash off and stain screen frames and walls below with a good spar varnish. . . . For galvanized iron screens there are screen enamels manufactured for the special purpose and thin enough so that they will not clog the meshes. . . . Ordinary house paint can be used on frames.

For the upkeep or your precious awnings and other canvas accessories, there are special paints to use if your awnings need repainting. . . . Also ways of treating house paint so that it can be used for your awnings. . . . Sturdy overcoatings are on the market, to be used over awning paint to make it even more water repellent. . . . Special cleaners for awnings to freshen their colors and increase their flexibility, in case all they need is a good cleaning.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Thousands of mothers of men and women in uniform are happier today because of a special assistance which the Chicago unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services has been giving to service personnel.

For more than two months the photography corps of A. W. V. S. has been photographing sailors, soldiers, marine corpsmen, and coast guardsmen, WAVES, WACs, women marines, and SPARS, in the lobby of the Bismarck hotel. The prints, plus the negatives, were placed in handsome folders and sent to the mothers of the uniformed men and women as remembrances for Mother's day.

The A. W. V. S. camera girls took as many as 150 pictures in an evening, Mrs. Maximilian Kern of Wilmette, who has had charge of the project, reported.

Y. W. C. A. industrial girls in Chicago will participate Thursday in National Progress day to be observed thruout the nation by the thousands of young women in the membership who are in war work. "We Produce Today, on the Beam for Tomorrow," is the slogan which has been adopted.

Chicago's celebration will take place at the Loop Center "Y," 59 E. Monroe st., beginning at 6 p. m. Members of 12 Y. W. industrial clubs will take part. Miss Thelma Watkins, vice president of the Y. W. C. A. League of Industrial Girls, and a member of the Alpha Aragainee club of the South Parkway center, is head of the committee making plans for the event.

Each of the 12 clubs has the responsibility for a portion of the program, an important feature of which will be the dedication of a service flag containing stars for each of the members who has gone into uniform.

The glamor needs of women must be considered in war plants, industrial counselors taking a course in industrial counseling for women at De Paul university have decided.

Safety clothing, which protects the worker but makes little provision for her to display her curls, figure, or complexion, is the chief complaint of the woman on the job, the counselors report.

"It's not the slacks which cause most of the complaints, it's the headgear," said Mrs. Ethel Franzen, women's counselor at the Pressed Steel Car Co., Inc., one of the students in the course. "They must wear a safety approved cap with a visor," she continued. "For the first few days, the women wear the caps in the proper position, but after they become acquainted with their jobs, we are likely to find the caps tilted at an angle which allows a few curls to show."

Time and hours run glamorless clothing a close second in the list of complaints, the class decided. "It's not the number of work hours to which the women object," said Miss Caroline Drnek, counselor at the Illinois Bell Telephone company, "it's the specific time off during a week. The women like Saturday nights for dates and Sunday mornings free."

The consensus of the class, which is being conducted by Dr. J. L. Rosenstein, industrial psychologist, is that, in spite of their complaints, women generally are doing superb work and industry would be lost without them.

Home Owners' Queries

Chicago [To the Home Owners' Editor].—Will ventilators in an attic be a help against condensation?

H. B.

Answer: Yes.

Evanston, Ill. [To the Home Owners' Editor].—Is it true that painted floors seem to be coming back? Is this so that fewer rugs can be made to go a longer way? Would a floor painted in "plaids" be suitable for a boy's room?

Answer: Yes, to all three questions.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May 12, 1896.

Dear Julia: Today I had an errand downtown and planned to attend to it early in the afternoon and then to call at Will's office on Dearborn st. and persuade him to come home with me. Both Dr. Billings and Sandy urge him to take life a little more easily, for tho he isn't really ill his heart is not in the best of condition and rest is imperative. But he doesn't like this mentioned and I have to be tactful and pretend that I just happened to be in the neighborhood and wanted to have company in driving home.

Mrs. C. A. McCormick.

My errand was in the Stewart building and I gave the direction to the coachman when we left Rush st. Our way led us south on State st., for we had turned on Randolph and I was gazing out the carriage window at some beautiful flowers in a florist's window when my vision took in the fact that the Stewart building wasn't in its accustomed place at the northwest corner of State and Washington sts. The coachman, at the same moment, saw that the address which I had given him was a ruin — a mass of rubble, with strong horses pulling away wagons filled with lumber. I confess I didn't like seeing this sudden change. It was almost as if some friend had appeared with a front tooth removed. The carriage stopped and I alighted to try to find where the tenants had gone, which information I got from a bulletin board nearby.

I stood a minute thinking of the changes that corner had seen. Three different buildings have stood there, all built and owned by Gen. Hart L. Stewart, who was the city's first postmaster to be appointed by the President, his predecessors having been appointees of the postmaster general. As the heirs of the general still own the ground, the new building which will replace this one that is being torn down will bear the old name. That is one comfort.

Gen. Stewart received the original deed for the land from the Illinois and Michigan canal commission, which was granted the property by the government. Here he built a handsome house in which the family lived for years. Then business began to engulf State st. and the house was moved away to be replaced by a hotel called the St. James, considered one of the finest structures in the city, its cost being $90,000. The fire of 1871 wiped this out and the present building—or rather the one which has just been torn down—was built. Now this in its turn has had its day and ceased to be. In its place will rise a 12 story terra cotta building which is to be the last word in convenience and magnificence.

As we drove home and passed the rather melancholy looking corner which had so surprised me today, Will told me of the enormous rent the company which is to erect the new building is to pay for the land. The first five years this will be $56,000 annually; the next five years, $64,000 annually, and $75,000 annually for the remainder of the 99 years for which it is leased.

Not many of those who were here when Gen. Stewart built his first house would have thought the land would be worth so much 50 years later. How wise he was in holding to that land! But Will says he was always confident of the city's future. He was truly a builder of Chicago, for he was active in almost all public enterprises of the place. He was one of the incorporators of the first gas company and was interested in the first railroad.

We attended this week the dedication of the beautiful Virginia library at McCormick Theological seminary on N. Halsted st. It is the gift of Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick—or "Mme." McCormick as she is often called—and is named for her daughter, Virginia. Mrs. McCormick is abroad, but wrote from Italy her regret that she could not be present and her gratification that the dedication could take place on her daughter's birthday.

Cyrus H. McCormick Jr. made the presentation speech. I was glad to have a chat with his lovely wife, the former Harriet Hammond. She told me their new house in Lake Forest is almost ready for occupancy. It will be handsome and artistic, I'm sure, as it is designed by Jarvis Hunt. There are 30 rooms in it, I hear, with 18 bedrooms on the second floor. Olmsted, the Boston landscape architect, has laid out the grounds which slope to the lake.

Others I saw at the dedication of the seminary library were Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Armour, Sen. and Mrs. Charles B. Farwell, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, and Mr. and Mrs. Edson Keith. And now it is time to close. Ever with love, MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOT NOTES.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, but not value. The column in this page contains offers to buy and sell. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Apparently a studied effort is being made by postoffice officials to antagonize collectors of new issues. The recent announcements of new stamps have been too near the date of issue to permit suitable covers to be prepared and the coup de grace is given by adding a second place of first day sale for the 3 cent commemorative Steamship stamp. This will be placed on sale at Kings Point, N. Y., seat of the United States Merchant Marine academy, as well as at Savannah, Ga., on May 22.

A Telegraph stamp, previously announced for first day sale at Washington 13, D. C. on May 24, will be placed on sale at Baltimore, Md. This stamp will bear the famous phrase, "What hath God wrought," which constituted the first message transmitted by telegraph in America.

Collectors who desire first day cancellations of either or both stamps should send not more than ten addressed envelopes in each case to the postmaster at the designated city with a cash or money order to cover the exact cost of stamps to be affixed.

Collectors desiring unused stamps of selected quality should direct their orders to Philatelic agency, post office department, Washington 25, D. C. Remit by postal money order to cover face value of stamps and include return postage.

Scenic Beauty of Spring Mill Park Relaxing

By Mildred Peterson.

MITCHELL, Ind.—[Special].—Spring Mill State park, just outside this city, offers an opportunity for a complete relaxing vacation amid scenes of pioneer and natural beauty that have few equals in the middlewest.

Located a few miles south of Bedford and not far north of French Lick, a 1,400 acre wooded playground has been set aside by Indiana as a state park not only for Hoosiers, but also their neighbors to enjoy the year 'round.

A modern inn, built in 1939 and completely fireproof, extends a friendly greeting to all Spring Mill visitors in this quiet, secluded spot. Styling of the inn is suited to the landscape and its limestone exterior is accented by massive oak columns which make it appear part of nature's plan. Comfortably furnished log cabins nestled on wooded hills also are available for those who want to "live with nature." Reservations, however, should be made well in advance with Spring Mill Inn, Inc., Mitchell, Ind.

The inn is located on Indiana State Road 60, three miles east of State Road 37 at Mitchell. Direct railway transportation to Mitchell is provided from Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, and Louisville, and by bus from Detroit, Indianapolis, and Evansville. Guests arriving in Mitchell will be met upon request.

You'll like fishing here in a lake that is amply stocked, boating and bathing at a large well-equipped artificial beach. There also are miles of hiking trails thru the park's most scenic spots. Chief among these is the Pioneer Village, recreated as it was a 125 years ago. Here you'll find old homes, old industries, and a museum full of treasures from the past. An overshot water wheel, a replica of the type used in 1817, turns the original stones for the grinding of corn meal in the old mill. Golf, riding, skeet and trapshooting facilities are available within a short distance of the park. Visitors are thrilled by the carved handwork of nature when they visit Donaldson and Twin caves and take a boat trip on the water by lanternlight.

Scenic southern Indiana also offers other state parks for your enjoyment, such as Brown county, McCormick's Creek, Muscatatuck, Shakamak, Lincoln and Clifty Falls. Also such memorials as the George Rogers Clark Memorial at Vincennes, the original state capitol at Corydon, the James F. D. Lanier home at Madison, and the Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial.

4 Day Lake Cruise for Memorial Day to Leave May 27

A four-day cruise on Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, and Georgian Bay aboard the S. S. North American is announced for Memorial day week-end by the Georgian Bay line. The North American will leave Chicago at 2 p. m. Saturday, May 27, returning Wednesday, May 31, at 6:45 a. m.

Regular summer cruise entertainment will be provided for passengers, including organized play under the direction of social directors, cards, deck sports, and dancing. Catholic and Protestant church services will be held aboard ship Sunday morning.

Minnesota Season for Pike Fishing Opens Tomorrow

St. Paul, Minn., [Special].—Minnesota's walleye and Great Northern pike season opens tomorrow and the land of 10,000 lakes is ready to take care of a large influx of service men who have planned their furloughs for a bit of angling for Minnesota's most popular game fish. Civilians, too, are planning an early start on Minnesota's fishes.

Meanwhile scores of resorts are getting ready for the influx of walleye and Great Northern fishermen. Others in the southern zone are prepared for another large batch of anglers when the southern season on panfish opens on May 29.

Michigan Straits Ferry Now on Spring Schedule

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. [Special].—William Palmer, secretary-manager of the West Michigan Resort association, has announced that the state highway ferries crossing the Straits of Mackinac will start at 7:30 a. m. each day from Mackinac City, with passages every three hours up to 10:30 p. m., and will leave St. Ignace, on the upper peninsula, at 6 a. m. and every three hours until 9 p. m.

Benton Harbor Orchard Region in Full Bloom

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. [Special].—There will be no blossom festival here for the duration, but nature is still at work producing the beautiful sight of 46,000 acres of orchards in full bloom. Every highway and byway in this region is a bower of apple and peach blossoms, reaching their most beautiful time next week.

Ropp Is New Dean of School at Art Institute

By Eleanor Jewett.

The appointment of Hubert Ropp as dean of the school of the Art institute will come as pleasant news to the many who know Mr. Ropp as a man and a painter. He is well known in Chicago as an instructor and artist. He has a delightful personality, is cheerful, unprejudiced, sincere and understands the meaning of taste and moderation in painting as well as the value of hard work, deep study, and good craftsmanship.

His own painting is original and imaginative. He handles color well and the skillful composition of his picture is generally a joy to study. Under his direction we should be able to expect a better trained, more wisely balanced and more efficient type of artist in the future graduating classes of the institute school. Mr. Ropp formerly had a school of his own [of which Mrs. Arthur Aldis was an interested patron] on E. Chicago av. and in Lake Forest, and later was dean of the National Academy in Chicago. He is a graduate of the school of the Art institute and also has studied in Paris and Vienna.

Fantastic horror chills the spectator in the Room of Chicago Art at the Art institute in the current show of pictures by Gertrude Abercrombie and Harold Noecker. Miss Abercrombie still, we think, is at her best in her tiniest creations.

The Goodman Memorial theater of the Art institute is offering five fellowships and five scholarships, reserved for men only, for the 1944 autumn session of its school of drama. The first applicants to be given consideration in each case will be veterans of the present war. This is a program combining rehabilitation and the development of professional skills for all phases of the theater.

Applicants for the fellowships [each providing a stipend of $500 plus tuition] must be candidates for the master of fine arts degree and must have specialized in either acting, directing, scene and costume designing, or technical practice.

Five scholarships of $300 each and tuition are open to college seniors or graduate students.

Today is Mother's day and the Art institute brings into notice two paintings from its permanent collections which illustrate different phases of the day. George Bellows' "Portrait of My Mother" is a distinguished piece of painting, tho rather a tragic picture as the elderly woman portrayed against a Victorian background is obviously the victim of arthritis or some similar crippling disease. Her swollen hands and heavy body give the impression of an invalid, even tho a stout heart does shine thru the gentle eyes and frank features.

One much prefers the young mother busy in the service of her child as portrayed in Mary Cassatt's "The Toilet." Mothers, someway, should never grow old and feeble. They should be eternally young, eternally active, light in body, spirit, and heart—a very comforting presence with never a slowing foot to delay them when a child calls "mother."

Members of the Men's Sketch club have an attractive exhibit at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to May 26. Oscar M. Lumby and Paul L. Olsen perhaps come the closest to wearing the badge of professional p[illegible] Lumby has a number of stunning landscapes in the current show. "Jungle Maid" by Paul L. Olsen is outstanding.

"Nan," the portrait of a little girl by Jacob Sander, is charming. The "Men's Still Life" by Frank J. Hetch is excellently handled. Another unusually fine portrait is the little head of "Rev. O'May" by Matt M. Kandle, one of the nicest things in the show. The box of strawberries spilling from their container is another highlight in the exhibition; it is by G. M. Gunsteens who also has a fresh and delightful painting of the "French Quarters, New Orleans," with a flock of inspired chickens in the foreground of the courtyard. William Helmcke is showing two attractive glimpses of "Brown County" and "North Branch, Morton Grove," well done. Chester L. Cook offers "Grand Dad" and "Life's Trials," two little portraits amazingly fine in flesh tones, texture, and expression.

The Men's Sketch club, 537 S. Dearborn st. keeps an open door for new members. Its studio is well equipped and has excellent lighting for either day or evening work. An urgent invitation is extended to visit the club either Tuesday or Thursday evenings from 6 to 9 'o'clock. If this is not convenient, telephone Paul L. Olsen, Franklin 0400, for further information.

The Chicago Branch of the National League of American Pen Women has an attractive exhibit of paintings and sculpture by members at the Cordon club. Anna Lynch shows two lovely miniatures of the late Mrs. Frank G. Logan, the one with the little pink hat being really a charmer. Sydne H. Langford has two stunning paintings in her own particular individual medium, somewhat resembling mosaic, "Pewter and Glass" and "Wood Interior."

Florence Ezzell Stevenson offers a stunning "Poppies"; Cora L. Debes the splendid "Grandmother's Treasures"; Elizabeth S. Stevens the interesting "Toujours La Guerre," and Margaret R. Dingle the decorative "Spring Flowers."

"THE TOILET," BY MARY CASSATT

Mary Cassatt, an American painter who lived most of her life in Paris, painted many pictures of mothers and children. No more likable artist could be imagined as a "Mother's Day" painter.

Graduation Styles Smart and Versatile

By Rea Seeger.

Junior shoppers are reveling in the graduation dress collections. Short, snowy white dresses designed expressly for teen-agers are the last word in hitherto spurned decorative femininity. And while there are many comparatively simple models, all manage that grand occasion manner, even tho the details consist of unostentatious bands of embroidery, fagotting, or lace insertions. Everything has been achieved thru a definite understanding of the junior miss.

There are dresses of filmy sheers, some puritan plain and others with frills and ruffles. Some have extremely short, puffed sleeves; others have the slender, straight sleeves that clear the elbow. There are sleek, distinctive models of smooth rayon materials resembling the luxury texture of vanished silk crepe. These frocks are especially smart on thin youngsters, and can be worn for the big day of graduation and later all thru the summer for other festive occasions.

Crisp white pique is a tremendously popular dress material used for graduation models, for it tailors with smooth perfection, or goes dressmaker with gathered skirts, and tiny bodice tops dramatized with eyelet embroidery or Irish crochet lace.

New graduation dresses are made of white dotted Swiss, with engaging two piece effects and one piece dresses being high fashion and appealing to both mothers and daughters. These, too, will double for party wear all thru the summer, for they are the delightfully feminine dresses that are cool, crisp, and washable. Some are detailed with ruffles of the dotted Swiss; others feature bow knots of velvet ribbon or bands of lace insertions.

The tailored dresses are marvels of sleek streamlining. Skirts are artfully made with flat, inverted plaits in front and back. Some of these plaits extend from the neck line, where they are stitched down on the bodice, to a line well below the hips to flare at the hem.

Many of the tailored dresses are made of white rayon sheers, of rayon with a linenlike weave and of rayon with a smooth, gabardine texture. All are young and fresh, and can be changed later with belts or ribbons of contrasting colors, boleros, contrasting box jackets, or white coats.

The sheers still top the list as the favorite graduation dress. Dozens of different models are featured. Short sleeves, elbow lengths, lace trimmings, ruffle trimmings, lace bands, embroideries, plaits, and all the well known devices for decorative charm, make them perfect dresses for commencement exercises. And the price marks are surprisingly modest in spite of the combinations of sheers, crisp piques, and smooth rayons, plus the picturesque charm and detail of each model.

Sketched are three new models. They are from a super collection, all designed for June graduates. Sizes range from 12 to 16. You will find them in a Chicago store. For further information call Superior 0200.

A . . . Graduation dress of filmy white marquisette features bands of lace on bodice and skirt. Swishy white slip is worn with frock. • B . . . Smooth white rayon is used for this effective, simple dress. Embroidered motifs trim neckline and sleeves. • C . . . White dotted Swiss model with two piece effect boasts peplum of double ruffles, brief puffed sleeves, and bows at neckline.

According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

A player unfortunate enough to have been dealt only one jack cannot be expected to take a very aggressive attitude during the bidding. Nevertheless, his temporary poverty does not supply a good reason for sticking his head into the sand and thereby strongly intimating that his partner will have to get along without him! Observe this sad case:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♥ J 8 6 3 2
♦ 7 5 4
♣ 6 4 2

WEST
♥ 10
♦ 9 8 3 2
♣ A K J 9 7 5

EAST
♠ 9 5 4 3
♦ Q J 10
♣ Q 10 8 3

SOUTH
♠ K Q J 10 8
♥ A K Q 7 5
♦ A K 6

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	2 clubs	3 clubs
4 clubs	Pass	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

South was shortened in trumps right from the opening club lead, and the consequence was that he could not retain full control of the hand. West held up the trump ace till the second round, and South could neither draw East's four trumps nor run the heart suit without doing so. The contract went down two tricks.

This was in great contrast to the score that North-South could have made at the right denomination, hearts. Moreover, there is little doubt that they would have reached the laydown slam in that suit if North had shouldered his rightful responsibility. South, by cue-bidding the opponents' suit at the three level, in the face of bidding opponents and a passing partner, had announced a holding as powerful as an original two-bid. In addition, the very fact that he had cue-bid instead of making a jump overcall in his own suit was evidence that he wanted coöperation from North in the selection of trumps. North could and should have realized that West's four club bid would pose a problem for South—that he might [as he did] have to make a sheer guess at the suit North could best support. To take this pressure off of his partner, North, simply because he had a five card suit and no support for spades, should have summoned the courage to bid four hearts.

Various Kinds of Chocolate Are Available

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The chocolate supply is variable but most cooks are able to find enough chocolate of one kind or another to prepare their favorite chocolate flavored dishes.

I've had a good many inquiries about substituting sweet chocolate in recipes which call for unsweetened chocolate. We're getting some South American sweetened and flavored chocolate which makes good munching, and also has many cooking uses. In general, it is safe to say that sweetened chocolate may be used in place of unsweetened chocolate in almost all recipes, altho there may be differences in flavor, and perhaps also in the texture of cakes.

In most of the cooking I've done with sweetened chocolate, I haven't bothered to adjust the sugar proportion in the recipe. It is much easier just to make the substitution, and I haven't found any of the chocolate foods to be too sweet. Even in refrigerator ice creams and rich chocolate sauces the effect hasn't been an oversweetness, altho I will confess that I prefer the strong, chocolatey flavor of the unsweetened bar for most cooking purposes.

Chocolate Chiffon Pie.

Baked 9 inch crust
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 squares chocolate, melted
½ cup hot water
4 eggs, beaten separately
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Blend chocolate with hot water and heat gently until melted. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Beat egg yolks until thick and light, and fold into the chocolate mixture which has been cooled. Add salt, vanilla and half the sugar. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in remaining sugar. Fold the egg white meringue into the chocolate-yolk mixture, pile into a baked crust and chill the pie in the refrigerator until set. Finely chopped nuts may be sprinkled over the top for serving.

Here are two variations of that chiffon pie which I think are wonderful:

Use strong coffee in place of the hot and cold water listed in the recipe.

Omit vanilla and use a tablespoon or two of rum to flavor the pie. It may be well to cut down the liquid content of the pie by that amount at the same time.

Make a cream pie filling and add shaved unsweetened or sweet chocolate and you have chocolate chip pie. I've eaten lemon pie with chocolate chips in it, too, but am not fond of the combination of two such distinct flavors. I think it's better when each asserts itself alone in a dessert.

Chocolate Chip Pie.

Baked 9 inch pie shell
2 cups scalded milk
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cornstarch
⅝ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1½ squares [ounces] chocolate, shaved

Mix flour, cornstarch, sugar and salt and add a little of the scalded milk. Return to remaining milk in top of double boiler and cook over hot water until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, for 15 to 20 minutes longer. This is important, in order to overcome the "pasty" flavor which an undercooked cream filling has.

Beat eggs; add a portion of the hot mixture to them, stirring rapidly. Then turn this mixture into the rest of the cream filling. Cook and stir 2 minutes longer, cool and add vanilla and chocolate chips. Fill pie shell and chill.

In the good old days I used to whip half a cup of cream and fold it into the cream filling. That really made a pie! It's good enough as it is, however.

A handsome effect can be created by leaving the shaved chocolate out of the filling mixture and using it to sprinkle thickly over the finished pie.

For more pie-deas, see "Perfect Homemade Pies," a booklet full of recipes for favorite kinds of pastry and fillings. Fruit, cream and custard pies are included. The booklet is 5 cents, by mail, stamps preferred, because they are less likely to be lost than coin.

Another pie booklet which has enjoyed reader popularity for several years is "27 Choice Chiffon Pies," also 5 cents in stamps.

Fashions

Cotton pique and seersucker clothes are "musts" for every fully equipped summer wardrobe, be they play clothes, sports dresses, casuals, house dresses or smart suits. Wide and pencil stripes, large or small prints, white or pastels, these comfortable cotton costumes are an essential part of the summer campaign for coolness.

The strikingly simple, chalk white waffle pique play suit with removable skirt is especially appropriate on blistering hot days. Around the house, on the golf course or at the market, this outfit allows a minimum of clothing with maximum coverage. Young mothers of toddling youngsters will find these outfits a boon, since they withstand the wear and tear on clothing, yet they may be tubbed frequently without fear of injury.

Another attractive play suit with removable skirt is of mint and white striped seersucker cut on the same lines as the white one illustrated. It also is available in light brown and white and light blue and white, in sizes from 12 to 20.

Lady of the House

"It was a pleasure to live on that bright and happy May morning!"

It must have been in May—the day our mother suddenly tossed off her apron, spun about on twinkling toes, and said, "Let's go fishing!"

I still recall my surprise; for mother seemed to have the stern sense of duty of one taught the essential dignity of honest work, and never ran away from it. Yet here she was turning her back on household tasks of the morning to go fishing! And we promptly and enthusiastically fell in with the idea.

The boys scampered for their willow poles and presently we were skipping crosslots to the little road that wound down to the river, sniffing the delicious smells of fresh flowers and cold, running water. Coming to a little clump of willows we scrambled out on a great fallen tree and set about catching such finny denizens of the stream as might be lured by our homemade tackle.

Mother got the biggest one, tho we were constantly running to her for help with hook and line and bobber. . . . Just when we began to feel the pangs of hunger, mother said it was time to go home.

Eagerly we watched the frying of our special fish for our noon meal, and ate them with the appetite of the young and their unconcern for the niceties of table manners in finding and consuming the firm, sweet morsels about the cheeks and heads.

Mother must have been very young, tho we thought of her as old and wise; but somehow, after that spontaneous little fishing jaunt, she never seemed so old again.

The Lilacs in Lombard.

The lilacs in Lombard are blooming once more
In brighter hued colors than ever before;
They greet you in loveliest purple and blue,
In lavender, violet, mauve, pink, and white, too.

O, come to Lilacia for just one rare day
Where sweet lilac breezes blow troubles away;
Where radiant beauty awakens delight,
And the music of songbirds makes every day bright.

Out here in Lilacia there's quiet and calm,
Here nature has written one grand, lovely psalm;
And the lilacs that smile as you pass on your way
Have never forgotten to love and to pray.

Mothers.

I know about mothers—
I have one.
I know of their love thru the years.
I know of their prayers, their ambitions,
Their foolish, futile tears.
I know of their hands in the fevered night,
Their patience with stumbling feet.
I know of their pride in the things we do,
And the sorrows they ofttimes meet.

I know about mothers—
I am one.

I know that from travail and pain
Is born a song that carries them on Thru the selfsame valleys again.
For the song that wells up in a mother's heart
At the touch of her very own
Transcends all worry, and grief, and care
That mothers have always known.

Rough Child Needs Parents' Guiding Care

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In a letter describing a family situation, a small boy with a baby brother occupies the center of the picture and is the center also of the parents' world. But let me give you some extracts from it:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I have been reading your articles for many years and now I have a problem about which I would very much like to have your assistance.

"We have two boys—ages 3½ and 15 months.

"The older boy is very large and strong and rough for his years. He is having companionship for the first time and is continually hurting the smaller children he plays with by slapping and pushing. Consequently, the other children don't want to play with him, and I can see he minds this terribly. Also he is very rough with the baby.

"The boy is very bright and I have tried talking to him. No good. I have tried spanking with the same result. I have tried every kind of punishment but nothing helps. With all this he is very sweet and affectionate underneath. Everybody thinks my little boy should be spanked for everything, but I know that is not the answer. I am so sorry for him.

"In addition we have relatives all around us who all prefer the baby and who are constantly interfering every time the baby cries. Can you help me?"

To this mother I wrote:

"The child needs understanding and affectionate help, and quickly. Many radical kinds of behavior spring into being when the first child finds a second baby in the family, and this behavior may take many forms, from unconscious discontent to out and out jealousy.

"Punishment and ostracism only make his plight worse, intensify his bewilderment and present behavior. Can't you get the coöperation of the various relatives to help the little fellow? Perhaps if they understood that he isn't really mean or naughty, only emotionally upset, they would willingly give him the kind of loving attention, companionship and interest he needs. Any kind of abilities or special interests that this small boy has should be developed, and an opportunity created for his achievements to be noticed by his adults in the right sort of way. You see, he is simply striving for the attention he craves, and any kind of attention is better than none at all, so if naughtiness does the trick, all well and good, but it still doesn't make him happy.

"Sometimes parents think that an occasional show of love to their first child is satisfactory, but what the older child really needs is particular interest, and occasionally some time alone with his mother when he can bask in her undivided attention and actually feel her understanding and love for him, apart from any other member of the family. Lead him gently and patiently and lovingly and he'll respond accordingly; but don't expect too much too soon, and show your approval of his efforts with high praise.

"I wouldn't worry too much about his social adjustment. He'll learn the give and take necessary in his relationship to other children, altho you may have to watch and guide him. As his emotional balance returns you'll find he will be less belligerent toward other playmates."

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce

The cunning crocheted bonnet is a cool, becoming spring and summer hat which may be created at small cost in an hour. The stitches are simple, and the pompons are fun to make. Either wool, cotton, or synthetic straw may be used.

These embroidered fruit motifs are ideal for towels, luncheon sets, or potholders. The five designs are done in satin, seed, and outline stitches, and the instructions give detailed descriptions of the embroideries.

For instructions in crocheting the hat, No. 1091, and for the hot iron transfer pattern, No. 734, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, for EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Jewish Club Women Plan Special Meet

Some 800 guests, gathered Thursday night in the 5th floor auditorium of the Medical and Dental Arts building at the invitation of the National Council of Jewish Women's Chicago members, will witness the enactment of another chapter in America's dramatic story as the land of refuge for those seeking the ideal of brotherhood and liberty.

"I Am an American" is the title of a special program to be presented for a class of men and women who, befriended and taught by the council, have attained American citizenship. The Sam Dreben post of Jewish War Veterans will give the program a mounting of patriotic ceremony, and William J. Connor, 1st assistant United States attorney, will deliver an address on "The Responsibilities and Privileges of Citizenship."

Also participating as speakers will be Arthur Crabtree, education officer of the immigration and naturalization service of the department of justice; Miss Frances K. Wetmore, Chicago board of education adult education supervisor, and Mrs. William H. Sahud, Chicago section president of the Jewish women's council.

The winner among the students in the Americanization class who wrote a prize essay on "Citizenship" will be announced and receive his award that night, and the president of the class' Victory club will review the war services of the group.

It is the council's service to the foreign born, which has been in operation for 40 years, that sponsors the Americanization class. Chicago section has made its club rooms available to the student immigrants every Thursday evening, and the board of education has provided an instructor for their class. Presiding at the "I Am an American" night ceremonies will be Mrs. Harry J. Myerson, chairman of the executive committee of the service to the foreign born. The Chicago director of the service is Miss Harriet Aries.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle.

In beauty shops along the east and west coasts, in the industrial centers, in hundreds of villages and cities between the two, there now hang signs that read "No manicures for the duration." There is every indication that you will see more rather than fewer of them in the future.

The manicure, you may never have stopped to realize, is an item of beauty shop service which consumes time rather than materials. And women power in the shops is currently the most critical problem. A manicure takes half an hour to give and the fee for it is relatively small. In a speed-up a girl can give two shampoos in the time it takes to "do" one set of nails.

You'll be saving money and assuring yourself of well groomed hands if you learn to do your own nails. The day of dashing in for a manicure and getting one without an appointment is over now. We've had difficulty getting one even by appointment made well in advance; you probably have, too.

The great trick of manicuring nails to preserve their health and their good looks is NOT to file them down closely at the sides. When you shape your nails with file or emery board—and always do this while the nails are dry—shape only the tips; allow the sides to grow up. Next in importance is the removal of cuticle. Tackle this after soaking the nails and use an oily softener. Then push cuticle back. Don't snip at it if you can possibly avoid it. Using an orange wood stick with the tip swatched in cotton, push it back gently, apply oil and permit the oil to soak in for a while.

Gentleness is everything. Don't dig furiously beneath the nail tips. Clean that area not by gouging but by carefully drawing the orangewood stick between the nail and the flesh. If you dig you'll tear the skin, which means that you thereafter have a rough surface, which will gather more grime than a smooth one, and also double the risk of infection. Don't file too hard, don't buff too hard, and never, never prod around the base of the nail with a sharp instrument.

The well groomed woman changes polish before it begins to look ratty, not afterwards. How long your polish clings will depend to some extent on the sort of life you lead. If you do housework, bang at a typewriter, or have any occupational hazards to hand skin and nails, you must expect to change yours far more often than the woman who doesn't take on anything more strenuous in the way of manual labor than an occasional shuffling of the playing cards.

If you've always had your nails done by a professional, you'll daub the landscape a lot when you first apply polish to your own. Drain the brush, so that the flow is not too generous, and apply it in quick, even strokes. Three should be enough. Rest your hand on something to steady it.

Your polish can reveal moons or tips or cover the whole nail if you like. That's a matter of taste. The amateur, tho, usually does a neater job when she draws polish over the entire nail.

Interest in Greek Revival Looms Again

By Edith Weigle.

Many Americans, if asked to name the style of domestic architecture most characteristic of our country would say "Colonial." And for a number of years it did dominate the scene.

But in 1800, stimulated by the work of Latrobe in Philadelphia and Washington, the Greek revival movement began, and from then until after the Civil war there was a passion for the large, square, spacious house with two-story tall white columns supporting a massive pediment, with interior woodwork beautiful in its classical detail, and with dignity and noble proportion its keynotes.

Between 1830 and 1850 Greek revival was accepted as the national style of home building. This year Talbot Hamlin has written an important discussion of it, called "Greek Revival Architecture in America" [Oxford University Press, $7.50] in which he shows that unlike the colonial style it swept the entire country, the far away western reserve and Oregon as well as the eastern seaboard, and that it flourished particularly in the middle west.

And now in Chicago an exhibition house has just been furnished and decorated in this classic manner.

Walls and draperies thruout are strongly reminiscent of the days of Syrie Maugham, whose penchant for white swept thru our more sophisticated drawing rooms of the '20s, making them look as pure as the driven snow. Each room in this 1944 version of the Greek revival house has walls, ceiling, and woodwork of plaster white, and all except the dining room have white draperies which are hung in classic folds.

Handsome antique furniture and accessories of the 19th century give great elegance to the décor. The drawing room is especially distinguished, its chalk white walls and draperies, and green and white imitation marble floor making an excellent foil for the brilliant green, and rich rose red upholsteries used on the American Empire mahogany sofa and chairs.

This interior is really a conversation piece, complete with gold harp and drapery hung recess in which is placed a black Grecian figure on a black pedestal. So, too, is the spectacular bath dressing room, with its green Recamier chaise, ornately carved Regency table and its huge, sunken, green marble tub, which is raised on a dais and is approached by three or four shallow steps.

One visitor remarked, "I certainly would feel like Cleopatra, taking a bath in that tub!"

The small bedroom adjoining is very lovely and is a fine example of decorating in limited space. A slender, Regency mahogany bed with a handsome cover of deep green velvet is placed against a wall hung in white Jersey draperies, the top folds caught by gold tassels. On either side are small Regency tables holding porcelain lamps with gold marbleized shades. The only floor covering is a small, brilliant, antique English floral hooked rug placed at the foot of the bed.

For further information about this Greek revival house, open to the public, telephone the Tribune Public Service office, Sup. 0200 or write in, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
